Armored Vest Saved His Life Veteran Believes

By BILL ROSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TOKYO (CP)—Lt. Cpl. Paul Dugal of Quebec City said today he believes his armored vest saved his life in an artillery duel.

Dugal, one of two Canadian prisoners of war exchanged by the Communists, said he was wounded and captured during a patrol on Hill 355 in central Korea. At first he bled the most wrists in Korea. But he did not wear a tin hat and the round which pierced and pierced his left side was a mortar fragment which struck his head. That was June 23, 1952.

The 30-year-old lance-corporal of the Royal 22nd Regiment told The Canadian Press:

"I learned from friends in the Van Doos at Kure that the canvas of the vest I wore was ripped by fragments of shell. I believe that my head wound. A friend started carrying my back to our lines but decided I was dead and left me to carry another wounded man."

The Canadians now are standard gear for patrols and in some Communist prison camps.

Dugal was brought to the United States army hospital at Kure prior to being flown home. He was freed on April 20 after capturing 39 months in captivity.

Both Pte. Arthur J. Baker of Montreal, the other Canadian exchanged by the Reds, and Dugal said they want to remain in the army and go back.

Said Baker: "I like the life."

Five Engineers To be Honored

MONTREAL (CP)—Five prominent Canadian engineers will be made honorary members of the Engineering Institute of Canada at the 67th annual meeting of the institute in Halifax May 20-23.

The honorary membership award is given as a tribute to outstanding engineering achievement and service to the institute.

New honorary members:

Alexander Joseph Grant, 90, former transport department engineer in charge of the Welland ship canal at Welland, Ont.; Albert Lawrence Killey, 78, former chief engineer of department superintending engineer of the Trent canal, Campbellford, Ont.; Frederick Perry Shearwood, 87, former chief engineer of the Dominion Bridge Company, Montreal; Dr. Arthur Surveyer, 75, consultant engineer, Montreal; and Chenevert, Montreal, and Stewart, 70, former chief engineer of community planning, Regina.

Two British Soldiers Convicted of Murder

HONG KONG (Reuters)—Two British soldiers were sentenced to death in the Supreme Court here today for the murder of a pretty young Chinese canteen girl.

The soldiers are L. Cpl. George Douthwaite, 24, and Pte. James Dalton, 19.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: A series of storms are moving slowly eastward across the United States. Rain has spread westward into the plains area as well into Canada in a strong easterly flow of moist warm air. The heavy rain area extends from the Rockies southward and eastward to the Great Lakes to the New York coast.

Temperatures reached the 80's in southern areas and were numerous south of the Great Lakes Thursday. North of the lakes temperatures ranged from 58 to 68, with little change expected today and Saturday. Showers are expected across Ontario today with risk of thunderstorms in southern regions tonight. This wet weather is forecast to continue Saturday.

GARDINER SAYS WHEAT EMBARGO MARKET PROBLEM

Question Brought Up As Estimates Presented

OTTAWA (CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner says Canada's problem of what to do with her wheat wouldn't be nearly so tough if it weren't for American policy — a little-known United States embargo against Canadian wheat.

The minister brought the subject up in the Commons Thursday during consideration of his estimates. He told members there is a lot of talk about American restrictions on dairy and other products, but no one ever seems to say much about the American embargo on wheat.

From the point of view of the Western Canadian farmer, the embargo was "most serious," the minister said.

"The question of what we are going to do with our wheat would not be nearly as difficult if it were not that there is an embargo against shipping wheat into the U. S."

The Americans, he said, insisted of taking Canadian wheat, have increased wheat acreage in Australia by 2,000,000. That increase was equal to Canada's entire crop. Australia could produce wheat was being produced it had a bearing on the world wheat situation.

Should Protect Claim

The difficulties was initiated by John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) who criticized U. S. restrictions against Canadian agricultural products. He said there is much talk about the North American concept—association for the preservation of freedom, but when it comes to trade there is a "wall of restriction" by Canada, he said, should protect its legitimate export trade terms. The restrictions on Canadian dairy products could have the effect of destroying Canada's agricultural expansion which would be most serious.

The House spent its second straight day discussing agricultural estimates. Discussion ranged from price spreads to marketing policy and farm prices for poultry. At one point Mr. Gardiner said he didn't understand why the poultry industry wants a guaranteed government floor prices.

The high point of debate was the long-discussed South Saskatchewan river project. Gardiner called it a big project. He said a letter written by Mr. Gardiner to Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan offering to renew negotiations put up a lot of "smoke screens" which, he said, a "tawdry evasion of responsibility."

Mr. Gardiner denied the charge. He said the letter merely set out that the Saskatchewan government have no part of any controversy with Ottawa. The province's case is to water rights on the South Saskatchewan river which winds through Alberta. It is a matter between the power was a provincial responsibility.

There was also the matter of ascertaining actual costs. The dispute between Ottawa and Ottawa to be sure that a cost estimate of about $100,000,000 was correct. The $31 a year, rehabilitation administration engineers were in disagreement.

To the minister's mind, the letter merely took things back to where they were before the commission's report and opened the way for new negotiations. The Saskatchewan government had not said whether it accepted the commission recommendations but not to proceed at this time and had not said whether or not it would proceed.

Russian Defence Minister Challenges Western World To Show by Deeds Peace Wanted

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union's defence minister, Marshall Nikolai A. Bulganin, challenged the Western world today to show by deeds as well as pacific statements that it wants peace.

Until the West does, Bulganin declared in a short May Day address in Moscow's Red Square, Russia will continue to "show due care for enriching the defences and security of our country."

The war minister's statement substantial evidence—particularly a reduction of armaments in lands near the Soviet Union—is a sign that other countries seek a peaceful solution of the world's problems.

Welcomes Any Step

"The Soviet government will welcome any steps on the part of other governments genuinely aimed at the easing of tension in the international situation and would like to see peaceful statements made by the leaders of these governments supported by deeds," he said.

The speech was a full-dress report of Moscow's May Day celebration which also included a short military review and a longer workers' parade.

Bulganin said the Soviet Union believes that with "goodwill and a sensible approach to international differences" can be solved by peaceful means."

Inspected Troops

Just before speaking, he inspected troops drawn up in Red Square and massed streets. The Square was decorated with portraits of Lenin and Stalin, coats of arms of all the Soviet republics and party slogans.

Bulganin's statement came as Pravda, the Soviet Communist party's newspaper, said in an editorial letter "in the cold war which is ruining all people."

Outside the Iron Curtain, workers of the free world also marked the holiday with rallies, speeches, parades. There was some fighting, however.

In Japan, where rioters attacked American vehicles and battled bloodily with police last May Day, Communists again made trouble with the steel-helmeted cops.

Some 10,000 leering leftist youths tangled with police in Tokyo as they refused to disperse at the end of what had been a peaceful parade by 500,000 laborers through downtown streets.

One of the biggest May Day observances was in Berlin, where east and west staged rival shows less than a mile apart under a broiling sun and a cloudless sky. In the Soviet sector workers marched for hours past a reviewing stand of top Communist government chiefs and Russian officials. West Berlin's mayor, Ernst Reuter, also used Reichstag to hear their anti-Red leaders defy Communist encroachment.

In troubled Iran, the military governor of Tehran banned all demonstrations by workers and students in the capital. It announced that the outlawed but active Communist Tudeh party planned a big rally. Such rallies in the past have often wound up in bloody street fights.

New York police also banned the annual march there, asserting it would become a communistic affair. Meeting in downtown Union Square was delayed by rain, but in the interest of free speech and assembly a permit was finally issued.

At Anzio, France, 30 North Africa, 30 were injured when police broke up a Communist parade at a May Day gathering. Twenty police were injured by stones throwing demonstrators as they used clubs to break up the crowd of about 700.

At the Vatican, the Pope took no holiday but received thousands of workers in audience in Vatican City.

Bulganin marked the day with a parade emphasizing the country's growing military strength in a fleecy-clouded sky. A crowd officially estimated at 1,000,000 jammed Red Square to cheer units of Marshal Tito's troops. Unlike other Communist parades, there was no bunting paid to Moscow, from which Yugoslavia split in 1948.

In Peiping an estimated 500,000 persons marched past Mao Tse-tung in Tien An Man square and its environs to see a huge parade march past the Communist leader, Premier Mao Tse-tung.

Chiang Kai-shek, Chinese Nationalist leader, broadcast from Formosa urging workers on the mainland to "shake off their shackles and turn against their devil masters."

He reiterated his determination to recapture the mainland. He urged Chinese there to be ready for his coming.

MARCHERS CLASH WITH POLICE IN DOWNTOWN TOKYO

Ugly Brawls End Relatively Quiet Holiday

By JIM BECKER

TOKYO (AP)—Jeering mobs of May Day marchers clashed with steel-helmeted police in downtown Tokyo late today, ending a relatively quiet celebration of the traditional Communist holiday.

Ugly brawls erupted when bands of diehard young leftists refused to disperse as columns of May Day marchers wound up on a parade ground in downtown streets.

About 10,000 jeering, shouting youths—gangs of workers, unions and clubs—fought with 1,500 helmeted police.

The clashes occurred about half a mile from the Imperial Palace plaza, scene of the only official May anti-American May Day riots.

Riot Cars Out

Some of the jeering leftists linked arms and marched 12-abreast through the streets, singing and occasionally jostling a foreigner.

Correspondents Forrest Edwards and George McArthur reported they were among a few angry mood and were being egged on by many bystanders.

Edwards was knocked down in one scuffle, but said the marchers helped him up when he trampled on him. He was not hurt.

Many Banners Seen

As tension mounted the mobs hurled rocks and clubs and flag-flying such perennial slogans as "go Communist" and "down with" and banners with slogans in Japanese and English were carried in the parade.

All traffic was halted for four blocks on one of Tokyo's busiest downtown streets. Twice police cleared the street, but the mob surged back.

Some police were struck by rocks.

The brawls broke out after most of the 500,000 marchers who took part in the day's parades had headed for home. There had been no violence until the last marchers passed under the watchful eyes of the police.

At the Imperial Palace solid lines of police stood behind barbed wire barricades built as a precaution against a repetition of the riots in the plaza in front of the palace. The plaza is banned for public demonstrations.

Horn-Blowing Arouses Village to Danger

PORT ARTHUR, (CP) — A motorist who drives up and down the streets of Lake Kakabeka Falls, blowing his horn at 2:33 a.m., started with and saving the village from being burned down. Residents said that the horn blower checked a garage fire after it burned a church and a mission and caused damage placed at $10,000.

SALVAGE GOLD BARS

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (Reuters)—Gold bars valued at about $28,000, have been recovered from the wreck of the liner Niagara which has been lying in deep water by a British salvage tug. The tug will return to the site off the North Auckland coast in an attempt to recover 40 gold bars still in the sunken liner, whose wreck struck a German mine in 1940.

MARCH OF DIMES

Scattered violence and moderately - worded Communist speeches were reported as May Day was celebrated throughout the world today.

Buenos Aires: Seven bomb explosions shook the Argentine capital; one near enough to be heard by President Peron as he addressed the opening of Congress.

Anzio, France: 30 North Africans and 20 police were injured in stone-throwing demonstrations. Police arrested 40 persons for carrying arms.

Prague: Czech Premier Zapotocky said there is no international problem that cannot be settled peacefully.

Taipeh: Chiang Kai-shek, Chinese Nationalist, broadcast from Formosa, urging workers on China mainland to turn against Communists. He reiterated his determination to reconquer the mainland.

Tokyo: 10,000 jeering leftist youths tangled with 1,500 police after refusing to disperse after a peaceful parade by 500,000 laborers.

WARNER ROBINS, Ga. (AP)—A tornado blasted the Warner Robins area with atomic blast fury Thursday, killing 13 persons, injuring an estimated 250 to 300 others and causing millions of dollars worth of property damage.

Twelve bodies were pulled from destroyed houses in the town of Warner Robins, 15 miles south-east of Macon.

The 12th victim was a four-year-old child, killed in a high-wind accident in flight from the storm. More bodies may be buried under widespread rubble in the town's path and in wreckage littering the Robins air force base, which serves as a supply and maintenance depot and service headquarters for the 14th air force.

Large Structures Flattened

Property damage to the industrial base was unofficially estimated at more than $1,000,000. Several large structures on the base were flattened.

After smashing 30 two-unit apartments in Robins Heights, just near the base, the storm entered the base itself. Trees down the guard house and whirled giddily over the area. Some structures were leveled. Others were damaged, and others were left untouched.

About 60 civilian employees of the payroll office left their jobs only 15 minutes before the storm demolished the building. An automobile parked near the structure was tossed onto the collapsed roof.

Frame buildings in the town and on the base were torn apart as if made of plywood.

The branch of the First National Bank of Macon on the base was blown apart as if by a dynamite blast.

Wind gusts in the Warner Robins area were estimated at 100 miles an hour. Heavy rain and hailstones — some as large as golf balls — fell in the Macon area.

Four-year-old Charles Barrentine died when his father's car was tossed nearly 75 yards from the highway.

Give Fluorides Approval For Dental Health

CHICAGO (AP)—The American Dental Association's councils on dental research and dental health said Thursday that the safety and effectiveness of fluoridation of public water supplies has been established beyond any reasonable doubt.

The A. D. A. Journal at the same time said studies at the University of Rochester and at the Yale University School of Medicine show that fluorides have a definite effect on bone structure and tend to slow down growth of cancer cells.

The Journal said one part fluorine per million parts of water in the amount found to be most beneficial, in reducing tooth decay among children.

Guelph Mother Follows Talking Horse Clue in Search For Daughter

GUELPH, Ont. (CP)—A tip from a talking horse has given a greyhaired mother new hope of finding her daughter who vanished three years ago.

Mrs. Sheldon Crumbaik said Thursday night the horse indicated her 22-year-old daughter, Mabel, is alive. She said the horse answered spot photographs and information about the girl to Malise newspapers which published them.

She has since received letters from Maine, but nothing yet to lead left to the attractive girl who disappeared from her home in a Toronto suburb one night while her parents were attending a wedding in Detroit.

The horse is Lady Wonder, 29 years old, owned by Mrs. Claudia Fonds of Richmond, Va. Lady Wonder responds to questions by muttering levers that raise letters and numbers which questioners watch for clues.

Lady Wonder was in the news four months ago when police cracked the case of two girls missing from Quincy, Mass.

About that time reporter Dorothy Howarth of the Toronto Telegram went to see the horse. One of the questions she asked Lady Wonder was "where is Mabel Crumbaik?" The reply was "in Maine."

Secret Communist Prison Camp May Hold Some Allied Soldiers Says Young Naval Flier

TOKYO (AP)—A secret Communist prison camp, hidden deep in North Korea, may hold some Allied fighting men who are not Red prisoners but who never have been seen by other Allied captives, a young navy flier said today.

He is Lieutenant (j.g.) Lee H. Richardson, 27, of Salt Lake City, said he was interrogated at times broke down prisoners and "softened" things they had not done. Like other prisoners believed these men also were sent to the secret camp.

The flier said one of the prisoners never seen by other POWs was a marine lieutenant-colonel with a background of experience in the Chinese civil war, Richardson said. That officer was shot down over North Korea some months ago.

The Communist radio said the lieutenant-colonel was captured, and a Communist information sheet of a tribunal to prosecute printed a letter he had purportedly written. But, Richardson said, he was never seen in the regular POW camps and Allied prisoners speculated he had been taken to the special camp.

Two Canadians Sentenced to Die In Electric Chair

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Maurice (Digger) O'Dell, 27, and Walter C. Griffin, 26, were sentenced today to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison for the murder of a Buffalo jeweler.

Justice William H. Munson ordered the two Canadians executed the week of June 7 "in the manner prescribed by the law." Both are from Hamilton, Ont.

They were convicted April 17 of first-degree murder in the killing of Donald F. Hurd, 45, during a daylight holdup of Hurd's store in downtown Buffalo last Dec. 9.

First-degree murder convictions in New York are automatically reviewed by the state Court of Appeals.

Charge Rifle Used Against Teen-agers

COCHRANE (CP)—A 39-year-old man was charged with inflicting grievous bodily harm on a boy in connection with the shooting of a youth and three others at his home.

Police said Fred Mancini of Cochrane shot Michael O'Connor, 15, with a .22-calibre rifle Wednesday. Bail was set at $1,000.

O'Connor was shot through the right shoulder as he and four other youths ran down a street after leaving the house. He was not seriously hurt.

Immigration Minister Refuses To Admit British Woman on Tour

LONDON (CP)—A spokesman for the Canadian immigration department here said today Mrs. Monica Felton was refused permission to enter Canada "on instructions from Ottawa." The spokesman declined to elaborate.

In Ottawa Thursday night, a representative of the left-wing Canadian Labor Defence League said immigration Minister Walter Harris why Mrs. Felton had not been admitted. Harris said he had asked for a report from immigration authorities in London.

Mrs. Felton, 46, was to have left Saturday for a coast-to-coast tour of Canada.

Mrs. Felton sprang into prominence here after her visit to North Korea in 1951. In a pamphlet written on her return, she claimed the United Nations forces were guilty of "barbarous" acts in Korea. Critics she wrote, "is one of horror on a scale that can be compared only with the Nazi behaviour in the Nazi occupied Europe."

In Ottawa Thursday night, a representative of the left-wing Canadian Labor Defence League said being "told" of atrocities. She was later dismissed as chairman of the Stevenage Development Corporation, an organization responsible for directing one of Britain's "new towns."

She is chairman of the National Assembly of Women, proscribed by the Labor party and described in the House of Commons as a "Communist-inspired" organization.

SELBY RESIDENT SERIOUSLY INJURED IN CAR COLLISION

James Sexsmith, R.R. 1 Selby, is in Belleville General Hospital with a broken left leg and possible rib fractures suffered in a motor vehicle accident on the Old Belleville Road east of Marysville early today.

Sexsmith was said to have been driving from a sideroad when his car was in collision with an eastbound truck. The accident was investigated by O.P.P. Constable Herb Bolster of Napanee.

Besides the broken leg, Sexsmith suffered shock and cuts about the face, one requiring three stitches to close.

Upwards of 500 members of the cadet corps of the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School received official tribute today at the annual inspection held on the school campus.

Tribute was paid to the corps by Lieut.-Col. H. E. Sissons, OBE, ED of Eastern Area, Kingston, who inspected the unit and took the salute during the march-past.

"It was a very good inspection considering the handicap of inclement weather," Col. Sisson told the corps. "I was particularly impressed with your steadiness on parade. That is the first thing an inspecting officer looks for. Your marching was good, and you showed definite evidence of good training and good interest."

Col. Sisson said he was much impressed with the physical training display given by the girls' section under the supervision of Miss Dorothy Symington. The girls, a few of whom were dressed in all white with the rest in blue trousers and white sweaters, came up like a white cross against a background of blue.

Unfortunately the public address system over which the music for the display was to be broadcast developed a bronchial condition, and the girls were thrown off stride temporarily. But the main demonstration was successfully executed and drew rounds of applause.

The corps was under the command of Cadet Lieut.-Col. John Hendry, who was complimented by the inspection staff on the excellent manner in which he handled the corps on parade. Second-in-command was Major William Campbell, who also ably handled his duties efficiently. Forming commanding officers' 'A' Co., Major Ross Burtt; 'B' Co., Major Jack Lafferty; 'C' Co., Major Ken Bateman and 'D' Co., Major Wagar. The regiment sergeant-major was Cadet John Baker. Mr. Ali Cooper was in charge of the band and did an excellent job of training this year, especially in view of the fact that several musicians had left.

The inspection this year, according to Captain Shiels, had the largest number of cadets on parade in the history of the school. Drawn up in review order for the unit marched the full length of the campus with the ends spilling over the edges.

Following the inspection and demonstrations, the inspection staff and officers were guests at a luncheon held at the Golden Acres Inn.

Parade Like Veterans

The campus was muddy in spots but this did not deter the corps from swinging along with the near precision of veterans. Heading by the band under Lieut. Bruce Varcoe, the corps swung past the reviewing stand in column of route, company and review order.

The band demonstration was particularly good with the unit clear-cutting, then changing to quick tempo. It received a fine ovation.

Colorful to say the least was the physical training demonstration given by the girls' students under the supervision of Miss Dorothy Symington. The girls, a few of whom were dressed in all white with the rest in blue trousers and white sweaters, came up like a white cross against a background of blue.

London Bus Plunges Into Shop, Killing 2

LONDON (AP)—A huge double-decker bus plunged into a shop today, killing two persons and injuring 13 others.

Lunchtime passers-by scattered frantically as the bus skidded in a rainy drizzle and plowed its way through guard railings lining the sidewalk.

The two dead persons—one a woman shopper trapped in the bus mounted the sidewalk and crashed through the shop's plate-glass window.

Obituary

L. A. EUPELT
(Brockville)

In the passing of Lindsay A. Eupelt at Brockville on Friday last, April 24th, the Canadian Dairying Industry has lost a highly respected pioneer personality. Mr. Eupelt was in his eighty-ninth year, having been born on a farm north of Morrisburg in Dundas County, Ontario, in 1863.

He was educated at the local High School in Morrisburg, from which he graduated with a Public School Leaving Certificate in 1882. After three years as a school teacher at a salary of $300 per annum he decided there must be a more lucrative career for him, so he entered the business college at Belleville and after obtaining his diploma secured a position as book-keeper for the late Mr. Wm. Bollert, grocers. Two years later the grocery business seemed to offer little chance, so he decided to join his brother-in-law, Mr. Charles Ham, who was operating a cheese factory in Berwick, Ont. This was the beginning of his very successful and valuable dairy career. Dairying appears to have been a family vocation for after a short time, while operating a factory at Iroquois, the late Wm. Eager, near Chesterville, he ran cheese to the World's Fair in Chicago, 1893, and the excellent score of 99.5%.

Pioneer Cheesemaker

Desiring to increase his technical knowledge he attended the Dairy School at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, in the winter of 1892-93, and graduated in the class of 33. As a consequence he was offered a position on the staff of the Dominion Experimental Farm, which office was then held by Mr. Wm. Ness, of Abbotsford. About this time steps were taken by Queen's University to establish a Dairy School in Kingston under the leadership of Dr. Robertson, and the school was first known as the School of Agriculture and Mining which office he held for 10 years. During his directorship of the Dairy School in Kingston, over a period of 10 years, Mr. Eupelt became recognized as one of Canada's foremost men in the Dairy Industry. He was responsible for educating many hundreds of cheese and butter makers and inspiring them with the desire to excel in their profession. His heart and soul were in the welfare and development of the Eastern Dairy School now located at Kemptville.

He reached his seventieth birthday, January 1935. Since retiring from active business life he has lived at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Hall, 102 Wiltsie Street, Brockville. The burial took place from the Rowe Funeral Home at Brockville on Monday, April 27th. His wife, Rose L. Smith, predeceased him in 1940.

ROBERT LENOL EASTON

The funeral of Robert Lenol Easton was held from the Belleville Burial Parlours Home on Thursday afternoon. Rev. J. G. Hornsby, assisted by Rev. N. E. Busch, conducted the service in the chapel and at the graveside in the Belleville cemetery.

WILBERT ROBT. McFARLANE

The funeral of Wilbert Robert McFarlane, drowned in the Salmon River over a month ago, was held from his residence to Trinity Anglican Church at Shannonville on Thursday afternoon. Rev. Arthur Page conducted the service in the church and also said the last prayers at the graveside in Shannonville cemetery.

HUGH ANDERSON WEIR

Funeral services for Hugh Anderson Weir, Crescent Bay Road, Trenton were held last Tuesday, April 21st, from Trinity United Church, Consecon, the Rev. F. Bearer officiating. He died in Trenton Memorial Hospital on Sunday, April 19, in his 70th. year.

Born at his father's farm near Consecon, the son of George Weir and Hannah Coulter, he had lived in the district all his life. He is survived by a son, Clayton Weir, Consecon, and a daughter, Mrs. (A.) Dorothy Cobden, Toronto; his wife, the former Mrs. Mary Grant; two step-children, Douglas Grant and Mrs. Ralph (Janet) Kimmett and three brothers, Albert, Hillier, Stanley, Roslin, and Herald, Oshawa. His first wife, the former Edna Maxwell, died in 1940.

He was a member of the Anglican church and a rector's warden for about 25 years. He was a member of Consecon Lodge, A.F. & A.M. and A.M. Lakeside Chapter, No. 81, O.E.S. L.O.L. No. 175, Allisonville, PM. of Consecon Lodge, a verve of Hillier township, weed inspector and a director of Murray Bay Cheese and Butter Factory.

Need for Encouraging Apprenticeship Training Here Noted by Committee

With the view of encouraging more young men and youths to take apprenticeship training in the various building trades, plans are being made to make more attractive are being considered by members of the Belleville and District Apprenticeship Committee.

Committee members point out that the number of apprentices learning the various trades falls far short or what is actually required for replacement of the older workers as they retire. Also the need for skilled workers caused by vast expansion of industry makes the need for apprentices all the more acute.

That this need is a national one and not confined merely to Belleville district is indicated by the fact that Hon. Milton F. Gregg as minister of labor has made provision for the training of apprenticeships to produce the highly skilled workers who will be needed to fill the demand caused by industrial expansion. The apprenticeship training gives the worker the opportunity to earn while learning a trade and at his training period becomes a skilled, trained journeyman.

Many Contracts Cancelled

But despite the need for more skilled workers the last seven-year period has seen the cancellation of the apprentices enrolled have their contracts cancelled for one reason or another.

Lack of interest and fitness for the trade being learned are the two relatively low wages paid to apprentices, is given by the committee as some of the reasons for the many drop-outs.

Not only has there been a scarcity in the Belleville district, local committee members were told at their April meeting held this week.

For instance wages paid to apprentices in the Belleville area are higher than the scale set by the provincial apprenticeship act, a brief prepared by committee member Charles Wilson it was shown that apprentice's pay is governing more well controlled in the building trades and one year for the motor vehicle repair trade.

Register Too Late

In a brief prepared for the meeting Mr. Firth pointed out that the majority of lads going through school today are seeking trades and professional training with the view of obtaining a "white collared" position. However, in the number of these failed to make their goal and then found that by the time they were too old to become indentured apprentices in some building or other allied trades.

Others left school too soon and took up several types of employment before being able to get settled in some trade, also too late to be indentured at the present age limit of 21 years.

Such young men who enter a trade of their choice are thus deprived of the privilege they could have secured through apprenticeship, as a result of two classes of tradesmen.

It was noted that the national committee suggested abolition of the upper age limits for apprenticeship in Saskatchewan, proved that the upper age limit

Apprenticeship Cancelled

A general lack of knowledge by the public of the apprenticeship act was cited as another reason for the low interest in young men entering indentured apprentices. It was decided to form a committee to prepare a pamphlet for distribution within the Belleville area outlining the Apprenticeship Act, the apprentice's relation to the union, the opening available, prevailing wages and other information.

It was recommended that wide circulation be given to the training facilities available, through Belleville district is indicated by the fact that Hon. Milton F. IN MEMORIAM

IRVINE.—In loving memory of our dear father, Alexander Irvine, who died April 30, 1932.

Death's dart gave us often stand,
With hearts both crushed and sore,
But in the midst of our sorrow,
We miss you more and more.

Not dead, but gone before.
Sadly missed by wife and children.

CULBERTSON.—In loving memory of Mrs. Mary Culbertson, who passed away and was killed in action April 30, 1944. God's will be done, we will meet her over there.

But memories last 'till the end of time.

Ever remembered by Mabel and Johnnie.

GAY.—In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Elizabeth Gay, who passed away May 1, 1935.

Where the years have been so long,
Where the years their branches weave
Where I cannot see or hear,
The mother we could not save.
Where I cannot say farewell
She said goodbye to some.
Where I cannot see her grave
The place is home to me.
At night the silent stars look down
On a grave I cannot see.
Where sleeps the one we can't forget
Where flowers never grow.
Ever remembered by Mabel and Nina and grandchildren, Wesley, Bill and grandchildren.

TORONTO STOCKS

Base metals advanced slightly while Industrials, golds and western oils were firm. Volume for the first hour totalled 708,000.

Uraniums were mixed. New Brunswick base metals attracted slightly more interest for general small gains.

Industrials were strong in manufacturing companies and foods. Other groups were mixed.

Higher-priced base metals gained but other issues were mixed.

SPRUCING UP

Dive Bombers Blast Big Radio Station

SEOUL (AP)—Fifty F-80 Sabre jets flying as dive bombers today blasted a big radio station and a military headquarters building near the North Korean capital, Pyongyang.

The 5th Air force reported the attack shortly after announcing that the 8th fighter-bomber wing is flying F-86s, giving the UN command four complete Sabre wings in Korea.

The number of Sabres in combat has been doubled in the last few months.

Other Allied fighter-bombers have cratered at least seven Communist airfields in North Korea in the last week to keep them out of operation, an air force officer said.

Cornwell bombers along the 155-mile battle front observed May Day—the Communist Red holiday—quietly. There were only a few minor skirmishes.

Convicted of Murder

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Joe S. Chavez, 45-year-old rancher, Thursday night was convicted of murder for killing a woman he claimed had practiced witchcraft.

Chavez will be sentenced May 6. He faces a penalty of 10 years to life in prison.

Chavez was accused of shooting Mrs. Maria Estrella, Miranda, 41, in her home near the tiny Yaqui Indian village of Guadalupe, south of Phoenix, last Sept. 12.

The trial brought out a strange tale of belief in witchcraft by many of Mrs. Miranda's neighbors, and equally strange details from a few friends.

A confession Chavez purportedly signed five days after Mrs. Miranda's riddled body was found in her blood-spattered living room, was introduced by the prosecution. In it Chavez is said as saying he had shot the woman because she placed a curse on his wife and caused her to go blind.

Statistics Deny April Colder Than Usual

Ask the average man on the street and he would say the month of April, particularly the latter part of the month, has been damp and unpleasant.

For instance the average mean temperature for April over a period of years has been 45 degrees. Last month the average mean reading was 47 degrees. Also rainfall, at 2.11 inches was but half of that of a year ago, which totalled 4.08 inches. This was slightly below the average for April which is 2.21 ipches.

But the thermometer did not reach the heights last month that it did a year ago when the mercury went to 79 degrees. The high for last month was but 64 degrees. The low for both months was the same.....23 degrees.

Ontario Town Seeks Fund For Old Bell

PARIS. (CP) — A fund to set the old town bell ringing for Coronation Day has reached $355. Many contributions have come from expatriate Parisians. Thursday 2,200 letters were sent out appealing for assistance to get the bell back in action. Some of the letters will go to the United States, where former Parisians live. The objective of the fund is $1,800.

Curling Season Ends at Arena

The curling season, which has been running at the Memorial Arena for the past two weeks was officially closed last evening with a playoff for the Deagran trophy. This was won by Jack McFee and his rink of Don Wonnacott, Marshall Palmer and Wilfred Price. Alf Symons skipped the losing rink of "Dutch" Tilker, Ab. Wonnacott and Ron Sprosle. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of play.

The president, William C. Gault, expressed the opinion of the members when he said the season, although not as successful as the previous year, showed a keen interest in curling and hoped that a new curling rink would soon be a reality in the city.

The visit of the Kingston rink and the bonspiel in the first week were the highlights of the season.

Blast Kills One

PEABODY, Mass. (AP) — An earth-trembling chemical explosion blasted a small factory to fragments Thursday killing at least one man, injuring seven and causing an estimated hundreds of thousands of dollars damage.

The blast rocked this north shore industrial city, 20 miles from Boston. First reports said four were killed but two hours after the first blast a series of sharp blasts no bodies were found. Fred Lawson of Salem, one of the workers, died in a hospital.

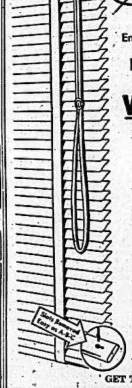
Noted Naturalists To Present Film

The last of the series of three wildlife movie-lectures being presented this season by the National Audubon Society will be given on Wednesday, at the Collegiate auditorium, it has been announced by the Quinte Field Naturalists' Club which is sponsoring the series.



Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hadley will personally present their exceptional kodachrome film, "Happy Valley", which they produced in northern Michigan's Hiawathaland. In reality, it is a picture poem of beauty, inspiration and conservation, with Tahquamenon River canoe scenes, October campfires, Jack Frost birthday cake, deer, beaver, birds, wildflowers—stressing the beautiful spiritual elements of the Good Earth.

Mr. and Mrs. Hadley, of Holly, Michigan, are past presidents of the Detroit Audubon Society and have conducted numerous wildlife education courses and lecture tours. Previously Mr. Hadley was a General Motors executive, being head of the architectural section of the Fisher Body Works engineering department. By avocation and now by vocation as well he is a naturalist, wildlife photographer and philosopher.

The Hadleys' screen tour presentations are distinguished by their own tape recordings of bird songs, calls of wild animals and other outdoor sounds as background accompaniment to the color film and lecture.

IT IS EMBARRASSING

The House of Commons was treated to a bit of drama this week when a Saskatchewan member of parliament resigned his seat after explaining some unusual financial dealings he had engaged in with a contractor in the prairie provinces. The practice of trading cheques is one that the ordinary citizen is unlikely to be familiar with. It is a type of frenzied finance that can be kept within the limits of the law but is very likely to turn out unhappily for some one. And in this instance, with the political implications involved, it isn't easy to sift the wheat from the chaff.

The affair became a matter of public knowledge through a series of articles which appeared in the Toronto Telegram. In them, it was charged that the Liberal member for Qu'Appelle, Austin E. Dewar, had received cheques totalling $71,800 from a contractor, Harvey Lunam, who had been engaged in construction projects for the federal government. It appears that a number of sub-contractors who were associated with Lunam suffered heavy financial losses when his construction company failed and was unable to pay them for their contracts.

In the Commons Mr. Dewar explained that between 1948 and 1951 he had, as a friend, accommodated Mr. Lunam by exchanging cheques with him. He said he had received no benefit, nor suffered any loss in these transactions. But quite apart from these dealings, members of the Opposition have insisted that Mr. Dewar should have been negligent in not safeguarding the interests of the sub-contractors. Here, of course, is a moral issue which is certainly an embarrassment to the Government. But it is to be questioned whether the Government, as distinct from private individuals, is responsible in any way to the sub-contractors who were the victims of the general contractor's business failure.

The government itself was protected by moneys deposited by Lunam, or held back by the Department of Public Works on progress payments. Unfortunately there was no such protection assured to the sub-contractors. From a hard-boiled business point of view these people were taking the ordinary risks that are implied in all contractual relations. That their financial losses amounted to a reported sum of $239,000 is unfortunate but it seems to us that the government might be setting a dangerous precedent if it were to acquiesce to the current demands in Parliament and make good those losses.

It might be a magnanimous gesture but we doubt that it is good business. The Prime Minister has rejected the idea, and in doing so he has taken a course which provides political capital for the Opposition.

Mr. Dewar, as one of the younger members of the House, might have blighted a political career by his deeds. At 5 forty, he is again offering himself for re-election in Qu'Appelle but whether or not the electors will justify himself before his constituents, it is rather obvious that he has rendered his party some disservice in this election year.

A CHANGE IS MADE

A few days ago an Associated Press item reported that the London Times, long considered as the world's most conservative newspaper, had survived a minor journalistic revolution. The masthead on page one had been extended by one and four-fifths inches.

In order that its readers would not be distressed by such an innovation one of the Times' leaders — editorials, that is& — reassured all that this was not a new trend toward sensationalism.

It explained: "This small advance toward perfection which printers, like other craftsmen, continually attempt, but not often, is one of a series that in the past few years has transformed the appearance of the paper."

Lest some might be misled by this allusion to progress, as though it were typical of the Times' action year to year, there will be many visitors to Britain in this Coronation Year who will come home to assure us that the Times is a newspaper of a breed with anyone from this side of the Atlantic has to see, to believe.

It is certainly unlike any newspaper seen in Canada or the United States. It carries no pictures of any kind, never one even on the front page. There is nothing whatever to catch the eye or demand the reader's attention. There are seven solid columns of small print. In fact, seven solid columns of front page advertisements.

These are notices of births, marriages and deaths (commonly called hatched, matched and dispatched), with appropriate British sense of decorum. There are advertisements for company meetings, for steamship and air lines, for educational establishments and public appointments. There are auctions, wants and sales. There is the famous "personal column", in which one finds everything from Biblical quotations to a "good home required by gentleman, preferably Wimbledon."

But Times is the last of British papers to maintain its old-fashioned make-up. It will be recalled that it was a news item of note when the Times abandoned, after a year, its practice of printing its front page. That the Times persists in remaining unchanged and unchanging in these changing times is, of course, its trademark of quaint style and dignity. There is no doubt that its unique personal column is read down to the last box number.

Who would ignore this message: "Boxer dog and Alsatian puppies reluctantly part with their five four-week-old daughters. What offers?" Or this one, "Will anyone assist parents, two exceptional boys (public school scholars) with keen if unusual continuing education?"

Or, indeed, such as this: "Elizabethan and Jacobean love-songs; gifted young gentleman, accompanying himself on the lute, can accept a limited number of engagements for private recitals."

Is it any wonder that the front page of the Times is as intriguing and well-read as any of its modern counterparts? And who would suggest changing it except for a concession to the perfections which are to be demanded by printers every four or five decades?

LONGER LIFE SPAN

The average length of life among American wage earners and their families is now 68.5 years, insurance statistics in the N.Y. Journal of Commerce show. This is a gain of slightly more than four years since 1940 and of about 22 years in the past half century. The figures are from industrial insurance policy-holders. Contributing to the longer life span are declines in mortality from tuberculosis, childbirth, pneumonia and communicable disease of childhood.

Th building permits issued at the city hall during the month of April amounted to $5,450. This is a healthy increase over past months. During April a year ago no permits amounted to $17,125, the greater part of which was for private houses.

A meeting will be held this evening at the South End Athletic club to arrange some details with regards to the grant races to be held this summer. All persons interested are invited to attend.

One hundred and fifty feet of sanitary sewer is being added to the Parker street sewer. Thirteen additional men were put to work there this morning.

Four more teams and plows were added today in the work of plowing garden lots for use of the unemployed in the city.

Miss Audrey Proctor spent the week-end with friends in Kingston.

Moose Jaw Promotion

(Ottawa Journal)

The Chamber of Commerce of Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, smart enough to capitalize on its unusual name, sends along a letter all bearing greetings from that city on the occasion of its golden jubilee year—and the letter has the honeycomb stamp, the notation on the envelope "Souvenir cover . . . first day of issue.

The letter calls attention to the added fact that the moose head is the official emblem of Moose Jaw, and it is an interesting coincidence that the moose always comes along just at this time when Moose Jaw is celebrating its semi-centennial as a city back in 1903.

Moose Jaw and Medicine Hat have two of the oddest placenames in the Canadian communities, and both have been too wise to discard them—wiser than the old Pal Grey of the movie shows, not to mention the envelope "Souvenir cover lost in the more euphonious but less spectacular Kenora.

As for the moose head stamp we shall let the experts say whether it is a good or bad—at least it is unusual.

THE COUNTRY LANES

Tis good to walk a country lane
With one good friend along,
And sit you down where'er you will
to hear a wild bird's song.

And name the trees which shelter you if you should choose to sit,
And watch the white clouds drifting by and dream a little bit.

The dust along a country lane is good to kick about,
There is no tide of traffic there, but only gardeners out

Sometimes the children look at you in such a curious way,
They see you drive in cars as they live with every day,
And no doubt wonder what you find so wonderful to say.

How true it is that those who dwell along the country lane
Think buildings tall are wonderful and trees severely plain,
And city men who long for hills and open space
Will glorify the country lane which seems so commonplace.

Blackboards to be Replaced

(London Times)

The blackboard, according to a Ministry of Education report, is on its way out. It has been found to exert a depressing effect upon the student, and is being replaced by the "chalkboard", which will be tinted in one of the more bright colors and may be made of cork, sand-blasted glass, or various plastic materials, or wood.

This humane and long-overdue reform has come, for most of us, a little late in the day, but regrets are bootless.

It is not only idle but unmanly to attribute the paucity of our scholastic attainments to the soul-destroying influence of the blackboard. Even if our first acquaintance with the Greek alphabet had been made against a background of puce cork, it is by no means certain that we should today be a Fellow of All Souls. We must not envy the younger generation because their educational facilities were denied to us; we can only hope that they will make the best of them.

The ministry's report makes it clear that the new boards have the ability to say colors in the classroom. "A greater degree of cleanliness and carefulness follows automatically," it says; and It recommends that its recommendations in this connection should have been limited to the words "and all that implies."

What is the good of having a bright blue blackboard if the pupils' hands are still (and in almost every case is a larger and more conspicuous object than the board itself) continues to be enveloped in a long black gown? The attention of the class is, after all, focused upon the blackboard intermittently; upon the person of their teacher it is, or should be, riveted throughout.

How can a young lad of sensibility and refinement be expected to get the best out of his school days if they are dominated by an oligarchy as subhuman as that which invigilates over most of our oldest educational establishments? Boys are born raw and admiration at the vivid if not garish blazers in which their masters appear upon the playing fields. Ought not something to be done to bring their habiliments of the classroom into line with some at least of the 47 colors included in what (according to the Times) is known as the Archrome (Munsell) system?

Ostentatious finery should be avoided as sternly as mere senseless affectation. How impressive that the mathematics master should wear purple brocade, or the history master a gown in buff and hose of Lincoln green. It would not cost a penny more to replace those dreary black gowns with dominoes in pleasing pastel shades; and the French master might perhaps round off his costume with a cocked hat, preferably local hats. It certainly seems pointless to jazz up the blackboards if the pupils are left in their drab. Variable shroud sticking out of the dainty, refreshing color-scheme like a prune in a helping of fruit salad.

Cafeterias On Ships

(By Elizabeth Kilsen, in the Christian Science Monitor)

A self-service, pay-for-what-you-eat cafeteria system is being introduced on board some Norwegian ships by shipowners keen to cut costs in the face of keen competition from airlines.

Under the cafeteria system, passengers, instead of paying for meals in an all-inclusive ticket, purchase only what they have actually eat.

This the shipowners say, would benefit passengers who are bad sailors and never venture into the dining saloon at all, or take only a few meals.

Most Norwegian passenger ships always have been noted for their generous quantity and high quality.

The inexperienced traveller going to Europe on board a Norwegian ship plying between Newcastle and Bergen, for example, often eats his fill of the luxurious cold buffet in the dining saloon without realizing that this is merely the "appetizer" course and that many more delicacies are to follow.

In the future, he will be able to visit the cafeteria when he feels hungry and help himself to what he likes, paying as he eats. He will also pay only for what he eats, and he will enjoy the special advantage of hot-food counters as in any self-service cafeteria ashore.

At least two of the Bergen Steamship Company's ships, the Bergensfjord and Venus, are to be converted to the cafeteria system early for the summer season.

For the owners, the cafeteria will mean an immediate saving both in food costs and wages. Staff will be required only to supervise the food counters, and to remove and wash the dishes. Waiters will be superfluous.

The system has been tried out successfully for the winter season on cargo ships, passenger-cargo vessels. Everyone aboard will be able to get hot food, even if he comes late to his meal.

NO MEDICINE FOR FEVER

Dr. Brady

The chief symptom of aspirin poisoning are edema (swelling) accumulation of water in the tissue) the lips, tongue, eyelids, nose or the entire face; hiveslike rashes, vertigo, nausea, vomiting and tinnitus (ringing in the ears, profuse sweating, cold extremities, rapid irregular pulse, collapse and, rarely, death.

Yet many reckless persons and irresponsible doctors use this drug with as little compunction as they would feel about taking a sedative at bedtime.

Mrs. Five Hundred Dollar Snob telephones her pediatrician about her sick baby. The pediatrician, being a member of the "clinic" can't visit the baby now — what with two or three customers still waiting for their turn. On the other hand, he doesn't want to let a real child get up there, so he asks Mrs. Snob what the babys' temperature is. If she hasn't already taken it, she does so— trust people of her calibre to have a mischievous little glass tube in the medicine chest— reports that it is 99.8. That's all the charitan needs to hear. Give the unfortunate child some aspirin, he orders. A quaktish caper, if ever there was one. Even the trick specialist or clinic racketeer thinks I'm wrong about it, let him try to alieve me.

The only remedial value of acetyl-salicylic acid ester (aspirin) is its analgesic action—relieving ache, pain or soreness. For this purpose it is the least dangerous medicine we have, but even so, it is always dangerous to some degree. I'd never take a dose of it unless I could sit down or lie down quietly for an hour afterward.

For a doctor to pretend that a dose of aspirin is good medicine for fever is sheer hokum. Elevated body temperature in acute illnesses is generally a good sign and certainly not a manifestation to be combated with a dangerous drug.

Aspirin is usually supplied in 5-grain tablets, but the drug boils up as an ingredient of numerous nostrums, some recommended by physicians, some dentists, and some by hucksters.

Then, too, recent exhibits in my chamber of horrors of various forms of "baby aspirin" or pleasant tasting aspirin for children.

Mark me down as a sound man if you think you know better than I do, but the reckless and ready way people use aspirin here in Yankeeland in my opinion indicates something lacking in the attic.

(Since writing the foregoing I read in the press the case of the tragic death of a young infant from choking on "baby aspirin" tablets" which his mother gave the baby for fever!)

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Friend or Joker?

A friend tells me that cooking in aluminum ware (waterless cooking) is injurious to health. Is this true? (R.H.)

Answer — Some people we have been cooking in aluminum ware since the horses in Penn Yann ran away when Jack Guile drove his handle-steered Maxwell runabout down Main Street.

Across Africa By Bicycle

LONDON.—British women have a reputation for being intrepid and indefatigable travellers, and Miss Lorna Marriott has just given proof that this spirit is by no means dead. Broadcasting in the BBC's "Radio Newsreel," the fifty-three year old Englishwoman described the four-thousand-mile journey she made across Africa, riding from Johannesburg to Dulu in the French Cameroons on a bicycle twenty-four years old. Like her sister, she was certain that more of the countryside could be seen from a bicycle but she sometimes had to dismount to prove. She thought the feel of the countryside was more apparent to a cyclist, the temperature, humidity soil and altitude. Some of the gradients she encountered would have impressed the world's record makers in which she had to push her machine for the entire cycle a year or so ahead, put on the brakes, and then haul herself up. There was also the sandy patch which she had known to be dug out of it although her guide had to be occasionally fished out. Sand was another hazard.

Miss Marriott had some camping equipment with her but slept out only four times, and on two nights she was given a bed in a hut and on one night in a native village.

Words, being tools, should always be used in constructive work. Never should they tear down or destroy. Often words bring to mind and heart like bullets, with resulting pain and hurts that long linger. Mere words, without meaning or purpose, die of themselves. But words live on and on.

Many there are who still live in an endless number of lives because of the words they put to work in people's minds and hearts. The people of words: books of science, history, biography, music, and all forms of literary expression, is the people who make our cultures and civilization. Kind words, for example, often produce kind deeds.

We ought to speak each day in words that will be treasured as the our last uttered in life. How we would like to take back words that we have often used and have been buried forever! it is best to think first and speak slowly. How quick is the happy reaction of words of kindness and good cheer. Living will come from the heart—always wrapped in sincerity. Its many features and beauty to them, and they are followed by the one receiving them. We should never forget that words were meant to work, to do useful job in the world.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

The Work Of Words

Words start working the moment they are expressed, whether spoken or written. Millions of words have earned immortality. It's important to grown men and women what when we send them out they will do good and not harm. How few of us ever think about things that eat into the heart of another. Words are dynamic pot words to work in the wrong way!

Words of hope, encouragement, good cheer, and understanding outlive all other words sent out into the world. Words are the seed of one's mind. They can build friendships, create a happy environment, and often influence the course of history, It has happened again and again.

Words, being tools, should always be used in constructive work. Never should they tear down or destroy. Often words bring to mind and heart like bullets, with resulting pain and hurts that long linger. Mere words, without mean-

Thoughts Turned Out

Nothing is more unfortunate for a child than to encounter circumstances early in life which turn his or her thoughts inward. The mental disposition once created may cause the child to spend sometimes his ruin one's adult happiness.

The child is not as long as we live in the state of evil doers. People start out solely to enjoy themselves end up by having no joy whatever. They start out to develop a sound sense of injury. They harbor grudges and become all sorts of pilots being laid to undermine their happiness, comfort and usefulness. They also each people get to worrying about their health, until they imagine that they are constantly and exclusively every conceivable disease. If they have any money, they dash into idleness and spend a great deal of time thinking of ways to kill it. But to be being imposed upon by parasites and robbed by excessive taxes.

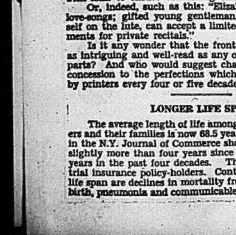
You may be foolish enough to give your child a hobby-horse to play with, but do not be so foolish as to train him in a way of mind that his thoughts turn inward. For if he continues thus to brood over his troubles, no power in the world will not make him happy. Help him to turn his thoughts

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When a garrulous man marries a taciturn woman, or a chatterbox of a little woman marries an inarticulate and seldom speaking man, there is always the rub remarked one or the other of the parents. The family can be ruined in its inheritance. Some of the children will take after the talkative parent, some after the silent one. Now and again, however, one of the children takes after both parents. We have what the psychologists are liable, in their ignorance, to call a case of split personality. Psychiatrists, like all other politicians, are naturally ignorant, because they are always finding out something new about the human mind. Psychology makes them ignorant today. Many cases of what the psychologists call split personality or dual personality are simply the result of having in the perfectly natural characteristics of a person who happens to have a little of both parents, especially if the parents differ considerably in their characteristics.



A friend of ours had a very unhappy life in his married years, from the time she became old enough to think about herself until she was twenty thirty. Her personality was always at war with itself. She endowed high spirits and most overenodous high spirits and most vivacious activity, to be followed by periods of quiet, in which she seemed unable to take any part in the things she had got involved in previously. Her parents were not psychiatrists, largely because she listened to her pseudo-scientific friends and read articles in the magazines. All they did was scare the wits out of her. "I'm not going to be any trouble to my country, she revealed her troubles to us.

"Well, Sis," said the old boy, "When you're full of beans and chat ter, you're being like your Ma. And when you are gloomy, you are being like your Pa. And why not? I used to get awfully tired of your Ma, and at times I got pretty weary of your Pa. But I dont think I've ever got tired of you."

That tickled her. And now our friend enjoys being like her Ma and like her Pa, and she never gets tired of that, she equally enjoys being like herself. She is one of the happiest people in the world.

'Operation Mosquito' Starts In Middleton Park District

"Operation Mosquito" is underway in and around Middleton Park, as an aerial spraying crew from RCAF Station, Trenton, is waging war on mosquitoes and flies.

Last year, a Dakota fitted with a special aerial spraying device successfully routed millions of small winged monsters which breed in the swamps, ditches, and puddles of the park and surrounding areas. The attempt to make the camp a more comfortable place in which to live is being repeated under the authority of S/L H. Brownell, Station Senior Medical Officer.

The most recent attack on the rapidly breeding pests was made when Fit/Lt L. W. Cook piloted his Dakota aircraft over the area 22 times to drop 210 gallons of DDT solution in an oil base. The entire operation, which will be repeated next week and later in the summer, consumes one hour's flying time and necessitated only one take off and landing. The pilot maintains an altitude of 250 feet with the aid of an anroid altimeter and a radio altimeter. Fit/Lt Cook pre-set his altitude for the right and headed into wind over the target area. To maintain constant height he kept his eye on three coloured lights—red for under 250 feet, amber for the correct altitude and green for too high—and then, in his own words, "sweated bullets till the ... was done." The spray emitted from the aircraft is spread laterally by the wind and becomes a swath 100 yards in width. The success of 1953 "Operation Mosquito" can be measured by the fact that, except for a twelve-foot gap between two of the swaths the balance of the area was completely covered.

Maintains Contact

Co-ordinator in the operation is F/S P. Durand, hospital orderly who operates from an ambulance strategically located in the target area. He maintains radio contact with the pilot and gives reports on the effectiveness of the spray or on any areas missed by the swaths. Glass plates are set out on the ground to be sprayed and from these F/S Durand can determine the success of the operation. Fit./Lt Cook's spray bombing produced an average of five droplets for every four square inches sprayed. The mosquito just hasn't a chance against such a dosage.

"Operation Mosquito" involves more than a few runs across an area with an aircraft. Prior to the flight, F/S Durand visited the pools and swamps and made an assessment of the population of the larvae and the rate of their growth. He reports, when conditions are ideal, to the pilot, who must wait for a night when the weather is above limits and the wind is averaging 10 miles per hour. Attacking the larvae is known as a larviciding operation, but when the insects are born "Operation Mosquito" will be carried on as an adulticiding operation.

The only difference between the two operations is in counting the mosquito population. In larviciding, a count is made of the larvae in water obtained from the stagnant areas, but in adulticiding an observer wearing dark clothes must stand in an isolated area and count the pests that land per minute on the front of his trousers from his waist to his knees.

The Middleton Park Council was partially responsible for securing the services of the spraying Dakota in the park area. Two years ago spraying activities were promised solely to the station area.

The spray apparatus first installed in the Dakota was constructed from plans drawn by WO. W. Powell, former Senior Medical Officer of RCAF Station Trenton and FS. Durand. It is operated from inside the aircraft by two crewmen on a signal from the pilot. Aircraftsmen Ed and Lou L. Tourchette, station hospital orderly and co-pilot, FO. P. M. Bernard, of St. Cora Quebec, assisted Fit. Lt. Cook this week.

Residents are warned that sound truck or the exact hour that spraying will begin in their area. Children are warned indoors and washings retrieved from the lines. The solution is not harmful, but does leave an oily scum on anything it contacts, hence the window and car washing that is generally follow "Operation Mosquito."

Gold Cord Guides Visit

Iris Gilmore, Marilyn Wender, and Patricia Spear, Trenton Gold Cord Guides, were honored guests at a recent 4th Trenton Guide Enrollment Ceremony in the Air Marshal Breadner School.

New Guides enrolled by Mrs. Thorne Spear, Trenton District commissioner, were Michelle Gillis, Myrna Dubart, Nancy Kerr, Mildred Oates and Judy Bachelder. The color party was formed by Kealy Wilkinson, Leslie Cunningham and Barbara Thompson.

Around a campfire after the ceremony the Gold Cord Guides gave a talk on badges and requirements for obtaining the Gold Cord.

Welcoming the new guides into their company were Lt. Mrs. V. L. Berg, captain; Lt. Miss Kay Butler, Lt. Mrs. E. J. MacLeod and Mrs. P. Wilkinson.

Fishermen Head For Favorite Trout Streams

The usual May 1 fishermen headed out toward their favorite trout stream long before dawn this morning, filled with high hopes of bringing back good catches or the "Daddy of Them All", the dooner every sportsman dreams about.

Majority of the veterans headed in a northwest direction to the land of hills and creeks in the general area of Codrington.

O. G. "Buster" Alyea, who hasn't missed an opening day in years, made preparations yesterday to take two American businessmen associates on a trip to his private stream, a continuation of Cold Creek near Orland, off the Campbellcroft highway.

Gal Prices Down

The B. W. Powers and Son, coal dealers, announced today that their line schedule would go on sale at $24 a ton delivered in Trenton, a drop of three dollars a ton over the winter price, delivered.

Other merchants' prices ranged from $26 to $26.50 a ton for similar quality coal.

Bus Terminal Must be Vacated By End of May

TRENTON (Special) — Trenton's bus terminal is to go, according to a ruling by council last night. The present occupant, must vacate by May 31 because work of demolition is to commence on June 1. It is understood a bulldozer will be used to push down the old brick structure which has deteriorated with age to the extent that it has become a danger to the public. Council was told that bricks have started to fall out of the wall of the building.

The property, a former residence owned by the Bensley estate, is owned by the corporation. Norm Bickett, the agent for the Colonial Coach Company of Montreal, is the tenant and he sub-lets the upstairs as an apartment until a few months ago. Town fathers consider the building an eyesore in the market square. It also presents a traffic problem, so council says.

The tenant was notified to vacate last September 1 but he continued to occupy the premises when council failed to enforce the order.

Tearing down the bus terminal means that bus riders will have no place to wait for transportation. It may also mean that out-of-town people coming to town to shop will have to find another place to congregate.

It has been suggested that a new terminal be erected on the outskirts of the town. Opposition claims that travellers will hesitate to pay taxi fares in order to get back downtown to the shopping district.

One councillor reckons that the terminal will be cleared away in time for the Centennial celebration June 29 to July 5.

Vote on May 28

The plebiscite to decide whether Trenton adopts up-to-date sewage disposal methods falls on Thursday, May 28.

Installation of the plant and the system will cost taxpayers $500,000, but health authorities figure the expenditure is necessary if the population is to have safe sanitation. The system now is overloaded, besides an increase of at least 1,000 people is expected in the next six months. Authorities fear that more overloading will cause a complete breakdown and an epidemic result.

It was announced that the official opening of the Pyrotenax Company of Canada plant on West Street opens on Monday, May 4, with the Mayor and council as guests of the directors of the firm. The ceremony starts at 2.00, p.m.

Had Tuberculosis

GUELPH (CP) — Pte. Charles Sacco, 23, a member of the United States Army and a resident of the U.S., was suffering from tuberculosis when released by the Communists in the recent exchange of Red and allied soldiers at Panmunjom, Korea.

Sacco's family lives here. In a telephone call from Tokyo Thursday, he said he has suffered from the disease since February, 1952.

Taken prisoner in 1951 while serving with the United States 2nd Infantry division, he is due to arrive in the U.S. shortly.

FRANKFORD

Bowling League Holds Banquet At Trenton

FRANKFORD—The Beta Bowling League held their annual banquet in the Queensway Hotel on Wednesday evening, with a fine turnout. Following a sumptuous repast, trophies were presented to the winning teams, and individual bowlers who had distinguished themselves in the season's play.

League winners were the Spotters, and league champions (playoff winners) were the Alley Cats. Both received individual player engraved trophies. The Jets were awarded trophies as the team with the highest pinfall.

Individual trophies went to Wayne Jackson for high single and triple, high average to Joe Placidi with 219 and Blanche Zalesak took all honors for the ladies, with high average, high single and high triple.

Following the presentations, the new officers for 1953-54 were elected. They are as follows: president Joe Placidi, secretaries, C. Shmicker and Mrs. Harry Van Hedegan.

Supper music was provided by Miss Leatherland, with dancing also enjoyed.

Personals

Mrs. Clifford Smith and Mrs. John Casement visited Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lohnes on Thursday.

GERMAN FREED

KARLSRUHE, Germany (AP)—The West German Supreme Court has freed Eberhard Hawranke, alleged leader of the illegal semi-military "free corps Germany," a Nazi-like group. Hawranke's release leaves in pre-trial confinement only two of the five alleged leaders arrested by federal authorities last February. All five still are subject to trial.

GUELPH MOTHER

Willing to try out any possibility of finding the girl, Mrs. Crumback wrote to the newspapers in Maine.

"My reasons for thinking Mabel may be in Maine will likely sound foolish to you," she wrote. "They would have to me, three years ago. Now, I am not so sure."

She said the talking horse "has been proved right in several things, so why not on Mabel?"

A Maine resident wrote Mrs. Crumback about seeing a dark girl who had a described French accent.

"I don't think she was Mabel," Mrs. Crumback said. "Mabel grew up around Toronto and hadn't any accent."

A Portland taxi driver wrote her that he had helped a mysterious woman into a cab. He thought the woman might be Mabel.

"But I'm sure she wasn't the right one," said Mrs. Crumback.

She was 45 and partly blind and had crippled hands.

Mrs Crumback, who moved here with her family from the Toronto area about three months after Mabel disappeared has never given up hope that the girl will be found.

Neighbors said they heard a woman's and child's voices in the Crumback home about the time the brown - haired 528-week - book - keeper disappeared early May 28, 1950. Soon afterwards, a grey car sped down the street.

Mrs. Crumback said at that time she feared her daughter had been lured or forced from her home. She still feels now Mabel is an amnesia victim—or is dead.

"I'm sure that if she were in her right mind, she'd come back."

Avondale Holds Brownie Enrolment

The Avondale School was the scene of an Interesting Brownie enrolment ceremony, Monday. The room was decorated with early spring flowers.

The artificial pool was surrounded by make-believe grass which was well sprinkled with lovely mauve and white hyacinths. Tiny "stepping stones" or "pool rail" was where the original little elves, were shown by the wise old owl, just who little elves really are. Standing over the pool, in the bright moonlight they said, "Twist me and turn me and show me the elf I must be, over the water and there-saw myself."

Tweenies Claire Wilson, Sandora Deslee, Mary Musgrove and Nancy Knowlton were enrolled by their Brown Owl, Mrs. Gordon Byers. Each in turn, promised "to do her best, to do her duty to God and the Queen, and to help other people every day, especially those at home."

The visiting mothers were: Mrs. F. Wilson, Mrs. H. Deslee, Mrs. J. Musgrove and Mrs. R. Knowlton.

Assisting at this ceremony were acting Tawny Owl, Mrs. Irwin Knight and Vicky, Mrs. Cecil Ling.

Cakes, tea and punch were served by the local association of mothers.

During this ceremony, a first year service star was presented to Sheila Bird, who had been absent the previous week, when 12 Brownies received the same awards. They were as follows: Marie Knowlton, Margaret Davies, Judy Robson, Donna Yorke, Elaine Yorke, Lorraine Shelley, Linda Hickstie, Bunty Cameron, Sheila Musgrove, Lorna Hagerman, Bonnie Anger and Carol Ackerman.

Woman Rules Chippewa Tribe

MUNCEY, Ont. (CP)—After a year under a woman's rule the Chippewa tribe will put on election war-paint in June and let the world know how they like it.

Chief Alice Silver runs the tribal councils like a home-making club, keeps the boys down to business and has well-defined views about most things.

When the Canadian government gave Indian women their franchise under the revised Indian Act, the whole-hearted acceptance of the vote did not the power to sit on tribal councils wasn't expected.

But in the Chippewas a band of about 500 natives—about one the men. And if Chief Arietta (whose Indian name was Reilly) decided to run for re-election, she'll not have much trouble.

The former Chippewa chief was Clarence Silver, Arietta's husband. He had to resign because of ill health.

St. John's Guild Sponsors Colorful, Daffodil Tea

Many friends and patrons wended their way yesterday afternoon to St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill for the attractive Daffodil Tea sponsored by the guild of St. John's Guild.

Those receiving were, Mrs. L. A. Page, wife of the rector, and the president, Mrs. R. Babcock whose friendly greeting and gracious welcome brightened the entire afternoon.

At one end was the long tea table centred with golden daffodils in silver bowls, on a dainty cloth and round about the quadrangle the little white-covered guest tables, each centred with tiny bouquets of little sprigs of pink blossoming begonias and English bluebells.

Those who served the delicious slices of fruit and brown bread, tiny cakes, and cups of tea included Mrs. J. Ritchie, Mrs. J. Seymour, Mrs. F. R. Clarke, who at those replenishing and assisting in the kitchen were, Mrs. W. Moser, Mrs. George Corby, Mrs. E. Bedford, Mrs. E. Grimson, Mrs. L. Denyer, Mrs. S. Price and Miss B Irwin.

Those who presided at the tea table were, Mrs. S. J. Campbell, Mrs. A. Watson, Mrs. R. Hutchings and Mrs. C. R. Lallue.

Attractive Booths

There were three booths of attraction, the aprons and fancy work booths under the direction of Mrs. W. R. Collyer, Mrs. W. A. Means, the white elephant conversed by Mrs. R. Pitman, who also was in charge of the candy booth; and the home cooking, conversed by Mrs. A. Briens assisted by Mrs. C. Geroux.

The aprons booth was a bower of fine handiwork, with aprons of nearly every design and color; little tea aprons in solid colors of yellow and mauve edged with a ruffle of white organdy; floral aprons with wide borders of white rosen; pretty pretty aprons with vari-covered bindings; little baby aprons and lovely white knitted baby set of hood and sacque, as well as golden satin and white set, and many dainty doilies and pot holders all in crochet with contrasting colors of pink, and blue, green and yellow. An attractive crib quilt pieced with yellow and fashioned with large, square blocks of green and white with appliqued designs of butterflies, plants and stars, and nicely quilted.

The homecooking table was filled with dainty confections including raisin pies and mincemeat pies, angel cakes, little cup cakes looking more like little flowers, then-things to eat with their pastel icings garnished with colored shredded cocoanut, fatty tarts, large cup cakes with white icing and meats topping them; date squares, chocolate cakes, and tea biscuits, looking as if they would melt in the mouth. A lovely assortment.

Tempting Goodies

The candy table had its complement of maple creams, chocolate fudge, peanut brittle, and other varieties, all tempting and good looking. Associated with this was the collection of oddments consisting of leather coin purse, nicely designed; salad forks, costume jewellery, cuff links and studs, jade pin and matching earrings, tiny Gretel jug, and metal old-time salt holders with tiny spoons, a crocheted heart sachet, and a box of fancy rose soap, and a pair of crochet mitts.

The treasurer for the afternoon was Mrs. John Exley assisted by Mr. Exley.

A dainty tea, nicely convened, pleasingly arranged, and most successful.

Contact Club Prepares For Coronation Fair

With the Coronation Kermis now little more than one month away, all the members of the Contact Club of Christ Church are doubling and redoubling their efforts, to prepare fantastic, fabulous, expensive and colorful articles for the many booths.

At the recent meeting a most fabulous group transformed the Parish Hall into a busy workroom with long tables lining the walls and elbow-room a scarce commodity. Since there will be 13 different booths, including plastic articles, stuffed animals and dolls' clothes, home-cooking and novelties, to name but a few everyone is able to choose a favorite task, therefore enthusiasm runs high.

Business Meeting

Before all this activity set the Parish Hall humming, however, the president, Barbara Lennox, in conducting a short business meeting, announced on the happy group which had shared in the corporate communion on Sunday morning and enjoyed the breakfast afterwards.

The club agreed to assist in the serving of meals at the A.Y.P.A. conference next fall. Before settling down to work, the members were treated to a display of layettes, the preparation now being completed, under the direction of Catherine Bucket.

As well as the booths mentioned before, the Coronation Kermis will also have an apron booth, felt articles, embroidery, knitting and children's wear all of which had ardent workers at the last meeting.

All these handicrafts are only a part of the many attractions planned for the Kermis. There will also be hobby displays (some of most interesting to men) games, novelties, popcorn booth and refreshment bar. With such a variety of interests, an enthusiastic membership is necessary, and happily the Contact Club has that.

meeting with Mrs. J. S. Lôynes presiding.

Mrs. R. R. Whitfield introduced the speaker, Mr. William Jardine of Flower Lane. Mr. Jardine gave many helpful suggestions on flower arrangements and the care of cut flowers.

A draw was held for the demonstration flower arrangement. Mr. Jardine had made, and the winners were, Mrs. E. R. Whitfield, Mrs. Bill Bowery, Mrs. R. Williamson, Mrs. D. A. McKinney, and Mr. Johnson.

Mrs. Bill Holway thanked Mr. Jardine for speaking to the group.

Coffee and doughnuts were then served by Mrs. J. D. Sloan, Mrs. R. Chaplin, Mrs. Bill McMillan and Mrs. R. Bateman.

Salvation Army Women Hold Rally in Citadel

The women of the Salvation Army mid-Ontario division under the leadership of Mrs. Lt.-Colonel Ede met for their annual Spring Rally with Lt.-Colonel Annie Pallhurst of Toronto headquarters, as the guest speaker.

Over two hundred women delegates of the Army's Home League met in the Citadel on Pinnacle Street who listened to talks from Lt.-Colonel Pallhurst, Mrs. Lt.-Colonel Ede, Mrs. First Lt. Ruth Gardiner and Mrs. Senior Captain Bright-well. All speakers followed the Coronation theme and decorations in the Citadel followed the trend of Coronation also the main attraction being the jewelled replica of the St. Edward's Coronation Crown made by Paul Mercier, jeweller on Front Street, and which was on display from 7.30 to 10 p. m.

Handicraft Class

There was also a handicraft class held and a display of handicraft work by various Home League members of Kingston, Belleville Citadel and Station Street.

Of supreme importance was the gathering of the talents by every Home League present, who had helped various projects to raise finances for a building for sleeping accommodation for the Army's camp at Lake Roblin in Ameliasburg.

Senior Captain Fred Brightwell stated that the members of the Home League have contributed the sum of $1,600 which will be generously used in the building of this cabin for underprivileged children. The presentation of this money was done in a novel way, each secretary presenting her cheque with a hand-made pendant to Miss Carol White, who was dressed as a queen and who received the money and in turn presented it to Lieut. Colonel William Ellery, divisional commander for the mid-Ontario section. After the main address by the Colonel who spoke of the value of women in religious and social life, Mrs. Lt.-Colonel Ede called upon Mrs. Captain Brightwell to make the thankoffering. Mrs. Lieut. Colonel Fairhurst closed the gathering in prayer.

First Fitting of Coronation Gown Important Affair

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — The Queen's first fitting of her Coronation gown is one important step in a race now awaiting Her Majesty's return to London from Windsor Castle.

This gown-of-state, that will hit the fifteen of every country of the world, follows the same procedure as the simplest gardening outfit. It has just two fittings.

A tailor's "dummy" to the Queen's measurements, shrouded in silence — secluded somewhere at designer Norman Hartnell's Mayfair workrooms, saves the Queen many hours.

One day early in May, Hartnell will get old for Buckingham Palace bearing the world's best-kept secret, in a large cardboard box. The royal party will choose to make the two most important gowns to date for the Queen—her marriage and crowning—will take his head saleswoman, Miss-haired Mme. Denise, and two fitters, Mmes. Emilienne and Isabelle.

Royal Secret

The Queen will then inspect the much-discussed gown, advance details of which would bring big money in many world markets. Hartnell's secrecy is in keeping with his diplomacy in royal fashion secrets, started with the wedding gown of the Duchess of Gloucester. His never completes a design of such importance until the day it is due for delivery.

The first fitting will follow the same line as any other royal one. Fittings are always held in the Queen's boudoir, or dressing room, and only her personal maid, Scottish-born Margaret Macdonald, is present.

It's Miss Macdonald's job to note every detail of the dress, its fastenings and the way it should be draped.

Hartnell's craftsmanship is also an important factor in the way the Queen will look during this most demanding day of her life. Many few words.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

When Hearts Won't Let You Date. Try This First.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 25, and my mother and father won't let me date boys unless they know them. They won't let me go to the movies with a boy or anywhere else, even to the corner drugstore. They say I must wait for boys to come to the house and call for me. All my friends and parents say boys want to come to a girl's house and not date. One likes me, but is afraid he doesn't. Then next time they ask you to go to the movies or out, parents say no the boy doesn't ever ever asks you for movies.

My parents won't let me attend school dances either, or spend a night with a girl friend. I just have to go home all the time. Please help me, for I have no privileges! I am going crazy.

Please let me answer my personal problems, for I have never done anything they wouldn't approve of. I am well behaved. Sweet 16 yr. — S.N.

Dear S.N.:

We're sad that yours is a problem many girls of your age have to an aggravating degree. You, I know, find it very comfort you just a little to know that you have company.

First, Sweet, I must tell you that your parents are perfectly right in wanting to meet your boy friends before you date. Always very careful to have the boys come to their home and meet your parents. Then it is really up to the boys whether or not they want to call for they have the right, it's quite possible they may win permission from your parents to take you out.

I suggest that you have a quiet little talk with the next boy who asks you for a date, and tell him that your parents are very conservative and that it's hard for them to realize you have actually reached the dating age. Then suggest to him that if he'd like you to go out, he get permission to take you to a movies, or some other proper place where you have known you home say time they say, you think perhaps they would let you go.

I think that much of the trouble of this fried girls have with their parents is that boys aren't polite, enough, and thoughtful enough, to do just this. But if they show a girl's parents they know how to behave, it seems and know how to behave, it is usually pretty hard for a mother and father to refuse them.

Before you "go crazy," try this out. It may be the answer to your problem.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a soldier at camp, but before I left home I met a woman nine years older than myself and started to love with her. She is 29 and I am only 21.

She knows she loved me and always would, but since I have been in the army she won't even write to me. I really don't understand it. I would like to marry her, but now that she is acting this way, I don't know if I should.

What do you think of all this? J.J.:

Dear J.J.:

I don't think you're going to have a chance to marry this woman, and it is a very good thing that you won't, for she was in no way serious about loving you. Surely you must realize that.

Unfortunately, there are some wrong-minded women who make a play for young men who are attracted to them, but they have no intention whatever of marrying them. You are old enough to figure this out for your-self.

Don't be in too much of a hurry to fall in love. You have plenty of time ahead of you, and you had better wait until you are out of the service and readjusted to civilian life, before getting really serious about anybody. In the meantime, be friendly with any girls you happen to meet, but don't make yourself that you are in love with any one of them. The right girl you meet for the next year or two after you are will know your own mind about what kind of girl you want to marry.

Readers' Friday Column

By Mary Moore

Thank You Note: Up until April 15 I had plenty little Easter greeting cards and messages were arriving from readers. I want to thank you all for your thoughtfulness. Naturally I would like to have sent cards to you too, but hasn't leave from my Red Cross messages that I was full of Easter spirit and sent out my greetings through the column.

Letter: This may sound like a tall tale, but so help me, it's the truth! A while ago I clipped your recipe for "Cherry Coffee Cake" and yesterday I took a notion to try it out while making Hot Cross Buns; however before I got round to putting the recipe away again, my three-year old daughter got hold of it. No kidding! I'm sure this is one for the book, but nevertheless I would appreciate it if you would send me the recipe again as the Cherry Coffee Cake was "delish," and the rest of the family really went for it, even if Judy did prefer the clipping!

You know, I was just thinking you merely give us gals credit for a lot of will power . . . lecturing on about calories and then tempting us with recipes like this one. It isn't exactly fair you know! Of course I'm forced to admit that your calorie campaign is worthy of note and of course we just wouldn't be deprived of your delicious recipes, so thank you . . . I should complain, eh? . . . kindest regards to you and yours.—Marion H.

Answer:

I sure laughed at that one. I hope swallowing newspiri didn't do Judy any harm. . . I've sent the clipping of Cherry Cake by mail, you certainly scared Marion on that cross-purpose proposum I run. . . It was wonderful to hear from you again.

Question:

Answer:

Raggela:

One and one-half lbs. pork liver, 1-2 lb. fat pork, 2 eggs, 2 onions, 1 cup flour, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 tsp. nutmeg, sage, thyme, basil, salt and pepper. Chop liver and onions very fine and cut pork in small dice. Put together in sieve, add salt, and pepper to taste. Cover closely and cook slowly 1½ hour, but do not brown it. Drain off excess fat and let cool slightly. Add beaten eggs, the suggested spices to taste and enough breadcrumbs to make a fairly stiff paste. Mix well and form into squares. Wrap each square in cotton fat, and place each side down in baking tin. Pour over then a little rich gravy. Bake in moderate oven until golden brown. Serve with gravy. If preferred this may be pressed into loaf pan and covered with card fat and baked for about 1 1-4 hours. These amounts will serve 7 or 8.

Question:

I would like to tell you how much I enjoy your wonderful column every day . . . you sound so neighborly that you make me feel as if we've known each other for years. . . my mother used to make a pie, but has lost the recipe. . . the filling for the pie is made with apple butter, raisins, and eggs. Can you help me . . . have you ever tried putting a pinch or horseradish in a bowl of pea soup? Been tough, sloppy weathers for the soup—just a pinch in each bowl.—D. D. L.

Answer:

Yes I have that recipe. . . I certainly hope it tastes like your mother's did. Did hars have cinnamon in? Thanks for the horseradish tip.

Apple Butter Pie

One-half cup each apple butter and steamed seedless raisins (raisins are optional), 2 eggs, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 1-2 tablespoons cornstarch, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 2 cups whole milk (or part milk and part cream). Add beaten eggs, sugar, cornstarch and cinnamon to apple butter and raisins. Mix well then add milk while stirring. Pour into unbaked pastry shell. This is usually covered with 1-4 inch wide strips pastry put on lattice-fashion. Bake at 375 degrees. Bake about 30 to 35 minutes or until filling is set and top is golden.

Fashion Flashes

A REMENDOUS RANGE in fabric, design and price, hunters good pickings when blouse shopping. Coming up fast is the blouse fashioned of an Orlon and silk mixture. This fabric is used for a blouse in light gray, its "frost pleated from a deep, rounded yoke.

LOOK AROUND for blouses that are as right with separate skirts as they are with tailored suits. A good selection might be a blouse in silk taffeta with tiny fancy polka dots, cut collar and short sleeves marked by tiny pleated fans of the fabric. Nice in yellow with dots, or pink with navy or black.

VALUE PLUS is the happy state of affairs with suits rating their own stoles, and dresses escorted by their very own jackets. Silk surah makes a navy and white printed sheath dress worn with a big-length jacket of red nubby wool. Dress has a softly bowed neck-line and fashion in the waistline for easy wearing. Jacket has slot seaming at the hipline.

GOOD MANNERS

By CORNELIUS BECKMAN

Bride Doesn't Want To Have a Ring Bearer

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister is to be married soon, and would very much like to have my 3-year-old son in her wedding party. However, both she and I have never liked the idea of a ring bearer. We think it is silly and there is some other role that he might have. It is to be an afternoon wedding with maid of honor and best man, three bridesmaids and three ushers, and a flower girl. — J.H.

I'm not enthusiastic, either, about the idea of having a ring bearer, and today very, very few brides have ring bearers. But it is attractive to have a page boy in the wedding processional—and your 3-year-old son, although so very young, may be given this role, if you and the bride think he can understand what he is expected to do. (So many tiny attendants are so engaged with their part in the wedding procedure that they have a wonderful time going up the aisle and completely steal the spotlight from the bride!)

When the page boy is so very young the plan usually is for him to walk with the flower girl, particularly if she is a wee little girl who knows the page boy and can direct his progress up the aisle. And lastly, in several fashionable and well-planned weddings, the procedure has been for the page boy, and sometimes the flower girl too, to walk in front of the bride (or matron) of honor, so that she may keep a disciplinary eye on them, sound a "monitor" for the wedding." With this plan there is not so much possibility, of course, that they will steal the show from the bride!

A Wedding Cake For The Second Marriage

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a divorcee, and my son soon to be married for the second time. A small wedding, and a small reception, for our families and a few intimate friends.

(1) Should I have any kind of cake?

(2) Who buys the corsages, for my maid of honor and myself, and for the two mothers?

(3) Do I give a gift to my maid of honor?

(4) I am wearing a suit. What do I do with my gloves and purse during the ceremony?

D.B.

(1) I think you should have a wedding cake...and I hope you will plan this festive and memory-making feature for your reception.

(2) Your bridegroom should, of course, provide the corsages you are to wear to your wedding. And he provides too the corsage for your mother and for his own mother. You or your family may give the maid of honor her corsage, or perhaps the groom may ask for the privilege of sending this corsage.

(3) Yes, you should give your maid of honor a gift...something personal.

(4) Since you and your one attendant will be wearing corsages, you can ask her to carry your gloves and purse during the ceremony. Or you may have them in some convenient place just before the ceremony begins.

To Wear Ballerina Slippers

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When I wear a formal ballerina dress in my dance, should I wear satin or slipper with heels? If I wear heels I will be taller than my date! What should I do?

Shirley G.

Well-designed ballerina slippers can be very attractive, and since they are appropriate with a ballerina dress, why not wear them . . . and make your date happy?

Beauty

GOOD EATING HABITS ESSENTIAL

Is your complexion pale or sallow? Are you having trouble with your teeth? Is your naturally sweet disposition curdling? Any one of these afflictions may be caused by a lack of food elements that are necessary for well-being. The balanced diet has considerable value. It helps you to retain youthful appearance, to have a ginger in your heels and starlight in your eyes.

Breakfast is the meal that brings up a sensible appetite. Eating just because one has to stoke up to keep the efficiency motors fueled is no fun; often it is a dreary ordeal to be finished quickly. Then digestive processes slow up. Malnutrition may result.

One should sit down at the table with a sense of enjoyable anticipation. A meal should be a pleasure, even though it consists of nothing more than bread and cheese and a glass of milk. It should be a period of relaxation. With life as strenuous as it is, one should take advantage of every chance to quiet down and rest.

Girls who are holding down jobs are often remiss in this matter of eating properly. Breakfast is a stranger, often consists of nothing more than a cup of coffee and a nibble of toast. After twelve or fourteen hours your digestive system is waiting for good groceries. Breakfast should include fruit, a beverage, toast, and an egg, two slices of bacon. If a girl is underweight, she should have a serving of hot cereal with cream and sugar.

Lunch time comes. What then? A fallen around the shops maybe with a snack at the soda fountain. Now in the afternoon a girl is all in. She may be so tired that she becomes grouchy and cross. That is what hunger does to one.

She beats it home, pushing through crowds, is not interested in dinner because of fatigue.

That's no way to keep well and happy and in high spirits. The human machine needs proteins, fats, and carbohydrates in proper proportions. You can't get them unless you plan your meals wisely.

ETHEREAL BEAUTY is the keynote of new bridal gowns, many being of airy lace or net. Ribbon lace over tulle net over satin is used for an exquisite gown, with the airy fabrics sewn to the satin foundation. Lace in the afternoon a girl is all in. She may be so tired that she becomes grouchy and cross. That is what hunger does to

Eisenhower Gives Outline of Cuts In 1953-4 Budget

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower laid before congressional leaders today preliminary proposals to cut approximately $8,500,000,000 off former president Truman's budget.

Lawmakers who sat in on the discussion at the White House said the tentative cuts would include a reduction of about $5,000,000,000 of Truman's proposals for military spending.

Reductions of $1,800,000,000 in foreign aid; $1,500,000,000 in domestic spending and $25,000,000 in atomic projects also were discussed.

Cuts Will Be Reviewed

Eisenhower was said to have emphasized that the $8,500,000,000 cuts in the Truman $78,000,000,000 spending program for the year beginning July 1 are only preliminary and will be reviewed later. Truman figured domestic spending at $46,300,000.

Truman proposed spending $5,700,000,000 for atomic energy and $7,861,000,000 on foreign assistance.

Lawmakers who attended the conference said they understood the proposed cuts would make it possible to come within $1,500,000,000 of balancing the budget, although they warned the deficit-ling and this figure might be larger.

Eisenhower was said th have laid down the principle that he insists on both the security of the U.S. as the No. 1 consideration at all times.

The Predecessors of Elizabeth II

Born: 1207, eldest son of John. When Henry became king at 9, the coronation took place at Gloucester. The eastern half of England was dominated by rebellious barons and French invaders. His subsequent endeavors to regain foreign dominions lost under John were unpopular at home, and his reign was marked by an upsurge of English nationalism, and further challenges to the "divine right of kings." $100,000 is Offered by Allies for Red Jet

A cash prize of $100,000 for an original of this Soviet MIG-15 has been offered by the U.S. far east command to any Red pilot in North Korea delivering it into Allied hands. Leaflets in Korean, Chinese and Russian, showered on enemy lines, promise $50,000 and safe asylum to any pilot bringing in a MIG-15 or other Soviet-made combat jet, with a $50,000 bonus for the first jet so delivered. The offer bears the signature of the Far Eastern supreme commander, Gen. Mark Clark, and urges enemy fliers to "grasp this opportunity." For some time it has been known that the U.S. air force was anxious to lay hands on a complete operational MIG for operational study, and also was interested in Soyjet jet bombers, of which the Chinese are now believed to have some based in Manchuria. — Central Press Canadian.

Trustee Critical Of Educational Policy of Govt.

ORILLIA (CCP)—Trustee Mary Temple of Thornlea Wednesday accused the Ontario government of following a shortsighted policy in not providing adequate accommodation for new pupils flocking to schools throughout the province. Speaking during debate on the new grant policy at the one-day conference of the central area of the Urban and Rural Trustees Association, she said:

"The province is at the peak of prosperity and it seems a strange time to start crying that the wolf is at the door. We need the gymnasiums and auditoriums and special classrooms that the government will not pay us a cent on."

Trustees from more than 100 boards in the area bounded by Oakville, Huntsville, Peterborough and Lake Ontario attended the conference.

MARMORA

Mrs. W. A. Shannon Heads C. W. League

MARMORA — The April meeting of the Catholic Women's League took place in the Sacred Heart parish hall on Tuesday evening.

During the annual conclave, the election of officers was carried out following the report of the nominating committee, sumbitted by Mrs. A. M. Jones, the convener. With two exceptions the executive will be the same as for the year just concluded. Rev. J. A. O'Neill is the spiritual director and Mrs. W. A. Shannon received re-election as president.

Officers

Completing the roll, the officers are: first vice president, Mrs. Donald Shannon; second vice president, Mrs. John McCrodan; third vice president, Mrs. James Black; secretary, Mrs. Edward Warren; treasurer, Mrs. Herbert English; councillors, Mesdames M. Reid, Charles Crawford, Charles Brady, Richard Mahoney, A. Vanvelzenberg, Joseph Doyle, P. Brawley and Miss Mary Brady.

Held in the Sacred Heart parish hall, the meeting was well attended and opened with Mrs. W. A. Shannon presiding, who extended a welcome to all present.

Following confirmation of minutes as read by Mrs. E. Warren, thank-you notes were also read by the secretary. An appeal was read from the scottish ice committee. Following discussion, Mrs. H. Brady and Mrs. Ken Donaldson were named conveners for a card party and bake-sale in aid of that project to be held on May 15.

Mrs. J. H. English, speaking for Social Welfare for the past year, told of four baby gifts, 13 baskets for sick members and three plants being donated by the Marmora groups.

For the Deloro group, Mrs. Ken Donaldson, their convener, reported one baby gift, seven baskets and two plants. Mrs. Mary Reid followed with her report as magazine convener.

Much Clothing Sent

Mrs. Ross Johnston reported 337 pounds of used clothing being sent to the Sisters of Service in Edmonton and a goodly number of used stamps to St. Alphonsus Seminary, Woodstock.

Mrs. Charles Cook spoke on the Diocesan executive meeting held in Kingston last Saturday, also mentioned that arrangements are being made for a spiritual bouquet for Queen Elizabeth for her Coronation.

Ten visits to sick and shut-ins were reported by the visiting committee for the month, namely: Mrs. Hugh Brady, and Mrs. J. O'Neill, the latter as treasurer, gave a gratifying annual statement indicating a prosperous year for the local division, financially.

The president gave an encouraging report of the year's work which occasioned a hearty vote of thanks by Mrs. Charles Cook on behalf of the members.

The election of officers having been effected at this juncture, Rev. J. A. O'Neill congratulated the retiring executive and members in general on the past year's attainments and wished the new officers every success, then recited the act of consecration.

The meeting having adjourned, Mrs. Donald Shannon, program convener, took charge. A reading, "Soliloquy" was given by Mrs. Michael Shannon. To her own accompaniment Mrs. Hugh Brady, rendered the hymn, "Mother of Christ." Mrs. J. H. McCrodan gave a reading, "Lovely Artists."

An entertaining contest was won by Mrs. M. Reid. Refreshments were served by the ladies of groups 6 and 7.

Canon and Mrs. J. M. Brownlie spent Monday and Tuesday in Toronto.

Mrs. R. Winters; Mrs. P. Gray; Mrs. E. Hewitt and Mrs. R. Frost attended the meeting of St. John's W. A. in Stirling, on Tuesday afternoon when the special speaker was Mrs. A. C. McCullum, wife of the Rev. A. C. McCullum of Sydenham.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoover visited friends in Aylmer on Thursday and Friday of this week.

Canada's Only Female Fire Brigade Safeguards Village While Men Away

When a fire threatened to wipe out a little mountain community of 60 homes and a sawmill at Great Central, B.C., one windy day in March, 14 housewives abandoned their sprons and household chores and battled the blaze to death. In the tall timber country 170 miles north of Victoria, the lackwomen quarters live in constant fear of fire. Recently the housewives formed Canada's only women's volunteer fire brigade. Known as "a daytime home guard," the group has the job of protecting the village while their lumberjack husbands are out on woods operations — too far off to hear the siren's wail when tragedy strikes. Above, the "brigade" is seen ready to respond to warning sounded by siren on top of the white-painted fire hall.—Central Press Canadian

Near-Communist Party Wins In British Guiana

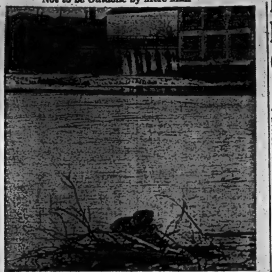
GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (Reuters) — The near-Communist People's Progressive party won a landslide victory in British Guiana's first election under its new constitution.

Results today showed that the party won 18 of the 24 seats in the House of Assembly. The National Democratic party won one seat. Three went to Independents and two seats are still undecided.

The PPP is led by the anti-East Indian dentist, Dr. Cheddi Jagan, who openly preaches communism. Other party leaders are also outspokenly Communist.

Under British Guiana's new checks-and - balances constitution, the British-appointed governor-general has the power of veto and holds special reserve powers. British officials also hold the key ministeries of foreign affairs and defence, finance and police.

The governor-general also nominates the nine members of the upper house, which is intended to act as a brake on the House of Assembly. It has power to delay finance bills for three years and other measures for 12 months.



But Jagan's party will have two of the nominated upper house seats. The PPP also has a big enough majority in the House of Assembly to enforce policy decisions taken by the cabinet. PPP men will hold the six native-run ministries.

Despite the nature of the party, the PPP election manifesto was comparatively moderately worded. Legislation is expected to include land reform, labor laws, and further independence for the territory.

NIGHT IN WOODS

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — James Karzto, 9, and James Thompson, 10, were objects of a search in the woods of Cow Bay district. The boys found their own way out the following morning, and appeared none the worse for the experience.

Not to be Outdone by Mere Man

Not to be outdone by mere man, this busy little beaver has set out to build his own dam across the Gaaneouce river, just below the one established by power company. The antics of the industrious animal, although not yet successful in stopping the water, were quite successful in stopping the traffic at Gaaneouce, Ont., as scores of cars halted to watch the little fellow at work. A spokesman for the chamber of commerce said he hoped the beaver would remain on indefinitely, as he was sure it would become quite a tourist attraction. However, his plan will bear no fruit as the local game warden has given notice that as soon as he could be contacted, the little granddaddy would be removed to a more suitable dam site which would preclude the possibility of an international incident such as called by the Gut dam. — Central Press Canadian.

Battle Deciding Fate of Laos May be Only 48 Hours Away; Could Reach Borders of Burma

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indo-China (AP) — The battle deciding the fate of the ancient mountain kingdom of Laos, besieged by the Vietminh Legions of Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh, may be under way within 48 hours. By then the bare-footed invaders from neighboring Viet Nam, who have engulfed over one-third of the interior Indo-Chinese state in less than three weeks, are expected to attack King Sisavang, Vong's royal seat of Luangprabang.

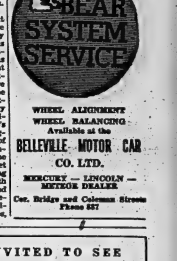
If the Vietminh win there, it may be only a short time until they reach the borders of Burma and Thailand, each of which has a sizable communist element. The Vietminh now are only 30 miles from Thailand 180 miles from Burma. Four to five Vietminh divisions have poured into Laos since the first red attack there April 13. Today the invaders were reported within 13 miles of Luangprabang, on the north and east. The French have promised a last-ditch defence at the besieged little town of 6,000 Laotians. A desperate-quick airlift has poured French union troops and American-supplied war materials into the town.

The Vietminh progress, they may have known, from Luangprabang by May day, has been slowed somewhat by the tenacious resistance of mountain posts manned by French and Laotians, and by the hamerings from French fighters and bombers. But the red hordes have by-passed their way through dense jungle, wading swift streams and trekked over tiny mountain trails for more than 200 miles from their chief supply bases on the Black and Upper Red Rivers of north Viet Nam. Now they are almost within shooting distance of the Royal Capital and there already may be encamped in the mountains overlooking the town. May Come Sunday

The belief was widespread that the Viet Minh would launch from the north and east may come early Sunday morning. The Saturday is a favorite day for Vietminh attacks. The French and Laotians are confident they can defeat the invaders. The defenders' attitude is "let them come we are ready." To date, however, the French-Laotian posts in the Vietminh's path have fallen, one by one, to the invaders The defenders now believe that if they give Ho's men a severe beating at Luangprabang, the red invasion of overrunning all Laos and Cambodia and merging them into the revel "communist state of Viet Nam" would be thwarted. King Sisavang, 86 and stricken with rheumatism, his family and Luangprabang's residents refuse to leave the city. Laotians turned to with the troops, digging trenches and building barbed wire entanglements and other defences.

Widely Known

TORONTO (CP)—Widely known in the household economics field, Nellie Lyall Pattimon died Thursday. She was the author of "The Canadian Cook Book," used by housewives and as a textbook for household science classes in secondary schools.



Born in Bowmanville, Miss Pattimon was a graduate of the Hamilton Normal school. She leaves one brother, Fred, of Bowmanville.

COSTLY MINNOWS

QUEBEC (CP)—One upset minnow pail could cost taxpayers a lot of money, the Quebec biological bureau warned as the fishing season opens. Minnows let loose by anglers grow up into various types of fish that crowd more valuable sport fish out of many lakes. Resultant clearing and restocking of these waters is expensive.

FINE CATCH

SUMMERSIDE, P. E. I. (CP)—Largest trout up to that time was landed in this area by Arthur Larkin of Kensington, fishing in the Dunk river. His catch weighed six pounds and was 24 inches long.

Two Freed Canadians Name, Forty More Allied POW Still Held in Korean Prison Camps

TOKYO (CP)—Two freed Canadian soldiers today disclosed a smuggled prisoner-of-war list containing the names of 40 Americans, Canadian and French soldiers they said were in good health in North Korean prison camps.

L. Cpl. Paul Dugal of Quebec City and Pte. Arthur J. Baker of Montreal, released by the Reds in the disabled-prisoner exchange, said that the men listed in two small books had asked them to notify their wives and parents of their condition.

It was Dugal who April 25 revealed a list of 19 Canadian prisoners to Canadian Press correspondent Bill Boss shortly after his release by the Reds at Panmunjom. They had been listed as missing and believed killed in action. Baker was included in the list as the only Canadian hospital case and he was released a couple of days after Dugal.

Smuggled Names Out

Baker read the names and addresses of 14 prisoners from a diary he smuggled from North Korea. The other names were in a tiny address book made of pages of cigaret paper which Dugal smuggled back. The French-Canadian said the Reds took a larger book away from him, so he gave up smoking for a while to save rationed cigaret paper for writing.

Today's list contained the names of six Canadian prisoners, but all but one of the names had been made public last week. The exception was an unidentified soldier.

However, Dugal and Baker had the next-of-kin listed—Mrs. A. Gewer of New Waterford, N. S. The soldiers said she is the mother of the unidentified soldier.

Next-of-Kin Listed

"I know a lot of people are worrying a lot," Baker said. "They will be glad to know their sons and husbands are safe."

"We don't know yet when we're leaving for Canada. We're mighty anxious, though."

Dugal and Baker were flown to Kure with other Commonwealth prisoners after their repatriation. They now are at Tokyo hospital, Dugal said, "but they say we are well enough to walk."

Both said the Reds treated them fairly well.

Eight Families Relieved

The smuggled list brought at least eight U. S. families the first definite word that their sons are still reported alive in Korea.

One name was that of Pte William McCartney, 22-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John McCartney of Pittsburgh. His parents said he had been officially listed as killed in action last year.

When informed by the Associated Press that he was reported alive, Mrs. McCartney cried:

"Oh, I just can hardly believe it. But praise the Lord, it must be true. I have been praying and praying that the report Billy was killed was wrong."

"Oh thank you, thank you," she said. "He's the only one I have left. His father died in January this year. I've not had a letter since they notified me he was missing in action."

Camp at Yalu River

She asked for the names of the two Canadian soldiers.

"I want to write them. I'll go up there to talk to them if I can find out any more about my son."

The two Canadians said they met the men whose names they smuggled out in prison camp No. 3 on the Yalu river and at various hospitals in North Korea.

May Soon Find Bodies of Two Entombed Miners

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP)—The bodies of two entombed gold miners may be found today.

Leo Murray, 25, and Leon Wojcechowski, 30, were trapped Monday night by a rockburst near the 1,400-foot level of the Wright-Hargreaves gold mine.

Since then, rescue crews have been digging constantly. Mine officials announced Thursday that all hope of finding them alive has been abandoned.

Thursday's encouragement made it possible for rescue crews to use a new method of attacking their task.

As long as the trapped men were considered to have a chance of survival, the rescuers had orders to dig down toward them through a five-foot-square channel in the rock lest the hapless miners be mangled in a slide of broken rock loosened from below.

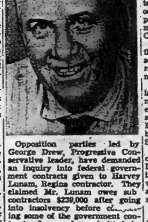
VALUABLE CATCH



REGINA (CP)—A total of $100,000 worth of pelts was sold at the last general sale held by the Saskatchewan fur marketing service. Now another general fur sale has been scheduled for May 11.

At Fort Johnson, N. Y., Mrs. John A. Jacobs was called to the telephone by a neighbor to learn that the Canadian soldiers had reported her son John Jr., was in good health in North Korea.

Mrs. Jacobs could hardly speak. She kept repeating over and over: "Thank God. Thank God."

Mrs. Jacobs said she believed her son was dead. He was reported missing in action March 23, 1952.

Regina Builder

Opposition parties led by Gordon Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, have demanded an inquiry into federal government contracts given to Harvey Luman, Regina contractor. They claimed Mr. Lumam owes sub contractors $230,000 after going into insolvency before the closing some of the government contracts. Lumam has admitted he and Austin Dewar, member of Parliament for Qu'Appelle "traded" cheques as a means of financing the business of Lumam Construction Company. Mr. Dewar has since resigned from the Commons, the first man to do so under similar circumstances in 21 years. — (CP Photo.)

Observers Appear Convinced Threat to Free World Lies In Rugged Country of Laos

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — British commentators appeared convinced that the main threat to the free world now lies in the rugged country of Laos, Shangri-La of French Indo-China.

The British government is reported "concerned" at the Vietminh invasion of the 600-mile-long territory bordering Siam. Writers on foreign affairs, going farther, paint a gloomy picture of what may happen if Laos falls to the Communist invaders.

The big danger, they agree, is that the uneasy balance will be upset in all Southeast Asia. Then they regard Laos as potentially even more important than Korea.

"For the first time," says the independent weekly, the Economist, "the Communists look dangerously like breaking through the shield—composed of mountains and French Union troops — that has hitherto protected the soft heart of Southeast Asia."

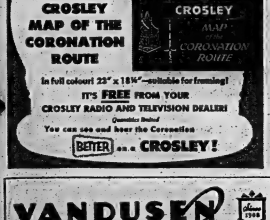
In the same way, the Manchester Guardian, an independent Liberal newspaper, said in its leading editorial Thursday that the invasion could mean "the start of a transformation of the whole situation in Southeast Asia."

The Liberal News Chronicle says Laos divorced by force from the French Union "could easily upset the world's delicate Southeast Asia balance."

The British Government's anxiety, it is said unofficially, has been intensified by the Chinese Communist news agency's claim that the Siamese government is overjoyed at the French and plans to make the country a U.S. military base. The Siamese government is thought to be friendly to the West but the country's population of 17,000,000 includes about 3,000,000 "fence-sitting" Chinese.

NEW BROOMS

WINNIPEG (CP)—Two of the city's three new street-sweeping machines arrived here. The three machines cost a total of $40,000 but city engineer W. D. Hurst estimates they will save $42,000 a year by eliminating manual sweeping.



MOSQUITOES LATE

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP)—Cool weather held up appearance of mosquito wrigglers in pails placed for the purpose in backyards here. When the wrigglers show in numbers it will be the signal for spraying insecticide from the air on stagnant waters in this area.

Sunday School Lesson:

Always Heading Into Trouble

By ROY L. SMITH

The Apostle Paul lived a tumultuous life. He was always heading into trouble. One of the greatest peace lovers this world has ever known, he seemed to have a genius for stirring up opposition because he believed a few things profoundly — things which were so right that they aroused the enmity of every closed mind and lover of evil.

Troubles of Good Men

Thomas Brooks Fletcher, one of the Chautauqua greats of a generation ago, was accustomed to say: "Some men are martyred by what they think and some are martyred for what they think." The Apostle Paul was one of the latter group.

It is impossible to believe some things with all one's heart and escape trouble, if we undertake to get those beliefs into action. There are some causes so just that those who prefer injustice cannot endure hearing them propounded. There are some principles so high that every man who makes money or accumulates power by living on lower levels is compelled to make war on them in order to survive with his evil gains.

While good will and peace are priceless virtues, they can be purchased at too high a cost. Wherever peace costs convictions, it has become a luxury all too expensive.

Troubles at Ephesus

The Christian Church was founded in Ephesus in the midst of tension and strain. The first Christian preaching was done inside the synagogues, and then when controversy and strife developed the Christians withdrew, hired their own hall, and developed their own church.

After some years Paul was passing near Ephesus, and sent for the leaders of the Ephesian church to meet him at Miletus, some 50 miles away, where he gave them some wise counsel and fair warning concerning the rough days that lay ahead of them. The preacher himself was heading straight into trouble as he was going down to Jerusalem, in spite of the fact that he was an errand of mercy. He was carrying a large sum of money with which to buy food and supplies for the starving Christians of the city. But he anticipated stones, lies, riots, and persecution. They were the accompaniment of the birth of the church everywhere.

Some Hate Goodness

It is one of the perverse facts concerning our humanity that there are those among us who actually hate goodness, who prefer the wrong to the right, the evil to the merciful. It is impossible to charge all of them with even a decent greed; their evil is deeper and more sinister even than that. They love lust, gloat in inflicting suffering on others, and take a sadist's delight in destroying that which they are unable to create.

More Than Peace of Mind

Recently there has been a great vogue among us of books which advise us how to achieve peace of mind. In all too many instances the authors advise nothing better than a retreat from responsibility, as though good religion were a sponsor for the monasticism which would withdraw a man from the world, rather than thrusting him back into the world as a redeemed warrior for righteousness.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for May 3: "Building The Church At Ephesus," Acts 18:23—21:14.

A great faith in God will produce a sense of assurance within the inner soul of a man, and in this sense includes the peace of mind. But good religion will also arouse a man to a sense of profound responsibility for the world about him, and a proper concept of God makes it impossible for him ever to be at peace with the evils in that world.

The Apostle Paul promised no peace for the Church so long as there were men in the world who hated righteousness. A church at peace with all men is not doing the work of God.

Eleven to Challenge 'Native Dancer' In Colorful Kentucky Derby Classic

By OSCAR ROBERTSON

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Hobbesian Native Dancer places one of turf history's most enviable records on the line Saturday at 5:30 p.m., EDT, in the 79th Kentucky Derby. Eleven 3-year-olds are expected to challenge his right to be acclaimed one of history's great horses.

Not since Man O' War was almost a hundred years ago has so many 3-year-olds been so evenly matched for such a big stake. After that last year's Derby winner raced."

Bimelech also came up to the 1940 Derby with a perfect record in eight two-year-old races and two as a three-year-old. But he bowed to Gallahadion in the run for the roses.

Against these records, the Dancer can show nine victories in 1951 and two this spring as a three-year-old. However, he has a long way to go to match the consistent win record of 19 established by Hindoo, the 1881 Derby winner.

KIDNAPPERS FOILED

VIENNA (AP)—Austrian police Thursday night reported an attempt by Soviet agents in Vienna to kidnap a former airplane designer of the German World War Heinkel Works. The engineer was stopped on the street Wednesday night near his home by two men who posed as police officials, the report said. The two attempted to force him into an automobile, but their quarry struggled free and escaped over a garden fence.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—As we understand it, they are staging a match race at Lonesville tomorrow between a big gray horse named Native Dancer and a little, long nosed jockey named Eddie Arcaro, with upsides on the profits on some pretty well divided.

The Dancer, though undefeated in 11 starts, never before has tried to run 1¼ miles. Arcaro has gone the distance many times in becoming the world's richest rider. The Dancer will be on his own, whereas, Arcaro is expected to receive some assistance from his mount, Correspondent, if it develops into a close thing in the stretch.

Not being in position to give an expert on-the-ground appraisal of the two characters, we asked Bert Jones, the world's richest trainer to say a split line. His prompt reply was sharp and hard-hitting, both.

"In this case," Ben says, "I've got to pick the hoss. I wouldn't be on him though, at short odds. He'd better not give Arcaro an openin'."

Bill Summers, veteran American League umpire, says that the royal between the Yankees and the Browns at St. Louis the other day was the worst he has seen in his 20 years in the majors.

"Even the St. Louis fans agreed that Brown and landed on both sides than I ever saw before," Bill said. "There was one real good fight going on that hardly anybody noticed in the confusion."

The simple truth is that most ball players are poor with their fists. Perhaps a hundred times we have seen a couple of them rush toward each other, bellowing and kicking up dust, but we cannot recall ever having seen a player land a good, clean blow before the wrestling began.

The only player we know of today who is fully trained, scientific scrapper is Al Rosen, Cleveland third-baseman. He was a good middleweight in college days in South. He challenged a lad smoothed fun in Tucson this spring, but the fellow was smart.

FALL FROM CAR FATAL

LINDSAY (CP)—Carl Coulter, Rainboro farmer, died Thursday of injuries suffered Monday night when he fell from his automobile being driven by his wife, Dorcas gaters said Mrs. Coulter heard the door latch open and her husband's side of the car and slammed on the brakes. It is believed the jar sent Mr. Coulter out of the car and his head struck the pavement. An inquest will be held.

AGRICULTURAL PLAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson Thursday set up a committee to advise him on such matters as foreign trade in farm products and foreign technical assistance in agriculture. The committee is composed of 13 leaders in various fields of agriculture and includes representatives of nearly all major U. S. farm organizations.

30 Teams Play In Badminton Tournament

On Wednesday night the first C.O.S.S.A. Badminton tournament of the Wellington High Schools which took part were: Albert College, R.C.I., Wellington Consolidated School, T.C.I. and High School and O.S.D. There were 36 teams of boys' and girls' doubles representing these schools.

In the junior girls' class, M. Caldwell and S. Brant, O.S.D., defeated C. Crawford and B. Hill, A.C. In the senior girls' class, D. Steele and B. Reigan, A.C., defeated L. Cayer and R. Chong, O.S.D. In the junior boys' class, A. Wong and B. Vaughan, A.C., defeated R. Gileman and S. Hart, A.C. In the senior boys' class, M. Geets and B. Faulkner, A.C., defeated J. Stitt and M. Black, A.C.

For the first tournament the play was good and all games were well contested. It is hoped that this will create a greater interest in the game, which is one of the few which can be played after school days are over. With the grand opening response, no doubt next year's tournament will be even better.

Sport in Brief

HAMILTON (CP)—Herb Dickenson, 21-year-old forward with the National Hockey League New York Rangers last year, says he may be through with hockey. He was hit in the eye by a puck in Toronto last November and although doctors still have hopes that the eye will improve, Dickenson doesn't give it much chance. He said at a police minor hockey dinner Wednesday night "everything is still pretty much a blur."

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Dave Douglas of Newark, Del., and Mexico's Marguerite Martinez tied three-over-par 68s Thursday to take the first-round lead in the $15,000 Pan American open golf tournament. Only seven players managed to break or tie par 72 on the 7,400-yard Mexico Golf Club course. Ben Hogan of Palm Springs, Calif., and Johnny Palmer of Charlotte, N.C., had par 72s.

DETROIT (CP)—Billy Sydney, 147½, Toronto, Thursday night won a four-round decision over Frankie Angust, 147, of Pontiac, Mich., in a preliminary bout of a boxing card here.

Wellington Hockey Club Honored At Complimentary Banquet, Dance

WELLINGTON (Special) — Il is the members of the Wellington Hockey Club, runners-up to the Campbellford Grenadiers in the Valley champions, are seen running around the village today wearing "waitles" and making notes. They are the rookies pledges. You can blame Lyn Greer, Joe Scott, and the ladies of the Canadian Legion auxiliary for this lakeside community.

For the banquet served the team and their wives, sweethearts and guests, some 200 all told, would make one of Hero's Roman feasts look like a hobo's handout.

The party took place in the well-appointed and brand new Legion hall last night with the guests taking second place in a greasing contest with the tables.

Bird Hungry Look

The hockey-playing Casalos' "had a lean and hungry look" and as did a lot of the other guests, prior to the general assault on what must have been a platoon of golden-brown gobblers and all the trimmin's. Tables sagged with about everything imaginable in the vegetable salad, jelly and pickle category, and later so did the majority of those present.

Joe Scott, playing coach of the team, was chairman for the occasion, and did a slight amount of job.

The Frank Follwell trophy, emblematic of the championship of the southern division of the league, was officially presented to the team through its captain, Leo Geyer, by Percy Duncan.

There were no long drawn-out speeches. The only approach to an address was given by President Duncan, who interspersed congratulatory remarks and some sound philosophy with bits of brilliant humor. Then, as an outstanding after-dinner orator, Mr. Duncan had his audience in stitches with humorous anecdote and story.

Front of League

He did not disguise his pride addressed the gathering, adding his congratulations to the team on an outstanding effort. He drew attention to the fact that three years ago the village entry did not win a game, and in that space of time had improved its playing ability to the point where it almost won the loop title.

Brief remarks were given by Messrs. Hartwick, Sivel and Carver. Mr. Hartwick paid outstanding tribute to Mrs. Jack Ogilvy, head of the Canadian Legion Ladies' Auxiliary, and her band of assistants, who provided the delectable repast.

The remainder of the evening was spent in round and square dancing to the music of Glendon Saunders and his orchestra.

Shortage of Ministers

BASHWOOD, Ont. (CP)—A critical shortage of full-time ministers faces the Canada conference of the Evangelical United Brethren Church, Rev. F. M. Feist of Stratford, reported Tuesday in the 39th session at Calvary Church here.

Mr. Feist, secretary of conference superintendents, presenting the report of the board, stressed the grave need for ministerial supply. Superannuated ministers and students have to be called to assist ministers who were ill during the year.

AGE IS RELATIVE

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr. J. C. Meakins, retired McGill professor of medicine, told a meeting here that "some people are old at 35 and others are young at 60 years of age." The meeting was called to arrange a conference of medical, nursing and welfare authorities to study problems associated with aged folk.

PUBLIC APPEARANCE

GANANOQUE, Ont. (CP)—A full-grown beaver started busily building a home on the shore of the Gananoque river in full view of persons crossing the busy King street bridge. Because of the traffic hazard, police several times had to order parked vehicles off the bridge.

THEY'RE BITIN' — OR ARE THEY?

Yesterday morning, bright and early, the addicts of the hook, line and sinker were out in full force trying to trap the elusive speckles. Some of the more fanatical of this speckle-hungry fraternity were on hooking Thursday night waiting for the dawn to crack, regardless of what atmospheric conditions are.

And many and varied will be the stories packed away sanded cathedral-like quiet, utter immobility on our part, and too much on the old cliche, "the big one that got away", when speckle hunting. They'll cut into their idle moments, though, to guessing the age of the tasty "lily fellas".

Many years ago we went speckle hunting in the wilds of the north. After being dragged out of a warm bed at an unearthly hour, crawling through a jungle of undergrowth that relished rain every few minutes, and falling exhausted at the edge of a pool, we were shown how to cast for the half-pint piscatorial peckies.

There was a dead silence. The buzz of something that was black, minute, and had oil-drilling fangs that drew blood at every landing, was the only noise. Our instructor demand cathedral-like quiet, utter immobility on our part, and if possible, cessation of breathing.

We plead this nonscientific existence for two hours when a member of the party gave out with a trio of terrific sneezes. It may have been the germs, or mere curiosity on the part of the speckles for immediately following the performance, we felt victim to the hexes. One was a 12-inch beauty, the other measured eight, and something.

"That's a nice young fella," admired the boss man holding up the larger of the two. "Seems a shame to cut off so young a life."

What he didn't know was the twelve-inches was more of a grampuppy than he. A thirteen-inch trout is easily five years of age, according to the experts.

At one year old, the average speckled beauty is only two inches long and weighs 0.05 ounces. A year later it has grown to 4.8 inches and weighs 0.7 ounces. At two years of age he is old enough to vote and becomes legal prey to man and hirds. For at this period he is seven inches in length and tips the scales at 2.5 ounces.

He shows remarkable development during the next year of his life for he increases in length to 10.7 inches and his weight to seven ounces. (Ah, listen to him simle in that bottle). At five years of age he strolls his stuff through the undergrowth of speckled misery, boasting a 13.5-inch length and the prodigious weight of 15 ounces.

Okay, you take it from there.

"MR. BOWLING"

On the basis of the announcement that Joe Dunphy and other Kingston bowlers have entered the "Mr. Bowling" Tournament, comes word that Herron Ormsbury, Trenton's undefeated Senior Intermediate, has also entered. He will definitely be on hand tonight. It is believed that a number of other bowlers will accompany Ormsbury to Belleville to participate in the tournament.

Ormsbury has proved in the past that he is definitely a threat and should be one of the favorites. His record in the Central Ontario Bowling League during this season was, to say the least, marvellous. Not many bowlers in Canada can claim a better average than his 283 for 45 games.

Local bowlers will, of course, have the advantage of rolling on home alleys and this should make for good competition. Some localities are willing to gamble that the out-of-town stars won't finish in the first five. Time alone will tell.

It is planned now that the tournament will be held on at least two evenings each week. This is due to the large number of bowlers expected to compete and the lack of enough alleys. On Thursday night a party will start bowling at 7.00 p.m. sharp. Tonight's starting hour is to be 8.30 p.m.

DOTS 'N FLASHES!

We've witnessed a lot of gustatory battles in the annual Knife and Fork League, but that banquet served in Wellington last night to honor the village hockey club, deserves a world series rating. Nine teams entered and so did the 126 guests. If you peered close enough you can discern flashes of white between the dishes. That would be the tablecloth. And anybody present who looks a self-respecting turkey in the eye for the next six months, hasn't any conscience. It was a grand feed and a grand party. This column's chapeau is doffed to those grand cooks, the members of the Wellington Legion Ladies' Auxiliary. . . . Tonight the Oddfellows' Mixed Bowling League celebrates a highly successful season with a party at the club rooms. . . . Featured will be the first presentation of the Charley MacDonald Memorial Trophy, a beautiful bauble which will perpetuate the memory of a grand guy. . . . Dick Burrows says the stage is all set for the inaugural meet of the season at Shannonville tomorrow afternoon, starting at 2.30. Drivers from all parts of the province will be on hand to open the seasonal show and some thrilling episodes should result. . . . Rumor has it the proposed Border Baseball League has "folded" before it was actually opened. Speaking of baseball there is a meeting of the Bay of Quinte League scheduled for Radio Station CJBQ Monday night. The boys hope to get away to a good start. Grab Two Victories, Tie One In First Series of Season; Dodgers Win Fourth in Row

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Today the Phillies clutch a half-game lead in the National League, all that remains of the 2½-game bulge they grossly owned when the Cardinals flew in from St. Louis three nights ago.

The Cards got two victories and a tie in their first three meetings of the season with the league leaders. St. Louis clipped one game off the Phils Tuesday with a 7-5 edge over Jim Konstanty and his successors. Wednesday night the Cards beat Curt Simmons 1-0 in 10 innings.

Thursday night they battled Robin Roberts to a 1-1 tie until rain ended the game after five innings. Ray Jablonski homered in the second inning to put St. Louis in front, but the Phils came back for one in their half of the second on a pair of singles and an infield out. The teams will have to start all over later in the season.

Giants Snap Streak

Brooklyn Dodgers won their fourth straight during the afternoon as they trounced the Cincinnati Reds 7-4. New York Giants snapped a three-game losing streak with a 1-0 squeaker over Milwaukee and Pittsburgh edged Chicago 4-3 in other National League action.

In the American League New York Yankees whipped Chicago White Sox 4-1 and Cleveland Indians defeated Washington 3-1. Philadelphia's game at Detroit was rained out. Boston and Baltimore weren't scheduled.

The Yankees, who got soaked $450 in fines for their part in the melee in St. Louis Tuesday night, found themselves involved in another small ruckus in Chicago.

Mickey Mantle has been hitting his home runs so far that t... let us doubt, but at Comiskey Park in the fourth inning, he belted one short which the White Sox had a lot of doubts. The ball bounced back on to the field after a boy with more desire than talent made an unsuccessful stab at catching it. Umpire Jim Duffy waved Mantle around and, when Chicago manager Paul Richards heeled too many feet for his decision, he was tossed out of the game. Young Will Renna, up from Kansas City homered, tripled and singled in four trips. The husky righthander was playing left field for Gene Woodling, who was hurt by Elliott took the runs batted-in lead in the American League Thursday night with a three-run home run, all the runs needed to beat Washington.

The drive broke up a pitching duel between Chuck Stobbs and Virgil Trucks, who gave up only three hits to the Senators.

Brooklyn spotted Cincinnati two runs in the first inning and then caught up fast as Duke Snider homered in the Dodger half of the first with Peewee Reese on base. Brooklyn went ahead to stay in the second inning with four more runs.

At Pittsburgh, rookie Frank Thomas broke up a 3-3 tie in the last of the ninth when he homered with Ralph Kiner on base to end the game.

At New York, Bobby Thomson, who became a permanent Giant favorite when he won the decisive game of the 1951 playoff series against Brooklyn with a ninth-inning home run, provided a considerably shorter duplicate to break up the game with Milwaukee.

Thomson's blow, only the fifth hit off Bickford, hit the top of the short left field wall and bounced into the stands. Sal Maglie pitched his first complete game of the season in picking up his second victory. He's lost one.

Ottawa Downs Syracuse Chiefs By 7-5 Score

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ottawa Athletics Thursday night downed Syracuse Chiefs 7-5 in the only game scheduled in the International Baseball League to make their record read two wins and two losses for a .500 average and fourth place in league standings.

The Athletics didn't do well on the road, but seemingly play well for the hometown fans—only 2,000 turned out Thursday night because of cold, windy weather—having won both their home games to date.

The Athletics take on the sixth-place Chiefs again tonight; the league-leading Montreal Royals meet seventh-place Rochester; second-place Toronto plays host to cellar-dwelling Springfield; and fifth-place Baltimore plays third-place Buffalo at Buffalo.

In Thursday night's single offering, the Chiefs tied the game 4-4 in the seventh only to be beaten in the bottom half of the same inning.

Lou Limmer singled in Wall Rogers who had walked; Dick Greco singled in another and came home on an error to add the clinchers.

Jim Bell, who took over for starter Vince Gobl in the seventh, got credit for his first win of the season and Syracuse's second pitcher, Art Hartley, was tabbed with the loss.

Kitchener Dutchmen Rack Up 2nd Straight Victory

Hand Penticton 8-3 Defeat In What West Coach Claims 'Was Worst Game of Season'

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—Penticton V's admitted Thursday night that the second game of the Allan Cup finals was a pretty bad show on their part.

The V's were defeated 8-3 by Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, who now hold a 2-0 lead in games in the best-of-seven series. The Dutchmen won the Thursday contest 5-4.

But the team was still optimistic. "We've been 2 before and we cast do it again," the players chorused in the near-silent dressing rooms.

They have their chance Saturday night in the third game of the series.

Can Beat Them

Kitchener Coach Bob Rafferty said his team will beat Kitchener if they keep driving, but neither he nor club president Bobby Bauer would say they would take the series in four straight.

With the exception of the last 10 minutes of the second period when Hicks ended the scoring, the Dutchmen relaxed after picking up a 5-1 lead, the game belonged to the eastern representatives.

The Dutchies led 2-0 at the end of the first and 5-3 at the second before adding three more in the final.

Harry Pavlika opened the scoring in the first period with a 50-foot screened shot on a pass from Bob Schnarr. Art Hurst angled a shot in for Dutchies' second goal.

In the second period, Charlie Brooker eliminated a Penticton play at 1:30. Angelo Delellio opened the scoring for the V's with a long shot, but Kitchener got that one back when Paul Oliver sank an other. Schnarr and Ron Berg made it 5-1 then Penticton's second goal came when Don Berry connected with Ernie Rucks' pass.

A two-way play gave Penticton its third goal when Frank Warwick finished off brother Bill's pass.

Clare Martin replied for the Dutchies in the third period. Doug Vealing added No. 7 and then Greig

Loyal St Boniface Fans Puzzled Can't Figure Out 3rd Period Slump

By AL VICKERY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — There's a sort of tense quietness across the Ed River in St. Boniface.

The one question being asked everywhere—the corner store, the barber shop, around the city hall —is:

"What's happening to our Canadiens in that third period?"

Most of the fans to whom the question is directed just shrug their shoulders. There simply doesn't seem to be any answer.

In the first two games of the best-of-seven Memorial Cup final, St. Boniface Canadiens have blown leads to Barrie Flyers at play advanced in the third period.

Still Have Chances

With the game count 2-0 against them, the Montreal-sponsored team goes against the same Flyers Saturday night in the third contest, and the Habs' supporters are wondering if it will be the same old story.

The staunchest stalwarts are convinced Canadiens have a chance if they go all out for 60 minutes.

That some of the more impartial fans are saying:

"This Barrie club is too smart for the Canadiens. They score when they want to." Or "the Flyers let the Canadiens pace and burn themselves out, then they step out and make St. Boniface look silly."

It's hard to make the ardent St. Boniface fan swallow that one. Even the earlier playoff games against the Thunder Bay Junior Hockey League champions, Canadiens never slowed up in the final 20 minutes.

If coach Bryan Hextall can find the answer, his Canadiens may break the East's four-year-old stranglehold on the Canadian junior hockey championship. But the guy who's out to make the fast bock is convinced Canadiens haven't got it, and he's pointing as far as Saturday 3-to-1 and 4-to-1 odds Barrie will take it in four straight, which means the series would end in Winnipeg Monday night.

Hextall is going to ride along with the same line-up that took a 6-3 boarding in the second game at Brandon Wednesday night.

This leaves Ron Hextall in at defence in place of Bob Jassoe, who suffered a leg injury in the first game which the Canucks dropped 6-4. Defenceman Frank Holliday is nursing a bruised hip but will take his regular turn on the blueline.

In the other camp, coach Reg Kenny also plans to stick with his same line-up, using three defencemen and an extra forward.

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

The Major Periods are shown in boldface type. These begin at the times shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The Minor Periods, shown in regular type, are of approximately shorter duration. Dates include May 1st through May 10th. All times are on Daylight Saving Time.

'Gump' Worsley Prize Rookie Of Season

MONTREAL (CP) — Lorne (Gump) Worsley, pint-sized goalie for New York Rangers, was voted the National Hockey League's outstanding rookie of the 1952-53 season, the league announced today.

Worsley received 41 points to 36 for runner-up Gerrie Hannigan, Toronto Maple Leafs' forward. Eighteen hockey writers and broadcasters voted. Five points were awarded for first choice, three for second and one for third. Worsley received five firsts and Hannigan three.

Leo Boivin, Toronto defenceman, had 30 points, Eleven players received votes. Centremen George Armstrong, Ron Stewart, Eric Nesterenko and Bobby Hassard of Toronto; Harry Howell and Neil Strain of Rangers, and Warren Godfrey and Jerry Toppazzini of Boston.

In addition to the Calder Trophy as rookie of the year, Worsley gets, $1,000 from the NHL.

Carter Matched With Araujo In Title Bout

Carter floored Tommy Collins of Boston 10 times in less than four minutes last Friday in retaining the crown.

Norris said that Carter would receive 42½ per cent of the gate receipts and Araujo 17½. Negotiations now are under way regarding television and radio casts of the fight.

Suspend McPhail For 17 Days

BALTIMORE (AP)—Larry MacPhail was found guilty Thursday of conduct detrimental to horse racing during a short and stormy career as president of the Bowie track.

The Maryland racing commission suspended MacPhail. MacPhail failed to appear at a second hearing on the charges. His lawyer William D. MacMillian, said he was unable to offer any defence because he hadn't been able to locate Mac-Phail.

The commission ruled its April 14 order banning McPhail from racing at Bowie would be continued until after the spring meeting end ing Saturday. The punishment amounts to a 17-day suspension.

MacPhail was removed by the Bowie directors as president three days after the commission originally suspended him. The 3-year-old Bowie baseball magnate still faces police charges of drunk and disorderly conduct and assaulting a state trooper.

Both sets of charges arose from MacPhail's actions at Bowie Saturday, April 11.

The 'Ole Moaner' Celebrates Twenty-Fifth Columnar Year

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Twenty-five years ago next Monday Ted Reeve joined the Toronto Telegram as sports columnist on a look-see basis. "See how it goes and if it's no good we'll fire you," his publisher said.

Since that day—May 4, 1928—the Moaner and his "Sporting Extras," have been a must to thousands of readers, some of whom wouldn't know a squeeze play from a screen pass, an ear from a lacrosse stick. And he's one of the most authoritative sports columnists in North America.

The self-educated 51-year-old Ted with the rumpled black hair, big beak, black moustache, jutting jaw and perpetual slouch amiably mixes regular with irregular. Joe Jaap and Dickens, his dog, cat and horse are among the subject that intrigue his fancy. His long, narrow face peering mournfully out over his column is as well known as any personality in the country.

Versatile Writer

He can be as serious as a college professor, as light-hearted as a school kid and as folksy as a homespun philosophical humorist.

One woman who never misses a sports events, has been reading the Moaner for 25 years to enjoy his cracks as the cue he pulled about the marathon swimmer at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto who was in the water from 11 a.m. one day finished at 10:01 p.m. "Just too late to go through the buildings."

Last week, commenting on the pasting Boston's Tom Collins took from lightweight boxing champion Jimmy Carter, the Moaner wrote: "Tom Collins: Are not making the Tom Collins's as strong as they used to."

He has written millions of words and thousands have been written about him. His columns and scribbling days in football and lacrosse, his dead-pan humor, shaggy-dog approach, broken nose and bent bones and the everlasting wonder that such a "coot" could get into the Canadian Army as a gunner in the Second World War.

Typical Dogyard

His well-coordered dogyard provides many belly laughs. One verse, or "spasm" as he called it, from his "Twas the Christmas Eve" has been widely quoted. It goes like this:

The ochskayy, lagay, umray's gone and so is all the mooey;
We hope we'll see you a good time (we seemed to be quite funny).

But writing sport remarks today is much too much a job-o.

So we will borrow thirty cents and get us some catawba.

The Moaner packs his size-13 shoes under his paper-littered desk daily between 9:30 and 5 and in the stuffy Telegram sports department, smacks out 1,000 or so words and rids it a day before it runs. He seldom ponders over a sentence. He simply "listens a moment to the whirrings in his brain" and lets go, a fellow-writer once said of him. "From there he strikes out on downtown cafe for a bull session with 30 or so other sports drivers, bookmakers, sportsmen and businessmen and the Moaner keeps the joint jumping with a stream of dead-pan cracks. He has brought

25th Year

Ted (The Moaner) Reeve, 51, the humorous, authoritative writer of "Sporting Extras" in the Toronto Telegram, celebrates his 25th anniversary as a sport columnist with the paper May 4, 1953. His well-metered doggerel has brought many belly laughs, and his writing on sport are respected and his column is crowded with colorful characters and spontaneous wit. — (CP Photo) the place local fame by references in his columns to the Bowles A.C.

Vivid Imagination

And his imagination has brought fame to other places and characters.

There is Squawg Hollow, otherwise known as the east-end Beach district where Ted was born 51 years ago, 1902 and where he lives with his wife, the former Alvera Farrow Donaldson of Neepawa, Man., and his 13-year-old son Joe and five-year-old daughter, Susan.

He is Squawg Hollow's leading citizen and his book-cluttered living room is port-of-call for his friends, fellow newspaper men, old-time football and lacrosse players and writers. It is here also that Ted browses amongst the classics—Dickens, Shakespeare, Thackeray and the Encyclopaedia Britannica and other books that he has been reading since he was a 13-year-old munikon worker.

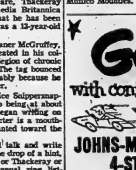
Then there is Moaner McGrufty, a character he created in his column to typify the legion of chronic sports pessimists. The tag bounced back on Ted, probably because he looks like a moaner.

There also is Alice Soipzempaper who came into being at about the time women began writing on sports. This character is a composite for items slanted toward the distaff side.

The Moaner will talk and write about football at the drop of a hint, quote Dickens' wisdom or Thackeray or Nat Fleischer's annual ring listings and the Baseball Record with equal facility. He has a prodigious memory for detail and can drop a gag to fit any situation.

Reeve's father died when Ted was two and the Moaner went to work in a munitions factory at 13 to help out his mother who operated a little stationery store in the Beach district. On the shelves were such hoary books as the "Gem," "Nugget," "Chums" and "Boys' Own Annual" and newspapers with their sports pages and by-lined columnists.

Ted read them all, graduated to Dickens, Robert Louis Stevenson and other classics and these books were the basis of his education.



He played lacrosse and football with the Balmy Beach club when he was in his teens and gave up his active playing career in 1921. From that year until 1940 he coached football, six years at Queen's University where he won three intercollegiate championships; one season at McGill and in the Interprovincial Football Union; three with Beaches in two of which he won the Ontario Rugby Football Union title.

He was a great middle wing with Beaches and his specialty was blocking kicks—a manoeuvre that usually resulted in bruises, dislocated collar bones and other sundry injuries. In all, he has had nearly 30 broken bones.

He is said to be the worst-dressed sports columnist in the country, and he looks the part. He buys good, conservative suits but somehow or other when he gets his six-foot-one-inch 200-pound frame into them they take on that well-worn look.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

During my lecture tours they sometimes dump me off where there is a tournament. Of the first question I ask is "who is your partner?" If the answer is "nobody," I say "that's me."

At such a match our first two deals were against a mixed pair. I think they were married. At least, she was a revered elderly lady who dominated her partner in a possessive sort of way.

She took a look at me and said: "Oh, dear. We are just learning and this is our first duplicate tournament. Do we have to play these hands scientifically? I am deathly afraid of what you will do to us."

In the first deal, three of us passed. The lady hesitated, took a deep breath, and remarked: "This looks like a hand I should make a bid with. Don't spank me if I had better pass." And she did.

As all the other tables the players in her sect opened with a bid of some kind. Those sitting our way got a chance to stick in a defensive bid that makes two spades. We got an absolute bottom.

WEST	EAST
♠7 5	♠A 4 3 2
♥J 4 3	♥Q 9
♦J 8 7	♦K Q 5 4
♣A K 5 4 3	♣10 8 7

SOUTH
♠J 10 9 8 6
♥A 8 7
♦7 10 8 6
♣Q 7

♠K Q
♥K 10 8 7 5 3
♦9 7
♣9 8 7

The lady bid a diamond and her partner jumped to three no-trump, remarking: "If we don't make it we can always say the opposition was too strong for us at this table."

They made it so easily, all we had to do was help them score it which they did not know how to do. At all the other tables, it was played three hearts. Another cold bottom for us.

The next pair that came to our table exclaimed: "Oh, you are the man who is going to teach us bridge in the next three nights. We had better be careful not to overbid against you."

They stopped at four hearts when all other tables reached a slam that went down. Give me hockey. Opponents. Next time somebody gets scared of me, I am going to yell: "Tournament director."

GAINS DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Vivica Lindfors' husband won a divorce on testimony that she "was in love with another man." Movie director Donald Siegel also told a court Wednesday the Swedish actress was "quite talkman" by poking fun at western films he made. The couple married in Paris in 1949.

The Arctic ocean covers an area of 5,541,000 square miles, with maximum depth of 17,850 feet.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook it, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, MAY 2, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—You may have to hold back some excercise extreme care in financial matters. So sit tight.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—In auspicious rays for most endeavors other than routine tasks. Don't try to boss the job, or take on too much now.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Early hours are best. You are actutely capable and should progress in whatever you try in earnest during this day.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer)—By doing your work well you will have ample time to relax later. Don't let thoughtless acts or selfish person aggravate you at this time especially.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—It behoves you to stop, look and consider before acting. Stars suggest calm attitude this uncertain period. Control temper, the rest is easier.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Day's question: Are you making adequate allowance for carelessness, mistakes? Anyone can spend money and time, but the wise can save them.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Family and other duties often cause irritation over lack of appreciation, etc. Take such rebuffs in stride; refrain from arguing.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—May be a day in which outside affairs cause worry. Take things calmly; erase the slate at bedtime or it will cause sleeplessness.

November 23 to December 23 (Sagittarius)—Mind your chores conscientiously, take the blitter with the sweet philosophically. This sort of day may annoy in spots.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Watch how you approach people, present your affairs, carry on with solutions and decisions. Today may present some obstacles. Don't worry.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—There are a few problems to look into, and you will solve them readily. Act promptly, but not nervously.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Work fast, but carefully. Act with precision. Exercise extra care in domestic matters.

YOU BORN TODAY: Bright, pleasant personality. Keep it that way. Don't let irritation, intolerance spoil your disposition. Have recourse to prayer often. You have talent, for work before the public. Birthdate of: Harry Lillis (Bing) Crosby noted singer, actor, business magnate.

FOUR DAYS BEHIND

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States capital will go on daylight saving time-at 2 a.m. Thursday, four days behind most other eastern cities. The late shift was caused by failure of the House of Representatives to vote authority to move up the clocks until Monday. President Eisenhower signed the bill Tuesday.

BANCROFT
Nearly 200 C. G. I. T. Attend World Rally

BANCROFT — Ten members and one leader of St. Paul's United Church C.G.I.T. attended the World Friendship Rally at Madoc Junction on Saturday. The girls are : Beth Burgess, Sue Gordon, Audrey Leedy, Myrna Mather, Shirley Rae, Shirley Robinson, Donna Smith, Harolden Watson, Ann Weiss and Helen White.

The group were employed singsongs, meditations, discussion groups and activity. Nearly 200 girls attended the rally and many are looking forward to meeting again at summer camp.

PICTON
169 Homes Will Be Beautified By New Project

PICTON — A total of 169 farm homes in the township of South Marysburgh will be beautified as a result of a project inaugurated by Milford Farm Forum. Following a canvass, this number of persons agreed to purchase at least one flowering shrub, which will be planted on the lawn. It is expected to be the forerunner of a general beautification campaign. The suggestion was offered by Mrs. J. Minshall who had heard of a town in the United States which had become famous as a result of a similar plan.

The trees are being planted this week and next and will bloom will present a wonderful sight as the trees bear a profusion of blooms ranging in colors from white, pale pink to deep rose.

PICTON — Reeves of Prince Edward County municipalities received a cheque for $10,000 when they were advised by the Ontario Department of Highways that the their appropriations for road expenditures do not receive the approval of the department. In most cases, the appropriations as approved were ten percent less than the amount approved for subsidy last year.

Last year, Prince Edward County requested and received approval for $200,000. This year the requested amount was $200,000 and the amount now authorized is $178,000.

The town of Picton last year had its request for $75,000 granted. This year the sum was set at $80,000 in order to do paving, and another $7,500 had been approved. Townships fare in a similar manner.

Many municipalities have already made plans to spend the amount requested and so are being forced to stretch. One reeve expressed the question why there should be here when a government statement shows that the Legislature voted nearly two million dollars more for subsidies this year. Requests were up fourteen million and it is felt locally that amounts should at least have been as great as last year.

FRANKFORD

Sidney-Trenton C. C. E. Holds Convention in Trenton Church

Frankford — The annual convention of the Sidney and Trenton Council of Christian Education was held in the King Street United Church, Trenton, on Wednesday afternoon and evening. The delegates were most fortunate in having two capable speakers for the convention. Rev. Keith Daniel, of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, and Rev. Canon J. R. Cresgman, of Christ Church, both of Belleville.

Alkens United Church Sunday School was in charge of an impressive worship service to open the afternoon session. The service began with a call to worship, followed by a hymn and Scripture reading. This was followed by prayer and a story "Follow the Line."

S.S. Bible Readings

President Mrs. Warren Harlow of Alkens United Church Sunday School, welcomed one and all and introduced Rev. K. Daniel, representative of the Ontario Council of Christian Education. Rev. Daniel spoke on methods of Bible reading in the Sunday school. Several different methods were outlined and practical demonstrations given. His talk was most informative, and delegates were busy with pencil and paper, taking down notations on his suggestions.

The business of the meeting was dealt with. A detailed report of the council's activities was given by the secretary. Each department superintendent was called upon to give a resume of his or her year's activities in the respective departments. Roll call showed 14 Sunday Schools represented in the afternoon. Each Sunday School gave a report of outstanding activities during the past year. Many had highlights that deserve special mention, but perhaps the most outstanding report came from Centenary, a small rural Sunday School which contributed well over $200 toward Christian Missions, all being from free will offering.

Welcomed

Rev. Miscilly welcomed one and all to King St. Church.

During a short break for recreation, Mrs. M. B. Sine, of Scott's United Church, led in a Biblical contest which gave delegates some real memory work to do.

Mr. Daniel then spoke to the group again on the theme of the convention, "The Bible, Our Bible and My Bible." He pointed out that whereas people will have various tastes as to what portion of the Bible he or she likes, but the Bible has something for every person. Circumstances may change ideas about various passages of the Bible, but there is a portion of Scripture to suit every person in any situation.

Bible Discussion

The delegates and visitors were then divided into three groups, each under a capable leader, and they discussed three subjects: The Bible in Culture, The Bible in the Home, and the Bible in Personal Living. The three groups gave a report on their findings following a half hour of research in their respective departments. Many fine suggestions were brought forth in each.

The meeting then adjourned for the afternoon, and all retired to the church basement where a bountiful repast was served by the ladies of King Street Church.

Following the supper, the nominating and resolutions committee met. Mr. Daniel led in a round table discussion while gathered around the tables, at which time several Sunday Schools presented problems that faced them, and each was discussed and dealt with in turn. In his jovial manner, Mr. Daniel kept everyone laughing, but at the same time, he was getting across good concrete suggestions. He was thanked heartily for his splendid leadership.

Returning to the church again, first vice-president, Floyd McInnes, of Sidney Baptist Church, led in the song service. Batawa Sunday School then took charge of the evening worship, which opened with quiet music. The Scripture passage was read, and a fine talk on the convention theme.

Officers Elected

The report of the nominating committee was given and the following are the officers of the Sidney and Trenton Council of Christian Education for another year, honorary president, Farleigh Hamilton; president, Mrs. Warren Harlow; 1st vice-president, Floyd McInnes; 2nd vice-president, Sid Martin; secretary-treasurer, Gene Lohnes; Young Peoples' superintendent, Miss Barbara Brown; Children's superintendent, Mrs. Hudson Krchenson; Girls' superintendent, Mrs. Leonard Young; Boys' superintendent, Robert Smithrim; home department superintendent, Mrs. E. B. Fiske; Missionary department superintendent, Mrs. H. Jeffrey; Temperance, Mrs. M. B. Sine; press secretary, Gene Lohnes; leadership training superintendent, Rev. G. Puttenham; Bible Vacation Schools, Mrs. F. Ruckstuhl; nominating committee, David Hollinger (chairman), Sid Martin, Robert Smithrim, William Jeffrey and Lawrence Ketcheson.

The report of the resolutions committee was given. In addition to the courtesies extended, the committee urged more support by the Sunday School superintendents, and the school members of the various department superintendents, in order that they may give more complete reports at the conventions.

Plan Address

Canon J. Creegan of Christ Church in Belleville, evening representative of the O.C.C.E., gave a splendid address, "The Bible Lives Anew". He stated that something new could always be discovered in the Bible, no matter how much a person thought he or she knew the Bible. Likes and dislikes change with age and with circumstance, and a familiar passage of the Bible may take on new meaning in varied situations.

Mrs. Harlow spoke briefly to the convention, thanking all who attended, and asking their continued support in return, for her pledge to carry on to the best of her ability as president. She asked the prayers of members for the recovery of Mr. William Jeffrey of White's United Church, who is a patient in Belleville General Hospital. Mr. Jeffrey has been a faithful worker, not only in his own Sunday School and church, but in the S. and T.C.C.E.

Health Plan Will Assist Mothers, Disabled Persons

Federal Govt. Will Spend $42 Million in Next 5 Years

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government has mapped out a $212,000,000 health spending program for the next five years, including a three-way boost to aid disabled persons and mothers and their babies and to provide increased pay and other laboratory facilities for the sick.

The three-fold expansion, to cost $42,000,000 during the five years, was announced by Health Minister Martin as he initiated a Commons debate Friday on health department estimates. It was the biggest spending item in the federal health grants program since it was created by the late Prime Minister Mackenzie King in 1948.

Political Groups Agree

Spokesmen for all three opposition parties agreed, with varying qualifications, that the expansion was a step in the right direction, but the CCF suggested the government should have gone farther, while the National Social Credit spokesman, Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) said the Liberals have been promising health insurance since 1919.

Mr. Martin made the announcement just a few days before the 10th anniversary of the federal health program. He emphasized that Mr. King had stated in 1948 that the program represented "first stages in the development of a comprehensive health insurance plan for all Canada."

Greatest Expansion

The health-grants expansion will be gradual, Mr. Martin told the House. In the current fiscal year federal grants to the provinces will be boosted by a total of $5,300,000. This will grow to $28,800,000 a year by the fifth fiscal year: 1957-58.

Officials said this will increase federal grants to provinces by a total of about $212,000,000 during the next five years, as against $185,000,000 was made available in the last five years, but the annual rate rises from $130,000,000.

Grants went for such things as hospital construction, the purchase of drugs, medical training, and cancer and tuberculosis health care.

The three new stages of the national health plan are as follows:

1. Construction of new laboratories, including those in remote areas, to help the doctor diagnose ailments without having to go to medical centres in the big cities.

2. Health aid to rehabilitate disabled persons, such as those with legs or arms amputated, those with piegics, victims of accidents and others suffering body-crippling conditions.

3. Health aid for mothers and their babies, including more medical research on pregnancy, improved equipment for maternity wards in hospitals and increased construction of health clinics.

Dollar Per Doctor

To assist provinces will have to put up dollar for dollar with the federal government, but before their share and the federal grant is in others it will be a straight federal contribution. Under the plan provinces able by federal regulations.

The new health grants for the hospital services will be the most costly. Total grants for this will be about $4,200,000 in 1953-54, the annual maximum of $7,800,000 in the next five years.

Starting at 30 cents per capita, the grants in the provinces will rise to a maximum of 50 cents per capita in the fifth and succeeding years. The provinces will have to match dollar for dollar on federal aid.

In building these laboratories, said Mr. Martin, there is "no thought of setting up a centralization of personal health services."

"We do not want in Canada to see any barrier imposed between doctor and patient for that would lessen the doctor's effectiveness and the patient would unnecessarily suffer."

The grants to help the disabled will rise from a total of $500,000 in the current year to an annual maximum of $1,500,000 in 1954-55 and succeeding years. Provinces will share on the basis of $10,000 each, with the balance divided on the basis of population.

$750 Base Suggested

The money can be used to purchase such equipment as electrotherapy apparatus, whirlpool baths, remedial gymnastic apparatus and other special items to cor sct disabilities. It can also be used to help train professional rehabilitation workers.

Korean Veterans Get Steak Dinner On Return Home

The men, four of them stretcher cases, were given steak dinners, allowed to call relatives from mobile telephones brought to their bedsides and then settled down for a night's rest.

An air force spokesman said the precautions were the most ordered security conditions placed on the movement since the men had been "victims of Communist propaganda."

Maj. James Campbell, public information officer at Valley Forge, said the secrecy was the main reason for the security measures was "simply that the men were both tired and ill and all had expressed a desire not to be interviewed."

Fingers Replace Knives and Forks At Dream Feast

COLCHESTER, Eng. (Reuters) —Fingers and jackknives, supplied by the guests served as cutlery when the Essex county branch of the lety held its centenary banquet here Friday night.

And, to prove that austerity British perhaps isn't so austere, the banquet included:

Peacock, boar's head, game pie and pottage;

The peacock's head was carved and served on wooden platters. Since the banquet the company has used carving with pocket knives, pages were in attendance with rosewater and towels.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: A series of disturbances moving from southern northwestern United States has caused cloudy skies and occasional rain in most parts of Ontario since Thursday evening. Numerous thunderstorms occurred over southern sections of the lakes. South of a frost hystatisticary along Lake Erie temperatures rose to the mid-70s Friday.

Little change in weather is forecast for Ontario over the week-end. Showers are expected over lown this morning, moving northeast, threatening to bring showers into southern regions again today. Clearing is expected by Sunday evening.

CALGARY (CP)—The 1st battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, has given birth to learning jump technique which returned it to prominence as one of the top airborne units in North America.

For the last two years the battalion has been fighting an infantry-type war in the hills of northern Korea.

The reunion behind the extensive training is part of Canadian defence plans to have the unit ready to take over the airborne commitment from the Patricias' sister battalion, which will see service with the 27th infantry brigade in Germany.

"We expect to be back at our former peak very shortly," says Major R. B. Mainprize, airborne training officer. "Once a man has mastered the jumper he just needs a slight refresher to get back to his old standard.

"They're a little rusty on their flight control but after one jump they're right back in the swing of things. They're keen as mad to get their jumping hasn't deteriorated from their Korean service."

However, the troops don't start actual jumps immediately. A series of ground and other training devices take the men, veterans and rookies alike, through the entire training routine.

The training includes the training in preparation for the airborne training school at Rivers, Man. For the veterans it's a refresher to get the kinks out and remind them to keep their feet together.

A mock-up plane provides a free-fall jump to static below. Troops draw their mates up on ropes and harness to practise control of chutes.

Instructors recall that there have been soldiers who refused to jump from the tower but would jump from an aircraft without a qualm, where I lived." Nehru exclaimed.

COMMUNISTS ASK ONE-DAY RECESS IN TRUCE TALKS

Name Asian Countries As 'Custody' Nations

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Communists today asked for a one-day recess in the Korean truce talks after naming four Asian countries which they consider qualified to take custody of war prisoners who refuse to go home.

The Allies agreed to skip Sunday's session.

North Korean Gen. Nam Il said India, Pakistan, Burma and Indonesia might be considered neutral countries to act as the umpire for 48,000 prisoners who balk at returning to their Communist homelands.

Lt.-Gen. William K. Harrison replied that the Allies could not accept the neutral status of the prisoners in Korea until their fate is decided.

Asked whether any of the four Asian signers named by the Reds would be acceptable, the senior Allied delegate said:

"That is a matter to be settled on levels of higher rank."

Washington officials were quoted as saying it was possible the Allies would accept either the Pakistan or India as the neutral to take custody of the prisoners in Korea.

However, informed sources said the U.S. does not like this policy other than that Sweden and Switzerland be considered neutrals. Both nations have rejected Switzerland. The UN suggested Sweden Friday, but the Communists rejected it.

The Communists asked the one-day recess without explanation, but they set a bitter 65-minute meeting.

Meanwhile, the UN Command following a fanatical, clothes-ripping demonstration at Panmunjom by a band of hard-core Red Interpretates—warily prepared to wind up delivery of disabled, North Korean and Chinese prisoners Sunday.

A total of 76 Reds, including 31 Chinese, will be returned, making the final total 6,670. That's roughly five more than the Communists promised.

Nam repeated at the opening of Saturday's session the Red contention that the UN first agree to send balky prisoners out of Korea before the fate of the 22 Americans is named.

Harrison, in his interest, that it is obviously impractical" to ship captives to far-away Europe.

Nam replied that the term "impractical" to ship prisoners "overseas," was unfair.

"The only difference (between Europe and Asia) is that (Asia is our country) is the short period of actual travel on the sea. Yet you have raised this point as the crucial matter."

The only "reasonable solution," Harrison declared, was to keep prisoners in Korea until their fate is ironed out.

Ex-Athlete, Soldier Passes in Brockville

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Lt.-Col. Charles Wilfrid Stillwell, 80, prominent for many years in Brockville civic and athletic circles, died in hospital Friday.

A native of Brockville, he was a member of the Queen's University team which defeated Montreal Victoria Rugby football team for the championship of Canada in 1894 and 1895. He later played with Brockville in the old Quebec Rugby Football Union.

A Negro mother and child were injured and "four or five" others treated in first aid tents today as the raging winds bounded toward the east.

The storm smashed a cluster of homes near Ashland just as night fell, killing seven persons in three family groups.

The blasting winds had an accompanying lightning storm knocked out all electric power at Ashland. The city's only radio station was hospital were treated by candlelight.

Two of the dead and four other members of the family who survived, though badly injured, were blown from their home into a ditch.

Some 24 persons were caught in a concrete block store when the roof collapsed, but only one was injured. The roof fell upon a pinball truck and gave the occupants space to crawl to safety.

Seven Killed, Twelve Injured As Tornadoes Rip Southland For Second Successive Day

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Spring tornadoes' roaring through the South for the second straight day killed seven persons and left at least 12 others injured Friday in Alabama.

The deadly funnels of destruction danced along a 40-mile path in north-central Alabama, striking a shattering blow near Cullman, where one day after Warner Robins, Ga., was ravaged by a twister that left 18 dead. Between 230 and 300 persons were injured there, and damage was estimated at $15,000,000.

Two highway patrol officers said a tornado spread near Cullen, a miles south of Birmingham.

They watched it form and begin to pick things up," related W. L. Allen. "When it got too close to us, we ran like hell."

Princess Pats Back in Line Again Find Old Positions Badly Broken During Absence

By BILL ROSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (Delayed by Censor) —(CP)—The 3rd Patricias, soon to become the "veterans" of the Canadian Army here, are back in the line for the second time.

They returned to the front, after more than two months in reserve, Monday, April 27, relieving the 1st battalion, Royal Thirteenth Foot United States infantry division.

The battalion is under command following a fanatical, clothes-ripping demonstration at Panmunjom by a band of hard-core Red Interpretates—warily prepared to wind up delivery of disabled, North Korean and Chinese prisoners Sunday.

In Edmonton Stillwell was on the staff of Strathcona Horse regimental command, when Maj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington was commander. Stillwell, then lieutenant-colonel of the U.S. 6th army at San Francisco, became a firm friend of the Worthington family, and after the Patricias were organized in 1914 he made a point of calling at their headquarters to renew acquaintance with Lieut.-Col. Peter Worthington, son of the general and now intelligence officer of the battalion.

Sign Displeases Premier Nehru

Not that I mind said Nehru, but one' sear it. He was visiting a former British prison fortress here where he served a jail term from 1942 to 1945 for agitating against Britain.

Officials hastened to point out they had made a careful check of the records before setting up the commemorative plaque.

WHITEHORSE, Y. T. (CP)—Glen Donald Smith, 21, Friday was sentenced to death for murder in the death of a taxi driver who was found through the head by one of his passengers.

The youth was sentenced by Mr. Justice J. O. Gibben to die on the gallows July 10 for the death of Charles Okros.

Caruso was killed Aug. 11 last year after he was given orders to drive to a point 20 miles from a destination far to the south in British Columbia.

Most of the testimony at the five-day trial revolved around who fired the shot that killed Caruso—Smith or his companion Eric Hamilton.

Malmsten also faces a charge of manslaughter in the death of Caruso, alleged to go on trial here May 4.

Britain Develops Plane Needing No Take-off Room

LONDON (AP)—Britain has an experimental rocket-propelled aircraft which shoots vertically into the air without the necessity for a take-off.

Trials with the VTO first took place from a base near the Welsh coast in 1949, the Fairey company announced today.

The company did not disclose the plane's range, speed or flying time.

Brother of Queen Mother Dies

SOUTHHILL, England. (Reuters) —Michael Bowes-Lyon, 59, brother of the Queen Mother, died at his home here Thursday, it was announced today.

He was the Earl of Strathmore, he was vice-lieutenant of Bedfordshire—an honorary post.

He fought in the First World War and was taken prisoner. Though his sister became Queen, he took little part in the activities of the royal household.

He held no title but as the son of an earl was entitled to prefix his name with the honorable.

RED SUCCESSES RAISE NEW FEARS IN INDO-CHINA

Rubber-Rich Malaya Believed Objective

By WILLIAM PARROTT

SINGAPORE (Reuters) — The Communist sweep through Laos has ignited fears here that its eventual objective is rubber-rich Malaya and conquest of Southeast Asia.

Failure of French forces to halt the 19-day offensive in Indo-China has already given a boost to Communist openings in Southeast Asian countries.

Qualified British sources said the big Red successes have probably made it impossible for the French to continue their campaign without reinforcements from outside the area of the conflict—a Southeast Asian state organization of Britain, France, Thailand, Indo-China and China.

Others Attractive Appeal

The success and build a state might appeal to thousands of people of Thai origin scattered in this region. But the boundaries have never been clearly drawn.

On the map, the northernmost tip of Yunnan points a gnarled finger into Burma, Laos and Thailand through Laos to Thailand and Malaya. Touching the finger on the west is the Burma province of Kengtung.

Reference said the "subnomous government" with probably agitate for a "free" Thai movement. All the neighborhood and might even call upon the Viet-minh for help. Nuclear Thais, as well as "volunteers" in helping to liberate the area.

It was understood here that Britain has repeatedly warned the Thailand government that the first sight months to prepare for a possible Communist invasion. Exactly this week, Communist China's radio accused Premier Phibul Songkram's government of preparing to invade Indo-China under French and American guidance.

Dr. Samuel Beatty New U. of T. Chancellor

TORONTO. (CP) — Dr. Samuel Beatty has been named by a special committee appointed to the new chancellor at the University of Toronto, it was reported Friday.

It is expected that his name will be formally put to the university senate and the board of governors tomorrow and officially announced Friday. He would succeed Governor-General Vincent Massey.

Dr. Beatty, one of Canada's leading educators, attended Owen Sound Collegiate Institute.

MORE PEOPLE'S POLICE

BERLIN (AP) — Another 315 Communist people's police fled to West Berlin during the month of April, West Berlin police headquarters announced today.

Vietminh Invaders All Set For Assault Against Royal City

Luangprabang Receives Strong French Assistance

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—Vietminh invaders steadily closed in two-column pincers on the tiny Laotian royal seat of Luangprabang today with every indication they would open an all out assault tomorrow.

A northern column of the Communist forces was pushing within less than a day's march of the town. Another from the east was reported 11 miles away.

French Union forces poured in reinforcements and supplies to bolster the troops of this little mountain kingdom of Laos, one of the three states making up the associated states of Indo-China.

Digging in with the help of Luangprabang's 6,000 inhabitants, the French command says the defenders will be able to hold off the outnumbering hordes of rebels with superior firepower.

Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh, the Vietminh leader, has promised that he will be thrown up to 40,000 troops—roughly four divisions—into the battle. This, which the French say is being supplied from Red China and is part of the Kremlin's over-all plan for conquest of southeast Asia.

A large part of these are moving into the 2,000 to 3,500-foot mountains flanking the Luangprabang road, through the Nam River, which skirts Luangprabang.

Other Vietminh troops, dropping jellied gas fire bombs and strafing, make up the main element holding up the Vietminh drive from the east. Laotians have pulled back from strong posts along the mountain routes after fighting defensive slow-down battles.

But the threatened attack on Luangprabang cannot be put off much longer. Its political, strategic value, capture of the residence of King Sisavang Vong overwhelmingly. Vong nevertheless would give the rebels tremendous prestige and open the way for them to install the sister kingdom of Cambodia.

STOCK CAR RACES ARE CANCELLED

The stock car races, scheduled for the Shannonville Speedway this afternoon have been cancelled, promoter Dick Burrows announced at noon today.

The conditions following the heavy rain this morning caused the cancellation.

COMPLAINTS MADE HOUSE BLOCKED ROAD

A rather - unusual complaint that a house was blocking a road was answered by provincial police Friday night.

Officers said they found a house that was being moved into the district blocking half of the roadway on the boundary between Sidney and Thurlow townships and north of College Street.

The owner was directed to get flares and was warned upon to have a man direct traffic around the obstacle. Directions were issued to have the home moved early today.

CHARGES WILL BE LAID AGAINST THREE MEN

Two charges of causing a disturbance and one of drunkenness will be laid against three young city men as result of a disturbance at Jury's restaurant on the Kingston road.

Police said they had been called to the above premises by the management. James Hodgkinson, St. Paul Street, was apprehended and charged with being drunk, while two companions Ray Hadden, Simcoe Street South, and Bruce Wood, College St., were charged with causing a disturbance and using profane language.

Newt Wilbur Opens New Men's Clothing Store

A well-known name in business, social and sports activities in the city, Newt Wilbur today opened his own business on Bridge Street East.

Mr. Wilbur, who arrived in the city at the age of 18 years, has lived here ever since, will operate a men's clothing store planned in the tastes of the city and district buying public.

The premises have been attractively redecorated. The wallpaper is in gold, black and gray, while the floor is tiled. The furniture, likewise, is gray.

Mr. Wilbur is past president of the Kinsmen Club, a Mason and a member of Bridge Street United Church. He was outstanding for years in his work with midget hockey teams.

He first entered the clothing business as an employee of the Thomas Ritchie Company, later joined Tip Top Tailors for 14 years and for the past 3 years was manager of the Esquire For Men clothing store.

Mr. Wilbur is married to the former Miss Ruth Bunbury, and has a daughter, Beth, in her final year in Collegiate.

Quick Action by Police Officer Saves Garage from Destruction

TRENTON (Special) — Provincial Constable Lorne Stinson, of the Brighton detachment, is credited with preventing badly fire loss at Brighton yesterday when he backed a blazing police cruiser from a garage saving the building from almost certain destruction.

The police cruiser was almost a complete loss with the inside of the vehicle being burned out and the rear end torn apart as result of an explosion which ripped the car apart seconds after it was backed from the garage.

The police cruiser had been taken to Branscombe's garage to repairs and Ross Branscombe was working in the rear section of the frame when grease and oil on the under part of the car caught fire. Two fire extinguishers failed to extinguish the fire and with the flames mounting rapidly Constable Stinson jumped into the burning vehicle and backed it into the open yard.

Seconds after the constable had jumped from the blazing car the gas tank exploded tearing the car apart.

The Brighton fire department was called and extinguished the fire.

Today Cpl. L. Lyle, at Brighton, paid tribute to Constable Stinson, whose action in backing the car from the garage was credited with saving the building from destruction.

L. E. Mills at 101 Feels He's 'Over the Hump'

BARRIE (CP) —The records say L. E. Mills was 101 yesterday. But, Mr. Mills says he's 102, and adds:

"Another or other the paper went astray, but what's one year when there are a hundred-odd involved."

Known to Big Island in the Bay of Quinte, the son of a Wesleyan Methodist minister, Mr. Mills credits his claim to existing with his long and happy life.

He operated a general store in Shannonville, eight miles west of Belleville, until he was 97 and retired from business after an attack of pneumonia.

Mr. Mills says the birthday means he's "over the hump."

DIES IN HIGHWAY CRASH

BRANTFORD (CP)—Douglas L. Nicholson, 25-year-old Ontario worker, was killed Friday when his car collided with a light-delivery truck on No. 24 Highway about two miles north of here. Harry Cornell of St. George, driver of the truck, escaped with a head injury. Nicholson, a worker with the Citadian Coonstock Company in hydro conversion at Listowel, was en route to Scotland.

Brown of Tweed, one of the most outstanding exphullonist artists in Ontario, will render the selection "Silver Threads" and "The Holy City."

Colonel Sandeweter, chairman of the Salvation Army's Red Shield Appeal in Belleville, will give a short message on the eve of the launching of the 1953 appeal. Mrs. Lieut. Wm. Brown will close the broadcast with the beautiful "Hallelujah Chorus," as a pianoforte solo.

Two-Cent Drop In Egg Prices

Price of eggs took a two-cent increase on the local produce market today as farmers quoted 60 cents per dozen for fresh and 58 for cooking.

Attendance on the market was slim as it was the first day for both farmers and customers away.

Transplanting stocks began to make their appearances in greater variety. Tomato and cabbage plants were quoted at 35 cents per small flat. Pansies in flower sold at 25 cents per box and other flowers at 35 cents per flat.

Raspberries sold at 25 per hundred canes, or at a dime each. Strawberries were $2 per hundred.

Spring broilers sold at 35 cents per pound with 30 cents per pound being the general price for mature birds.

Potatoes were $2 per bag or 35 cents for 10 pounds. Rhubarb, onions and lettuce were a dime per bunch.

Fewer apples are being offered each Saturday with McIntosh, Spies, Delicious selling at 35 cents to 90 cents per basket.

Obituary

WILLIAM ROY HINCHEY (128 Dufferin Ave.)

An active sports fan and in younger days, an active sportsman himself, William Roy Hinchey, of 128 Dufferin Avenue, died suddenly on Friday noon at his home. He was 61 at the time of his death.

Associated with the Belleville postal department for 25 years, the deceased was born in this city, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Hinchey. He was later employed with Goodman's Store for Men.

A member of St. Andrew's Church and Eureka Lodge, A.F. and A.M., No. 283, Mr. Hinchey is survived by his wife, the former Lillian May Aston; a son, Robert, of Belleville; two daughters, Mrs. John (Jeanne) Murray, of Peterborough, and Miss Margaret Lillian Hinchey, of Vancouver. An uncle, Burton Hinchey, also resident in the city, well known bandmaster of the city, died a few months ago.

Interment was in Belleville cemetery.

Slashing of Govt. Appropriations Likely to Cancel Plans for Bridge

Construction of the proposed Glen Miller bridge by Hastings county roads and bridges committee may not go ahead this year as result of the Ontario Department of Highways slashing 1953 road appropriations.

The Hastings county road budget for this year has been slashed by the Highways Department from $254,000 to $200,000 while most municipalities in the county also had their road budgets cut.

The Prince Edward county road budget was cut by the department from $300,000 to $178,000.

County and municipal officials expressed disappointment over road budgets being cut, pointing out that many of the municipalities in the county are maintained by way of purchasing new equipment. Many others had planned hard surfacing of roads.

Although they declined to commit themselves, Hastings county officials said it was their understanding that the Glen Miller bridge, which the county appraised at its April session, would not be constructed as result of the cut in road appropriations.

Instead there is some suggestion that local traffic would be permitted to use the new highway bridge across the Trent River planned in connection with the four-lane highway proposed for construction north of Trenton and Belleville.

Previously the highways department had stated that local traffic would not be permitted to use the highway bridge when it was built.

Slippery Roads Cause Series Of Accidents

Highway accidents resulting from wet and slippery pavements were a dime a dozen last night as provincial police reported a series of mishaps which resulted in heavy property damage but no injuries to occupants of cars.

Robt. Anglin, Kingston, driving on No. 16 highway south of Stirling, said his car struck a bump throwing the vehicle out of control. The car flipped over, went across the ditch and through a fence on the Craigleat farm.

George McLean of Foxboro, attempted to pass another car south of that village when the rear of his car skidded on the wet pavement and went into the ditch, striking a rock.

Several minor accidents were reported also by city police.

WILD GOOSE CHASE

TRENTON (CP) — A citizen's report of seeing a plane chasing two wild geese across the city of Trenton sent an RCAF orderly officer on a wild goose chase. Pilots at the air force base here said they had seen no geese.

Mother and Missionary Daughter Are Re-united After Four-Year Separation

A mother and daughter were re-united in Middleton Park this week after travelling a total of 20,000 miles by land, sea and air.

Miss Laura Steele came from Condominas, Anglo - Egyptian Sudan to be met by her mother, who travelled with Mrs. Brandon, Man. The family re-union took place at the home of Miss Steele's brother and sister-in-law, LAC and Mrs. A. L. Steele, at 94 Hyman St.

The mother and daughter separation of four years ended with Miss Steele's return to Canada for a year's leave of absence from her duties with the Sudan Interior Mission headquarters at Omdurman, on the city of Khartoum, mainly Sudanese who follow the Moslem faith, is across the Nile River from Omdurman. Included for one of the most notable events in British Imperial history —the siege of 1885 by General Charels Gordon.

Missionary Student

So...ne ten years ago, Miss Steele who had been working as a Winnipeg insurance office as a stenographer for three years heard a missionary speak on the work in various parts of the world. She applied immediately after the talk for enrolment in the Three Hills Alberta Prairie Bible Institute where she studied for four years. Following a three-month course in linguistics to give her an understanding of the basic fundamentals of languages, she was sent to a mission board in Toronto for a brief period. Then followed a speaking tour of churches in New Brunswick and her final acceptance as a mission-ary to the Sudan.

She reported that, today there are some 1,000 inter-denomina-tional and international mission-ary workers in the Nigeria, Bel-gian Congo, French West African, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, Ethiopia and Aden areas.

Miss Steele's enthusiasm for her work in the Sudan can be summed up in her own words: "I didn't care where they sent me, so long as I could go to teach the Bible to the people.

Her work in Africa was con-fined mainly to the missionary headquarters where she worked as a bookkeeper and arranged for the needs of missionaries in out-lying districts. In her spare time she visited the Sudanese people in their homes telling them the story of the Bible to them in the Arabic tongue which she mastered during her stay in the district. "The people were very hospitable and glad to have you come in," she replied when searched as to the friendliness of the Sudanese.

Primitive Homes

The homes she visited were square mud huts which occasion-ally had windows and doors, but as a general rule the entrance was merely an archway and the win-dows were just bare openings in the sides of the huts. Some huts of rooms depends on the male members in the family. Where there are a large number of men in one family there will be a large number of rooms, and in each man in the house is entitled to a room of his own. The women must all live in one room.

Women in Condominas do not have the privileges they have in Middleton Park. The men eat first and the wives and girls may have what is left over. There are no floors in the houses. Well-kept dirt serves the purpose and is kept clean with a large coarse broom. A husband may have four wives and should he tire of one of them he has only to swear be-fore three witnesses that "I di-vorce thee" and the wife must then go back to her mother.

Miss Steele also overcame a dress or "robe" of the type worn by Sudanese women. She donned the dress before her family to demonstrate the way it is worn. The white linen garment is encir-cled at the edges and down the front with no more than an extra long and fancy bed sheet with a width of five feet and a length of fifteen feet. Over the head the fif-teen feet is placed and-re the right shoulder and under the left at the height of a person. Miss Steele learned quickly that twice in order to wind the material about her slim figure, then with a flick of her wrist she draped the remaining material over her right shoulder. The loose end was then tucked be-hind back, over her face and finally ov-er her head. In one piece of mat-erial the Sudanese women have a dress, veil and hat.

Practise Rearrive

To beautify their faces, Sudan-ese women have three scars cut down their cheeks when they are young girls. "The government is doing all they can to ban some of these strange customs, but it is a long slow process," Miss Steele remarked. Their lips and ears are pierced and they wear their wed-ding rings on their right nostrils.

Two of the main problems Miss Steele faced during her stay was making herself understood to the natives and getting used to the un-bearably dry desert heat. The tem-perature never goes below 102 degrees and during the hot season temperatures as high as 125 de-grees have been recorded. She kept a record of the water she consumed one day and it amounted to nineteen large tumblerfull — and she was still thirsty. The house in which Miss Steele and her fellow workers lived was mod-ern with running water and elec-tricity.

A great deal of Red propaganda is carried on in Omdurman with written messages on the walls of buildings and enclosures which surround the houses so that the women will not be seen.

Miss Steele hopes to go back to the Sudan area when her leave expires but she reports that fu-ture plans of the 50 missionaries, four of which are Canadian, de-pends on the choice the Sudan-ese make for or against inde-pendence in three years' time.

Miss Steele left today for Tor-onto where she will report for a routine medical prior to return-ing to Brandon with her mother.

Wellington on the Lake

THE CALL OF THE COUNTRY

Don't you hear the call of the country
All you who are dwelling in town?
Don't you hear the Spring winds calling
O'er the hills all barren and brown?
Don't you hear the rivulet's music
And the robin's liquid note?
Don't you hear the music swelling
From each feathered songster's throat?

Don't you hear the crows a-cawing
And the killdeer over the lea?
Don't you hear the river singing
As it merrily runs to the sea?
And the winds in the woods are calling
How they lure and laugh as they sing—
"Oh! leave the toil of the city Come, gather the flowers of Spring."

— Heien B. Anderson

Wellington — Miss Carman, one of Canada's great poets, wrote: "There is something in the autumn sets our glory blood astir;" but there something in the springtime that calls us to the country with its wide open spaces, its rushing freshet streams and its woodland flowers. While the earth is waking to new life, we, too, feel the impulse of the spring.

Mrs. Leona Whyte, Trenton, spent Tuesday the guest of Miss Susan E. Blakely, Wellington.

Mr. Walter, merchant of East Wellington, is preparing for the tourist season by erecting a new cottage. He already has several fine cottages on his shore.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Carley Honored

On Thursday evening, April 23, the teachers of Wellington schools entertained Mr. Elmer Carley and his bride (nee Miss Beryl Hewitt) at a turkey din-ner at Ivanhoeanna. Gifts were presented to the happy couple who expressed their grate-ful appreciation. Mrs. Carley is a teacher in the W.C. school.

The April meeting of the W.A. of Wellington United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Boyce Wiltse on Tuesday afternoon.

Post-Nuptial Shower

On Saturday evening, April 25, the schoolroom at Melville was the scene of a happy gathering when Mr. Donald Root and his bride (nee Miss Fern Davis) were honored by a post-nuptial shower. An address was read by Mrs. Arnold Cruickshank and Don and Fern expressed their thanks for the gifts. A nice so-cial evening with refreshments followed.

Presentations and Address

On the evening of April 24 a pleasant social evening was held at Legion hall, sponsored by Mrs. George Bailley, Mrs. John Watt and Mrs. Norman Allison in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Vandervaart and family, who have recently removed from their Hillier farm to reside in Well-ington. An address of appreci-ation, signed by John Watt and Donald Bailley, was read by Mrs.

CIVIL DEFENCE

"The Atomic Bomb"

By JACK BRETT

Although it would seem as if an atomic bomb dropped any-where on the city is about the last thing in the world that could possibly happen, it certainly is not beyond the realm of pos-sibility. It is not however, the purpose of this article to discuss the probabilities of such an at-tack, but rather to point out to the public what might and what should such an occurrence take place.

To begin with, It has been shown through experiments made in deserts of the United States and through bombs de-tonated in the Pacific and that two dropped upon Hiroshima and Nagasaki Japan, there are two methods of getting off an atomic explosion. The first, and report-ed to be the most effective of the entire catalogue, is the "air burst." Believed to be detonated at a height of 2,000 feet above the target, the bomb will bring about the collapse, or 100 per cent structural damage, to all homes within a radius of one-and-a-half miles or within a diameter of three miles.

Could Destroy City

Therefore, assuming city hall to be the centre of the target, relying on information received from the defence research de-partment the diameter of Belle-ville, to take in all homes and dwellings, is three miles. It is now only a simple question of mathematics to realize, an air burst bomb, dropped above the city, would completely level all the homes in the city.

However, complete structural damage would be restricted to all homes of normal construction. In the case of multi-storeys, re-inforced concrete and steel frame structures, damage, com-plete leveling would be held to less than one-fifth of a mile. With one-storey, heavy steel frame factory structures, com-plete damage would be limited to all these within a radius of slightly more than 2,000 feet. One-storey light frame factory structures would be levelled within a radius of more than half a mile and load-bearing brick structures would realize complete destruction in more than a mile radius.

Continuing with the effects of the air burst, we arrive at the damage that would have been done to all animal life in the area which in-cludes humans. It has been revealed through study, those not killed by direct force of the actual explosion would die from radiation burns, providing, of course, they were within the fatal limits.

When speaking of a radius, we refer to it from what is called "ground zero," or the actual cen-tre of the explosion. From now on, in all future articles, the writer is to assume that the radius is taken from the centre of the ex-plosion and that shall henceforth be referred to as "ground zero."

Burns Inflicted

Still on the subject of the air burst, (ground zero being in this instance the point on the ground directly beneath where the bomb explodes in the air) all unprotected persons or animals within one-half mile radius would in theory, acquire fatal burns. Persons in un-protected areas, within a radius of 4,500 feet not killed by burns would have third degree burns. From almost a mile and a half, they would suffer second de-gree burns and from that point on there would be only minor and insignificant burns, appearing on the skin.

Returning to the blast effects on structures, these are due mainly to air blast in the case of air burst bombs in air blast and some ground shock in the case of the ground burst bomb.

In the matter of shelters from the air burst, many casualties may be caused indirectly through the collapse of buildings and by fly-ing debris and glass although the actual direct effect of the blast from the bomb may be small. Un-derground shelters will afford good protection against air blast effects. Basements of structures, especially reinforced concrete, multistorey, steel-frame buildings, some distance from ground zero may afford fair to good protection provided precautions are taken against flying glass, debris, etc. There is however, the risk that people may be trapped in the basement by the collapse of the structure and subsequently burn-ed in fires started in the ruins.

Radiation Effects

Major radiation effects would result from extremely penetrat-ing radiation known as gamma radiation, which always has ac-companies any known atomic ex-plosion. It is quite possible there would be some slight secondary effects from the residual radia-tion emitted by highly radio-active fission products though with an air burst, practically all fission products will be car-ried high into the air to be scattered harmlessly later in considerable distance from ground zero.

Some protection against radia-tion would be afforded by mater-ials such as concrete, steel or even earth. Of course, protection would depend on the degree of thickness of the protection.

There are three other means of atomic bomb detonation, ground burst, underground and underwater. Since it is unlikely any of the enemy are likely to sneak into the city and bury a bomb beneath city hall and since it is equally as unlikely any citizen of this city is going to permit the installation of such a missile under the waters of the Moira River or the Bay of Quinte these will not be dealt with. However, of great import-ance is the ground burst bomb.

On explosion of the ground burst bomb, a crater, some 300 feet in radius is caused, causing appreciable ground shock. Most damage will result from air blasts. Generally speaking, the effects of the ground burst air blast would be much less than the air burst blasts. Initial radia-tion effects from this type of detonation would result in 95 per cent deaths within a radius of slightly more than half a mile. Up to 4,000 feet from ground zero on all sides, 50 per cent deaths may be recorded and after that point no one would be likely to die from the radiation effects.

Next week, in this column, on Saturday, May 9, the effect of a high explosive bomb on the city of Belleville will be described in detail.

Weddings

AUCKLAND—PACE

At the home of the bride, the wedding took place on the evening of April 21st of Grace Lough Pace, and Auckland, son of Victor Auckland, of Saskatoon. Rev. K. J. Crawford B.A., B.D., of St. Andrew's United Church, was the officiating minister.

The attendants were Mrs. and Mrs. E. H. Bonter, of Belleville.

KELLETT—EDGAR

Easter lilies decorated St. Paul's Anglican Church, Dunnville, on Saturday, April 5, when Althea Mae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Balza Edgar, became the bride of Stanley Earl Kellett, Toronto, son of Mrs. Gladys Kellett, Belleville, and the late Calvin Kellett, at twelve o'clock noon. Canon F. K. Wash performed the ceremony.

Mr. Robert Haldane was at the organ, and played Greig's "I Love Thee" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attractive in a street length dress of silk shantung fashioned with a tiered skirt, and bodice with short sleeves and rhinestones. She wore a hat of natural straw, and carried yellow carnations and white hyacinth.

Mrs. Mark Baxter, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Miss Elizabeth Edgar, niece of the bride, was the junior bridesmaid. Mrs. Baxter wore a suit of air force blue with a white straw hat trimmed with maroon flowers and carried maroon carnations and white hyacinth. Miss Edgar was gowned in yellow nylon with a headdress of yellow, mauve and white flowers, and carried a nosegay to match.

Mr. Mark Baxter was the groomsman, and the ushers were, Mr. Donald Kellett, brother of the groom, and Mr. Maurice Edgar, brother of the bride.

A dinner for thirty guests was held at the Victoria Hotel after the ceremony. A two-liter wedding cake encircled with tulle and rose petals, and flanked with yellow mums graced the bride's table.

Later the bride's parents entertained at a cocktail party from four to six o'clock for about seventy-five to one hundred guests. The rooms were decorated with white snapdragons, tulips, daffodils, and iris, and white tapers.

For travelling to Buffalo and Ilyria, New York City the bride donned a navy blue suit with navy accessories, a blue-grey topcoat, and a corsage of yellow roses. They will reside in Toronto.

Guests were present from Belleville, Toronto, Fonthill, Welland, Niagara Falls, Detroit and Farmington, Mich.

MALTON—HOULDEN

Spring flowers decorated the home of Mr. C. W. Hick, Belleville, Ontario, for the wedding of her granddaughter, June Marion Houlden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Houlden, Cayley, Alta., to Mr. Murray Malton, Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Malton, Olds, Alta.

Rev. Harp Bowyer of Tabernacle United Church, performed the ceremony at three o'clock on the afternoon of April 19th, and Dr. Don Hogle gave his niece in marriage.

The bride wore an afternoon dress of blue and copper shot silk taffeta, with matching beaded hat of blue, and matching mitts. Her flowers were a shoulder spray of blue freesias.

The groom's sister, Miss Eleanor J. Malton, O.A.C., Guelph, was bridesmaid, wearing a turquoise shantung dress and beaded pink net and flowers, pink mitts and corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. Joseph F. Matergio, Toronto, was groomsman and Miss Joan Houlden, sister of the bride, was pianist.

Miss E. Malton sang "I'll Walk Beside You", at the reception.

Mrs. Hick received, wearing navy and white with navy accessories and corsage of orchid tinted carnations.

The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a nosegay of white flowers and bells. Roses, stocks and tulip circled the base which was flanked by blue candles. Mrs. S. McCarty, Foxboro, great aunt of the bride, presided at the tea table.

Those who served were the Misses Donna and Mary Anne Ray, and Cadet Sergeant, assisted by Mrs. C. Powell.

The bride's travelling costume was a navy coloured suit with hat, shortie coat, accessories of Bermuda tan and a corsage of Talisman roses.

ALEXANDER — McCLENNON

Beneath an arch of evergreens in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McClennon, of Wellington, on Wednesday, April 23rd, at 4.00 p.m., a pretty double-ring wedding was solemnized by Reverend F. C. Beazer, when Bernice Aileen McClennon, of Wellington, Ontario, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. McClennon, of Millier, became the bride of Walter William Alexander, of Kingston, son of Mrs. G. Alexander and the late Mr. George Alexander.

Mrs. F. Brimley, Sr., rendered the traditional bridal chorus.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Leonard McClennon, the bride was lovely in her floor-length bridal gown of white satin with double overskirt of nylon net having inserts of white Chantilly lace and featuring a fitted satin bodice with Chantilly lace long fitted sleeves, pointed over the hands, and Sweetheart neckline edged with moire or pearl sequins. She wore a Sweetheart headdress with double finger-tip veil trimmed with Chantilly lace, and carried a shower bouquet of red roses and white hyacinth bells tied with white and white satin streamers.

Miss Betty Dougall, of Kingston, was bridesmaid, gowned in pale green taffeta with double overskirt of nylon net and featuring a strapless bodice with matching fitted jacket of brocaded taffeta. Her headdress was a circlet of matching pale green flowers, and she carried pink roses tied with tulle and having pink satin streamers.

Mr. Harold Moore, of Trenton, attended the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held at the home, which was prettily decorated for the occasion with cut flowers of snapdragons; daffodils, hydrangeas, white streamers and white wedding bells.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Western Ontario, the bride chose a powder blue bengaline suit with white straw hat and navy blue trim, white nylon net with navy blue purse and shoes. Mr. and Mrs. Alexander will reside in Kingston, Ontario.

Guests were present from Toronto, Kingston and surrounding cities.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

Have you seen the new issue of three and four cent Canada stamps? They are among the poorest looking stamps we've ever seen. The four-center is a big ram's head in grey. The three-center is a big moose's head in a neutral gray-brown tone . . . Not only are the two stamps difficult to distinguish from each other at a glance, but surely we have something more arresting and pleasing in Canada than rams and moose.

We have wheat and oil and iron and industry. We have mountains and lakes and waterfalls. We have an army, an air force and a navy. In fact we have ever so much in the new Canada which could be suitably accented in our stamps.

It is a pity we have to appear dull to ourselves and to those of other countries who receive our letters.

Tea

At the last hearty we noticed our hostess serving her 1-2 cup chopped onion. Put about in the corner of each. She says it gives a spicy lift to the tea.

Should you be expecting any tea-with-lemon characters, try the touch of the clove. As for us, anybody who takes lemon in tea is just a stranger and when we are asked to pour, we consider everybody a nuisance except Mother Nature's wonderful ladies who take theirs clear.

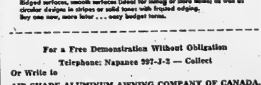
Art Needs Sun

On the authority of a noted Canadian artist, all paintings (not water colors though) should be exposed to Spring and full sunlight to revive and preserve their natural colors.



When you're hanging the woollens on the line to air, get your oil paintings out for a little sunshine too. But don't put them out where the pup can get near with his feet. Keep your two eyes on those paintings every minute they are off the walls.

Cataract Casserole

If you're looking for a quick supper dish which takes only half a pound of chopped steak, you really will like this hot food which comes out in six servings.

Fluff up raw meat with a fork and add ¼ cup diced celery and ¼ cup chopped onion. Put about two tablespoons of margarine or bacon grease into a pan. Add the meat and vegetable mixture and fry.

May Time

Nature is wielding a skilful brush

Painting a Maytime picture rare,

Sunlight flooding the twilight hush,

Bridal gowns for the trees to wear.

Bright the blooms of Maytime flowers—

Tulips gay and bleeding heart,

And in the early morning hours

Birds of the picture form a part.

Oh! dull is he who no beauty sees

In the Maytime scene before his eyes,

Who grasps alone life's sordid things

And sees no beauty in azure skies;

For in all the bloom of bush and tree,

In the growing green of the Maytime sod,

The heart and hand of a living God.

GAS PLANT SHUTS DOWN

STRATFORD (CP)—The Stratford city gas plant, set up in 1875 stopped operations Friday when its antiquated equipment wore out. First operated as a stock company with $25,000, it was bought by the city in 1926. Consumers were notified recently that the plant would close about May 1 and were advised to switch to electricity or tanked gas.

Mrs. P. B. Hamilton Celebrates Birthday

Mrs. P. B. Hamilton, quietly celebrated her 80th birthday yesterday at her home in Mountain View, with the immediate members of her family present. Her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hamilton, of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. William Hamilton, of Napanee and her daughter Mr. and Mrs. Ophio Herrington, of Mountain View.

The highlight of the day was the arrival of her grandson, private Frank Hamilton, R.C.R., just home from Korea, who presented her with two hand-painted pictures of Christ, on silk done in Tokyo by prominent artists, there.

The afternoon was spent in quiet reminiscing and listening to the soldier boy who, during his later from overseas, mentioned how much the boys overthere appreciated the work of the Salvation Army in their behalf.

Mrs. Hamilton is enjoying good health and takes an active interest in the news of the day.

Women's Activities

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

Marmora — The thankoffering service of St. Andrew's Women's Missionary Society was recently held in the church parlors with Mrs. Dupee, presiding. Hymn singing, and a good attendance of members present. The lovely devotion was taken by Mrs. K. J. Crawford. Scripture reading by Mrs. D. M. Ogilvie followed.

Mrs. Tupper had charge of the business period. Minutes of March were reported. Four books and seven monthlies were read by the members present. Mrs. J. Sproul offered her home for the May meeting. A report of the Presbyterial meeting recently held in Bellevue Street United Church, Belleville, was given by Mrs. H. C. Barlow.

Mrs. E. Cecil Prentice read an Easter meditation written by the late Mrs. Bert Bonter. The meeting was closed by Mrs. K. J. Crawford.

Eight refreshments were served.

Centenary-Aikens H-S Assoc. Discontinued

J. W. Sargent presided at the April meeting of the Centenary-Aikens Home and School. The meeting was opened in the usual form with Mrs. M. Jeffery playing accompaniment for "O Canada".

During the business period, a committee was put in charge of the division of the assets of the Centenary-Aikens Home and School Association, which is being discontinued.

Mrs. Sargent was chairman for the program of public speaking in which 23 children of both schools took part. Tilley were under the supervision of their teachers, Mrs. T. Spafford and Miss Ruth Gilbert.

Their subjects were well chosen, and their delivery was good. The judges for this contest were Mrs. Don Garrison, Mrs. Stanley Spafford, and Mrs. Harry Bates.

Mrs. Garrison gave constructive criticism and encouragement to all the young speakers, and the winners' special certificate to the Aikens' pupils, Marilyn Jones, who spoke on "Education" and to Jeanette Keary, whose topic was, "The Coronation".

Prizes for pupils

The Centenary pupils mentioned were, Alan Slavin, who told about "Archery", to David Short whose story was "Gold". Ruth Slavin's subject was on the "Story Life of Bees", and Tom Sargent talked on "Tommy Tractor".

Prizes of skipping ropes and balls were given to all contestants.

A vote of thanks was tendered the judges and teachers.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. W. Hall, Mrs. K. Smith, Mrs. C. Smith, Mrs. G. Sills and Mrs. W. Short.

Front Road W.A. Holds Pie Social

A pie social was held at the Front Road United Church hall on Wednesday evening with a large attendance.

A good program was enjoyed by all: Mrs. Jack Parrott gave two piano solos and Miss Glenda Doxtator pleased all with her two fine solos "Stars are the Windows of Heaven," and "Shadow Waltz." The play given by the Melrose Young People, entitled, "The Bachelor's Baby," was lots of fun and greatly enjoyed.

Mrs. Robert Atkins gave two accordion solos.

The skit put on by Mrs. Garbut, Mrs. Hiram, and Mrs. Dr. Rulof, as Miranda, entitled, "It's Later Than you think," caused many laughs.

The piano solos rendered by Miss Lois Bradshaw, Miss June Reid and Mr. Carl Reid were of the finest. The minister, Mr. Bruce Bailey, sang the beautiful hymn, "The Haven of Rest," and closed the program.

The members of the W.A. wish to extend a hearty vote of thanks to all who helped with the program and made the evening a success.

All enjoyed refreshments of sandwiches, pickles and pie served by the ladies.

Question:

Can you put in your daily column a recipe for the syrup for honey-dipped doughnuts. I make raised doughnuts once a week for the family but can't get the syrup right. — Your Daily Reader.

Answer:

You may be using too much honey. Try this

Glaze for Honey-Dipped Doughnuts

To 1-4 cup boiling water add 2 level tablespoons honey and mix. Now add 1 cup icing sugar and stir until mixed. While this glaze is warm dip the warm doughnuts in it. You may have to keep the glaze warm by standing the bowl in large bowl containing hot water. Allow glazed doughnuts to drain and dry on cake rack.

Question:

It was a pleasure to read the recipes and recipe for dandelion wine. . . since coming to Canada I have often been impressed by the scarcity of wine recipes and I wonder whether the Canadians were puritanical or the British decadent. . . I have not tried the dandelion wine recipe (see below) but I propose to do so this year. I have however, used a number of recipes from the same source with great success and feel pretty sure that it is not a very mild wine.

Dandelion Wine

(Contributed by Helena J.)

Three quarts flowers, 1 gallon water, 2 lbs. sugar, rind and pulp of 2 lemons and 1 orange, 1 cake yeast, 1 lb. raisins, (seeds in, if possible). Flowers should be freshly gathered, picked off stalks, and put in large crock. Boil water, pour over flowers and leave for 3 days, stirring each day. Cover crock with butter basin. On fourth day add sugar and rinds (only) of lemons and orange. Turn into pan and boil for 1 hour. Return to crock and add pulp of lemons and oranges. When cool add yeast. Leave covered for 3 more days; strain and bottle. The bottles should be not quite filled, and the raisins are equally distributed among them. Do not cork tightly till fermentation stops. (Wine is made in May or June is good at Christmas.)—Helena J.

Answer:

Thank you very much Helena. I certainly think Britishers are anything but decadent, any good thing that is.

Question:

Do you have the recipe for Chocolate Cups? They are made from chocolate and shortening, molded on paper baking cups. When solid they are filled with ice cream. Could you give me the amounts of each ingredient and the proper method of molding.—Mrs. H. G.

Answer:

This was a new idea to me so I had to try it. I used semi-sweet chocolate—a 1-3 lb. bar, and melted it over steaming—not boiling—water with 2 tablespoons butter. When it was melted I mixed it with a fork. I buttered small fluted paper baking cups and poured about 3 or 1-2 tablespoons of the chocolate into each one and tipped them to make it coat the sides to within 1-8 inch of the top. Then I let them stand until cold. Pete was delighted to go and buy ice cream and try scoops of it in them. Thanks for a new idea. I hope this is what you had in mind.

Question:

I like reading your column and although I am diabetic I enjoy it just the same. I would like to know how you would put sauerkraut up in jars to use later on. I made too much and am afraid it will go bad before we can use it up.—G.G.C.

Answer:

Sauerkraut is unpredictable for so many different organisms are present due to the original fermentation and the bacteria present due to storage that it must be heated to above 180 deg. F. or preferably boiling in your case, and packed into sterile jars, with a headspace of 1-2 inch, sealed, screwing tops to within 1-8 turn of tight, and processed in hot water bath 30 minutes for pints, 20 minutes for quarts.

Question:

Would you please give. . . a recipe for pineapple jam. . . since pineapples are now on the market may we have this as soon as you have time and space for it.—Mary R. R.

Answer:

Pineapple contains an enzyme which prevents jelling when it is raw, so be sure to follow the recipe exactly.

Pineapple Jam

Two lbs. fresh pineapple, chopped or ground pineapple (6 well packed cups), 7 1-2 cups sugar, 1 6-oz. bottle commercial liquid pectin. Finely chop or grind pineapple saving juice, and add sugar to it. Bring to boil over very high heat stirring until it boils hard for a full minute. Remove from heat and stir in pectin for 1 minute. Skim off any scum and pour into sterile jars, and seal or cover at once with new hot paraffin, adding second coating when cold.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

She Has a Big Problem, But Passes It Up for Small Ones

One of the most curious psychological quirks I know of is that which causes a person with a really big problem to pass over it's significant features for some minor detail.

For example, a woman who was deserted eight years ago by her husband, and left with two babies to support, has now been confronted with a turn in that situation which calls for much serious thought. Yet she tosses this lightly aside and concentrates her attention on her husband's inability to spell correctly in the letters he sends his children.

After setting down the bare facts that her husband left her for another woman all those years ago, and has never since then "contributed five cents toward the support of the two babies we had," she goes into the immediate problem:

"Now out of a clear sky, my husband has written to the children, now 10 and 11, and asked them to come and visit him. It, of course, frose up and mailed the letters to my mothers asking her what she thought about keeping letters from the children and whether or not I was right in refusing to keep the children from their father.

"My husband never had much education and he is apt to spell words just as they sound. I never paid any attention to that, but when my mother answered my letter, agreeing with me about the children, she also asked: 'How in the world did you ever take up with such an ignorant person? What a letter!

"Maybe I am wrong, but I never figured a person's spelling or education made their character. I know two neighbors who have beautiful homes, the latest cars and nice families, but their own wives say their husbands can't say more than sign their names. I am one of a large family and we were all well educated, but what good did it do me? I have failed in two marriages, and I haven't seen the child of my first marriage since she was 18 months old, and she is 18 years old now.

"I want to get married again, but my one fear is that my family will be critical.

"Am I right or wrong about the education angle? If you can, will you quote some prominent psychical or other well known person who went to the top even though he couldn't spell or write?"

Two Broken Marriages

See what I mean? With two broken marriages behind her, and with the very important matter on hand of making a wise decision about whether or not to allow her second husband to see his children, all this woman is really worrying about is what difference it makes whether or not a man can write or spell. If she had weighed the immediate problem as carefully as she is attempting to evaluate this comparatively minor point, she might have made a better decision in regard to the relationship between her children and their father.

For I do not think she is doing the right thing to refuse to allow the children to see their father. It is perfectly proper, it seems to me, that she would refuse to let them go to visit him, after his long neglect of them. But I think she should have written him herself and told him that, while she did not feel the children should travel a long distance to see him, he could come to see them if he wished to do so. For all she knows, her husband may be sincerely regretting his behavior, and may wish to try and make such amends as he can. At least she could give him the benefit of the doubt and allow him the chance to do so.

As for her pre-occupation with her husband's literacy, or lack of it, I cannot see that this has anything whatever to do with her problem. Although I cannot profess for her at a moment's notice the names of illiterate men who have reached "the top" despite their handicaps, there undoubtedly have been many such instances. The standard by which she apparently measures this kind of success seems to be exclusively concerned with moneymaking. Character itself seems not to enter into her calculations, though I am sure that there must be many more fine characters who have lacked formal education than mere financial successes. I might add, also, that I think most people who have succeeded despite a lack of conventional schooling took pains— like Abraham Lincoln, for instance—to study at home to overcome this lack.

My suggestion to this woman is that she overhaul her ideas and set them out before her in more reasonable perspective. If she is able to do this, I think she will come to see that her present values are out of all proportion and that giving a father a chance to make amends for the past is far out ahead of a lack of schooling in importance.

GOOD MANNERS

By CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Public Hostess and The Handshake

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I know that a hostess should always shake hands with an arriving guest and again when the guest is leaving. Of course it is natural that, when she greets the arriving guest, she (the hostess) would extend her hand first to shake hands. But I'm puzzled as to whether it is the hostess or the guest who extends the hand first when the guest is departing. Which is it? — Alma G.

It is the departing guest who offers the hand first, to shake hands with the hostess. The polite hostess waits for the guest to make this gesture. The idea is that if the hostess should extend her hand first it would seem to be speeding up the departure of the guest!

Hosts Not Expected To Give Up Their Bedroom

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I at last (after six years of married service abroad) have our own home, a second apartment. We have only one real bedroom, but our living room is of quite good size, and we have a studio couch in it, also two single beds. It's very comfortable. Both my husband and I are hospitable people and we should like to share our home whenever this is practical and comfortable for our visitors. The first visitors we would like to have are Bill's brother (who was his best man at our wedding) and his wife, who is a very good friend of ours, and my sister (who was my matron of honor at our wedding) and her husband, also a very good friend of ours. Now our problem is: should we take it for granted that we give up our bedroom to our guests, or should we take it for granted that they are to sleep in the living room?

Ellen M.

Hospitality and courtesy do not demand that hosts give up their room to guests. And a considerate guest would not expect this, or accept it. The simple, practical procedure is that they keep their room, and plan to make the guests as comfortable as they can in the other sleeping-arrangements provided. And with today's wonderful sofa-beds it is easy to make guests comfortable in the living room of even a small apartment!

When the Husband Signs Family Greeting Cards

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My wife practically always signs the greetings cards we send as a family, the signature to include us and a daughter and a son younger than the daughter. We have read in your column and followed your advice that when she signs the cards she writes for example "John and Mary, and Dorothy and Tommy." But you have also written that when a husband signs the greeting cards, "he politely signs his wife's name first." Would this apply to the "family signature, when the husband occasionally (as I do, for example) signs the cards for the family? — The "Mr."

When the wife signs the cards for the family (as she usually does), she follows the rule that, when children's names are included, the husband's name is written first. This also follows the polite procedure that the wife, when signing the cards, writes her husband's name first. However, on the occasions (which are the exceptions) when the husband signs the family cards, he should politely, write his wife's name first: "Mary and John, and Dorothy and Tommy." Or, if he prefers, the form: "Thomas Sons-Mary and John, and Dorothy and Tommy." However, when the names are printed or engraved, the father's name always comes first.

Dahlias and Cannas Offer Rich Rewards to Gardeners

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Have you looked at your dahlia and canna tubers yet, to see how they came through the winter? Whether you stored your own tubers or have to buy new ones, it is time to get them started. By planting them now, indoors you can gain three weeks to a month over outdoor planted tubers, which will wait until all danger of frost is past.

Dahlias should be separated into single tubers, and be sure to leave on a piece of the shank of last year's stock. Horticone powder such as rootone will encourage early formation of sturdy roots. For a planting medium choose sphagnum moss, shredded, or vermiculite. Either of these provide clean porous support with an ever present supply of moisture, but overcomes the danger of over watering.

Temperature should be approximately 65 to 70 degrees to sprout the plants and provide slow sturdy growth. Too high temperature will produce rapid spindly growth, and result in weak leggy plants.

Cannas need the same treatment as dahlias, but the roots should be divided into fairly large sections. See that there are several buds to each section so each plant will make an attractive clump.

Set Out Late In May

When all danger of frost is past set out the plants. Cannas will be the two inches of soil over the top of the tubers. Space the plants wide apart for specimen plants, and more closely for mass effect. Liquid manure will increase the size of blooms if applied every two weeks after the buds start to form.

If you are planning on buying cannas this year be sure to select the newest types. They rank all the way from delicate salmon to rich crimson with many combinations between. Leaves may be bronze, purple, light or dark green. If you have plenty of space cannas can put on a regal show. If room is a new problem and you have not yet put in your foundation planting of shrubbery why not try cannas this summer? Remember they need four or five hours of sun each day, and some protection from strong winds.

Dahlias Need Sun

Dahlias need at least half a day in the sun, a well drained position, and some protection from beating winds. They are also tender and must wait until frosts are passed. Dig the holes 14 inches deep in clay soil, 18 in sandy soil. Mix clay soil with half sand and after mixing it well put back eight inches. Firm with soil well and set a stake for each tuber. Put in the sprouted root and having the sprouted end near the stake, cover with two or three inches of soil. As the stock stretches up fill in the hole and tie the plant firmly, (allowing room for growth) to the stake. Leave a shallow basin around the plant to catch and hold rainwater.

Cultivation should be thorough and deep until the buds set. This will encourage strong bushy plants with well developed roots. In late July and through August a mulch of grass clippings, or shredded moss will keep the roots cool. Dahlias do need some protection from winds but do not plant them too near trees, or shrubbery, or other plants which will rob them of food and moisture.

If you want low bushy plants with many flowers pinch back the terminals from the time the plants are eight to 10 inches high. Nip off the side buds and leave only terminal buds for good blooms and long stems for cutting.

Twice a month feed them with liquid manure or dissolved chemical plant food from the time blossoms set until the frost kills them off. Few members of the plant family offer such a wide range of sizes, shapes and color as the dahlia. There is a place in every garden for some of them.

Key to PRODUCTIVE GARDENS and BEAUTIFUL LAWNS — good soil and adequate plant nutrients

GOOD SOIL — Krilium overnight turns problem clay into loose, porous, easily worked "friendly soil". Hard-packing and crusting are eliminated, allowing germinating seeds to form strong healthy roots and to emerge freely and plentifully. One treatment lasts for years. The invaluable benefits are immediate and lasting.

NOURISHMENT — Folium is Monsanto's new water-soluble fertiliser that provides nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash and makes these essential nutrients immediately available, feeding plants through both leaves and roots. Applied by sprinkling can or garden hose with siphon attachment. For prize-winning results use Folium at seeding time, when transplanting and throughout the season.

Returned Canadian Veterans Tell Incredible Stories Of Experiences in P.o.W. Camps

OTTAWA (CP)—Lt. Col. Paul Dugal of Montreal was greeted at the front head with a mortar bomb fragment in Korea last June. He became 50 in September, a prisoner of the Chinese Communists.

His reaction: "At least I didn't have to suffer through the heat of July and August."

Pte. Arthur Baker of Montreal was hit in the legs and arms by shrapnel Nov. 26, 1952. He recovered consciousness a week later and found himself a prisoner of the Reds.

His reaction: "Practically all for I felt very weak."

The two Canadian soldiers, released recently in the prisoner-exchange, told their almost incredible stories of survival to a Canadian army public relations officer in Japan while awaiting repatriation home. The first-person stories were issued here Friday by the army.

Both men said they were treated as well as the Chinese and Koreans sick and wounded and were treated by enemy officers the night before they were freed.

Dugal said he had to attend propaganda lectures on "the good-will of the Communists to make peace."

Their stories:

L. Col. Dugal:

"The wound caused paralysis of both my legs. The place (Chinese advance field ambulance post) was nothing more than a cave and my cell looked very much like the dugout of the Canadians at the front head with up mit. My straw bed was on the floor and I remained stretched on it until fall for my left side was completely paralyzed.

"Later, the Chinese doctors made me perform exercises every day which, although painful at the beginning, did help some in restoring the use of my left side. I was treated along with my American companion (Arthur Gregory of Cleveland) on a equal basis with the Chinese and Korean sick and wounded all around us.

"I had three meals of rice and bread with some sort of vegetable stew. I drank hot powdered milk and even though the quality of this food left much to be desired, quantity was at least sufficient—I never starved. I received the same as prisoner suffered from hunger.

He later was transferred to two other camps, undergoing healing tals, then to a village about 25 miles behind the lines, then to a place atop a mountain.

"We had then sent to Pyongyan hospital "where I met a number of my compatriots." (Dugal doesn't explain whether he means Canadians).

After that, he was transferred to a prisoner-of-war camp when he was able to walk again.

The sleeping quarters were bad. Eight men slept in a room six feet by six feet. At least it helped to stave off the cold.

"On April 13, a lucky day for me, I got word to get ready to when an officer told me to gather up my equipment. I was about to be freed. I was given few clothes. The same evening we had a bit of a party with prisoners and guards taking part.

"After travelling for three days in trucks I reached the village of Munsan and freedom. My only wish now is to get home to dad and mother and my good old home town of Quebec."

Pte. Baker:

"Little by little my strength returned and I began to realize fully what a pickle I was in. My hospital companions were Chinese. I must admit in all sincerity that I was never mistreated. I was in hospital during the whole period of internment and was treated on equal terms with the Chinese wounded soldiers all around me.

"I only managed to survive thanks to the numerous infections I was given by the Chinese doctors. More than seven times the Communist surgeons operated on me with more or less rudimentary equipment.

"I was first lodged in a sort of cave. My bed was made of straw and clay under which I would build a small fire during the night to keep warm.

"It was only by the end of April that I managed to wash by myself sufficiently to wash. By then my foot wounds were well enough for me to walk but the lack of exercises made by the Chinese.

"I contracted some sort of sleeping sickness. At the beginning of the illness, I slept an average of 20 hours a day. During that period, I was fed by injections or by stomach tubes. At one time, in fact, I slept for 20 days and nights.

"On April 16, I was given new clothes and took my first bath in a long time. On that same night, prisoners and Chinese patients had a party. Then on the 18th we enjoyed a real good-bye party during which they served wine, beer and sake.

"I tipped the scales at 180 before my capture but now weigh only 145 pounds.

British P.o.W. Denounce Korean War as 'Stupid'

By PHILIP CLARKE

LYNDHAM, Australia (AP)—Twenty-two repatriated British prisoners of war returned home from Korea Friday.

Some denounced the Korean war as "stupid" and "useless." Trooper Arthur Scarridge of the 8th Hussars said he believed Communist stories that the war was started by the United States "to make profit."

Pte. Alfred Cunningham confirmed lectures on "current affairs."

"It wasn't propaganda," said Rifleman J. N. McNally of the Royal Ulster Rifles. "They just gave us talks on what was going on."

Although classified by the Reds as "sick and wounded," most of the soldiers looked healthy and well-fed. Six of 32 were stretcher cases. One stretcher case said he broke his leg playing soccer.

Trooper Scridge, who said his only friend was drowned, described Communist medical treatment as "very good."

"We got lectures from the Chinese with the right bit of propaganda but personally I believe the war is being fought for profit," he said. "There's no question about it the Korean war. It's a waste of time and has nothing to do with Britain at all."

Private Donald Large of the Gloucester Regiment described the Korean war as "useless." Private Cunningham said there is cheesed off with the war—a lot of the men in the line, too."

(Reuters news agency said most of the men refused to speak about attempts to indoctrinate them with Communist teaching, but all agreed they had been well treated as prisoners.)

P.S. Board Holds Meeting

CAMPBELLFORD — At the regular meeting of the Public School Board held Friday in the school, all members were present.

The following correspondence was read: A letter from the town clerk requesting a committee be named by the board to meet with the joint meeting of civic representatives and insurance agents. Mr. Collette, insurance agent, spoke briefly to the above matter of insurance and the same was discussed by the members.

Four applications were received from local dealers. Mr. W. C. Thrasher was named to investigate further and report.

Applications were received for positions on the staff. Some were placed on file to be considered when vacancies occur.

Mr. C. S. Haig tendered his resignation as secretary and on motion, it was received.

Audie Vessel did so.

A letter from the film convener of the I.O.D.E. was received and discussed. It was stated that for classroom use, projectors were unsatisfactory, satisfactory results can be obtained when used in properly equipped auditoriums also trained operators are required. The board will add equipment type is of more use, being easy to move from one classroom to another, and it is more economical in every respect.

The secretary was instructed to write the Department of Education for the latest information on the above; also when the information is received, the I.O.D.E. will be advised.

A letter from the secretary of the I.O.D.E. was read, asking that their interest in assisting the school board in the purchase of a film projector for use in the schools.

On motion, a letter of thanks for their generous offer was authorized by the board, to be sent to the I.O.D.E.

The board confirmed the contract of Mr. Alan Taylor, by motion, for duties to commence, Sept. 1.

Mrs. J. Cowell reported on the proposed project of the "Prevention of Flags" for surrender on May 22 by the I.O.D.E. on the public school grounds.

Ont. Govt. to Pay 75 PC of Cost For Dam Survey

The Ontario Department of Planning and Development was signified its approval to pay 75 per cent of the cost of a survey and preparation of plans for the proposed College Street dam from the city and also for a survey of the river channel through the city with the view of alleviating flood danger.

Recent weeks saw the city approved payment of 25 per cent of the cost of the two surveys when a tender of the Kilbourn Engineering Company, of Toronto, was accepted. Price of the tender was $6,086.

Receives Approval

Col. Roscoe Vanderwater, secretary of the Moira Rivers Conservation Authority, stated he had received approval from the department and that the survey would be commenced by the engineering company in the near future. He said the department approval covered costs of the survey and everything up to the calling of tenders for the construction of the proposed dam.

The College Street dam, proposed to be built in the vicinity of the old quarry north of College Street, would create an artificial lake extending some distance upstream and is expected would help to ease flood conditions in the spring by holding back the ice.

Underground Steam Spurs N.Z. Plans for Atom Development

WAIRAKEI, New Zealand (Reuter)—New Zealand's atomic plans took a sharp stride forward when engineers "threw" a 2,500-foot deep experimental bore Friday, releasing a great jet of superheated steam which blasted 30 feet into the air above this scenic valley.

The jet roared out so violently that all recording instruments were shattered. Technicians quickly set to work to devise new ones able to withstand the enormous force.

The test bore, twice as deep as any previously sunk here, is the latest in a series probing the seething depths of this hot springs valley in the government's heavy-water project. If successful, the plan can speed atomic development in the Southwest Pacific area and provide new sources of wealth and health for the Commonwealth, Dry Steam

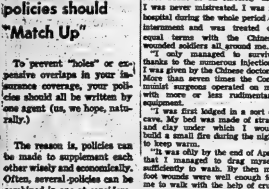
The discovery that the jet apparently consists of dry steam, suitable for use in power turbines, also spurs planning for a diversity of industries tentatively projected as a sideline to the atomic project. In previous borings only "wet" steam had been tapped from underground.

Officials stress that the heavy-water project is still in an experimental stage, but Commonwealth scientists including Sir John Cockcroft, Britain's top atomic expert, have already given cautious approval.

Even if the government should decide to build a nuclear fission pile in New Zealand, heavy water could become a top export to countries more advanced in atomic development.

62-MILL RATE

COLLINGWOOD, (CP) — A 62-mill tax rate for 1953 was struck Thursday night by town council. The 1952 rate was 59 mills in this town on Georgian Bay near Owen Sound. Most of the increase is for the Collingwood district high school board.



APPROVE TAX RATE

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—London city council Thursday night adopted a by-law striking the 1953 tax rate at 81 mills—a figure which, with the 10-per-cent general increase on building assessment, means the average Londoner will pay no more than he did last year, when the rate was 88 mills.

Your insurance policies should "Match Up"
To prevent "holes" or expensive overlaps in your insurance coverage, your policies should all be written by one agent (us, we hope, naturally.)
The reason is, policies can be made to supplement each other wisely and economically. Often, several policies can be combined in one at considerable saving.
And an over-all knowledge of your insurance coverage, may reveal to us that you are omitting some important protection that you should have.
Carry matched insurance—not "patched" insurance.

Dodgers Fattening Averages At The Expense Of Second Division Clubs

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

DEED BEFORE BIRTH!

What appears to be the death-knell of the proposed Border Baseball League was sounded the other day with the announcement by the Watertown, N.Y., baseball federation that the city would not operate a baseball club this year. Watertown was the link that held the somewhat flimsy structure of the new loop together but it appears that the league has died a painless death without resorting to the operating room.

"Watertown baseball fans are just beginning to realize that there will be no diamond entertainment provided for them at the fairgrounds this season. The action of the Watertown Collegians announced a week ago today that they had decided not to operate during the 1953 campaign, but apparently fans are just waking up to what the announcement really means locally.

"During the past three days we have received numerous telephone calls from fans and we have been asked by many baseball fans with whom we have talked on the streets if there wasn't something that could be done so baseball could be continued in the city this year.

"It's our understanding that after making a valiant effort to organize a league for the coming season, officers of the local baseball team met with little success as they gave up the idea of operating for the season.

"This writer knows personally that Alfred (Speedy) DeCastro, Dominic Pepp, John Barnard, Delos Cosgrove and others interested in having baseball here made every effort that was possible to organize a league and keep baseball in Watertown.

"They made several trips to Kingston, Ont., to discuss the the formation of a league with several Canadian cities. They made an effort to get in a league in the Finger Lakes and Southern Tier sections of the state, but their efforts here were little fruit.

"It wasn't that Speedy and his associates in the Watertown Collegians wanted to get out of business this year. They were more or less forced out of business by circumstances over which they had no control.

"There was some talk that they might run an independent team but after surveying the entire situation this was felt inadvisable."

So it looks at the moment as though there will be no senior baseball in this neck of the woods. Smith's Falls and Brockville have shown little or no interest in the formation of the league after making statements they were definitely interested. This leaves Kingston and Belleville alone in the fold, and a two-team loop, like a three-team set-up, is definitely out of the question.

Manager Jack Carson, of the Belleville Rockmen, has been trying to contact Harry O'Neill, of Smith's Falls, for the past two weeks but his telephone number has been ignored. Just what will happen here is a matter for conjecture. It might very well be that the revived edition of the Bay of Quinte Baseball League may be the only fare available for fans of this city and district.

Incidentally representatives of teams entered in the Bay of Quinte loop are holding a meeting in the CJBQ studios on Monday evening, when, it is expected, organization will be completed and plans made for the coming season.

• • •

GETTING READY!

The junior baseball club, which has entered the Bay of Quinte League will hold a pre-together at the Exhibition Grounds tomorrow afternoon at 1.30. Manager Bryson Reid requests all stalwarts, players and those wishing to try out with the team to be on hand.

At two o'clock tomorrow afternoon Herby Henn's Northern Electric softballers get together at the Alemite Field. Herby has some important message for the "troops" and all are asked to be around, when he calls the platoon to attention.

READ IT!

There's a screamingly funny fantasy by a writer in the current issue of Harper's Magazine that should be read by every baseball fan. It takes time by the forelock and explains how the Dodgers lost the 1953 pennant. It all starts when a lady fan wondered why Ray Campanella insisted on covering first and third bases to cut off possible overthrows. But we won't spoil it for you. It is the funniest thing about baseball Hank Greenberg and Al Schacht retired.

And along more serious lines Stanley Frank has a piece in the Saturepost called "THEY CLAIM IT'S A JINX". The yarn deals with the mysterious jinx that is supposed to dog the footsps of major league sophomores. There are many reasons and excuses given and the whole makes for enjoyable reading.

Take Over National Top Spot After 6-5 Battle With Cubs; Yankees Bow to White Sox 6-5

By Ben Pelegian
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Brooks won the National League pennant last year by feasting on the last four clubs. Today, after a 10-day absence, they're back in first place. A strict diet of the lower-placed teams did it.

The Dodgers won their fourth straight Friday night, a 6-5 uphill battle with the fifth-place Chicago Cubs. Prior to that they had won four straight from the last-place Cincinnati Redlegs. And of their earlier victories three came over the seventh-place New York Giants and three over the sixth-place Pittsburgh Pirates.

On their only ventures against first division opposition, the Dodgers got spanked three times running by Philadelphia Phillies.

Reese Is Star

A year ago Brooklyn won 67 games and lost only 30 against the four second-division clubs. It had a poor 29-37 record with the three other first-division outfits.

Friday night's Brooklyn star was Peewee Reese who in the eighth inning drilled a Dutch Leonard knuckleball into the lower leftfield seats at Ebbets field with a runner on base.

In other National League action Pittsburgh Pirates won their third in a row—their longest winning streak in almost two years—at the expense of Cincinnati 8-3. St. Louis Cardinals edged New York 3-2 in the only day game.

Boston Red Sox pasted the first 1953 defeat on Cleveland's Bob Lemon 13-5. Lemon had won three. Detroit broke a six-game losing streak at the expense of Philadelphia 7-3. Washington nipped St. Louis 5-4 and Chicago White Sox overwhelmed Dixon struck out the last three Brownies with the bases loaded, and Chicago White Sox weathered a series of late New York rallies to beat the Yankees 6-5.

Four in Row

Boston's victory at Cleveland gave the Sox four in a row for the Sox and moved them into fourth place.

The Athletics poked three of Ned Garver's flutterballs into the seats but each of the drives—by Eddie Joost, Gus Zernial and Cass Michaels—came with the bases empty. The victory was the first this year for Garver who had lost three.

Trailing 5-1 after six innings the Yankees rallied for a pair of runs in the seventh, two more in the eighth and filled the bases with one out in the ninth before Saul Rogovin came in to strike out Yogi Berra and get Billy Martin on a liner. Jim Rivera, who walked, scored the winning run in the seventh on Chico Carrasquel's single.

Paul Pettit, Pittsburgh's $100,000 bonus baby of 1950, paid his first major league dividend as he got credit for the victory over Cincinnati. Pete Castiglone homered twice for the Pirates, singled and drove in three runs.

The fading Phillies, who now have lost four in their last five starts, were held at bay by right-hander Jim Wilson who contributed a home run to the 10-hit Milwaukee attack. Joe Adcock and Andy Pafko also honored for the Braves.

Red Hamill Resigns As Galt Coach

His resignation was announced Friday by Bob Wilson, chief scout of Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League. The Chicago club is parent of the Galt team.

Wilson said Hamill is retiring from hockey to work as a salesman for a firm in the Toronto suburb of Leaside. Hamill formerly played for Black Hawks and Boston Bruins of the NHL and for Hershey Bears and Providence Reds of the American Hockey League.

Tiger Jones 'Salts' Herring In Ten-Rounder

NEW YORK (AP)—Ralph (Tiger) Jones, fighting in spurts, won a unanimous decision over Jimmy Herring of Brooklyn Friday night in a 10-round bout at St. Nicholas Arena. Jones scaled 139, Jones 154.

Herring was down for an eight count in the second round from a right hand to the head and that dropped him over the middle rope. But he recovered and fought back strongly in the middle rounds.

In the fifth, Jones, ninth-ranked middleweight from Yonkers, N.Y., was spun to the deck by a right. Referee Al Berl first ruled no knockdown but changed his mind between rounds and so informed the judges.

'Happy Laughter' Wins Guineas

Happy Laughter's 10 to 1 colt, ridden by Lester Piggott, finished two lengths ahead of Queen Position by Gillies. The Third was the favorite, Bebe Grande, who finished second in the Two Thousand Guineas two days ago.

The one-two finish brought trainer Jack Jarvis his third One Thousand Guineas victory. His two previous successes were in 1926 and 1934. The winner is by Royal Charger out of Bray Melody.

Take Davis Cup First Round

By The Associated Press

Holland, Spain and Norway took the lead in first round European zone Davis Cup tennis competition Friday as a heavy week-end of international play began.

The Dutch players, Hans Van Swol and Huib Wilton, won both singles matches from Ceylon's rubber jittery representatives; Spain made it 2-0 against Israel with Jose Manuel Couper and Cano Ferrer doing the honors, and Norway led Ireland 2-0 and 2-0.

Doubles matches in these three series are being played today. The Yugoslavia-Switzerland series also starts today in Novisad while Finland and Ireland will meet in Helsinki, starting Sunday.

Wins Kentucky Oaks

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Calumet Farm's Bubbley, an evenmoney favorite, won the 79th running of the Kentucky Oaks, the Derby for fillies, at Churchill Downs Friday. Cerise Reine, conqueror of Bubbley in the recent Ashland Stakes at Keeneland, was second about a length back, and Arab Actress, a 50-1 shot, was third.

Chisox Manager Player Fined

CHICAGO (AP)—Manager Paul Richards and outfielder Minnie Minoso of Chicago White Sox each were fined $100 Friday by the American League president, Will Harridge for unseemly conduct during Thursday's game which the Sox lost to New York Yankees 6-1.

The fines were announced after a conference at the league office attended by Richards, general manager Frank Lane and president Charles Comiskey of the White Sox, and umpires Jim Duffy, Bill Grieve, Art Passerella and Larry Napp.

Harridge said both men might have been suspended for three days for their actions but decided to order a new league rule.

Minoso and Richards had protested umpire Duffy's ruling that Yankee Mickey Mantle's long hit which bounced off the bleacher wall had been interfered with by a fan and was a home run.

Track Meet May 30

Barrie Flyers Within One Game Of Clean-Sweep Memorial Cup

Defeat St. Boniface Habs 7-5 For Third Straight Victory; Take Early Lead, Never Headed

By AL VICKERY
Dave Bairstow Stars With Winter

WINNIPEG (CP)—Barrie Flyers have within one game of giving Eastern Canada its third successive sweep in the Canadian junior hockey final.

"Hap Emms' Flyers Friday night downed St. Boniface Canadiens 7-5 for their third straight win in the best-of-seven series for the Memorial Cup, and the Flyers, who won the first two games 6-4 and 5-3, are odds on favorites to make it four in a row here Monday night.

If Barrie does take Monday's contest it will match the 1952 performance of Leaside Biltmores and the 1951 Barrie aggregation. The Biltmores defeated Regina Pats in three straight games last year. Barrie set Winnipeg Monarchs down without a win in 1951.

St. Boniface put up a game fight in the third contest, but twice every time they got within striking distance, the Flyers appeared to use little effort in regaining and strengthening their lead.

Never Headed

The Manitoba club climbed to within a goal of Barrie at 4-3 in the final session on a sustained attack, but once again Emms' well-oiled machine struck back just 46 seconds later to take a 7-5 lead, which they maintained until the final whistle.

However, neutral observers were inclined to credit the Buffalo's margin to better finish around the opponent's net. At in previous games in the rugged series, Canadiens failed to crack through for goals when they had one-and even two-man advantages.

Emms didn't say much, other than that he was happy his club had come through, but he appeared convinced the Flyers would back up his earlier prediction of a four-straight series for the seven-champions.

Captain Don McKenney raised the count to 2-0 early in the second period, Canadiens roared back to even the count when Garry Blaine scored his first of two goals. Then Abbie McDonald scooted on a pass from linemate Leo Boivin.

The loud cheering of the 5,000 fans was short-lived, however, for McKenney notched his second counter to show Flyers in front again 19 seconds later. Smooth-skating Orval Tessier rendered the two goal margin for Barrie before the second period ended.

Tessier budged the score to 5-2 after 42 seconds of the third period. McDonald tallied for Canadiens, then Johnny Macoy for Barrie. St. Boniface's Blaine and Leo Thorsson cut the lead to one goal, but Tony Poeta broke their hearts with another Barrie counter within six seconds.

Canadiens carried the play for the rest of the way, but were beaten by their own lack of finish or the smart goaltending of Marve Edwards until the final whistle.

'Native Dancer' Rated 3-5 Favorite In Glamor Gallop For the Roses

By ORLO ROBERTSON

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Native Dancer answers the big question today in the Kentucky Derby—North America's most glamorous horse race—expected to attract more than 100,000 to Churchill Downs for his 79th running.

The question is whether the blue-grey bearer of Alfred Vanderbilt's cerise and white diamond silks, winner of 15 races in an unbeaten career, can whip 11 other top three-year-olds over the Downs' testing 1¼ miles.

Never before has the son of Polynesian been asked to show that speed and stamina necessary to capture the run for the roses. But the manner in which he compiled a perfect record—and was voted off by Morvich in 1931-32 indicates the Dancer will be crowned with the garland of red roses at the finish.

May Make Difference

The condition of the track probably will make some difference to the betting odds but the Dancer, who may or may not have a running mate in the Derby classic, probably will start as the 2-to-1 choice.

Post time is 5:30 p.m. EDST and will televise the colorful scene, and the jesse James of the air, Bill Stern, will be broadcast, also by CBS, from 5:15 to 5:45.

There was a possibility of scattered showers this morning but meteorologist Ted Fink forecast clearing skies by noon and some sun by post time.

Although there are even dozen horses, 11 colts and one gelding, were dropped the short entry box, no more than 10 are expected to start. Should it be a field of 11 the 'Dancer's post position will be No. 7. Ground Broker, the Florida Derby winner from the Detroit-owned stable of P. A. Grissom and Ed Crockfield, was considered a doubtful starter unless it comes up mud. And Jack Hodgins said he might scratch Distana Farm's Fisherman Girl because he doesn't believe his horse belongs in the race "mixed with the "big grey."

Most of the other trainers familiar with the same way as Hodgins but planned on starting their charges with more than a little confidence. That is, about all except Wally Dunn, trainer of Mrs. Mary Gordon Gulberson's Correspondent, the 4 to 1 second choice.

Winner of three straight races before arriving at the Downs, including Kentucky Jockey Club Stakes which he set a track record of 1:48 for 1⅛ miles, Correspondent shapes up as a real rival for favorite. The fact she'll have Eddie Arcaro in the saddle is not going to hurt Correspondent's chances. Arcaro is the top Derby jockey with five winners to his credit.

Eric Guerin, who'll be in the Dancer's irons, has steered Derby mounts twice, running home first in 1947 aboard Jet Pilot.

Royal Bay Gem, the type of a horse that fancies a crowd at his feet with mighty stretch drives, doubles figures to be the third choice at 6 to 1. He is owned by Eugene Constantin, Jr., of Dallas.

Of the others only Dark Star, the Derby Trial winner from Harry F. Guggenheim's Cain Hoy stable; Greentree's Straight Face and Money Broker are expected to be given serious consideration at the pari-mutuel windows. In the early line, Dark Star was held at 8 to 1, and Straight Face and Money Broker at 15 to 1.

The remainder, and perhaps some of those already mentioned, are likely to be far up the stretch when the winner crosses the finish line. They are T. M. Daniel's Jet Detective; Brice B. Campbell's Ram O' War, Saxon Stable's Invigorer, Defense, and E. M. Goeman's Arkansas Derby winner, Curragh King.

If the weather holds, the race will have a gross value of $118,850 with the winner taking home a net of $90,800.

Crippled Penticton Granted Replacement For Hurt Goalie

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—Penticton V's, crippled with injuries as they lost the first two games of the Allan Cup finals against Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, have been fitted with a sturdy crutch.

Bobby Gibson, netminder for Owen Sound Mercurys of the Ontario Hockey Association senior A series, is in the best-of-seven regular goalie Ivan McClelland, sidelined from the best-of-seven Canadian senior hockey final with an injured right knee.

Penticton coach Bill Carse announced late Friday night that W. A. (Baldy) Hunt, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, had granted the V's permission to use Gibson.

This will be the third time that Murray Owen Sounder has faced the Dutchmen in the playoffs this season. He was on duty when Kitchener knocked the Mercs out of the OHA final. Then he was called on by Sudbury Wolves to replace Lorne Anderson in the third game of the all-Ontario final. That series went the limit.

However, Gibson doesn't solve all Penticton's problems. Carse said one game at a time," he smiled.

Catching Bonefish Tests Angler's Skill

Anglers who enter this tournament—at no fee, incidentally—are divided into four groups or divisions. The General Division is the big one. This group is subject to very few rules and just about anything in the way of equipment is allowable.

The Plug-casting Division sets a limit on rod, reel and terminal tackle, as does the Spinning Division, but not quite by means as restrictive as does the Fly Casting Division. In this one the rules committee really makes things tough for the angler.

Only single-action reels are allowable and star-drags are taboo. Wire leaders also are barred. Leaders must be of gut, nylon or similar material, the tippet of which must test no stronger than 15 pounds.

Fly Rods Become Popular

Prior to 1947 the fly rod was little used, if at all, when angling for the scrappers of the sand flats around the Florida Keys. Then it was learned that bonefish could be taken on a fly. Continued experiment showed that 27 varieties of fish in those waters actually did take flies readily. Almost overnight the fly rod became popular.

Then came the outdoor writers and the authors of feature stories in the magazines. They lauded the Keys and were taken fishing for bonefish. This done, they returned to their desks and wrote about bonefish. From comparative obscurity the bonefish soon became the Australian bush.

While this fish, actually does occur as far north as Cape Cod, Mass., on the Atlantic Coast and Monterey Bay, Calif., on the Pacific Coast, the area in which he can be found in quantity in this country lie around the Florida Keys. It's when, how before every fly-rod enthusiast in the nation wanted very much to catch a bonefish.

In shallow water, where the bonefish does most of his feeding, he is always a shy and wary customer, not easy to hook. However, with bait or spinning gear the novice has a fairly good chance for success.

With the fly rod, however, fishing for him is not easy. First the angler and his guide must locate the fish. Next the latter must manoeuvre into favorable position with regard to wind, light, etc.

Challenge to Anglers

As a rule, it is a one-cast job in which the fly must be placed accurately and lightly at fairly long range. Bonefish rarely will stand crowding. Should the angler make a mistake he seldom has a second shot at that same fish. As I say, it isn't easy. But it is great sport and a challenge to the skill of every fly-rod addict.

The bonefish around the Keys average between five and six pounds and, as is true of any species, the large ones are not easily taken. Thus, the Fly-Rod Division of the Metropolitan Tournament is the toughest league of the four and the one which, invites the keenest competition.

You may recall a story in this column last year wherein were recounted the tragic doings of Walter Smith, Miami, Florida, and yours truly. Yesterday Smith, a 30-lb-ninth, was the only boat on Florida Bay that day when came in with a whopper of 11 pounds, 8 ounces, only to be knocked out of first place 24 hours later by a new world's fly-rod record of 12 pounds, 6½ ounces.

This year Bill and I tried it again. The weather had warmed somewhat, with a fair breeze and bright sunshine, so we sailed out to the outer banks which lie beyond the keys in Florida Bay, marking the edge of the open Gulf.

As we had hoped, we found some fresh-run migratory fish on the banks, among them some large fish. Bill spotted three large ones and hooked into one. My cast was a long one and lucky for me, Bill Smith's creation. "The Salt-us"—came to rest lightly about 10 feet or so in front of the leading fish which took it solidly.

Then Bill slacked up on the fish in the net and we had a close look at them. We knew at once that we had a new Tournament leader. Back at headquarters I had the fish weighed. It came to be 11 pounds, 4 ounces exactly.

Then we knew all entries in the Tournament still has a few days to run. When I left the Keys, the boys were knocking themselves out in the effort to move me out of top position.

So if the type in which this story is set happens to scrape bit blurry and out of line, it is because of the excitement of the conditions under which this story is written. I'm doing it was my fingers crossed.

What, Again? Jean Beliveau To Turn Pro

RIVIERE DU LOUP, Que. (CP) Jean Beliveau, the big, high-scoring centre who caused a sensation in three National Hockey League games with Montreal Canadiens last winter, has indicated he will jump to the pro ranks next year.

"If I reach an agreement with the management I will play with the Montreal entry next season," the 21-year-old star said in a radio interview here Thursday night. He was speaking following a banquet closing the season of the Lower St. Lawrence intermediate B Hockey League.

"I have not been approached yet," Beliveau said, "but if they offer me good conditions I will certainly sign a Canadiens contract."

He did not say what he meant by "good conditions," but it is said in Quebec he received more than $5,000 last season with Quebec Aces of the Quebec Senior Hockey League. He has signed Montreal contracts three years running to play in Quebec City.

Entering Junior last season, he scored three goals in his first game and two more in the third game.

Gee Said To be a Whiz

BRANTFORD (CP)—John Alexander Gee, a six-foot, nine-inch pitcher from Watertown, N.Y., arrived Friday at the training camp of Brantford Red Sox of the Senior Intercounty Baseball League.

Gee, a physical training instructor at a high school in Watertown, played with Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League and Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League.

Rain, No Games In International

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The International League set back its opening day a full week this year to avoid bad weather, but it didn't entirely succeed.

Friday, for example, the westbound stepped in and watched the snow fall after four games—Baltimore at Buffalo, Rochester at Montreal, Syracuse at Ottawa and Springfield at Toronto.

Only the clubs will try again today with the Montreal and Ottawa games in daylight and the Rochester-Buffalo contests under the lights.

Montreal continues to lead the circuit with three victories in four starts with Toronto in second position, having won five games and lost only two.

AT THE STARLITE—Night starlight Monroe discovers in "Niagara" that being unfaithful to her husband, played by Joseph Cotten, doesn't pay. The Twentieth Century-Fox Picture, shot for the most part around Niagara Falls, in color by Technicolor, also features Jean Peters, and established a Friday's attendance record for the Belle Theatre.

ODEON McCARTHY THEATRE

When America was still a wilderness, unknown and undiscovered, the land now known as Centennia boasted a flourishing civilization. For the first thousand years of the Christian era the Mayn empire ruled this part of Central America and their buildings, temples and works of art still cause wonder and amazement to 20th Century visitors.

The movie industry "discovered" this ancient land just recently when a troupe from twentieth Century-Fox studios journeyed there to shoot location scenes for the Technicolor adventure film, "Treasure of the Golden Condor" starring Cornel Wilde and Constance Smith closes tonight at the Odeon Belleville. Director Delmer Daves, the star, actor Finlay Currie and technical crew members were overwhelmed by what they saw, and obtained a permanent Technicolor film record of it.

The primary location site was the area around Tikal, in the highland jungles, and the scene of the ancient Mayan ruins dating back to 900 A.D. These buildings were so overgrown with jungle growth, that the expedition passed right by them on their initial trek inland, but discovered them on a second scouting.

There are six ancient temples at Tikal, some of which reach 200 feet toward the sky. Built of limestone, they were constructed by hand with use of crude stone tools. An idea of their antiquity can be grasped in a scene in "Treasure of the Golden Condor" which shows one of them with a six foot thick mahogany tree growing out of its top.

The Quiche Indians, a primitive tribe who still practise the ways of their ancient Mayan forebearers, also figure in the picture. Director Delmer Daves spent two days photographing them performing a centuries-old masked festival dance. One of the most unusual aspects of the dance is that it recreates the defeat of the Mayans by the Spanish Conquistadores in the 16th Century, thus being perhaps the only ritual dance performed by a primitive tribe anywhere that celebrates a loss instead of a victory.

AT THE DRIVE-IN THEATRE

"Gambling House"

William Bendix, a big-time gambler, kills a man and then to avoid arrest bribes Victor Mature, a lone-wolf racketeer, with the promise of $50,000 to stand trial for the murder. Mature agrees and is acquitted, but the publicity involves him with the U.S. Immigration authorities, who estrmark him for deportation as an undesirable alien because Mature, born in Italy, has never become a citizen. Mature, freed on bail, becomes involved with Terry Moore, a wealthy gal and social worker, and falls in love with her. She instills in him a love for America and at his final hearing Mature pleads successfully for a chance to remain and become a citizen. Bendix is rubbed out in an effort to kill Mature, who plans to start a new life with Terry at his side.

"The Barefoot Mailman"

In Palm Beach at the turn of the century Robert Cummings, a smooth swindler, encounters Terry Moore, who is running away from a northern school back to her home in Miami. Their journey is aided by Jerome Courtland, a mailman who knows every inch of the terrain. The travelers are ambushed by a perying beachcomber gang which kidnaps the girl. Cummings and Courtland, safely from Miami, out-battle the hoodlums to rescue Terry. Then, in Miami, Cummings engineers a land parcle and—two jumps ahead of the sheriff—joins forces with the beachcombers. Headed by Courtland, the barefoot mailman, the settlers band together to smash the renegades. Cummings is deported along with the beachcombers and Terry settles down to marriage with Courtland, her true love.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY, MAY 3, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—To finish up what others start is often a tedious thankless job. But it also is part of our regular obligations. So do it in good spirit.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Put aside anxieties, small fears. Sunday asks more care of spiritual needs, less thought about the material.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—You can do things well when you put our best self forward, but you can be careless, too. Check that!

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Stop awhile to review the suggestions of both oldsters and youngsters. Neither should be ignored. Co-operation is stressed, especially in "little" things that matter.

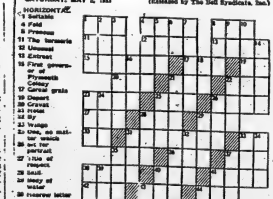
July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—You can do more than many when you put your thinking cap on and eliminate tardy beginnings. First thought today should be of the soul's needs.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Something you have wished to do for some time? Then go about it promptly without misgivings. Attend church.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Religious instruction, healthy activities are basic for good behavior and sound accomplishments. Go to church, of course.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Make up your mind to think and act with precision (as Scorpio usually does) but not abruptness.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—A good day if you are in a good mood and willing to assume obligations with understanding and a smile.



December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Here we have those tantalizing mischief – makers again; fear of ridicule, lack of proper resolve, and maybe jealousy. Dismiss them determinedly. Pray.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Indigestion, dissatisfaction and strain are your "don'ts" for this should-be beneficial Sunday. Give yourself the best break of all by starting at church.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Heed the suggestions to the Zodical natives you will be associating with today. Note where understanding and co-operation are most needed.

YOU BORN TODAY: Strengthen your fine qualities and assets, and they will multiply, including high ideals, love of family life, artistic refinement, sociability and a capacity for learning. With such a start, developed to right degree, you can reach the pinnacle of worthy achievement. On the other side of the ledger you must be careful to avoid excesses in pleasure, foods or liquids, to shun unwise associates who flatter or play upon sympathies. Pray always for guidance. Birthrate of: Niccolo Machiavelli, statesman, writer.

BY-LAW NO.

A By-Law to provide for drainage work in the Township of Sidney in County of Hastings, and for borrowing the sum of $2,000.00 upon the credit of the Municipality for completing the same.

That the owners, residents and non-resident owners, as shown by the last revised assessment roll, of the lands and roads as set forth in the Schedule hereto annexed, are hereby constituted a Drainage Area and hereby are assessed with the amounts set forth therein as their proportion of the cost of the drainage work hereinafter provided for.

That the drainage work shall consist of the following: Lots 30 and 31 on the North Side of Concession 1 to Lot 35 on the North Side of Concession 1 and Lot 30 to Lot 35 on the South Side of Concession 1 and Lot 30 to Lot 35 on the North Side of Concession 2 in the Township of Sidney as shown on plan and profile.

That the Engineer employed and named for the purpose of examination to be made by Col. A. W. Ardagh, C.E., making a preliminary report and estimate of the cost of the drainage work, and who is hereby appointed Engineer suggested for the drainage work, and who is hereby appointed Engineer to make the survey, plans, profile, specifications and estimate of the cost of the drainage work and lands to be assessed therefor, and to superintend to be made by the owners of the lands and roads to be assessed for the drainage work, and to report his opinion as to any claims for compensation, assessment for benefit, outlet liability, and the time for completing the work, and to report the number of sets of plans, profiles and specifications required, and to report as to any lands or roads which, in his opinion, will be injured or benefited by the construction of the drainage work, and to report the estimated amount of such injury or benefit, and to report the lands and roads which should be assessed for the same, and to report any other matters which may be required by the By-Law enacted by the Council of the Township of Sidney to be considered, and being one of the Provincial Land Surveyors for the County of Hastings, and a member of the Association of Ontario Land Surveyors, and of the Association of Provincial Land Surveyors, and of the said drainage work being an Arterial Drain.

That on instructions from The Council of the Township of Sidney the Engineer has made an examination of the lands and roads which will be affected, or which will be benefited by the said drainage work, and has reported and estimated the cost of the said drainage work, and has prepared plans, specifications and estimates for the construction of the said drainage work, dated the 1st day of August, A.D., 1952. All owners were duly notified and the report was read and discussed on August 21st, 1952. In view of the fact that the report was not adopted, all owners were withdrawn a substantial majority of lands remained. Action was taken to proceed with the drainage work on the report dated the 1st day of August, 1952.

At a special meeting of Council held November 19, a resolution was passed to proceed with the drainage work as per report.

(1) That the whole area covered by the petition is greatly in need of drainage.

(2) That the said drainage work will consist of a ditch on the south of the Canadian National Railway the outlet stream for each or which might be improved and enlarged as shown on the plan and profile hereinafter referred to, each of the components to be serviced by a drain.

(3) That the said drainage work does not likely to accrue to lands and roads in Concession 1 and 2 in the Township of Sidney in the County of Hastings, as set forth in Section 4, sub-section 2, of the Act.

(4) That it is equitable to make a substantial Allowance for severance, injury to right of way, and for the use of lands required for the construction, repair or other improvement of bridges required by reason of the Municipal Drainage Act

Search Parties Bring in Last of 43 Bodies Lost in Crash

British Comet Jet Airliner Crashes Near Calcutta

CALCUTTA (AP)—Search parties today brought in the last of 43 bodies from the scattered wreckage of a British Comet jet airliner which crashed 20 minutes after takeoff at Calcutta late Saturday. Thirty-five of the dead were Britons, many of them on their way to attend the Coronation.

The crash of the speedy plane—a few minutes after it swept into monsoon rains from Calcutta's Dum Dum airport on a Singapore-to-London flight—was the second fatal accident for Britain's gamed airliner and the first in a scheduled commercial flight. The plant was operated by the British Overseas Airways Corporation.

Preliminary reports said a fire or explosion shortly after the takeoff apparently caused the disaster.

Spotted Sunday

Search planes spotted the wreckage Sunday morning in rough, barren country. A ground party reached the scene in the afternoon. The giant four-engine plane was smashed to bits and had burned. Searchers found 43 charred bodies, burned beyond recognition, were found in a 2-mile area.

Most of the 37 passengers were British business men and officials and their wives. Eleven women were aboard including the plane's stewardess. A small baby and at least an infant also were among the dead. The plane carried five crew members.

Three Identified

Three American aboard were identified as Rev. Paul Snead, a Methodist missionary stationed at Ipoh, Malaya, who was reported on his way home for leave and Miss Ruth S. Cohen and Miss Anita Whistler, two teachers making a world tour after completing exchange teaching assignments in Rangoon, Burma.

Six minutes after the Comet headed into heavy rains on the scheduled three-hour hop to New Delhi, radio contact snapped off. Villagers who saw the plane go down said it circled toward the city like a ball of fire.

The tragedy came on the first anniversary of Britain's dramatic 500-mile-an-hour jet travel service and shortly after the new terminal London run had been opened.

Britain's first jet disaster was a Comet belonging to the Canadian Pacific Airlines when it crashed at Karachi, Pakistan, on its delivery run to Honolulu last March.

E. G. Reynolds Named Hydro Personnel Officer

TORONTO. — E. G. "Bill" Reynolds has been appointed personnel officer for Ontario Hydro's Niagara region. He succeede Alex DeMaio, who has been promoted and transferred to Toronto as the consolidated operation services Engineer at the A. W. Manby Service Centre in Islington. Reynolds was announced by A. S. Robertson, manager, Niagara region.

Mr. Reynolds will have charge of personnel work throughout the entire Niagara region which embraces the peninsula extending as far as Grimsby and Smithville. He comes to Niagara from the east central region at Belleville where he was assistant personnel officer.

Mr. Reynolds has been with Hydro since January 1949 and has been a member of the personnel department of the sports. A short time at head office in Toronto and at North Bay, then he was attached to the personnel staff at the Des Joachims project for about a year. For the last three years, he has been stationed at Belleville. Before joining Ontario Hydro he attended U.C.C. and was with the A. V. Roe Company, Toronto, in production planning. He is married and has a son who is six months old. The Reynolds will make their residence in Niagara Falls.

Believed to Have Blown Up Thursday

TIMAGAMI (CP)—An oil slick on the surface of a northern lake may help solve the mystery of the disappearance of the lumber tug White Bear and four men aboard her.

A fleet of red canoes scouring Rabbit lake is seeking such a slick or even bubbles of fuel oil from the sunken diesel-driven tug's 300-gallon tank. Police say oil traces would probably afford the only hope of finding the White Bear, believed to have foundered in Thursday's storm and gone down in 200 feet of water with all hands.

Missing and feared drowned are: Leslie Tasker, 23, captain of the tug; Fred Kozik, 21, of Ottawa, woods foreman of the Gillies Brothers Lumber Company and lumberjacks Leonard Conroy, 19, and Edward Hamilton, 51.

Tasker and Conroy came from Quebec province. Hamilton, whose brother Tom is in Sudbury, lived at Timagami more than 30 years. Kozik was married and was the skipper of the White Bear. The tug had been in service ever since the spring break-up April 13.

Towing Steel Boat

The tug was towing a 22-foot steel boat when it set out Thursday on an 18-mile trip from the Gillies mill to a large log boom in the southeast bay of Rabbit lake, Timagami's smaller west arm. Only then Ontario resort centre and some 85 miles north of North Bay.

It is believed all four men were on the White Bear, which had a cookstove and cabin facilities.

The men were expected back late Friday with 7,000 logs. When they did not return by Saturday, a casual search was made in the expectation they had merely been delayed by adverse winds. Sunday a systematic search was planned and a search plane went out.

Spots Oil Drum

From the air, searchers spotted an oil drum and an aluminum pike-pole floating on the lake. Then they found gasoline stained on the smashed stool on which Tasker usually sat while steering the tug, as well as part of the White Bear's superstructure, two more pikepoles and another oil drum.

House-to-House Search Made For Missing Boys

TORONTO (CP)—Police started a slow house-to-house search of a downtown Toronto area today for two brothers, aged 4 and 5, who disappeared three days ago when they went for a walk with their mother.

Police said there has been little trace of Henry Quigley, 10, Rowland, 5, since they left their home Friday.

Mrs. Mary Quigley moved to a new house Thursday and the boys' mother, Mrs. Margaret Quigley, said she believes they returned to their old neighborhood.

Search of their former home indicated they slept there Friday night or Saturday. Police said they found blankets and two cardboard boxes on the floor of one of the rooms.

Search crews dragged the Don River in the area Sunday and checked over the waterfront district.

Next Atomic Tests in Pacific May Include Hydrogen Blasts Of Unprecedented Magnitude

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The next series of atomic tests in the Pacific probably will include hydrogen explosions of unprecedented magnitude.

Using knowledge and materials tried out cautiously in two previous series involving "thermonuclear" experiments—the most recent of which is reported to have produced the mightiest man-made blast so far—scientists and military men are setting the scene for what is expected to be a still more awesome test shot or shots.

The principle of the comparatively minor-scale explosive tests of devices and weapons now under way at the Nevada proving grounds apparently represent preliminary work for further scientific experiments in big-scale explosions of nuclear fission and hydrogen fusion gadgets in the Pacific.

Apparently convinced in the last two tests at Eniwetok atoll that a hydrogen explosion can be produced, the forces of nuclear physicists now are directed at (A) stepping up the force of the explosion and (B) encasing the atomic-fusion bomb with more economy in the use of fissionable material.

To create the heat and pressure needed for triggering a hydrogen device something like a fantastic atomic bomb explosion must be produced.

Material-wise, this is costly. And there are reasons to believe that the present heat-pressure requirements for touching off a hydrogen explosion are greater than that which can be produced by a single atomic bomb.

Dr. W. E. Libby of the University of Chicago, in a report Saturday to the American Physical Society here, said there was a big increase in the percentage of the amount of tritium, a possible ingredient of H-bombs. He made no mention of H-bombs, but other scientists noted that the dates he gave coincided with atomic tests at Eniwetok.

Atomic Quantities

The atmosphere normally contains only very minute quantities of tritium, a form of hydrogen. Libby said that between Oct. 14 and Nov. 17, the amount in the air tripled, and then gradually went back to normal. He said such an increase could be caused by a period of fallout.

The atomic energy commission a month ago made plain that Eniwetok, first used for big-scale tests since 1948, is too small for such tests. The AEC said it now will begin to use Bikini atoll, made famous by the operation of naval vessels. Bikini is 180 miles south of Eniwetok in the Marshall Island group.

Special Study of Capital Punishment, Lotteries Asked

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons special law committee today unanimously recommended the cabinet appoint a royal commission or joint parliamentary committee to study capital punishment, abolition of capital and corporal punishment, defence of insanity and lotteries.

The report said:

"At various times during the course of its work, the following matters pertaining to the criminal law were directed to the attention of your committee, namely: The defence of insanity; capital punishment; corporal punishment; lotteries."

"Your committee is of opinion that these questions are of such paramount importance that they could and should be dealt with more merely as incidentals to the consolidation or revision of the present Criminal Code, which is in bill No. 83.

"The committee upon the matter last before it was not prepared to recommend a change in the present law respecting the abolition of insanity, lotteries and the imposition of punishment by whipping and by sentence of death.

"But (the committee) unanimously is of the opinion that consideration, and so recommends, that the government appoint (or cause to be appointed) give consideration to the appointment of a royal commission or to the submission to Parliament of a proposal to set up a joint parliamentary committee of the Senate and the House of Commons to . . . whether any of these provisions should be amended and if so what specific amendment or amendments to be made."

Duke Passes Final Test In Solo Flight

WHITE WALTHAM, England (AP)—The Duke of Edinburgh completed his flight test today after a few hours before he was scheduled to receive his wings at a ceremony in Buckingham Palace.

During a solo flight in a training plane he flew over Windsor Castle. He was up about 20 minutes and then brought the plane in for a perfect landing.

"His Royal Highness is easily the best pupil I have ever had. He is terrifically enthusiastic and loves flying aircraft."

Pakistan Will Probably Accept Custodianship

KARACHI, Pakistan (Reuters)—Pakistan will probably accept responsibility for repatriation of Korean prisoners by Allied and Communist truce negotiators, observers said today.

Prime Minister Mohammed Ali has said he sees no reason why Pakistan should not act as the custodian. Observers believe that the nomination would give Pakistan a new standing in the international field and help it boost the prestige of Ali's new government.

India's Prime Minister Nehru said today in Bombay, India would not accept responsibility. He said that she take custody of Korean prisoners refusing repatriation if it seemed necessary.

India and Pakistan are two of four Asian countries the Red negotiators at Panmunjom have said are acceptable as a neutral caretaker for the POWs not wanting repatriation. The others are Burma and Indonesia.

The UN command installed Pakistan as their choice Sunday.

LOUISIANA HAS HIT

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Two drownings and an estimated crop damage of $1,500,000 are counted in the wake of heavy rain,-wind and hail in southeast Louisiana. Thunderstorms poured 9.6 inches of rain on the Baton Rouge area. Almost 100 persons were rescued by boat as water in some residential areas rose to a depth of feet.

CANADIANS BEAT BACK CHINESE IN FIERCE BATTLE

SEOUL, Korea (CP)—Canadian troops Sunday beat back 750 to 1,000 Chinese in a fierce 2½-hour battle inside Allied lines on the western front northeast of Panmunjom.

The 8th army said the 3rd battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment and Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry took the brunt of the Red assault.

The Reds were driven off only after "extremely hand-to-hand combat in the trenches," the 8th army said.

A Canadian spokesman said the Chinese attacked about 11:30 p.m. Saturday night after unleashing a Canadian patrol in no-man's-land.

A second patrol was sent out to rescue the remnants of the first. Then the Chinese attacked the 3rd British and Canadian positions.

Heavy Artillery Fire

The fighting broke up with a 1,000-round barrage of artillery and mortar fire on the Commonwealth positions, just east of Koranppo between Little Gibraltar hill and Hook hill.

Little Gibraltar and the Hook are 19 to 12 miles northeast of Panmunjom, where truce talks are being held.

The Chinese made a feint toward the British Royal Fusiliers with heavy mortar and machine-gun fire, and then hit the Canadians.

"They came in screaming, hurling grenades and firing rifles," said one British officer said.

During the battle the second Canadian patrol returned and found the Chinese had overrun their forward trenches.

Got Boots Back

"One of our men came back to find Chinese busting his bunker," said a Canadian officer. "Two of them came out carrying his boots. He killed them, took his boots back to his bunker and put them under his bed."

By 2 a.m. Sunday the Canadians had cleared out all the Chinese and forced them to withdraw.

The fighting was the toughest in which the Canadian Commonwealth has been involved since it returned to the line about a month ago. Previously, the United States 2nd Infantry, in one of its heaviest blows of the war, had thrown back communist buildings on the Korean western front Saturday.

Two carriers, the Princeton and the Valley Forge, buried scores of planes into the atoll on north-east areas around Hungnam and Hungnam.

More Army Personnel Ready for Trip Home

KURE, Japan (CP)—The 1st battalions of the Royal 22nd Regiment and the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery and the 1st battalion of the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers, their tour of duty in Korea completed, were to leave Saturday aboard the USS General Hauser.

After the last several days the troops, bound for Canada on sprawling, U.S.-built transports will clear-up and documentation.

Scottish Duke to Resume Quest For World's Greatest Treasure

By DEREK JAMESON

LONDON (Reuters)—The Duke of Argyll said today he will soon resume the world's greatest treasure hunt for £30,000,000 worth of gold—somewhere in the hold of a sunken Spanish galleon Duque de Florencia.

The chief of the Scottish Campbell clan is the hereditary owner of the Florencia, which sailed over to have been the payship of the routed Spanish armada, which sank in 1588 off the isle of Mull, on the rugged west coast of Scotland.

Men have searched the Bay of Tobermory at Mull for centuries in the hopes of an overnight fortune but it was not until three years ago that scientifically-equipped naval divers, commissioned by the 43-year-old duke, located the wreck.

Embedded in thousands of tons of mud about 28 feet beneath the surface of the bay, Atlantic, the 50-foot vessel will not give up its treasure without a hard and costly fight.

It took the Royal Navy seven weeks in the bay to free surface piece of charred wood and two medallions—with the figure of a reclining nude on one side — to prove that the galleon really was there.

The duke is holding back details of his plan to raise the rotting hulk. He has already spent several thousand pounds on the search since he succeeded his uncle as duke in 1949.

UN Nominates Pakistan for POW Caretaker Role

Reds Warned 'Time Fast Running Out' in Truce Talks

PANJUMJOM (AP)—The Allies today nominated Pakistan as a neutral caretaker for Korean war prisoners who won't go home, and warned the apparently surprised Reds: Time is "fast running out" in the truce talks.

Without even mentioning the Allied choice the Reds asked and received a recess until Tuesday, possibly to consult higher officials.

No Long Discussions

"We are obliged to tell you once again that we will not engage in protracted and meaningless discussion during the current negotiations," which began April 26.

The Communists on Saturday suggested Pakistan, Burma, India and Indonesia as acceptable hosts for the 48,000 Red prisoners who won't go home.

Pakistan was the third country nominated by the UN. First was Switzerland, which the Reds had opposed. Then Sweden. The Communists insisted on an Asian state.

They want the reluctant PoWs shipped to the neutral country for explanations of the armistice terms they agreed upon. The Allies want a neutral country to assume control of them in Korea.

Harrison told reporters:

No Difference

"Any current negotiations are really no different from last summer." The Allies broke off the meetings Oct. 8 where the Reds kept stalling on the prisoner exchange question.

Harrison said no time limit has been set for the armistice talks, but twice inside the conference hut, he delivered an implied warning he would end the talks again if the Reds did not begin to progress.

Harrison reminded the Reds that they mentioned Burma, Indonesia, Pakistan and India as suitable Asian neutrals.

He said that unless they had named these four for propaganda purposes, "we would appreciate if you consider each of the four" to be neutral and competent and therefore suitable.

"In view of previous statements, we expect that our nomination will be quite acceptable to you and will result in quick agreement on this issue. If so, then this will have been the first substantive item these talks began that there may be some justification for our continuing to meet with you again. We hope that this indication may not be needed by subsequent negotiations."

Answers With Statement

North Korean Gen. Nam Il, chief Red delegate, answered with a statement apparently prepared in advance which said that "the first order of business should be an agreement that unwilling prisoners be transported physically to a neutral nation.

Nam Il's statement gave no clue to the reason the Communists had requested and received a one-day recess during the week-end.

His argument was largely a repeat of what he had said before.

Nam injected only one new note into the discussion and he quickly considered it a settled matter.

Crowds Follow Funeral Cortege Of Slain Official

TUNIS (AP)—Crowds of Tunisians and French today followed the funeral cortege of Chedli Kaslatly, 71-year-old deputy mayor of Tunis, who was assassinated Saturday on the eve of municipal elections while this North African city seethed with excitement.

At the grave, Tunisian and French officials took turns castigating the assassins and praising Kastaly for his patriotism and his faith in France-Tunisian friendship.

There was widespread talk meanwhile of new Tunisian crisis with the flareup of violence, although elections Sunday proceeded without further incident after the arrest of a score of leaders of the extreme nationalist movement.

The 72-year-old Bey of Tunis called for calm and announced "total disapproval" of all armed attacks on Tunisians.

Kastaly was considered progressive by the Tunisians and French officials have blamed terrorists of the Independence-seeking Destour party for pulling down the Arab mayor in the street.

Famous Leinster Plate Will Go on Display at Fort Henry

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—The famous Leinster plate, a dazzling military collection of some 120 pieces of solid silver plate and trophies, has been put on display at Fort Henry after being locked away for 30-years in a vault at the Royal Military College.

The collection, loaned to Fort Henry authorities by the college as a tourist attraction, was once owned by the first unit from any British country to be raised since the 10th Canadian Regiment of Foot.

It was given to the Canadian government when the former owners, the 1st battalion Prince of Wales Leinster Regiment (Royal Canadian) was disbanded in 1922.

The 100th was formed in 1858 when Britain accepted an offer from Canada to raise troops to help crush the Indian Mutiny.

Most of the soldiers were volunteers and hardly one in 10 had ever handled a musket, but in the second year the battalion was placed fourth among 170 battalions in marksmanship. The three-foot musket trophy is awarded for this forms part of the collection.

The unit was commanded by Lt.-Col. George, Baron de Rodenburg of Prussia, then adjutant-general of Upper Canada. He was the first Canadian ever to command an imperial regiment.

The regiment served in Canada and Malta and then returned to Ireland in 1898. Its relics came to Canada, the regiment was stationed at Montreal and Kingston and took part in Confederation commonies in 1867.

Sir Archibald Nye, now British high commissioner to Canada, was the last commanding officer.

Close Relationship Between Lung Cancer and Cigaret Smoking Seen

WASHINGTON (AP)—A cancer specialist says unpublished findings on the cigaret smoking habit between lung cancer and cigaret smoking, but not cigar or pipe smoking.

Dr. Norman Topping told a House of Representatives sub-committee that a paper presented last month at the meeting of the American Epidemiological Society said "that there was a definite correlation. . . between cigaret smoking (and lung cancer), but there was no correlation between cigar smoking or pipe smoking."

"The implication there is that it is not the tobacco necessarily which caused the cancer of the lung, but that something in the process or perhaps the peculiarities of the cigaret smoking were correlated with cancer of the lung, rather than tobacco per se.

"Otherwise you would find it in cigar smoking and pipe as well, which they did not find."

Dr. Topping added that "this paper has not been published," he did not say who presented the paper or what research preceded it.

He and other physicians testified on April 17 before a House appropriations sub-committee considering the budget requests of the National Cancer Institute. The committee made the hearing record public today.

Warm Weather Should Unfold Peach Blossoms

ST. Catharines (CP) — Warm weather this week should unfold the peach blossoms in the Niagara peninsula orchards just in time for Blossom Sunday, scheduled for May 17.

A few scattered orchards, particularly in the Queenston area, already are making a showing of early blooms. Most orchards are fairly well along, while the pink of the peach orchards is just starting to appear.

The cold spring and heavy rainfall held back the blossoming season. Growers say they are not concerned, however, as the early blossoming always raises the possibility that frost will nip the buds before they are set.

Traffic throughout the peninsula was heavy Sunday. If sightseers were too early to view the blossoms at their best, they saw spring's bright colors of the fields and trees, combined with gay splashes of tulip and hyacinth beds.

TWO BELLEVILLE BOYS FIRST-YEAR GRADUATES

Included in the list of first-year graduates of Royal Roads Service College in Vancouver are John Hagerman, (army) son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hagerman, Bellevills and David Smith (navy) son of Archdeacon Arthur Smith and Mrs. Smith also of Belleville. The graduates will pursue their second year studies at RMC, Kingston.

HASTY FEES READY FOR INSPECTION

Readying for their annual inspection, the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment held a full dress rehearsal on the Collegiate campus Sunday afternoon. Under the supervision of Lieut.-Col. J. H. Widdifield, commanding officer, and chief instructor Lieut. Major Duffy, the regiment went through ceremonial and other phases of the spectacular training.

Companies from Picton, Trenton, Madoc and Bancroft were represented, with the drum and trumpet band of the regiment in attendance.

The next rehearsal takes place two weeks Saturday with the inspection scheduled for probably the last Sunday in May. It will be held, weather permitting, on the Collegiate campus.

WILL BE DELEGATES TO CONVENTION

Mrs. Harry Smith, Sr., and Mrs. Warren Jones, will represent the two senior branches of St. Thomas' Women's Auxiliary at the 57th annual convention of the Diocesan Auxiliary at St. George's Hall, Kingston, on Wednesday and Thursday of this week-end of the season's meetings will also be in attendance.

MASSED CHOIR TO GIVE FESTIVAL

One of the features of the Coronation Festival Service being held in the Kingston Community Centre on Sunday, May 31st will be the singing of a huge massed choir representative of the district. Over 200 choristers or Belleville are holding rehearsals in preparation for the event.

Arrest Couple On Bogus Cheque Charges

A man and woman who Friday night are believed to have passed bogus cheques totalling over $700 with local merchants, have been arrested in Kingston and will be returned to this city to face charges, Inspector J. C. Hayes stated today. The couple gave their names as Donald Thomas Gibbons and Lucy Poitras.

Police said that 12 or 13 bogus cheques were passed Friday evening with local merchants, the mode of operation being to purchase a few dollars worth of goods then tender what appeared to be a pay cheque in payment, taking the balance in cash.

When complaints began to arrive at the police station, Saturday morning, police phoned a description of the couple to Kingston with result they were picked up as they attempted to pass a cheque at an apparel store.

All of the cheques cashed at Belleville were at men's or women's apparel stores and shoe stores.

The cockatoo, a native of the Pacific regions, is closely related to the true parrot.

Seven Pound Two-Ounce Brown Trout Taken by Foxboro Couple in Hastings Creek

A Foxboro husband and wife teamed up for what possibly was the biggest trout catch in the Hastings county district in the first week-end of the season's trout fishing.

The seven lb. two ounce brown trout measuring 27 inches in length was landed by Mr. and Mrs. Gene Kelly in a well known Hastings creek. It was the only trout the two caught all afternoon. The fish was taken on a worm.

It was hubby's line that hooked the trout but wife Audrey got a big assist in helping to land the beauty. When she thought her husband was about to lose the fish Mrs. Kelly slid down the steep bank to the edge of the creek and grabbed the trout in her hands as it surfaced near the bank.

"It hadn't been for Audrey, I would have lost the fish," Mr. Kelly said.

Fishing a short distance downstream Mrs. Kelly said she thought someone had fallen in the creek when she heard the splash of the big fish on her husband's book. "I nearly fell over when I saw the fish surface," she said.

But she wasn't any more surprised and excited than was her husband "who more than had his hands full until his wife landed the fish "by hand."

Audrey landed the fish just in time," Mr. Kelly said. "It had straightened the hook and in another second would have been gone."

An amount of $15,000 has been placed in the preliminary estimates for construction of a dock in the inner harbor at Belleville, according to an announcement by F. S. Pollwell, M.P. for Hastings West.

The new dock will be built adjacent to the Victoria Park and the new Belleville Yacht Club.

According to local yacht club members plans call for construction of an L-shaped dock running out into the harbor about 100 feet and extending 125 feet along Victoria Park. It would be of timber and plank construction and would be used for tying up yachts and power boats which are now moored in the centre of the harbor. This would leave the harbor clear for pleasure craft to move freely in and out of the harbor.

One local yacht club member said such a dock was badly needed in the city as at present there was no place for visiting yachts to tie up. As result they passed Belleville and have stopped either at Trenton or Picton.

It is understood that if tenders will be called for the construction of the dock or whether the work would be placed under the direction of a department engineer.

21 Pigeons Stolen From Two Dovecotes

Dovecotes of two pigeon fanciers in the city were raided over the week-end with no less than 21 pigeons reported to police as having disappeared. The thefts were believed by police to have been the work of children.

Mrs. Gd. D. Flindall, 78 Sinclair street, reported two homing pigeons had disappeared from their coops some time on Sunday, while also Clayton Wilson, 164 Church street, reported that 19 English Tippler pigeons had been stolen from his pens. Earlier in the day Mr. Wilson had chased some boys away from the coops, he said.

Salute to Red Shield' Program Much Enjoyed

"A Salute to the Red Shield" was the title of the program presented last night by the general local talent under the direction of Mr. Alec Gordon and through the courtesy of CJBQ Radio which broadcasted the one hour. Senior-Captain Fred Brightwell, local Commanding Officer of The Salvation Army here was the master of ceremonies and Colonel Roscoe Vanderwater brought a message and appealed to the residents of Belleville and district to support the Annual Red Shield Drive of The Salvation Army which commences on Monday.

The Bridge Street ladies' choir commenced the program with the beautiful "List Comf' with Mr. Gordon at the piano. Mrs. Curtis Smith followed by giving "Our Daily Bread" and The Young People's singing company of the Citadel rendered the vocal number, "Take Thou my Hand." "I Shall not Pass This Way Again" was the title of the vocal solo given by Mr. Kenneth Graham followed by a piano forte solo by Mr. A. Gordon. Lieut. W. Brown gave an expert performance on the Euphonium by playing the difficult selection "Long Long Ago."

Mrs. W. Burgoyne sang two numbers, the last being "How lovely are Thy Dwellings." The singing company again sang "Savior While My Heart is Tender." These young people were all under 14 years of age and under the direction of Mrs. Senior Captain Brightwell with Miss D. Mitchell at the piano.

The Bridge Street women's choir presented a second number which was beautifully rendered and entitled "Galilee." Mr. Kenneth Graham and Mrs. Alec McDougal sang a duet "Come Holy Spirit." Which was followed by another number by Lieut. Wm. Brown, of Tweed. The Old Rugged Cross," a favorite of millions of people. Mrs. Senior Captain Brightwell accompanied on the piano by Mr. Alec Gordon sang the charming vocal number "I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked."

After Senior Captain Fred Brightwell thanked the public for listening in the program and thanking those who took part, Mr. Alec Gordon closed the recital with the well known and well loved "Hallelujah Chorus."

Many Anglers From City Enjoy Good Catches of Trout Despite Cold, Wet Weather

Ole Jupe Pluvius may have dampened the bodies of the trout-hungry fraternity over the week-end but judging from the fair basis brought back, he did not affect their spirits.

Deluging rain on Saturday put a damper on a lot of fish-seeking activities but a direct reversal of form on the part of the weather man sent the Izaak Waltons out in full force on Sunday, Friday, official opening day, was not conducive to good fishing but some of the boys report good catches.

Speckles, grey and brown trout, greeted many a Sunday dinner table while cabin and cottage near the fishing haunts were replenished with the appetizing odor of trout sizzling in the frying pan. On some spots on Sunday, the trout sizzled in frying pans over fires built near lake shores and creek banks.

To "Cowboy" Kelly of Foxboro, goes the honor of hauling in the biggest fish of the week-end when he landed a five-pound two-ounce brown trout, beauty while fishing in a well-known creek" in the mid-section of the county. Mr. Kelly was accompanied by his wife and after they hooked the piscatorial prize decided to call it a day.

2 1-2 Pound Speckle

Pete Wills, as far as can be ascertained, pulled in the prize speckle during the week-end quest.

Pete, fishing with Milton Davidson and Eric Kruger, hauled in a beauty which tipped the scales at 1-2 pounds. Fifteen others of lesser weight fell to the lures of the trio.

Where did they get them? Ask Pete.

Cyril Gardner came back with a nice haul of fourteen ready-for-the-pan beauties which he tried his luck on opening day.

Bob Blaisdell of Blaisdl's Sport Shop, teamed up with Jackie Wardhaugh on Sunday and came back with seven speckles caught near Fuller. Bob in his first effort on Friday with Ken Yorke caught a similar quantity.

OPP Corporal "Flip" Morden and Constable Al Cockburn sought the speckles near Maxinaw, Ale an unknown quantity on location" and brought home seven for proof. Constable Ted Smith and I. Tinkess took another route and also brought back several fine trophies. This duo disdained the use of a canoe, as last year they claimed they struck a submerged iceberg in a north-em lake with the result that one of the party took an unforeseen ducking.

Alderman Claude Tice and party settled for more trout and came home with four. Included in the party is Dutch Tiller, Ernie Preston and John Way. There was some talk of a six-pounder caught by Dutch and Harold Legate.

"It was cold and wet", said "Sandy", "and the best we could do was sixteen speckles, about nine or ten inches long."

Wind-whipped waves prevented all-out fishing activities on Stanley Lake on Saturday although little rain fell, reports Fred H. Ketcheson. Sunday's activities resulted in a few "small" grey

POLICE BLOTTER

A complaint of cheque article being active was received by city police Friday night from the proprietor of a local women's wearing apparel store.

It was claimed that a man and woman had purchased $12 worth of merchandise and then tendered a cheque drawn on a Picton bank for $25 in payment. The balance was received the balance in cash.

Later it was found there was no account at the bank on which the cheque was drawn.

A Cedar street woman complained of theft of money and bottles, while a local novelty store reported two juvenile shoplifters had been active.

Just what use a thief may have for a $300 surveyor's transit is being pondered by city police today after reports that such an instrument had been stolen from a tool shed and office owned by Mahon Construction Company at the Dominion Parasite Laboratories on Dundas Street.

The firm is engaged in constructing a new laboratory and office building.

Police said that a lock had been pried off the door of the small building with the transit and a carpenter's handsaw being taken.

Boys Break Windows

The Norwegian government allocated $280,000 to aid the fishery in Norway during the 1953-54 financial year.

TRENTON

Trenton (Special)—After apparently having recovered from injuries suffered a week ago when she ran into the side of her uncle's car, four-year-old Cheryl Peterson of Glen Miller, died on the way to hospital in Toronto.

The little girl was injured after her home when she ran into the side of her uncle's car as he was backing it from her father's driveway. She was taken to Trenton Memorial Hospital and was discharged two days ago.

Saturday the girl became ill and doctors decided to send her to the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto. She died when the ambulance reached Oshawa.

Czechoslovakia Gives Amnesty In Soviet Pattern

munist satellite — Czechoslovakia —proclaimed an amnesty in the Soviet pattern today for lesser offenders, both civilian and military.

Radio Prague said the clemency decree, signed by President Antonin Zapotocky, went into effect today.

The broadcast made no mention of AP correspondent William N. Oatis, arrested two years ago in Prague on charges of spying and now serving a 10-year jail sentence.

It seemed unlikely that Oatis would benefit from the decree. The Czech amnesty, like those proclaimed by the Soviet Union and for Communist Romania, specifically excluded all persons convicted of treason, espionage or sabotage.

The new Soviet regime proclaimed the first sweeping Red clemency on March 27 after Stalin's death. Romania followed suit April 4 and Western observers speculated that the other East European satellites — Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary, Bulgaria, Albania and occupied East Germany—would take similar action.

Buck's Speech Drowned Out By Students

The speech, at Queen's Park where the Ontario government building is located, was at a decenter bulb 13.50-15.

Mr. Buck hailed Communist victories in British Guiana and in French municipal elections and said "victory is coming". When he asserted he wanted peace the students chanted "a piece of Canada, a piece of the United States."

Current Views of Business Scene

By FORREST RHODE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Current views of the business scene:

Canadian Bank of Commerce commercial letter:

"Canadian business activity has remained relatively stable at a high level, and month-to-month fluctuations in economic indicators have largely reflected seasonal factors."

Greenshields and Company:

"Most production and consumption figures available for the first quarter of 1953 are well ahead of those for the comparable period of 1952, and, when allowance is made for seasonal factors, the figures compare favorably with the preceding quarter.

"The output of electric energy in January and February showed an increase of 6.8 per cent over the same period of 1952. In January the index of industrial production was nearly 10 per cent higher than the same month last year, while industrial employment on Feb. 1 was the highest on record for that date.

"With average weekly earnings in industry up seven per cent and the retail price index down nearly two per cent, consumer demand was maintained at a high level, and the total value of retail trade in the first two months of the year showed a gain of 8.4 per cent over the comparable period of 1952. . .

"In contrast to the buoyant features of the economy, railway and foreign trade returns so far compare unfavorably with last year's figures. In Canada, the decline in railway earnings in the first quarter compared with the first quarter of 1952 was approximately proportionately 10 per cent in tonnage and six per cent in number of cars loaded, was due mainly to coal and pulpwood. . .

"The opening of navigation and with Canadian stocks of wheat oats and barley at a post-war high, the prospects are for an early rise in exports and eventually for a surplus over imports in the coming months.

"Here, the trend in world prices for grain, wood products and base metals, as well as the availability of dollars in countries outside the United States, will be the determining factors."

Wood, Gundy and Co., Ltd.:

"Over the years, Canadian securities taken as a whole, have proved and to the over-all economy of the country.

"Continued savings for investment are essential to ensure Canada's further growth and strength in the free world."

Dr. Summer H. Slichter, Harvard economist:

"If a recession occurs, it will be small." He said a recession under present international conditions would be "a calamity" and could be prevented if the government (U. S.) made vigorous use of its powers.

Dugal Catches Up On News In Japanese Hospital

Lt.-Col. Paul Dugal of Quebec City, first Canadian prisoner-of-war released by the Chinese Communists, is resting in the British Commonwealth hospital in Kure, Japan, before starting the long trip to Canada. Here, Louise Guerin, Canadian Red Cross worker from Quebec City, and Lt.-Col. Dugal, right, translate a French-Canadian newspaper for the benefit of Fus. George Hodkinson of the British army. U.S. Soldier Says He Signed Red Petition

BOSTON (AP)—Cpl. Donald Legay, one of the Americans to come home from North Korean prison camp, said today he had signed a Communist petition urging the United Nations to give up and get out.

The 23-year-old soldier, who was given a big welcome home reception Sunday in Leominster, Mass., has a day-by-day series of copyrighted stories under his by-line in the Boston Traveler telling of his 29 months as a prisoner of the Communists.

"And—don't be too cocky—after a couple of years of what the Communists call 'brain washing', you might have signed it too," he said.

"I say that because I'm no Communist. Never was one. Couldn't be one. In fact, America meant more to me as a POW than ever before. Yet I signed it.

"If you think brain washing threw me for a loss, look at the other 219 Americans in that camp on Yalu. Twenty of them swallowed the Communist line. Fifty of them went off their rockers. About one of every three Americans there fell for the Red talk or went mad."

TOO LITTLE AND TOO LATE AGAIN

Nothing should demonstrate more clearly to us the extent to which things have changed in the thinking of world diplomats than the crisis in French Indo-China. It is now being conceded by the conservative British observers of world affairs that democracy could lose, in Laos, all that we have tried so hard to retrieve in Korea.

And it is all because we have, in these latter days, become led to believe that American interests are paramount in world affairs. Overnight we are confronted with a decision of arms in Laos which could mean the loss of the whole Far East to Communism.

We can only wonder whether it is the realization of this in the Kremlin which afforded USSR defence minister, Marshal Bulganin, in a May Day address, the challenging effrontery to repeat President Eisenhower, chapter and verse, in presenting new and revised peace terms to the Western World.

It is only within a little more than three weeks that the situation has changed so dramatically in Indo-China. And it is only with May Day that Moscow has changed its tune.

Whatever the inadequacies of the men in the chancelleries of Europe in the last century or two at least, it must be admitted that they always entertained a global concept of diplomacy, and they were doing this in times when our world community was not the intimate and familiar realm it is in this day and age.

It is inconceivable that the Indo-Chinese situation should have been permitted to deteriorate into an almost hopeless one. If the mainmost men dominating the affairs of the world's nationals in step with the pace of these times it should not have happened. Unfortunately the Yankee dollar has supplanted what had served the world community of the past so long. And nothing can be so short-sighted as a dollar, whether it is for next week's groceries or the next generation's existence.

It is learned, on the arrival of Henri Queuille, Premier of France, in Washington two weeks ago that President Eisenhower was impressed with the fact that Indo-China might be an important, or more important, than Korea. And the assurance of vital American aid there was not forthcoming until there had been enacted from the French premier a promise that he would go home committing himself to full collaboration with the German nation in a European arms' program. Even though everyone in Washington is well aware that the historic enmity between these two peoples is more deep-seated than the conflicting feelings of the Hatfields and the McCoys in the Kentucky hills, Washington would barter for no less.

And then, on Friday last week, we finally learn just how serious the predicament in Indo-China is; how close the Vietminh Communists are to complete victory there, and, if they achieve it, will have both Burma and Thailand within grasp.

The last ditch stand is now being made. Perhaps, as in the past, with help of Providence, we will find a way out. But perhaps the lesson not to be ignored is that the ways of the world can only be left in the hands of diplomatic novices at the jeopardy of our democratic civilization.

A FAMILIAR STORY

Statistics can be misleading.

One of the latest releases from the Motor Vehicles Branch of the Ontario Department of Highways comes in this category.

With information presented in alphabetical order we find that Belleville is at the top of the list relating to motor vehicle accidents in Ontario cities; but it showed that in years 1951 and 1952, only one fatal accident was reported from Belleville.

This, of course, is not a true picture. To most of us Belleville is the centre of the finest city district. It is a wide community round about and it embraces people who are our neighbors, or relatives, and very often our close friends of early days.

So let us learn how our community has fared in a comparative way with others in respect to accidents we look to a further breakdown of figures related to districts. We find that the district embracing Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Frontenac and Prince Edward provides more information. In 1951 there were 2,039 serious accidents. In 1952 the figure was 2,247. This increase was nearly double the increase for the whole of the province.

This is not an admirable record. In fact, in Belleville alone in these two years, 107 were injured in accidents. For some reason the report, filling six pages of foolscap length, does not give us the "details" of those fatalities and injuries. We can be sure that they were counted in hundreds in the total for the province of slightly less than 32,000 accidents creating 1951 and 1952 in which personal injury was suffered.

In those two years we killed nearly 2,000 persons on our streets and highways in Ontario. It seems that repeatedly drawing the attention of citizens to the proportions of this type of national suicide avails nothing. We can only reflect that if outside forces were inflicting this manner of death and destruction upon us the government of the land would have long since declared a state of national emergency and have done something to cope with it.

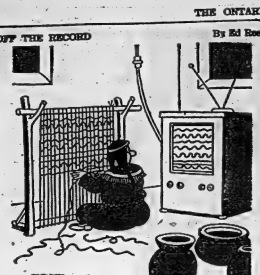
(According to the women)



For what he wants, at us he'll shout.
Once more he's startled to complain
And that's a sign, beyond a doubt,
That he is getting well again.

The doctor's rules he disobeys.
To please him now we try in vain.
Ill-tempered arguments he'll raise.
And he's begun to smoke again.

He says he's tired of toast and tea,
And sick of stuff we have to serve.
Once more he's cross as he can be.
He's getting like himself again.

OFF THE RECORD

Letter to the Editor

Wants to See City More Beautiful

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

Sir,—While walking your city recently, thought I would take a walk to the park, but alas and alack there was nothing but bumps and bumps, no grass, no place to walk or a seat to sit on even if one wanted to.

Then I thought I would go down to the dock but again what do you see after you cross the tracks? Trees cut down, brush and stone piled where once used to be a beauty yard, flowers blooming from early spring until late fall. Of course being nosey when I came back from the dock I asked questions. I was told a road was to be built to go to the park. Why an extra road to go from somewhere to nowhere as there is no park.

If a road is to be built, why not a fence for the protect adjoining property, then finish the road and not leave it looking like a dump.

If the road is not going to be finished soon why not let the lady put in the garden? It would look nicer and keep down weeds.

Belleville has been called "Belleville the Beautiful" but not now with the dump almost on the main street. Another eyesore is St. Paul Street. One side is all right but the other is a disgrace. Yet people on both sides pay taxes. Many have improved on the improvement at the Debating Club and the harbor buildings of Wills Hardware as they are a credit to the south end. I am sure if the people and his council would make an inspection to the park, they would see the dump or cleaned up at once and not left as it is now.

Another thing I noticed was the poor attendance at the park. That is wrong, are the rates too high and farmers are going to other parks, they not being welcome, for a small place, has a much better market, why not lower the down and encourage trade and by so doing more money is kept in your city.

Thanking you for valuable space in your paper and hoping to see a change for a nicer scene around the park when I am next visit to your city.

'How Are You Doing?'

(HAMILTON SPECTATOR)

For those whose speech is precise and whose feelings are sincere, the casual greeting in use today which compliments rather than expresses social intercourse and the desire of one person to be convinced of another.

We do not go so far as to champion the stiff-necked formality of those who were taught to reply to the penny a day "How are you doing?" with the rejoiner, "How do YOU do?" (a frank answer to the question was unlikely to be elicited) but we are prepared to break a threaded lance with the man who push the expression, "How are you doing?" unless he only wants an answer one can give is "How am I doing what?"

We know that some who will argue that we are being too finicky. But we find it difficult to meet with one lots of seeker fairs taken up in answering "How are you doing?" literally. Perhaps this is so, but with the "How are you doing" started at the foundation of our language, with Russian Communism and American pleasantlicans each claiming to be democratic, we find that we see chaos and uncertainty by resorting to such a time-honoring follow-up to such a time-honoring follow-up to such a time-honoring follow-up

Guide Association Tea, Sale Held at Breadner School

A gay spring atmosphere contrasted sharply with the cold, damp outdoors, Saturday, when the RCAF Trenton Girl Guide Association held their annual tea and sale of home made goods in the Air Marshal Breadner School auditorium, Middleton Park.

In the centre of the auditorium an artistically decorated white arbor, interlaced with pink paper roses and green vines, formed the entrance to the tea room where guests were served tea and home baked goods under the supervision of Mrs. L. L. Laws and Miss Beverly Brown. Individual tea tables were arranged by Mrs. Claude Parsons with centrepieces of paper flowers in pastel shades. Gay daffodils and pastel-scented stocks enhanced the head table supervised by Mrs. C. Dolan. Pouring tea for more than 200 guests were Mrs. T. Spicer, Mrs. A. S. Oliver, Mrs. G. Dwyer, Mrs. R. Langdon, Mrs. H. C. Muir, Mrs. Wm. Waldon and Mrs. V. L. Berg.

The stage was arranged by Mrs. C. P. Russell and Mrs. F. J. Rials with a scene depicting Brownie and Guide land. Included in the display were materials used by the Brownies for their enrollment ceremonies —the fascinating "Magic Pool" with its mirror-like water surrounded by artificial greenery, and the "Fairy Ring" where upon a toadstool perched a well-carved owl symbolic of the Brownie way of life.

Marionette Greets Children

In the area reserved for sales booths, one member of the 4th Trenton Girl Guides Company—only 18 inches tall — bowed, waved, shook hands with the children, and pranced merrily across the floor showing off her neat petal leaders' uniform. The pert little Guide dangled gracefully from nine control lines attached to a wooden frame manipulated by marionette enthusiast, Mrs. F. J. MacLeod.

Home baked pies, cakes and cookies were sold at the food stall under the supervision of Mrs. T. Roberts. Two Girl Guides Joan Rhamey and Gail Delaney were busy selling a wide variety of home made candies and fudge.

The work of Guides and Brownies was featured at the Guide sewing and knit table under Marion Mason and Andre Rene and at the Brownie sew and knit table under Mrs. Jack Stephens, Mrs. R. C. Black and Mrs. Vera Rutherford.

Mrs. A. Frederick, Mrs. A. J. Ireland and Mrs. D. W. Mac-Murchy presided over a table filled to capacity with intricate handicraft work. Well satisfied customers walked away with their purchases from the white elephant table under Mrs. K. Ball and Mrs. J. F. Campbell. Green predominated at the plant stall where Mrs. F. J. Rials, Mrs. R. G. Stewart and Mrs. Buchan supervised the sales. Enthusiastic "fishermen" milled around the fish pond operated by Shirley Rhemer and Adele Dubart.

The entire project was conceived by Mrs. F. W. MacCrea, chairman of the RCAF Trenton Local Association and Mrs. D. D. Cunningham, social convener.

A special Girl Guide feature was a display of a table-model of Girl Guide land made by Leslie Cunningham.

Mrs. F. W. MacLean, Mrs. V. L. Berg and Mrs. C. F. Russell received the guests at the main door, while Mrs. R. Fallis and Mrs. C. Brigdon presided at the entrance to the tea room.

Montecassino Abbey, Reduced To Rubble in' 44, Rising Again

By JAMES MORRIS

ROME (Reuters) — Montecassino Abbey, which 400 tons of Allied bombs reduced to rubble in 1944, is rising again and by the end of 1953 will show no scars.

It is being rebuilt on the same spot where at various times during its history it has been pillaged, demolished by earthquake and at last completely destroyed by aerial and artillery bombardment.

Italy's ministry of public works has already spent more than 2,000,000,000 lire (about $3,220,000) on the first seven stages of the reconstruction, and will spend another estimated 1,200,000,000 lire (about $1,610,000) on the last three stages.

Some 400 workmen and scores of craftsmen are working on the project, under the direction of an architect who is himself a Benedictine monk, Dom Angelo Pantoni.

Although the abbey as an institution is 1,400 years old, none of the buildings was of earlier date than the sixteenth century.

The oldest art relic was the great bronze door of the cathedral church which was forged in Constantinople in 1066. It survived the bombardment.

Sent For Safe Keeping

Books and archives were sent for safe keeping during the war, but many frescoes and paintings were destroyed. All that was left was the crypt and the tomb of St. Benedict who founded the abbey in 529 A.D., and his sister St. Scholastica.

For seven months the German army held the 1,705-foot hill on which the abbey stands and blocked the Allied advance on Rome. Germans and Allies faced each other across the narrow River Rapido, because a chance of strategy had turned the old abbey into the key fortress of the German "Gustav" line.

No army could advance up the valley towards Rome without holding that hill, and after months of bitter fighting the Allied high command concluded that the abbey itself was held by the Germans.

In February, 1944, Allied bombers bombed the abbey, and throughout the rest of the campaign, bombs and shells churned up the rubble left by that first attack.

Then Germans burrowed into the hillside, and stayed there until Polish troops claimed the hill in May, 1944.

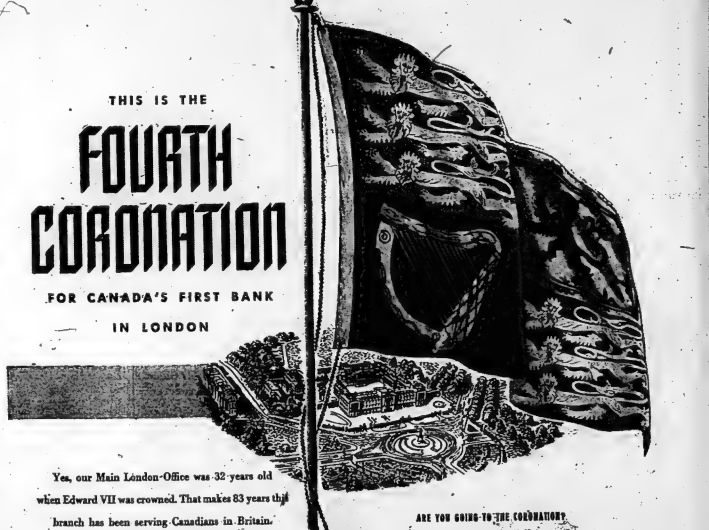
SAVES 100 FROM FIRE

TORONTO (CP)—One of the girls at Pudgor House, residence for department store employees, was showing off her engagement ring to friends at about 4 a.m. today—and helped save 100 residents from fire. As she returned to her room, she smelled smoke and gave the alarm. The ring-viewing continued outside as firemen brought the blaze under control. No one was injured.



THREE BOYS MISSING

TORONTO (CP)—Three young brothers walked out of their east-end home at noon Friday when seven cents to buy candy. They had not returned Sunday night and police searched for them, dragging the Don river and patrolling the waterfront. Missing are Henry Quigley, 10; Howard, 7; and Paul, 5. The Quigley family came here from Penetanguishene 12 years ago.

UNHURT IN PLANE CRASH

OTTAWA (CP)—Three persons walked away unhurt Sunday when their light aircraft crashed in the front lawn of a farm home at Merivale, about five miles south-west of Ottawa. The plane's engine failed a few miles after leaving Ottawa airport. The pilot, Dr. H. R. T. Mount of suburban Rockcliffe Manor, Nettie Dafoe, escaped injury when the plane hit a fence, lost its right wing and swerved around to crash into a small tree.

Weddings

LEE—JONES

At St.—George's Anglican Church, Trenton, at 2:00 p.m. Saturday, May 2, Dorothy Jean Lee, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Lee, of Calgary, and the late Mr. Lee, was joined in marriage to L.A.C. George Wesley Jones, son of Mr. Helen Jones, of Niagara Falls, and the late Mr. Jones. The Rev. A. S. McConnell officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by Flight Lieutenant H. F. Anderson, of 6 Repair Depot, Trenton, wore an attractive two-piece ensemble of beige shantung, matching pillbox hat of shantung with an over-the-face veil and navy shoes. She wore a corsage of pink roses and bouvardia.

She was attended by the matron of honor, Mrs. Marion Timlick, of Winnipeg, who wore a brown knitted suit, matching straw hat and brown shoes, with a corsage of yellow roses and bouvardia.

At a reception afterwards, the guests were received by Flight Lieutenant H. F. Anderson and Mrs. Anderson.

On their honeymoon the couple are travelling to Toronto and points east. On their return they will reside on Division Street in Trenton.

The bride travelled in a smart attire of navy blue shantung with white collar, pearl clips at the waist, matching accessories and a yellow check top-coat.

Kiwanis Ladies Aux. Holds May Ball

A most successful dance was held last Friday night at the Club Commodore. It was sponsored by the Kiwanis Ladies' Auxiliary and convened by Mrs. H. Emerson, with co-convenors, Mrs. S. Robb and active committee, Mrs. H. Carruthers, Mrs. A. Drysdale, Mrs. H. Hoag, Mrs. W. Sinclair, Mrs. V. White, Mrs. H. Trepanier, Mrs. C. Wilson, Mrs. W. Allen, Mrs. G. Hoang, and Mrs. Fox.

Mrs. H. Murrey, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary; Mr. F. Creeggan, president of the men's club, and Mrs. Creeggan, received the many guests at the door. Guests were present from Madoc, Tweed, Trenton and Port Hope.

The lucky number was won by Mrs. J. Bedeau and men's door prize by Mr. Bedeau.

Birthday dance prize, went to Mrs. Percy Wilson, spot dance, Mrs. William Hurst, G. N. Garbutt, Mr. and Mrs. A. Argue, Mrs. E. Logan, Mr. G. A. Davison.

The master of ceremonies was the genial Vic White.

After a gay evening of dancing refreshments were served under the convenorship of Mrs. R. Irvine and her co-convener, Mrs. N. McCreary, and active committee, including Mrs. H. Argue, Mrs. H. Bateman, Mrs. E. P. Cooper, Mrs. F. Domenico, Mrs. N. Edwards, Mrs. L. Fonard, Mrs. C. Hill, Mrs. J. Hurst, Mrs. M. Vanner, Mrs. A. Wilson, Mrs. E. Wotten.

Publicity, Mrs. J. Allan.

A delightful evening was enjoyed by all.

Coronation-Bound

For her trip to the Coronation Miss Canada, Marilyn Reddick of Agincourt, Ont., wears a white gown of Nottingham lace over nylon with ruffled tiered skirt at back and a tiara of brilliants. The skirt took 20 yards of material; there is 14 yards of lace and underneath are a 12-yard satin petticoat and two crinolines.—(CP Photo.)

Queen Will Travel Along Route Rich in Historical Associations

LONDON (Reuters)—When the Queen rides in her golden coach to the Coronation in Westminster Abbey, she will travel along a five-mile route rich in historical associations of Britain's past.

There will be memories of Monarchs as unhappy as she is gay, ghosts of elegant fops, daredevil highwaymen and famous men of letters.

On leaving Buckingham Palace, the Queen will first drive along the mile-long mall.

She will pass Clarence House, the first home of her own as a married woman, where she lived before moving to Buckingham Palace.

Next to it is Marlborough House where Queen Mary died recently.

The Mall stretches up to Admiralty Arch, both made between 1903 and 1910 as a national memorial to Queen Victoria.

The procession then goes down Northumberland Avenue to the Thames embankment past the Houses of Parliament and finally into Parliament Square and up to Westminster Abbey.

Passes Whitehall

In Parliament Square once stood the notorious and feared star chamber, where offenders against the government were tried without recourse to common law.

After the Coronation, the Queen will pass the spot where King Charles I lost his head Jan. 30, 1649.

This was in Whitehall now the street of government departments.

The palace, where Henry VIII and Oliver Cromwell died, and where Queen Elizabeth I sometimes entertained her suitors, was destroyed by fire in 1698. Only the banqueting hall and a few adjoining buildings, now used as a war museum, stand today.

Demolished by Cromwell

The Queen will then enter London's Pall Mall and St. James street where literary giants, politicians and painters like Dr. Johnson, Sheridan, Steele, Gibbon, Burke, Pitt and Reynolds used to discourse.

Pall Mall took its name from a French game called Paille Maille, a cross between croquet and golf, which leisurely dandies at the 1660s used to play there.

Then the Queen then drives down Piccadilly where, as a child, she lived in a house near Hyde Park.

The procession will go through the park to Marble Arch, its northern gateway. This once was open country, and for many masked highwaymen used to lie in wait to rob coaches coming from the north.

Many Executed There

At Marble Arch stood Tyburn tree where crowds once gathered to see men hanged, drawn and quartered. In 1714 Jack Sheppard, most notorious of all highwaymen, was executed there.

After Marble Arch, the procession will wind into Oxford and Regent streets, lined with big department stores, before reaching the Mall again and so to Buckingham Palace.

Flags of all the Commonwealth and many other countries will fly along the Coronation route. Buildings will be decorated with scarlet, royal blue, white and gold. Heraldic standards will flutter from the decorated lamp posts.

Painting Donated To Assist Club

The draw for the winner of the fine oil-painted winter scene now on display in the windows of the John Lewis Company will be held Saturday at the Kiwanis Centre in conjunction with the University Women's Club's Spring Fair, club officials have announced.

Manly Macdonald, R.C.A., has donated the valuable painting to the club's scholarship fund, which each year helps an outstanding girl student on her way to university. Both Mr. and Mrs. Macdonald will attend the fair and will be available to discuss the exhibition of paintings.

Pine Grove W. I. Retains 1953 Officers

Pine Grove Women's Institute met in the regular annual meeting at Mrs. A. Tanner's home. The 1st vice-president, Mrs. G. Bartindale, presided.

Opening with the season the roll call was answered by an exchange of seeds, and plants. Fees for the new year were also paid.

Mrs. Bell the late Queen Mary and also of Miss. Eileen Neal, Home Economist, two verses of "Abide With Me" were repeated and two minutes silence observed.

The secretary-treasurer reported that 11 regular meetings had been held with an average attendance of 14.9. Sixty-six letters and cards were written during the year.

The president's report indicated that considerable progress had been made in the interests of "Home and Country".

Extension Service booklets were distributed and it was decided to ask for "Aids to Effective Speaking" Part II, if available, and if not 'Dressmaking Part I".

Same Officers

Standing Committee convenors for 1953-54 will be as follows: Agriculture, Mrs. C. Hess; Canadian Industries, Mrs. W. Slater; Community Activities and Public Relations, Mrs. J. Brown; Historical Research and Publicity, Mrs. A. Bell; Home Economics and Health, Mrs. A. Tanner; Citizenship, Mrs. R. Vanderwater; Education, Mrs. E. Horton; Resolutions, Mrs. F. Campbell.

Mrs. C. Ross gave Current Events; Mrs. F. Finkle noted items of value from "Home and Country". At the conclusion of the meeting, refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

The May meeting will be held at Mrs. E. Johnston's home in Wallbridge, under the convenorship of Mrs. R. Vanderwater, Citizenship convener.

The coffee bean, now mainly produced in South and Central America, originally was native to Arabia.

This Is Season For Measles

By JOAN BARKERIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

This is the season for measles, one of the most deceptive of childhood diseases. It usually creeps in with the symptoms of a cold, but may leave behind it serious complications.

For four-year-olds and under the serum that will ward off or modify an attack of measles, following known exposure to the disease, is strongly advocated by health authorities. But there is no known way to immunize a child against measles.

Complications from measles often involve eyes and ears, leaving them in a defective state.

Bronchitis, present to a degree in all cases, may extend to the lungs causing pneumonia.

The only way to fight the disease is through proper care once its presence is discovered.

Symptoms to Watch

Doctors tell of visits to homes where the sick child answers the door, and is running around because "it at the moment" he feels just fine.

The appearance of the blotchy, mottled rash over the entire body is usually preceded by a fever, a day "sick" with sneezing, watery eyes and runny nose.

These early symptoms, not the appearance of the rash, should be the signal for a mother to keep her child away from other youngsters.

Doctors give these rules for treatment:

Isolate the patient in a well ventilated room. Make sure the patient stays in bed, warm and free from draughts.

Use warm water for sponge baths (this often helps to bring the fever down).

Be careful of the patient's eyes. Wash them frequently with a warm, not hot, solution of one teaspoonful of boracic acid to one pint of water.

As to diet, give as many fluids as possible until fever subsides and then light nourishing food.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The Perennial Problem of Parties

That perennial problem of parties is brought to once again by the teen-ager who has just had her seventeenth birthday.

"My boy friend says he loves me," she writes, "and I want more than anything to believe him. But his memory is short and he rarely does anything wrong for a couple who are going steadily and planning for the future is judging it seeking and petting.

"I'll have to admit that I want it just as much as he does. But I was brought up to believe that that sort of thing is not right before marriage. I've even spoken to a priest, but he gave me a belief not much except to say we'll both be sorry for it when (and if) we marry. Why did he say that?

"Maybe it's me that's wrong, because most of the girls I know, even my very best friends, honestly believe there is nothing wrong with necking and petting, since it avoids pregnancy and a bunch of tramps, either. They're nice girls from good families, and some are brides.

"Honestly, I'm so confused I don't know what to do. I've been telling myself that if this boy loved me like he says he does, he'd stop insisting more about that when he knows how I feel, and if he does love me, why should he get so mad when I tell him I don't want to rush because it only leads to petting and so on? And if he doesn't love, what is he staying around for, and how he could have any girl he wanted?"

Sometimes we cannot help thinking that the reason why so many girls get so excited about the sex-control subject is because they listen to boys and girls of their own age, who are just as much in the dark as are, instead of going immediately to some wise adult for it all the over.

Any such wise adult will tell a teen-ager that there are a number of very sound reasons why necking and petting are not right.

Not Worth The Risk

One of these reasons—and probably the most important—is because, as this girl herself says, necking "leads to petting and so on." When boys and girls indulge in these intimacies they are risking serious risk of being carried away by the overpowering of physical excitement and emotional reaction, which may end in the girl becoming pregnant. Is any girl worth taking such a risk?

A second reason why necking and petting should be excluded is that very few young couples in their teens, however sure they may be at the time that they are going to marry, actually do marry when they come man and wife. Instead, a teen-age romance is almost as certain to hasten a break-up between the two as it is to make them at the first to tire of the thing and want to be off to a new conquest. Then the girl is left heart-broken and bitterly disillusioned. Sometimes, a boy will even say that he does not wish to marry a girl who has allowed pre-marital liberties. And sometimes the girl herself breaks off the affair because she is finally overtaken by a sense of guilt that may poison her entire later life.

In either case, whether boy or girl breaks off the relationship, how does the girl feel when somefine man comes along whose love and respect she really shows all things, and whose wife she longs to be, and she finds herself trying to decide whether or not to tell him she is not a virgin? I know from such girls that, for I hear from many of them, and they are agonized with fear lest what they have done in the past may ruin their future.

And one more point, which I think, may answer our 17-year-old's question about why the priest said what he did. The reason she and the boy "when and if" they should actually marry, might find themselves sorry if they had failed to save their most intimate expression of love is because they would have cheated themselves in advance of the first beautiful ecstasy they would otherwise find in marriage.

I hope that some of this may serve to clear up the confusion in this teen-ager's mind, and that she will decide once and for all not to allow herself to yield to her boy friend's persuasion. She is quite right in thinking that if he cares for her, he would never urge her into anything against her wishes. If he persisted, and if her repeated refusals finally send him away from her for good, he is better off happy for a time, but she will never be sorry that she held fast her convictions.

GOOD REASON

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Thomas S. Moulton blames his career in crime on a faulty autoscrobble. In a $250,000 damage suite filed here Friday against the Ford and Motor Company of Detroit, he said defects in a new 1951 car he bought caused an accident which left him mentally deranged and prone to crime. Moulton now is serving a term in prison.

Dried Fruits Are a Standby

The prune is a much maligned fruit. The reason for it being ill is usually allowed. What a state to be in constantly!

We're supposed to be good cooks. If that is the case we should be capable of transforming this lowly prune into glamorous desserts that our families gladly devour.

Our best standby—apples—have petered out, but we have dried fruits such as prunes, apricots, dates, figs and raisins to tide us over for a while until strawberry time. Let's tackle them with our customary "vim and vigor".

Apricot and Prune Pie

Make your best pastry and line a 9-inch pie plate with it. Sprinkle it evenly with 4 tablespoons flour. Mix together 2 1-4 cups cut up, pitted uncooked or cooked prunes and 3-4 cup unsweetened cooked dried apricots and 1-2 cup sugar. Turn these into the pastry lined pie plate. Now mix together 2 tablespoons each prune juice and apricot juice and 1 1-2 teaspoons lemon juice. Pour this around and over the fruit. Dot the fruit with 1-2 tablespoon butter or margarine. Cover with a slashed pastry top, or with lattice strips. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for about 40 minutes. Delicious when served chopped walnuts, 1 1-3 cups chopped dry prunes, and 4 tablespoons sugar. Separate rind fine in 2 well-beaten eggs, and 1 cup milk; serve at once or 10 people and is delicious with

Sterling Sauce

(A variation of Hard Sauce.) Whip 1-2 cup butter or margarine until very light and fluffy and gradually beat into it 1 cup well-packed, light brown sugar, until mixture is very light. Then beat in 2 teaspoon salt and very slowly add 1-4 cup cream or top milk. Finally add 1-4 cup brandy, rum or lightly on serving dish, sprinkle with nutmeg and chill until serving time.

Fig or Date Souffle

Two tablespoons butter or margarine, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, 1-4 cup sugar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2-3 cup either chopped steamed dates or fig, 2 egg yolks, 3 stiffly beaten egg whites. Gently melt the butter and stir the flour into it, then slowly add the milk stirring, until thick. Add the sugar and salt. Add the chopped dried fruit and let stand until cool. Now add the egg yolks and beat until light. Fold in the beaten whites. Turn into greased pudding dish, set dish in large pan containing hot water. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 40 to 45 minutes. Serve at once with whipped cream or a

Custard Sauce

Scald 1 cup milk in top of double boiler. Beat 2 egg yolks with 2 tablespoons sugar until light and creamy. Add a little of hot milk into them. Cook, stirring, over hot but not boiling water, until sauce coats the spoon. Chill. Add 1-4 teaspoon vanilla just before serving.

Pineapple and Raisin Marmalade Pie

Two cups seedless or seeded raisins, water, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons flour, 3 eggs, yolks and whites separated, 2 cups crushed pineapple with some of its juice, 2 tablespoons sugar. Barely cover the raisins with water and gently cook until tender. Mix together the sugar (brown), salt and flour and stir these into the raisins until thick. Beat the egg yolks, pour some of the hot mixture over them, stirring, and return them to the raisin mixture. Add the pineapple. Cool. Then pour into a baked pie shell. Beat the egg whites until stiff and beat the 3 tablespoons white sugar into them, until whites will stand in peaks.

Cover the filling with this meringue and bake in oven of 350 deg. Fahr. for about 15 minutes or until meringue is beautifully golden.

Fashion Flashes

The velvet touch adds a softening interest to many new hats, especially the severe lines of the sailor. Smooth-textured straw sailor is used to clip little sailor, with brown velvet ribbon inserted between double rim edges. An apricot velvet-and-silk rose trims one side.

Several blouses, wisely chosen, add a couple of sketchily pointed skirts give you the makings of a variety of costumes. This is especially so if each piece is good on its own to wear with other skirts or coats. A good summer skirt is of black lace straw, sewn in bands to make a bell-shaped silhouette.

Easy maintenance is the happy lot of many of the new dresses going into the shops. Airy charm is written all over a shirt-waist dress of nylon and cotton woven in checked stripes, the stripes used in chevron fashion. Neat bow-tied band neckline and cuffs on the sleeves, made of nylon organdy in a pinkish-beige shade and in net blue.

Inching up in the fashion color card is green in all shades, with here and there the smart dress or accessory in dark green. Silk chiffon in dark green is used for a pretty dress designed for from-dusk-on wear. It is sleeveless, and has a deep, scooped neckline, and a full, unpressed pleated skirt. Necklike and armhole are white satin edged, and a white satin bow loop is thrust into one side of the belt.

Wedding Note . . . The Short-Length Wedding Dress

"The Bridal Ballerina - length Dress," or "The Waltz - length Dress" . . . were we have the new answer to the old, old question: I am planning to have an informal wedding, but I do want to be dressed "like a bride,"...wedding dress, bridal veil. What type of dress would be proper for me to wear at this type of wedding . . . with the groom and best man wearing dark business suits?"

Never before has there been such a comforting answer to this yearning question . . . "The short-length dress," to the ankle, or just above the ankle (the "well-turned ankle, "we hope!").

The colors: bridal white, off white, palest blush-pink, softest ice-blue, or delicate champagne shade. Or perhaps white lace or tulle or net over soft pink or blue.

The skirt: full, full. The veil: short. The gloves: the smart new "short-cut" glove: elegant; small, yet, informal in design.

Add with today's dresses for bride and attendants, most of the designs have a wise and practical eye toward "convertible." The double-duty wedding dress with the removable jacket or sleeves or bolero, or detachable fichu or stole.

Who May Give A Shower? Who Shouldn't?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Who is it who gives a shower for the bride-to-be? Please explain in detail, for we are having a serious discussion about this and there are various points of view. And also, please, explain who should not give a bridal shower.

Our "Dozen Girls Club"

Correctly a shower may be given by an intimate friend of the bride-to-be, or by a group of her friends. Often the maid (or matron) of honor gives a shower . . . that is, if she isn't a sister or other close relative of the bride. Sometimes a shower is given jointly by the mother of the bridal party, honor attendant (or honor attendants) and bridesmaids. Sometimes a group of the bride's co-workers give her a shower, sometimes a kitchen shower. Sometimes the members of a club or church organization do it—which she belongs.

But it is not considered good form or good taste for a member of the bride's family or the groom's family to give a shower. The reason for this is obvious...it's to spare-ent that such a shower is a pleased "promotion" for presents. Also, when a shower is given by a member of the bride's family her fiance's family, it points up the unfortunate fact that since a friend doesn't come forth with a plan to give a shower, Mother or Sister feels that she must take over and make the "personal appeal" for shower presents!

No Reason To Send Wedding Gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have be invited to a wedding and reception, but we will not be able to attend. As a matter of fact, we are not at all interested in attending. The people who sent us the invitation are not intimate friends. In fact, we have seen them only once in about six years. Must we send a wedding present?

Margaret J.

Since it is obvious that you have no wish to send a wedding present, there is no reason why you should send one. The only gesture necessary is for you to write a regret to the invitation in the receptacle. A formal regret, if the invitation is formal. An informal note, if the invitation was by note.

Beauty

Scalp Hygiene

The beauty overhead—what with permanents, shampoos, trims, rinses and wave set—can take a considerable gouge out of the balance in the checkbook in the course of a year. Even so, it is money well invested. Waves, rolls and ringlets form a becoming frame to the feminine face, no matter what one's age may be. But the scalp should have attention. Unless it is kept in good condition, all manner of troubles may result. If you have a luxuriant growth, you should do everything possible to keep it beautiful.

The scalp, being without the power of movement found in other parts of the body, gets no exercise to keep the blood stream active. Every little hair on your head is dependent for nourishment on the circulatory system. Massage will not only stimulate, but will often keep the surface of the scalp free from dandruff. It will promote a resilient, cushiony underpadding for the outer surface. When the scalp is thin and tight, the hair is likely to fall and the shafts will lack luster.

It used to be that the scalp got a certain amount of friction when the hair was dried after a shampoo. Now, with the feminine head comes out of the shampoo bowl, it is immediately sprayed with a lotion, with the wave set following. To offset this lapse, the scalp should be given a vigorous rubbing before the shampoo medium is applied.

Brushing the hair gives it a fine grooming, and has a beneficial effect upon the scalp. The bristles, tugging on the shafts, invigorate the roots and tone up the skin of the flesh.

When brushing, take the hair strand by strand, holding each tress away from the head, and applying the brush with a rolling motion. The old fashioned wide hair brush is the most efficient as the little narrow ones that are used in beauty shops. They are less

Milk Essential In Maintaining Good Health

Toronto — Do you and your family drink enough milk?

There are evidences that Grade A Six students don't, and as that is the age when they tend to change from the pattern of eating used in early life and turn to the foods chosen by their parents, it looks as though the parents are not setting as good an example as they should.

Miss Elaine Found, Home Economist with the Ontario Department of Agriculture, reports that a survey was recently undertaken to study the food intake of Grade Six children in Toronto. As one result, it was discovered that one-quarter of "Grade Sixers" do not get enough milk.

While most adults understand the need for milk during growth in order to form strong bones and teeth, the average adult may not realize that adults need calcium too. After bone growth has ceased it is necessary to drink at least one glass of milk a day to keep the bone structure in good healthy condition.

Plenty of Calcium

When one considers the inexpensive nature of other foods that would be required to supply the calcium contained in four glasses of milk—7 pounds of cabbage or carrots, 28 oranges, 39 eggs or 2 pounds of lean meat—it is readily be seen that only an elephant could eat enough greens in this manner. Also, consider the difference in price between a quart of milk and 39 eggs!

Children are great imitators, usually. If parents eat that for which a parent expresses a preference. A child may often refuse to eat anything that is not enjoyed at the table. Canada Food Rules state that a half pint of milk a day is the minimum for an adult, a full pint one pint for children under twelve and a quart each for expints for teenagers. So, if parents set a good example, drink their milk and enjoy it with their meals, children will be much more likely to drink at least the likely to tangle the hair when used after the shampoo.

A clean scalp is more likely to be healthy than the one that gets an occasional shampoo every few weeks. A lot of debris, in the form of dead skin cells, can collect between visits. The conditions of the sweat and sebaceous glands, and a dampness of the scalp, is ready in a week or ten days for a thorough washing.

The balanced diet may be a factor in keeping scalp and hair in healthy condition. Both depend upon vitamins and mineral salts, upon which every cell of the body depends for well-being.

Milk is good and good for you. Make a point of drinking your share daily.

Women's Institute

CARMEL W.I.

Carmel W.I. met at the home of Mrs. J. Homan for the April meeting with 14 members present. The new president, Mrs. Levi Latimore presided.

The standing committees convenors gave their reports. Mrs. S. Homan reporting for Agriculture; Mrs. Sam Chambers, Education, gave an interesting paper on the magazine And better education.

Mrs. J. Hogan reporting for Historical Research, spoke briefly on the death of Queen Mary.

Mrs. M. Robinson reporting for Mrs. J. Reynolds on "Citizenship and Education."

The Health convener Mrs. E. Dafoe, gave an interesting paper on "Well Fed or Ill Fed."

Current Events were given by Mrs. C. Thompson.

It is decided that $10 be taken out of the treasury for a needy family.

The communications were read and discussed and thank-you notes received from J. Reynolds and Carl Thompson.

BLAST KILLS FOUR

SCRAITON, Pa. (AP) — Four workmen were killed Sunday in a powder blast which rocked a coal mining mills at a Del Prat company explosives factory at nearby Moosic. A Del Prat spokesman said about 600 pounds of black powder went up, tipping apart the two 20-foot square wooden structures. The blast was felt in a 20-mile radius but did no other damage.

In former years Cornwall in England was known as the world's copper and all of Britain's tin.

You get what you pay for —or do you?

If you own a fur coat, take heed!

How?

By drying up precious natural oils . . . the very oils furs need to retain their exquisite gloss.

By stiffening the leather side, making it hard and brittle, robbing you of many years of wear.

By leaving deep-down grit and grime in your coat. Microscopic dirt can't be seen . . . but can cut and rub and tear the silky hairs.

When you pay for expert cleaning . . . be sure you get it inside and Hollanderizing, for cleansing and rejuvenation by Hollander.

The Hollander people are the world's largest and most famous processors of furs. Chances are they dressed and dyed your skins, originally.

Hollanderizing uses fine "wood powders" to absorb and remove even the smallest particles of dirt, making your fur coat truly ... ... quisitely ... clean.

Hollanderizing gives you separate spot removal and thorough cleansing of the lining.

If your coat is new...Hollanderizing will bring out its original beauty and add years to its life.

If your coat is old . . . and perhaps a bit shabby . . . Hollanderizing will restore much of its original loveliness.

And Hollanderizing costs so little! Dare you trust your furs to lesser methods?

3 bits of friendly advice

1. Store your furs with your favorite furrier now . . . to be safe from heat, moths, fire, and theft.

2. Order Hollanderizing now so that your furrier can send your furs to us before the late-season rush.

3. Ask for Hollanderizing by name and look for our tag sealed to your furs when they are returned . . . your guaranty of the best.

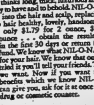
and if you want curls



IF your hair is not naturally curly . . . If you want hair that holds a curl, even in rainy weather . . . let me whisper something in your pink, shell-like ear. At night, when you go through the ritual of establishing your beauty, don't forget what you do. Rub a little Lanolin into the hair. Put a little on the scalp and a little on the surface. Then rub your hair up the way you want it . . . using bobby pins, curlers, string, odd typewriter ribbon, rubber bands or what-have-you. Then put on your bedtime cap, cowl line or whatever you wear to keep each curler. It will dry into curls while you are asleep. In the morning, merely remove the hardware from your head, brush out the curls and shape your hair. You've got a glorious surprise in store for you. Curls and waves that fall naturally into place, such as you've always wanted. Your hair will be shiny with radiant highlights which will invite admiration and praise, also . . . ever-remember.

New Queen, New Crown

A new crown is going to come into gradual use in Canada. For 52 years the crown on the right has been the one used on Canadian military badges and insignia, on coins, stamps, on the Governor-General's standard and elsewhere. It is called the Tudor crown and is a heraldic representation of the St. Edward's Coronation crown. Queen Elizabeth has decided to use a representation (left) which more closely resembles the actual St. Edward's crown. The main difference is in the pearl-studded arch which in the Tudor crown rises in a semi-circle but in the other dips at the centre. — (CP Photo.)

New Crown Might Even Lead To First Alteration in Canada's Coat of Arms in 32 Years

By DOUGLAS HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A new crown is to come into use in Canada.

It is expected to emerge gradually in many Canadian military badges, buttons and insignia, on stamps, on coins, on the governor-general's standard of personal flag and elsewhere. It might even lead to the first alteration in the Canadian coat of arms in 32 years.

The reason is Queen Elizabeth's decision to change the heraldic representation of St. Edward's crown, the Coronation crown, which has adorned such things in Commonwealth countries for 52 years.

The change is relatively simple but its effects will range far and its significance is symbolic of the fluid political pattern of the countries that owe allegiance to the throne.

Emits Imperial Touch

The representation of the crown that is going out had imperial significance. It stemmed from a decision of Queen Victoria to alter the heraldic representation to make it more in keeping with her status as an empress. Elizabeth, a queen but not an empress, is going back to a design that omits the imperial touch.

The difference briefly is this: The four pearl-studded arches of gold—symbols of independent sovereignty—form a semi-circle in the design being abandoned. In the new representation, they go back to the downward curve—forming a kind of figure eight cut in two lengthwise—at the point of intersection. They dip at the centre as they do in the real St. Edward's crown.

The Queen also is changing the type of lettering in her royal cypher—E II R—to straight Roman style from the Italic script used since Edward VII. This also will mean changes in Canada.

Actually the crown that for years has graced Canadian badges, coins and the like has not accurately pictured St. Edward's crown. It was an heraldic representation, a licensed exaggeration and was known widely as the Tudor crown.

The new design will be much closer to the real thing and will be called by the real name, St. Edward's Crogan.

Coronation Crown

St. Edward's crown is the one which for brief seconds will touch the head of Elizabeth in Westminster Abbey June 2 and never be worn by her again. It weighs five pounds. The crown she will wear on state occasions in the future is the imperial state crown, which weighs about two pounds.

The Canadian armed forces plan to make the change gradually in their insignia. Broadly, the orders are expected to be that there is to be no sweeping immediate switch, that the change will take place as new badges, colors or other emblems come in or as old badges wear out and the dies or patterns would normally have to be replaced.

Thus two reserve force infantry regiments getting new colors—the Royal Newfoundland Regiment and the New Brunswick Scottish—are both to have the new-type representation of the crown in them. The Queen herself approved the colors but signified that they should bear St. Edward's crown.

Two army corps, the engineers and services corps, use both the crown and cypher in their badges and will get both changed. The crown that signifies the rank of army majors will be changed, too, and the same sort of alterations will make themselves felt in the navy and air force.

On Stamps, Coins

New stamps and coins bearing the likeness of the crowned Elizabeth are expected to bear St. Edward's crown, too, and the governor-general's standard is also expected to abandon the Tudor representation for its successor.

What the cabinet will decide to do about the coat of arms, if anything, remains to be seen but it also is topped by the Tudor crown. The original, royally proclaimed in 1921, now hangs in the office of C. S. Sisler, undersecretary of state, as ornate magnificence about four feet high. Reproductions are used widely throughout the country.

Some heraldry experts feel that if a change is to be made in the coat of arms—or, more rightly, the armorial bearings—the opportunity should be seized to make a general overhaul. They feel the present design is hardly compatible with the autonomy and eminence Canada has achieved since 1921.

In particular, they feel that the maple leaves which signify Canada are in a subordinate position hardly in keeping with Canada's present status.

But there is no sign yet that cabinet or its top officials are considering any change.

CAMPBELLFORD

Robert Bell Describes Ireland's Industries to St. John's Y.A.D. Club

CAMPBELLFORD — A good attendance was on hand for the April meeting of St. John's Young Adults Club which took place in the United Church basement last Thursday night.

Earle Nelson led in songs, accompanied by Anne Nicholls. The devotional period was conducted by Eunice Sayers and Pearl McCord and included a sacred vocal solo by Muriel Heagle, "Dear Lord Forgive." Anne Nicholls accompanied Miss Heagle on the piano.

Walter Elliott, president of the club, dismissed the business period when no problems or reports were forthcoming.

The entertainment portion of the program was in charge of Mort Sayers. Dick Keating rendered a selection on his mouth organ, accompanied by Anne Nicholls at the piano.

Dr. Smith introduced the guest, speaker, Mr. Robert Bell of Macaulay. I. G. A. store, a native of Donaghdee, Ireland, came to Canada about 7 months ago. Mr. Bell spoke of the final division of Ireland being completed in 1949 because the south wanted independence from an English monarch, while the north were determined to remain within the United Kingdom.

Best Judgment

Of the premiers of the southern states Eamon de Valera, De Valera, a master of wit and humor, had, he felt, exercised the best judgment.

Ulster, the Protestant north of Ireland, was only a small portion of the Emerald Isle, being outnumbered by the southern states 32 to 6. St. Patrick, beloved by Irishmen of all faiths, brought Christianity to the island in 368 A. D. Belfast, a city resembling Toronto, but having a quarter of a million inhabitants, was highly industrialized. The Irish had the largest ship-building, rope making and linen-works in the world. Belfast had suffered untold damage in World War II in which the shipyard cranes were neutral. The city had lost close to 7,000 dead and many entire families were wiped out by the heavy air raids. The industrial areas and churches had been especially hard hit with seven-eighths of the latter suffering bomb damage. Some raids lasted seven or eight hours. Many boys were killed or injured along with other British or Allied troops while serving their king in various theatres of war.

Celebrations

July 12 and 13 is the big annual holiday and occasion for large scale celebrations in the Protestant north, or Ulster. It would take eight or nine hours for an Orange Day parade to pass a set spot. The Battle of the Boyne was fought between William of Orange and James in 1690. In the same struggle the previous year, Londonderry had withstood a prolonged and until relief came by sea.

He described his native land as of major importance in the world as a cattle raising country.

Mrs. Bell served tea on behalf of the Young Adults Club for his informative address by Garnet Nelson.

After a brief sessio nof games, arranged by Albert Sargent, ice cream and coffee were served to close a profitable and enjoyable meeting.

Night Clubbing Behind Scenes Nothing to Write Home About

By RICHARD O'REGAN

VIENNA (AP)—So you'd like to go night clubbing behind the Iron Curtain? You'd like to enjoy the night life of the Balkan capitals—Budapest, Bucharest, Prague and Sofia—which song and story have made famous?

Well, it's quite an experience. You can sit in Vienna and read about it in the Communist newspapers. But if you insist on going, well . . .

The gentleman will not shave or clean the nails. The pants must be slightly muddy. He will try to assume the expression of one taking a few minutes off from a 25-hour shift.

Madame, you will kindly skip the high heels and the hair-do. And never mind the girdle. There must be no hint of Paris elegance, pardon, "Western decadence." And remember to be careful to wear the same orange lipstick and the same red dress that all the other women bought at the same state store.

Remember too madame, that in the new society woman's place is in the mines or behind the lathes. No Ne Ne Necessary.

So, we are set to go to a place where we have a little dance, a little drink, a little dinner. You want something smarter? Take Budapest's Bristol bar or Prague's Cascade and Boccaccio, renamed and "nationalized" for the upper 10,000 Communists in each city. The lady will go to these places dressed like Anne. You, sir, may change to a dark suit. No tie is necessary.

Dinner for two with wine costs the average man a fortnight's pay. Maybe the newspapers were right. They said to stay home.

Nobody ever enters the army officers sit by themselves. The security police sit by themselves. The civilians sit by themselves. The loneliest groups of all are the occasional Western diplomats who pop in now and then.

Girlie Shows For Rich

Girlie shows? Comrade, you forget something. Girlie shows are for the "idle capitalist rich." Girls for you can find healthy jobs on the farms.

The music? Ah, no more rhapsodies of love, no "cheap Western sentimentality." Listen to the current hit: "Up Merry and I Work All Day—I have No Time to Worry Although You Went Away."

Taxi girls and call girls are all police spies. In fact there are police spies all around these tables watching for people who seem to have too much money.

If the orchestra breaks into any be-bop, stay seated. It probably is a trap. As a Bucharest newspaper said recently, "reliable party members leave the floor in disgust" when they hear anything that sounds like American or Latin American music.

The meeting closed with Auld Lang Syne after which the hostess served refreshments.

Judge Is Man Of Judgment

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Judge John J. Kelly proved that he has a judicious eye for pulchritude.

About 75 University of Buffalo students visited Kelly's court as observers, the boys sitting in the front row and the girls in the second.

Jet Pilots Believe They Could Double Combat Score Over Reds With Better Equipment

Who is building the best fighter plane in the world today—Russia or the United States? Control of the air is vital to victory and on this may hinge America's future. Behind the Iron Curtain has spread through the Second World War. . . .

Today, the debate rages again in Korea over the same issue—fluted tail planes versus blower - jet cans. Following is a rounding of the latest views on this controversy, comparing the latest American planes with the Russian MIG, by AP's aviation writer.

By YEEN MAUGHLAND

WASHINGTON (AP)—American jet fighter pilots in Korea believe they could just about double their 11-to-1 combat score over the Communists if their had better equipment, says air expert James H. (Jimmy) Doolittle.

That's the newest development in the long-standing debate over which is the better air weapon—the Russian-built MIG or the American F-86 Sabre jet.

Famed flier Doolittle, special assistant to Secretary Wilson on Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, air force chief of staff, recently conferred with 12 combat pilots newly returned from Korea.

Becoming Costlier

"Doolittle says it is undeniable that air power is becoming costlier, heavier and more complex.

"Actually, the enemy determines how complex our equipment must be," Doolittle said. "It must be better than his. Much of it must be able to operate in any part of the world, from the poles to the equator, at any time, under any and all weather conditions.

F-86 pilots say the lighter and faster MIG can outclimb and outmaneuver the Sabre jet at high altitudes. Its cannon pack a heavier wallop than the Sabre's machine-guns.

Vandenberg concedes that the MIG-15 has a slight advantage over the F-86 in climb at all altitudes, is somewhat faster than the F-86 above 25,000 feet and has a higher service ceiling.

Has Slower Fire Rate

The MIG has a larger projectile and a slower rate of fire.

It is undisputed that the F-86 is superior to the MIG-15 in range, at all altitudes, in the 25,000 feet it is just as fast, handles better, and can out-dive the MIG.

The F-86 has six .50-caliber machine-guns and can carry two 1,000-pound bombs, with 16 five-inch rockets under the wing.

Armed with two 23-mm. and one 37-mm. cannon, the engine thrust in the MIG-15 is greater than the 5,200-pound-thrust engine of the F-86A and E models.

"We are not satisfied," says Vandenberg, "but the whole F-86 armament installation, with the present sighting mechanism, is the best in the world today."

Some pilots have suggested that the F-86 do away with its forward armor plate "because the MIG fire, when it gets you, usually gets you from behind."

Others say that armor plate protection fore and aft tends to make the pilot more sure of himself, and thus more aggressive.

The air force nevertheless is looking for a stripped-down fighter which can meet the need for a lightweight jet with unchallenged superiority over MIGs at any altitude. At least three companies are working on "day superiority" fighter designs.

Russian designers have better MIGs coming out, Vandenberg reports on the proof of these and other designers include:

1. The Soviet MIG-17, designed primarily for day interception but with enough radar equipment for all-weather duties, has a top speed of 670 miles an hour, armed with four belly-mounted cannon, not yet encountered in battle, but has been seen in eastern Europe.

2. A twin-jet Delta-wing fighter now in production has a top speed of more than 650 miles an hour.

3. A twin-jet swept-wing all-weather fighter now in large-scale production. Top speed, more than 600 miles an hour; operating radius 600 miles.

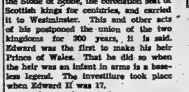
The U.S. air force has supersonic fighters on the way, more important for the present, if recently put into operation in Korea the F-86F.

One recent proof of the new power of the F-86: A Sabre shot down a MIG at 50,000 feet. Nine and a half miles up, it was history's loftiest battle.

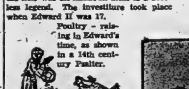
CRASH KILLS SEVEN

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A head-on collision of two cars on a bridge over the Missouri river here early today claimed the lives of seven persons. Six persons were killed instantly. The seventh died in a hospital.

Loses Licence Waits it Out At Courthouse



STAFFORD, Va. (AP) — A young motorist has parked his car beside the courthouse here and says he'll make it his home for the duration of a 30-day suspension of his drivers license.



Today began the fourth day of a sit-down wait by Johnny Franklin Fisher, about 20. His lone companion is a pet squirrel.

Fisher was fined $200 and his permit suspended Tuesday after police revealed him following a 90-mile-an-hour chase last month.

"As long as he's quiet and does not do any harm, I have no objections to him sitting there."

Old painting of Edward I's presentation of his son to Welsh chieftains as their Prince of Wales perpetuates an erroneous legend.

BRIGHT OUTLOOK

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Clayton Frey of Sarnia, hog producers' association director, Friday predicted a bright future for the Canadian hog industry during the next 15 to 18 months. Mr. Frey, conferring with Elgin county producers, said the problem now is to keep production up with domestic demand which in 1952 was increased to 57 pounds per person a year.

EDEN RESTLESS

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden had a restless night "but continues to make progress," a foreign office bulletin said today. Eden, 55, recently underwent operations for gall bladder trouble and jaundice and has been confined to a London hospital for three weeks.

HOME TEACHING

NORTH HOSSICK, N.Y. (AP)—The teacher can't go to the classroom, so the class comes to the teacher. CROWN CAVALCADE — The PREDECESSORS of ELIZABETH II

Born: 1239 at Westminster, eldest son of Henry III and Eleanor of Provence. Of Edward I, John Richard Green said in his great History of England, "His very person was English to the core. In good as in evil he stands out as the typical representative of the race he ruled; like them, willful and impervious, tenacious in his rights, indomitable in his pride, dogged, stubborn, slow of apprehension, narrow in sympathy, but like them, too, just in the main . . . " It was his precept that "what touches all should be approved by all," and under him began the political institutions of modern Britain. He began the conquest of Wales, and endeavored to bring Scotland within his realm. He stole the Stone of Scone, the coronation seat of Scottish kings for centuries, and carried it to Westminster. This and other acts of his postponed the union of the two kingdoms for 300 years, it is said. Edward was the first to make his heir Prince of Wales. That he did so when the heir was an infant in arms is a baseless legend. The Investiture took place when Edward II was 17.

Dean Goes Home

Rt. Hon. and Mrs. Francis Michael Forde are going home to Australia via the Coronation 'otter' more than six years in Ottawa. Mr. Forde, former Australian cabinet minister, was dean of the diplomatic corps in Ottawa for the last year of an extended term as his country's high commissioner. — (CP Photo.)

Dean of Ottawa Diplomatic Corps Thinks Canada On Way To Top Ranking Nation

By DOUGLAS HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The dean of Ottawa's diplomatic corps says six years in this capital have allowed him to watch the burgeoning of a new Canadian sense of national pride and confidence and a well-founded feeling that "this country is going places."

Rt. Hon. Francis Michael Forde not only thinks Canada is going places but, he said in an interview, she has lessons to teach his own Australia.

The 63-year-old former cabinet minister, leader and engineer came here in January, 1947, as Australia's first ambassador. He has done an able job of telling Canadians about Australia.

Leaves May 12

He sails for home, by way of London, May 13, with the idea back of his mind of telling Australians about Canada; of trying to increase contacts between the two countries and of letting it be known that Canada has things to teach Australia, mainly industrial development.

In his six years and four months, Mr. Forde has travelled throughout Canada and into the north, has spoken countless times to audiences ranging from provincial legislatures to church groups; has put three daughters through Canadian universities and has seen two of them marry here.

Few, if any, envoys have ever worked harder in making their country known to Canadians.

The son of Irish immigrants, he became the Labor party and was Australian prime minister for a brief period in 1945. He has no immediate plans other than to attend the Coronation. As an Imperial Privy Councillor, he and his wife will sit in the abbey.

Extended Term

His term here was extended—and by a Liberal-Country party government he had opposed for years before becoming a diplomat.

Mr. Forde said he and his wife and family now feel that although their first allegiance is to Australia they regard Canada as a second home and look upon it "as one of the greatest countries in the world."

"No country has a greater future than Canada," he said. "She has the culture of the old world and the vigor of the new."

He has seen at first hand the historic events that have changed Canada greatly in the last six years; the oil developments in Alberta; the entry of Newfoundland into confederation; the passing of the Mackenzie King era and the industrial boom.

"Pivots of Future"

"Canadians in that time have developed a national pride and confidence and they rightly feel that they are going places. Their country and mine are the two pivots of the future of the Commonwealth. Canada occupied a unique position long ago and I frankly admit that Australia has something to learn from our older sister."

Mr. Forde even got so that he didn't mind the Canadian winters and he doesn't go for the theory that Canadians are dull. He indicated that no country that produces mayors with the color packed by Ottawa's Charlotte Whitton, Montreal's Camillien Houde, Toronto's Allan Lamport and Calgary's Don Mackay can be considered dull.

A daughter Marcia was married in 1951 to Alex Fervier, an architect, and they are going to Australia with the family. Another daughter, Mary, was married in April to Dr. W. R. Thompson and they will live in Montreal. A third daughter, Sara, is also going home with her parents.

RAWDON

Laurel Rebekah Lodge Holds Coronation Tea

Rawdon — On Thursday afternoon the weatherman provided a delightful sunny atmosphere and over 100 ladies from town and country gathered at the spacious home of Mrs. Roy Duffin, Stirling, and enjoyed a visit with friends, while partaking of the proverbial cup of tea with the accompanying sandwich, relish and cookies.

The "Coronation tea" was sponsored by the ladies of Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 211, Stirling, and visiting members were in attendance from sister lodges at Belleville, Thomasburg and Madoc, with a large number of ladies from the town and surrounding countryside.

Lovely Flowers

Beautiful baskets of variegated sweet peas were used as floral decorations in the spacious drawing room and on the buffet.

The hostess, Mrs. Roy Duffin and the Noble Grand, Mrs. John Good, graciously welcomed the guests as they arrived. They were entertained in the drawing room with piano music provided by Mrs. Ray Sherit, Mrs. Harry Morrow and Mrs. Harold Elliott.

The guests were invited to the tea room by Mrs. Albert Wells and her assistants and the financial treasurers were Mrs. H. Mumby and Mrs. Don Heath.

The tea table was most attractive with a galaxy of silk flags in a unique setting flanked by tri-branched silver candlebra held on an embroidered damask cloth. At one end was placed the silver tea service with its accompaniment of cups and saucers, trays of food. The servicites were also in coronation design.

The tea room hostess was Mrs. Walter Elliott and those who presided at the silver service for each half hour were, Mrs. Margaret Geen D.D.F., Thomasburg, Mrs. Ravi Fox, Mrs. E. G. Bailey and Miss Gena Spry of Laurel lodge.

Those who served during the afternoon at various intervals were Mrs. Harold Wells and Mrs. Charles Davidson; Mrs. Douglas Clancy and Mrs. Harry Vandervoort; Mrs. Albert Fyfe and Mrs. Roy Eggleton; Mrs. Burton Woodbeck and Mrs. Grant Potter.

Mrs. H. A. Patterson, assisted by Miss Marion Carlisle and Mrs. G. Bradshaw replenished the attractive plates of sandwiches with red strawberries, yellow spicing cheese, crab apples and a large array of radish, celery, cucumbers and olives.

The trays of cookies were of the one-bite variety in a selection of both the macaroon and rolled concoctions with coronation trim.

Mrs. Mabel Mugginson and Mrs. S. J. Elliott were in charge of kitchen duties and the tea was well made and greatly enjoyed.

Variety of Foods

In the spacious front porch, a table was centred and under the leadership of Mrs. Percy Ulman. She was assisted by Mrs. Arthur Vandervoort, Mrs. Edward Hexaman, Mrs. F. Jeffrey and Mrs. Fred McDonald. The large table was laden with new laid eggs, fresh country butter, jars of cream, jams, mayonnaise, horseradish, rolls, Chicken buns, decorated small rolled cookies, delectable macaroons, some fruit filled, various light and dark cakes with swirls of icing, tarts, berry and lemon pie, cup cakes with coronation trim, delicious drop cookies, also a bouquet of daffodils and several potted plants. All of these items found a new home and were parcelled for the eager buyers. This was a case of "the early bird gets the worm" as the display was at its best in the early afternoon. The proceeds from this sale were very gratifying.

A gorgeous angel cake bedecked with swaths of mauve and white icing was donated by Mrs. Walter Elliott and the lucky winner was Mrs. Heyworth of Madoc.

Several of the past Noble grands were busy selling a novelty key chains with a decorative rose. These were artistically threaded with red satin ribbon and arranged along the handles and sides of a silver basket. The proceeds from this sale will go to the Past Grands' Club.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen was in charge of publicity and a large number of members enjoyed the delightful afternoon of friendship and social chat.

The afternoon was a decided success financially and the conveners are to be congratulated on their well-arranged coronation tea which was most successful and a credit to those who gave their splendid effort in order that the event might be successful.

The officers and members of Laurel Rebekah lodge No. 211 are grateful to all who participated in its arrangement and success.

TRENTON (Special) — It looks like centennial year is going to be a great year for industrial expansion in Trenton.

At a meeting and election of officers of the Toronto Iron Works and Central Bridge Company last week it was decided to enlarge the offices of the Central Bridge Company here. Another storey will be added to accommodate an increase in the company's engineering staff, the board of directors announced. Simultaneously the directors announced that plant expansion at the Bridge Company was being contemplated.

The Central Bridge now employs 200 people and pays them wages comparable with the highest in the area. The plant here has been in operation year round since 1877.

During the war, harbor tugs, ammunition lighters and tow barges were fabricated by Central Bridge. Today the company specializes in bridges, industrial tanks and all classes of steel work and construction.

James F. Cox, of Trenton, was elected vice-president of Toronto Iron Works and vice-president and secretary-treasurer of Central Bridge Company. Senator William A. Fraser, chairman of the board of directors of both Toronto Iron Works and Central Bridge Company.

A LETTER FROM A VETERAN

April 29, 1953

Elmer Ronter,
61 Murphy Street,
Trenton.

Dear Comrade Elmer:

Just a line to say I am still in hospital. I hope you are all well. I was wondering if you would send the Bellevilles from Trenton to me as there is a Vet. here from Belleville and three of us from Trenton.

I don't know the Belleville boy's name. He has a leg off. He is a Fish and Game Inspector.

I figure the Bellevile paper will be company for us as it covers a lot of Trenton as well as good newspaper.

I will be looking for the paper soon.

Yours,
G. LaBrash, Room 529, 5-B
West Sunnybrook Hospital, Toronto.

Open Plant

The Hon. Dr. James McCann, Minister of National Revenue, will officiate at 3.00 p.m. this afternoon at the opening of the new Pyrotenax plant on West street. At the ceremony will be Sir Brograve Beachamp of England, Senator W. A. Fraser of Trenton, William Thomilson O.B.E., the General Manager of the Pyrotenax in England and Gordon Davies, manager of the Canadian plant here.

Senator Fraesnis Wallace

Comrade William A. Fraser presented leather wallets to three fellow members of the Trenton Branch of the Canadian Legion here on Friday night on the eve of their departure for tours in Canada and Europe.

Petition Circulated By Bus Stop Manager

Trenton (Special)—A contentious problem has arisen here with the town council's recent order to Norman Rickett, manager of the Trenton bus stop situated on the Market Square, to vacate the premises by June 1. The building belonds to the town and it was council's opinion that the structure constituted an eyesore and should be torn down.

Mr. Rickett today started a petition and is believed to have gained the support of several merchants who feel that the establishment of a terminal from the present central location would tend to hurt business.

Largest known living thing is believed to be the sea-weed aspercystis, of which one specimen was 900 feet long.

North Bay Fire Chief Dismissed by Council

NORTH BAY (CP)—Fire Chief G. R. Thomas was dismissed by city council Saturday on the grounds that "he has lost the confidence of council."

The dismissal motion was made effective immediately and specified that Thomas be given 12 months' salary in lieu of notice. Fred Strange, senior captain of the fire department, was appointed acting fire chief.

DEMORESTVILLE

DEMORESTVILLE — Several of the women of the village are busily engaged in tomato plants at Bethel.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Potter and Larry spent the Tuesday supper with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scrafield and family.

Sorry to report the death of Mrs. Amelia Howell, mother of the late Frank Howell, and a life long resident of this community.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Gorsline and Mr. and Mrs. Hollert Gerseline spent several days in Honeoye, New York, and the beatiful surrounding country.

Mrs. Ross Johnson spent an afternoon with Mrs. Mina Thompson.

The combined choir of the Demorest village church held their practice on Thursday evening.

Dr. Cornelius P. Rhoads, director of the Sloan-Kettering Institute of the Memorial Cancer Centre in New York city, said studies have shown that when the number of cigarets smoked each day increases, the rate of mortality also increases "sharply."

"Smoking certainly is not the only cause of lung cancer, nor does it say some everybody who smokes excessively get lung cancer, but there is a correlation between the smoking and the amount smoked and the occurrence of cancer of the lung, which is a problem of rapidly increasing proportions," he said.

Dr. Charles Cameron, medical and scientific director of the American Cancer Society, said another suggestion had been made by a District of Columbia surgeon whom he did not name.

"It has been suggested," Dr. Cameron said, "that people who smoked are more timid, more nervous, and have a different hormone composition from the people who do not, and that cancer of the lung and conceivably elsewhere may receive emphasis from this more nervous and not the mechanical act of smoking.

"I venture to say that people who smoke cigarets are more nervous than people who smoke cigars."

SCOTTISH DUKE

Charles I granted a Royal charter giving possession of the wreck to an early Duke of Argyll in 1641. Charles II contested the award in 1677 but the Scottish lord turned him down.

Since then the Bay of Tobermory has thrown up coins, words, cannon and other relics from time to time, giving the local historians tantalizing glimpses of the fortune at the bay's doorstep.

But the spotlight of publicity turned on by the present duke has brought another kind of fortune. Picturesque Tobermory has become a thriving tourist centre, though there is nothing to see but the silken waters of the Atlantic.

Hungers growing with the years how the Florencia, fleeing from the English fleet with the rest of the armada, sought food and water at Tobermory but, after getting it, refused to pay the bill. So the mighty Mclean of Duart, a local potentate, went aboard and threw a flaming brand into the powder hold, blowing himself up with the ship.

With him sank the payroll for Spain's fighters waiting to invade England from Holland. There were also the jewels intended to buy off English noblemen and a precious crown for the proposed puppet ruler of conquered England.

Ten Exchange Prisoners Deny Being Tainted With Redism in Prison Camps

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Ten gaunt, tight-lipped men stepped into the compound at Valley Forge military hospital to deny they had been tainted by communism while prisoners of war in Korea.

They were bitter—and they made it plain they felt they had reason to be.

The stage for their tense drama was set Sunday at the hospital here. It had its origin in the circumstances surrounding their flight home after release by their Red captors.

While the 10—and 16 companions —were en route from Tokyo by plane last Thursday, an air force spokesman said the defence department had ordered a veil of secrecy thrown around the men. Rules of the position taken by the army and others that these men may have been misled under conditions of duress and hardship during the end of their captivity."

Denied Few Rights

The 20 reached the hospital late Friday night, ended for a day and then were asked if they were ready to meet the press. Ten said they were anxious for the chance. Four refused bitterly. The rest were lofty or glum. Didn't want any publicity.

The 10 interviewed were brought into a small auditorium two by two. Cpl. Vernon L. Wurtz, 22, St. Louis, and Pte. Roger Herndon, 20, Jacksonville, Fla., said they felt they got "a dirty deal" in being labelled Communist sympathizers. Claim Innocence

Cpl. James L. Ali, 21, of Bellingham, W. Va., said: "We're not going to be shot like criminals. We will all completely innocent." And, after a slight pause, he added: "I never ever heard the term 'Brainwash' before I got back."

Some of the staff officers at the hospital seemed as militantly confused by the situation as the men themselves.

"I don't know where this idea started," said one army doctor, "but there's one thing for sure—we're not running a damned laundromat here."

Another officer, who asked—like his fellow staff member—that his name be withheld, said "there has been a big foul-up somewhere along the line."

HITS THREE TRIPLES

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Carlos Bernier, Pittsburgh's Puerto Rican rookie outfielder, tied a modern major league record Saturday by hitting three triples in a game against Cincinnati. The modern record was held jointly by 10 other players. The all-time record is four, set by George Strelf of Philadelphia in 1885 and equalled by William Joyce of New York Giants in 1897.

Ben Chapman, then with Cleveland, was the last big league hitter to get three triples in one game, July 3, 1936.

16 DIE IN HUT FIRE

BOMBAY (AP)—A marriage party of 18 persons was burned to death at Sonvedi village, near Aurangabad, officials reported Sunday. The victims—the bride, 16 women and a child—were asleep in a thatched hut which caught fire.

Men Who Buy Britain's Grain Scouring World

By MICHAEL NEWMARCH

LONDON (AP)—On their own afterperil years in government harness, the men who buy Britain's grain began scouring the world last week to find grain and beast.

They have a tough assignment.

The government ended its wartime system of bulk-purchasing wheat, flour and animal feeding stuffs last week and told traders to use private-enterprise channels to acquire the huge amount of grain Britain imports each year.

The big switchover came at a critical time. This nation has just walked out of the international wheat agreement, complaining the maximum price under the agreement of $2.05 a bushel is too high.

As a result, Britain, the world's largest importer of wheat, must shop in the free market, where prices are higher still.

The British government also announced its grain subsidies, except a payment to bakers for one grade of bread, will end at the next harvest. So any increase in grain costs will fall directly on consumers.

Private enterprise thus looks as though it is taking the rap for increased bread prices unless Britain can break the world market and get wheat prices tumbling.

Britain is talking about $2 a bushel.

Canada, the United States and Australia all are certain to resist British pressure for cheaper wheat.

But British grain men, who soldily defend the government's walkout of the wheat agreement, are not too despondent.

Pre-Dawn Blaze Killing Woman Will be Probed

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Provincial fire investigators will be called in to probe a pre-dawn blaze that roared through a rooming house at 34 Stanley street Sunday, bringing death to an elderly London woman and severely burning two others trapped on the second floor.

Burned from head to foot, Mrs. Mary Ann Hill, 80, died in Victoria Hospital three hours after she was rescued from an upstairs bedroom.

Two other women who collapsed outside bedroom doors on a second-floor passageway are in serious condition with second and third degree burns. They are Mrs. Maud Mellon, 45-year-old owner of the house, and Mrs. Maria Zorka, a boarder.

Eight In House

Eight people were in the rambling, 10-room brick house when fire of unknown origin swept a down stairs living room and burst up the centre stairway to the second floor.

Jack Murray, 34, suffered severe burns in both hands as he fled down the blazing stairway. Doreen Hallett, seventeen, of a second-floor room, also fled down the front stairs but was taken to hospital suffering shock.

Clarence Howe and Harry Brownlee, who shared two rooms on the second floor near the front, escaped by climbing through a window. Awakened by smoke they scrambled hastily onto a verandah over the front porch and were rescued by a fire ladder.

Asks For Probe

Fire chief R. C. McDonald, who arrived at the scene a short time after fire equipment, said he will ask the Ontario fire marshal to investigate the blaze.

Police and firemen were at the scene within minutes but a hose had to be turned on to the blazing downstair hallway before they could enter and rescue those trapped inside.

BILTS DREW 65,000

GUELPH (CP) — Guelph Biltmores were third among Ontario Hockey Association Junior A teams last season in fans' support.

Their home games drew a total of 65,000 persons, approximately 27,000 fewer than the season before when Biltmores won the Memorial Cup. Average attendance for the season was about 2,300.

However, their 1953 showing left them trailing only Toronto Marlboros and Toronto St. Michaels from the standpoint of paying customers.

Cost-of-Living Index Drops Fifth of Point in March For 5th Consecutive Decline

OTTAWA (CP)—The new consumer price index—yardstick for sooner price indix—yardstiff for measuring living costs—declined by one-fifth of a point during March to 114.6 from 114.8, the bureau of statistics reported today. It was the fifth consecutive drop in the index which had reached a peak of 118.3 in December, 1951.

The decline in the index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, was small, however, compared to the drop of seven-tenths of a point in February.

Lower food prices again provided the main power for dropping the index. The food sub-index 'dropped' to 110.9 from 111.6, as prices eased for such fresh meats as beef, veal and lamb, as well as for potatoes and butter.

Rents Up

The rents were up, as well as electricity rates and the cost of health care, but elimination of the federal $2.20 radio licence fee also helped cut living costs.

With the March drop, living costs were pushed back to June, 1951, when the consumer price index also stood at 114.6.

Reflecting the same downward trend, the old cost-of-living index, based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100, eased three-tenths of a point to 183.9 from 184.2, with lower food prices also forcing the decline.

It was the second consecutive drop in the old prices barometer which had reached a peak of 184.5 in December, 1951.

Decline Small

While this was the first time in many years that the new consumer price index had registered a five-month-to-a-row drop the total decline of 1.5 points was small compared to the 2.3-point drop in the first four months of 1952. In that period, consecutive monthly drops trimmed the index to 115.9 in April, 1952, from the record high of 118.2 in December, 1951.

The new index came into use last fall, but the cost-of-living index has been projected back to 1913 on the new base of 1949 prices when it equalling 100. Officials said the current five-months-in-a-row drop was the most pronounced since 1933 when the index dropped eight months in a row.

The household operations column also increased to a high of 116.9 from 116.7 as a result of higher electricity rates.

Clothing Unchanged

The clothing column remained unchanged at 109.7. This compared to the peak of 115.3 in November, 1951.

In the old cost-of-living yardstick, the food column eased to 223.5 from 225.7; rents rose to 192.9 from 192.7; fuel and light climbed to 183.1 from 182.6; clothing remained unchanged at 215.5; household furnishings and services rose to 196.8 from 196.3, and the miscellaneous column rose to 146.7 from 147.9.

While retail prices generally continued to ease during March, wholesale prices also led the way to a similar drop during April. The wholesale industrial materials index, based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100, slipped to 221.3 on April 24 from 226.2 on March 27.

Father, Son Found Dead Of Gas Poisoning

KITCHENER (CP)—A father and son found dead Sunday night when an illuminating gas jet went out in the son's home while the two men slept.

Police said they found the bodies of David Beggs and his son, Bert, shortly before midnight. They said Mr. Beggs, of nearby Dreyton, was visiting the son during the week-end.

Police said they 'had not yet determined how the gas jet was opened.

They said the jet may not have been turned off tightly after the men had prepared dinner or that the gas had been turned on low and was snuffed out by a draft.

Govt. Produces Rust-Resistant Wheat Variety

OTTAWA (CP)—The agriculture department may have about 100,000 bushels of a new wheat variety developed to resist Race 15-B rust—ready for distribution as seed next fall.

Dr. C. H. Goulden, head of the department's cereals division, said in an interview that the new variety, developed after years of combined scientific effort, will come up for licensing this summer.

The department itself decides which varieties will be licensed for distribution and it appeared likely, said Dr. Goulden, that the new variety will be approved in time for fall distribution.

"The seed likely will be handed out on a first-come, first-served basis," he said, but he didn't know whether there will be sufficient to meet all requests.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner announced development of the seed on Thursday. He told the Commons the department has about 6,000 bushels of the new variety which is being sown this year on federally-controlled land, including the New river irrigation project in Alberta.

"It is not licensed yet because we have not completely proven the baking value of it, although we believe it has baking value which is just about as good as any other wheat," Mr. Gardiner said.

Because of the great threat of Race 15-B rust, which spread into Canada from the United States, the department was going ahead with planting to have a considerable amount of the seed "for distribution at the end of the season," he said. It is one of about 100 different types of rust, said Dr. Goulden, amplifying Mr. Gardiner's remarks. It was spread from the U. S. by airborne spores and hit Canada's wheat crop last week. The fungus germinates on the stem, and decreases the plant's water and withers the stalk.

The U. S. has lost millions of dollars of grain through this rust and Canadian scientists decided as far back as 1938 to use all means to prevent that from happening in Canada. Most of the damage so far has been in Manitoba.

A group of scientists in the department's Winnipeg laboratories found a wheat variety resistant to this rust and crossed it with high-quality wheat.

Samples of the new variety wheat were sent to California for year-round planting and quick reproduction. From the two crop plantings the department now has about 6,000 bushels of the seed for sowing on Canada's Prairies. About 6,000 acres are being sown this spring.

Dr. Goulden said that while the baking value of the new variety wheat has not been established, tests will continue and he is confident the variety will pass the baking tests satisfactorily.

"The new wheat still has no name. It goes under the label of 'CT-196.'" It will get a name, said Dr. Goulden, when the licence is granted.

MARMORA

Agricultural Society Plans Bigger Fair

Marmora — A meeting of the directors of Marmora Agricultural Society was held on Thursday evening at the home in Marmora township of Reeve and Mrs. Irwin McCoy, when various matters pertaining to the society's welfare were dealt with.

Having again chosen Labor Day for the annual fair, the directors also discussed now with the laying of foundations for a bigger and better exhibition if at all possible.

Carl Heath, president, took the chair. First on the agenda was the report for the Grain Club. Names of those intimating their willingness to join were reported to constitute a little over the prescribed number.

Next to be considered was the Calf Club. Names of those intending to join were noted and the hope was expressed that the three or four more entrants required would soon contact the secretary - treasurer, Thomas J. Bateman, that the registration of the necessary number be completed.

Race Track Committee

Carl Heath, Thomas Bateman and Louis Hulaman were appointed as a committee to inspect the race track and attend to what surfacing is necessary, as well as to decide on the seating facilities to be done in that connection.

Discussion took place regarding the street dance that has been a valued support of the Society's funds for several years now. The directors decided to go further into the matter with probability being that the event will be substituted by a carnival and dance in the near future for which the arena and exhibition building would both be utilized.

Conveners of the different sub-committees will be named once so, were urged to submit their portions of the prize list with whatever revisions they have made with the least four days that the compilation of the full prize list might be expedited for publication purposes.

The question of the evening show, an innovation of last year which proved successful, received further consideration and will be dealt with more fully at the next meeting scheduled to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Heath on May 28.

Following adjournment, the gathering sat down to a delicious round of refreshments, served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Maurice McFall and Mrs. Chas. Lake, followed by an entertaining social half hour.

The office furnishings and effects of the Belleville Steel Corporation were moved on Friday from the premises on Bridge St., rented from the Dominion Bank, to the new offices situated at the plant.

The Deloro group of St. Andrew's Women's Auditorium held a successful supper in Deloro hall on Wednesday evening.

NORTHPORT

BREAKS ARM

Northport — Trouble did not come singly to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Greenwell. They had their home by fire last week and two days later Mr. Greenwell, who was moving into the home of Mr. Grouse, fell through a trap door and fractured his arm between the elbow and shoulder. Both are in Prince Edward County Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Hudson, Toronto, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Fraser.

Mr. and Mrs. Murney Lindsay were Saturday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Pollard, Demorestville.

Mr. Murray Thomlinson and Miss Eunice Thomlinson were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Mallett and Elaine.

Mrs. Edna MacDermaid and Mrs. Jack Fraser motored to Toronto last Friday. Mrs. Fraser returned home with her husband the following day. Mrs. MacDermaid, who was accompanied by Mrs. Betshofelt, to Toronto, returned home on Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. Cutler and Arlene spent a couple of days in Ottawa this week.

Mrs. George Eggleton returned to their home in Belleville after spending two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. G. Hough.

Mr. and Mrs. Hudson, Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Fraser and boys were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Smith.

Mr. Hickson, Chicago, was a week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs Harold Barker.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Folkard, Bethel Street, were Sunday visitors of the same home.

A large crowd attended the film, "The Royal Tour," put on by the young people of Northport on Thursday evening.

Glad to report Mr. H. Pulver able to return home from Prince Edward County hospital, where he was a patient for several weeks.

Sympathy is expressed to the family of Mrs. Frank Howell, Demorestville, who passed away on Thursday morning. Mrs. Howell was the telephone operator for years and was beloved and respected by all for her cheerful manner and kind consideration to everyone. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. G. Particle, Mrs. C. Cole and one, Russell, to mourn her loss.

STRONG AND STEAMY

HAMILTON (CP)—Susie, a fireless yard engine at the west-end plant of the Canadian Westinghouse Company in Hamilton, has to "fill up with steam every four hours at the company's heating plant. The yard engine, the only one of its kind in Canada, was purchased by the company to cut down the smoke problem. Although she weighs less than half the tonnage of an ordinary steam locomotive, Susie can pull up to 18 loaded cars at once.

JOHNSTOWN

Johnstown — Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Weir, of Belleville, were Sunday afternoon callers of Mr. and Mrs. John McBrein, Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bush and family spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Malloy.

Mrs. Clayton Curtis, Mrs. Ernest Bush, Mrs. Ken Stickle and Mrs. Fred Meyers attended the Sunday School convention this week at King St. Church, Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald St. Hillaire and Margaret were Sunday night supper guests and spent the evening with Mr. and Mrs. H. St. Hilaire and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Houde spent Wednesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Alex Meyers and Arnold, enjoying the Mexican slides that Arnold took while in Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Sharpe, of Brighton, were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Berry.

Miss Nettie Harder, Miss Donna Elumpton and Mr. Bob Malloy attended the Junior Farmer and Junior Institute conference at Guelph on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bush, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bush and daughter of Stirling, visited with the Bush family on Sunday.

Reception

Mr. Arnold Meyers attended a reception given by the Fine Arts Club of Windsor, on Thursday evening last, in honor of the assistant conductor of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, and principal of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, Dr. Ettore Mazzolenti. At the request of those present Dr. Mazzoleni gave short piano recital of Beethoven sonatas. Mr. Meyers had the honor of meeting each person individually and he felt really honored in being a guest at the home of the prominent Windsor lawyer, Mr. Don Flock, where this informal gathering was held.

Five schools of this neighborhood held a music festival at Glen Miller school on Wednesday evening. There was a good crowd and the program was of a high calibre. Those who took part in the program will find out their results next week and those who win out will be required to go to Belleville later on to compete.

MINTO

Minto — St. Thomas W.A. held a dinner and quilting at the home of Mrs. Percy Hay, on Wednesday, with a splendid attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Clements, of Ivanhoe, were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. John Courtney.

Mrs. Albert Twiddy accompanied Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bethune, of Stirling, to Toronto and spent a few days there last week.

Mrs. Anne Reide, of Belleville, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Phil Vance.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hay visited Mrs. Murney Hay in Kingston hospital on Sunday.

Mrs. F. Brown returned home last week-after spending the winter month in Toronto with her daughters.

Mr. Norman Stuart, principal of Stirling public school, visited Mr. Gordon Reid on Monday night.

A school where a student can run off looking for birds' nests and wildflowers and not play hookey will be conducted this July — as for the past 14 years — at Camp Billie Bear in the Muskoka district 130 miles north of Toronto. Sponsored by the Federation of Ontario Naturalists, the instructors are biologists and university professors. The students, 50 to 75, have included locomotive engineers, farmers and taxi drivers. Here Ruth Stewart, Shirley Donely and Margaret Ghent, all of Toronto, study aquatic life. — (CP Photo.)

'Packed Team' Proposal Ousted By OHA Moguls

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hockey Association rolled up its sleeves for a little spring cleaning Saturday.

Some 130 delegates were on hand at the 64th annual meeting for a three-hour session trimming and polishing the constitution and by-laws of the body which governs amateur hockey in the province.

Most dust was raised when the Port Colborne Senior B club proposed that the Niagara peninsula district be classified as a senior pollian area. They suggested that no club within the area bordered by Lake Ontario, the Niagara river, Lake Erie and Dunn, Sherbrooke, Moulton, Canboro, Saltfleet and Barton townships, and including the city of Hamilton, be of lower classification than Senior or Junior B.

The proposal also would have forbidden either players resident within the area from playing outside or players resident outside from playing within the area.

Jack Bionda of Hamilton said the proposal was designed to allow senior clubs in the area to "pack" their teams. Herb Parker of Strathford claimed it would mean "the rich clubs get richer and the poor get poorer."

The proposal was defeated almost unanimously following a spirited discussion.

Delegates passed an amendment to the by-laws permitting a player who plays not more than three games on or before Jan. 15 and then is released by a club to apply for permission to register and play with a club of the same or higher classification. Formerly such players were permitted to register only with clubs of lower classification.

Only one such registration, however, will be granted to a club in each season.

The executive was granted power to establish a new classification to be known as intermediate C and to give consideration to the reorganization of all classifications with concern to population.

The delegates elected a new executive: Dr. A. E. Smith, Collingwood; first vice-president; T. A. M. Buise, Aurora and Herb Parker, Strathford.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball players are normal young men with money in their pockets and much spare time on their hands while they are on the road, and we greatly fear they will go right to the gambling establishments no matter how many times Commissioner Ford Frick tells them he's against it.

They'll simply go underground while the heat is on and do their card playing exclusively in hotel rooms. They'll see no talking about it within earshot of their manager, so that he can look properly bewildered the next time the scandal note pops up.

We have found no one yet who knows what set off the Frick ukase against the friendly games of chance. We have seen no official reports that stakes were beginning to run high in the baseball games and that players were being hurt. Such things get around as a rule.

Frick must, however, have heard something. He travelled with ball teams too many years back in his reporting days to become worked up about quarter limit poker and cent-a-point gin rummy, which are the normal games on most clubs. He knows they are fine, healthful pastimes and that no players who can count 10 will be injured seriously in either.

There are some extremely fine card players in baseball, good enough to operate in the fastest company, and occasionally one of them will pluck his teammates. That is where the kind of trouble comes that can wreck a club. Frick has known it to happen.

The average game we have seen concerns only a set of young athletes who have just discovered poker and who feel certain they will win if they only stay in every pot to the bitter end. They get much fun and relaxation from the game.

It is our opinion that, as a class, baseball players do not compare either with golfers or tennis players in gambling skill or in willingness to risk important money. The average ball player is on the cautious and frugal side.

Has Perfect Bowling Score

TORONTO (AP) Al Broadfoot, 21, formerly of Sault Ste. Marie rolled his first perfect 459 while bowling sweeps with six others at a bowling centre Sunday.

He bowled 300 with 11 strikes Saturday night. Broadfoot bowled in the men's five-pin league in Sault Ste. Marie, last year.

Royals Sweep Two From Chiefs; Toronto Splits

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Royals held on to their International Baseball League leadership during the week-end, winning two out of three games. They lost 3-3 to the fifth-place Rochester Red Wings Saturday, but won a doubleheader from Syracuse Chiefs Sunday, 5-2 and 3-2.

Royals now have a .714 average against .667 for Toronto Maple Leafs, their nearest rivals. Springfield at Toronto was washed out Saturday, but the Leafs split a twin-bill with the second-place Syracuse Orioles Sunday, dropping the opener 1-0 and taking the afternoon tilt 2-1. Springfield is in the league cellar.

Third-place Buffalo was similarly rained out Saturday against Baltimore, and similarly split a twin-bill Sunday against the seventh-place Ottawa Athletics, the Bisons walloping the Athletics 10-1 in the first and bowing 4-3 in the second.

Fourth-place Syracuse dumped the Athletics 8-2 Saturday.

In Montreal Sunday, Syracuse starter Marvin Williams was put on the seventh inning for Lynn Lovenguth and charged with the loss.

Right-hander Ed Roebuck went all the way for the Royals, his first victory, and was tabbed for only four hits. Chico Fernandes hit three for three for the Royals, including a four-bagger.

Art Dyck went the route for the chiefs in the second and Bob Alexander pitched for the Royals, giving up four hits.

At Toronto, catcher Clyde Klutts provided the margin of victory for the Orioles in the first game when he belted a seventh-inning homer with no one on. The Star took the win and Vic Lombardi was tabbed with the loss.

In the second game, Toronto sent three men home in the first frame but Baltimore got two back in the third. Both starters, John Sandford and Jim Poat, went the route, Poat gave up one base on balls, one walk and struck out four and Sandford limited the Leafs to two hits, walked three and struck out six.

Buffalo's Earl Little drove in five runs as the Bisons took the opener and batted in two more as Ottawa took the second. He belted out two homers in each game.

Dresser High On Gilliam

Manager Chuck Dressen is high on the talented Memphis grad, who has been on base in every one of the Brooks' 16 games with 18 hits and 12 walks.

"I said down in Miami that he can help us if he can hit .260," said Dressen after Monday's sixth straight Brooklyn victory.

"He's hitting .300 now and I think he'll be even better.

"Most important, he gets on base. I don't care how he does it as long as he gets there."

Gilliam, 24, batted .344 in been up 56 times. He has one double and one triple among his 18 hits. Opposing pitchers, still probing for a weak spot, have struck him out only four times. It was the same last year at Montreal—120 walks, 18 strikeouts. So far he's up there leading the league in runs scored and stolen bases.

Gilliam came through Sunday with a game-winning single in the seventh to beat Milwaukee 4-3.

On the fielding side, Gilliam has been making plays to his right that Jackie Robinson never would have made last year, let alone this one.

Dressen is well pleased with the 5-foot-9, 160-pound infielder and in order to make room for Gilliam,

Hogan Wins $15,000 Open

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Bantam Ben Hogan won the $15,000 Pan American Open with a two-under-par 286. It netted $2,500 in prize money for the Palm Springs, Calif., golf star.

Dutch Douglas of Newark, Del. and Fred Haas of New Orleans tied for second with 288 and split $3,300, or $1,650 each.

MacDonald Trophy Presented To Oddfellows' Team

The handsome Charles A. MacDonald Memorial Trophy was presented for the first time Friday night at the first annual banquet or the Oddfellows Mixed Bowling League.

The presentation was made to team captain Verna Gilroy, of the champion Canton team by Mrs. MacDonald, widow of the late highly respected member of the Oddfellows fraternity and an enthusiastic bowler. The function took place in the Oddfellows Hall where the league enjoyed a tasty turkey dinner.

Presentations were also made to members of the champion team, Beatrice Stubbert, Bill Dellar, Harry Powers, Mac Carruthers and Andy Mitchell. Every member of the league received a token of some crest.

Individual prize winners were: men's high average, Harry Powers, 192; men's high triple, Larry Truman, 712; men's high single, Mac Carruthers, 327; ladies' high average, Mona Stubbert, 196; ladies high triple, Lillian Summers, 621 and ladies' high single, Nellie Nicholson, 239.

Six teams formed the first Oddfellows league. They finished the season as follows: LAPM 79, Oddfellows 76; Canton 69, CP and S 60, Rebekahs 60, and Encampment 56. The Canton team won the three night playoffs and the league title with a pinfall of 7833. Rebekahs were second with 7590 and Oddfellows third with 7142.

Retiring president Mac McGrimmon paid tribute to the members of the league for a highly successful season and to those lodge officials who contributed to the purchase of the MacDonald Trophy.

The slate of officers for next season is, president Doug Simpson, vice-president Art Gilroy, secretary, Merle Simpson, treasurer, Gordon McDonald.

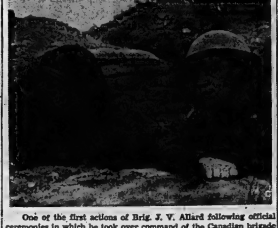
Brief addresses were given by the various lodge officials and Noble Grand Art Gilroy and Chief Patriarch Moira Sit. Art Summers, Secretary of the league, was also named asscact of the league.

Gaspereaux Taken For Lobster Bait

HALIFAX (CP)—They're waiting for the big spring run of gaspereau on the coastal rivers of Nova Scotia.

So far the plump, silvery fish, a portly cousin to the herring, have been making plays to big fish and drabs. But when the big migration starts, there'll be action aplenty with the dip nets.

At the height of the run, when the fish are in full salt water up to the freshwater lakes to spawn, catches run as high as 4,000 in a day.



At Enfield on the Shubenacadie river, the dippers have had their eyes peeled for more than three weeks, but it was not until 15 before the first gaspereau was taken.

They make excellent bait, relatively few of the gaspereau end their days on the dinner table. They're tasty but full of bones.

Most of the dippers are out for lobster traps rather than seafood. They build stages across the streams and poke out the teeming fish with long handled nets.

Catches are kept in individual pools, ringed by the stagings, and removed when needed.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was watching pop making faces a little in shand himself, and I said, G. pop, you look as if that wasn't any fun at all.

That's a complete and accurate discription of shaving, pop said, and I said, G. pop, when I was younger I couldn't hardly wait to grow up so I could have fun shaving my face every morning, and when I really grow up I'll probably wish I was still in bed at the time I'm shaving, just like you do. That proves how innocent I use to be, I said.

Our illusions fall from us one by one with the years, pop said. But the truth will set you free, the truth is that the real pleasures are things of the intellect, he said, and I almost, imminies, pop, you dont mean stuff like arithmetic, do you?

There have been men who found grate enjoyment in the multiplication of stars, and notcracting light years from the planets, pop said. But I am thinking particullity of the joys of fine music and grate litterture. It is quite possibile that the lever of Shakesbeer derives more pleasure from a full volume of Hamlet than he would from a sale. That's fine, everything under the sun is in books.

'Raggedy' Sox, 'Poor' Pirates Turn On Heat With Game-Winning Splurges

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The old fella squinted an eye, parred his lips, took careful aim and a golden-brown stream of "barbecue" juice shaped off the side of a gallon can.

"I see," he said, wiping his lips with the back of a gnarled hand, "where they're feedin' sope bunch of hockey players from the west, apple juice to give 'em the ole pep and vigor."

Old Zeke sat in his shack near Wallbridge, and told a "bunch of the boys" some of the experiences from a colorful store of knowledge, or was it?

"That apple juice idea," he grinned, shifting the 'cud' "might not be a bad one at that—providin' they get the right kind of soy spit. Nowadays they take good old-fashioned cider, spot some air bubbles in it, pack it in cans and tack on the name 'apple juice'.

A twinkle gleamed in his eyes. . . "Now, if those pidapples from the wild and woolly west want some real apple juice, I can fix 'em up. I got some that would set only make 'em play hockey, but go lookin' for a couple of hungry wildcats to warm up on. It's some of Zeke's-concentrated stuff. Strains the hair right off a bear's chest of raw beefsteak, a gallon or two of honey, seven pounds of raisins, a jug or two of whisky have, as they say in Quebec, and sprinkle a dried mouse over the top. And brethren, if these hockey players from B.C. ever took a beaker or two of this, they'd pole vault the Rockies instead of goin' through a tunnel."

"I remember," he said, "a couple of years ago a cousin of mine from the northern states paid me a visit. One night a neighbor dropped in and we drew a jug of the apple juice, just for sociability sake.

"This feller of mine was a strange fella. He had all kinds of pets. His favorite was a little white mouse which he carried in his pocket.

"An believe it or not, that cussed rodent could drink almost as much as a man—well—almost." Zeke's face was straighter than the shortest distance between two points.

"Every once in a while Cousin Jake would give the mouse a snort of the apple juice. Not much, but some."—

"Somehow or another," went on Zeke, "Cousin Jake and the neighbor got into some kind of an argument. Words followed words, and finally I had to get up and make peace. Cousin Jake said he could lick any of all of the neighbor's family, and he could tigrow in a couple of bulls to boot."

"After that harangue," Zeke said, "there was silence for a moment. Then, suddenly, the little white mouse jumped to top of the table, shook a front foot under the neighbor's nose and squeaked: "And that goes for your d—— cat, too."

Zeke never batted an eye. He registered another direct hit on the tin target, and bit off a generous chunk of the "chawin'."

Zeke pondered the question for a moment and said, "Yup, but the boys of my day didn't wear gadgets that would make 'em look like overstuffed mattresses. Shucks, them fellas went to the woods, picked out a nice hickory tree and made their own sticks. They sawed pucks from hardwood limbs. And some of your cream-puffs today, nor a big hammer to tickle your muscles if you developed a saliency. Slacks, that's what they are. I remember big Jim Lane, I think that was his name. He was the goalie. His legs bulged from three-gallon kegs which we used for goal-posts and kicked out the hardwood pucks with muffits on his shinbone except his red undies and a pair of pants. His shirt looked like prison wallpaper with so many wrinkles, but Jim generally broke a half dozen pucks during a game. We used to shovel off a space on Lake Ontario for a rink and manage the feller we had to stop a puck to clean it. Sweeteners never stopped our, what do you call it these days, recreation?"

"I remember one game we played," reminisced Zeke. "It was the longest that I can recall. We started at two o'clock and finished from one o'clock until four-thirty. We used thirty-six pucks and the score was 78-78. We had close ones in those days, for I will tell you before those scans of the boys started half way to Rochester to whip up an appetite for supper.

"Which proves," Zeke said, "there's nothin' new under the sun. This feedin' hockey players apple juice is as old as Adam. Didn't Mother Eve feed Pop Adam an apple and what happened? He got a misandeed penalty."

"But," said one of the boys, "apparently it doesn't work. This western team has lost two or three games to the east despite the apple juice diet."

"Takin' the fault of the apple juice," snapped Zeke. "You don't get water in the gas-tank of your car, do you? And besides," he added, "maybe they don't grow the right kind of apples out west."

Boston Wins Six in Seven, While Bucs Take Four in Row; Phillies Tie 'Bums' For Lead

By JOE RECHTER
Associated Press Sport Writer

It wasn't so long ago that everybody was feeling sorry for Boston's Red Sox and Pittsburgh's Pirates. Those poor Pirates were a near-unanimous pick for the cellar while the "raggedy" Red Sox weren't expected much higher. But look at these two clubs today.

Red Sox, with six victories in their last seven games, are the hottest team in the American League. They won their sixth straight Sunday, walloping St. Louis Browns 14-5 in the opener of their doubleheader, but were nosed out 6-5 in the nightcap.

Pirates pounded out an 8-2 National League triumph over St. Louis Cardinals to climb within a game of the league leading Phillies. The Red Sox are in fourth place, hard on the heels of the American League leaders.

The pace-setting New York Yankees rallied for four runs in the ninth to slip Detroit Tigers 6-5. Cleveland Indians trimmed Chicago took two from Washington, 7-0 and 4-3, and Philadelphia Athletics coveted Baltimore Orioles 5-3 in one of triumphs over Chicago White Sox, 8-3 and 10-6.

Six in Row

Brooklyn registered its sixth straight, edging out Milwaukee Braves, 3-2. Cincinnati Redlegs deadlocked the Dodgers for first place in the National League, whipping Chicago Cubs twice, 4-3 and 3-0. The scheduled twin bill at New York between Cincinnati and the Giants was rained out.

It took a three-run eighth-inning rally by Boston Red Sox to snap the flaming Red Sox' winning string. Boston Browns got all their hits in the opener as rookie centrefielder Tom Umphlett cracked four hits, scored three times and drove in two runs.

Rookie outfielder Frank Thomas walloped his third home run of the season and rapped a double and single to lead the Pirates' attack on three Redbird pitchers as 36-year-old John Lindell won his first game in the National League.

Phils blasted Jerry Nielsen's two-run single followed by relief pitcher Art Houtteman's wild pitch that erased the Yanks' winning outburst in the ninth against Detroit.

Leo Lucciola Sets Pace In Bowling Tourney

Leo Lucciola got away to a flying start in the second annual "Mr. Bowling" Tournament and turned in a terrific five game total of 1455. Starting slowly with a first game of 217, Lucciola then shifted into high with games of 250, 310, 287 and finished the evening off with a sensational 391 game. Ron Saylor, last year's winner, was also in good form, but fell short of Lucciola's score by 53 pins, with a 1402 total. Others in the top five are Jim Szemark, 1397, Joe Legault 1373 and Jim McKenzie, 1325.

Top scorer by an out of town bowler was Harold Ormshaw of Trenton, who had a 1223 quintet. Joe Dunphy of Kingston had an 1133 total and finds himself 302 pins off the pace. Ron Burnside, another Kingstonian came up with a nice 1203 score and this puts him on top of heap in Class "B". He is closely followed by Graham Secrley, local barber, who clipped the pins for 1179. Also in the Class "B" honor group are Dave Batchelor with 1168, Bill Colclough, 1148 and Jack Moon, who came up with 1131.

In the Class "C" category, which is for bowlers with a total average under 200, Keith Bertrim is in the lead with 1130, followed by Orville May, 1082, Joe Deryaw, 1071, Vic Picknell, 1040 and Doug Wylie, 1033.

Sixty-seven bowlers in all bowled in the first round of the tournament, which just about triples last year's entry. Six bowlers from Kingston and a like number from Trenton are taking part. It is likely that the increased interest in this tournament is due in part to the large selection of prizes offered. Thanks to several local merchants, the prize pot has been greatly augmented. Paul Mercier deserves special mention for having come through to the extent of donating a handsome calendar wrist watch as first prize. A word of thanks should also be given to Jim Walker, Men's Wear, F. M. Barrett Co., Ron Saylor (who supplied the beautiful Bowling Pin Lamp of his own manufacture), The Bowl-O-Drome, Quick and Robertson, G. H. Wood and Co. Ltd., Coca Cola Co. of Canada Ltd., T-Up (Ontario) Ltd., John Kirkwood Cigars, the Capitol, Belle and McCarthy Theatres, and to Mr. "Tools" Holway, who has donated a couple of prizes which are O'K. Also, thanks are due to Joe Legault, who has so kindly come forward again by donating the miniature trophy for "Mr. Bowling". The medal turn out to be an Indian-giver though, for he seems to be doing his utmost to win the trophy himself.

Oshawa Girl Wins Bowls Title

TORONTO (CP)—Eva Rose of Oshawa won the women's open singles crown of the 37th annual tournament of the Canadian Bowling Association with a three-game score of 600 compiled during the week-end.

Hamilton's Central No. 7 defeated 47 other teams for the team championship with 2,331, 30 pins on their closest rivals, the Motor City team from Oshawa.

WINS ENGLISH AMATEUR

RUSTHALL, England (AP)—Gerald Micklem, 41-year-old London solicitor and veteran Walker Cup golfer, won the English amateur championship Saturday with a 2-and-1 victory over Britain's top-ranked amateur, Ronnie White. If past custom prevails, Micklem will be invited to become a member of the 1953 British Walker Cup team on the strength of his victory Saturday.

Kitchener Dutchmen Protest Use Of Goalie After Losing To Penticton

Gillson, in Nets For West, Sparks Team to 2-1 Victory With Sensational Performance

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, seeking their first Allan Cup Saturday night run into a familiar and formidable obstacle—Bobbie Gillson.

Gillson, netminder of Owen Sound Mercurys of the Ontario Hockey Association senior A series, was taken on by Penticton Vs as a replacement for the injured Ivan McClelland, and his wizardry in the nets gave the western representatives a 3-1 victory in their first game of the best-of-seven series. Kitchener leads the finals 3-1.

The Dutchmen are trying to get rid of this obstacle. Sunday, they filed an official protest with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. Club officials contended the Dutchmen should not be forced to play against an OHA goaltender after they twice shifted to the nets.

Say Not Eligible

Gillson was in the nets when the Dutchmen scored their goals in the OHA playoffs. Then he was called in by Sudbury Wolves in the all-Ontario finals and gave the Dutchmen a bad time.

In their protest the Dutchmen charged that the CAHA is not entitled to grant the replacement because the man-hard-luck for McClelland stated only that he would be unable to play for three days. Under CAHA rules, they say, a replacement may be used only when a certificate is obtained saying the player is permanently out of action for the rest of the season.

Bobby Bauer, Dutchmen president, indicated McClelland will be ready to play in tonight's game, although the Penticton goaltender is a hard-to-beaten right-hander and carrying it in a sling.

"Gillson—he's one hell of a goalie," he said. "He's sensational. Both shots he got on were curveballers but we got the most goals."

The Dutchmen fired 45 shots on Gillson, most at short range, and he let only one slide past him—Keith Woodall, between the Kitchener-Waterloo stopper's pads.

Both teams went through a scoreless first period before Bill Warwick took Carl McIntyre's pass and slammed in Penticton's first goal at 1:23 of the second.

The Dutchmen tied it up at 16:53 when left-winger Paul Oliver connected on a pass from Clare Martin and Bobby Schnurr.

Penticton scored the winner at 6:06 of the third period on an error by Jack Dutchburn. Oliver overskated the puck behind his defence and McIntyre pounced on it and sent a quick shot into the right corner.

The fifth game will be played here Wednesday night.

Line-ups

Penticton—Goal: Gillson; defence: McAvoy, Brown, Johnston, Fleming; forwards: Schmidt, Culley, Dick Warwick, Carl Warwick, Bill Warwick, McIntyre, Berry, Rudd.

Officials: Vic Lindquist and Gene Linden, Winnipeg.

Scoring

First period: No scoring. Penalties: McAvoy 4:46, Paulka 18:43.

Second period: Penticton, B. Warwick (McIntyre, G. Warwick) 1:23; Kitchener, Oliver (Martin, Schnurr) 16:52. Penalties: Rucks 6:44, Paulka 8:46, Johnston 8:59, Bill Warwick (major), 8:27, Verity (major) 8:27, Culley 16:15.

Third period: Penticton, McIntyre 16:30. Penalties: Rucks 3:46, Ellsworth 10:36, Hurst 13:04.

Simcoe Takes 1st. A Title

SIMCOE (CP)—Simcoe won the Ontario Hockey Association intermediate A championship Saturday night by defeating Collingwood 7-3. Simcoe took the best-of-seven 5-nils 4-2.

Schooley and Lucien led the Simcoe attack with two goals each. Cooke, Gardiner and Adelis were the other Simcoe scorers. Barret, Keith and Wheeler scored for Collingwood.

RED ARTIST HONORED

LONDON (AP)—Soviet artist Vasili Bakhayev was awarded the Order of Lenin by the presidium of the Supreme Council of the USSR, Moscow Radio said Sunday night. It was the 50th birthday of the artist, noted for his landscapes.

Womber Whams Kid Gavilan

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (CP)—Danny (Bang Bang) Womber, a former sparring partner of Sugar Ray Robinson, sprang the boxing upset of the year Saturday night when he won a unanimous 10-round decision from welterweight champion Kid Gavilan.

Womber weathered Gavilan's fistic explosive spurts and won with a screaming attack that pinned the champ from throwing his famed bolo punch.

Both fighters were over the 147-pound limit. Gavilan took Womber weighed 153½ and Gavilan 151.

"I'd like to fight him for the title," said Womber after the fight.

But Angel Lopez, Gavilan's manager, said: "We are not in a hurry fighting him again. Gavilan won the fight. He won six rounds easily."

Gavilan thought he won too.

"Womber is good," said the Kid. "He gives a good show. But I don't think the decision was fair enough."

Legion Plans Sports Program For Ont. Kids

ST. THOMAS (CP)—The Canadian Legion throughout Ontario programmed one of its largest sports seasons at a meeting of the provincial sports' committee here Saturday.

Some 28,000 children alone will participate in legion - sponsored sports in Ontario this year. This is in addition to the legion-sponsored leagues in which legion members participate.

Provincial tournaments will be conducted in soccer, lawn bowling, tennis, golf, softball, horse shoes, bridge, billiards, indoor bowling and darts. A public speaking contest, including individual and team contests will compete for the B'nai B'rith Trophy at Lake Ramsay in Toronto next May with the grand prize of the legion for a week.

The Sudbury district legion is sponsoring 11 different teams in softball, basketball and soccer this season this year. The Sudbury district presented the provincial committee with a $200 sterling silver curling trophy.

All zone series playoffs must be completed by June 15, all district playoffs by July 15, and the provincial finals must be finished by July 30. Softball playoffs will be held in June with class A in Toronto, class B in Parry Sound and class C in Aylmer. The provincial indoor bowling championships which was tied between Wallaceburg and Welland in Welland will be played on neutral alleys in Galt June 6.

Church Leagues Name Officials

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Harold E. Cochrane of Toronto and Helen Sim of St. Catharines were re-elected presidents of the Ontario Church Baseball Association and Ontario Church Ladies Baseball Association respectively Saturday at the 24th annual meeting.

Among delegates to the meeting was Harley Moyer of Sarnia who founded the church loop. Charles Day of St. Catharines and Stan Barnes of Hamilton were named life members.

C. Wyatt of Welland and William Garrett of St. Catharines were elected first and second vice-presidents and Bobby Wilson, president of the Niagara Falls Church League, third vice-president.

In the women's section, Viola Mason of Hamilton and Joan Staff of St. Catharines were named secretary and treasurer.

Barrie Flyers Gunning For Four in Row

By AL VICKERY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

WINNIPEG, (CP) —St. Boniface Canadiens, their backs to the wall, hope to stage a last one win in the Memorial Cup final against Barrie Flyers.

Hap Emms' Flyers, carrying a 3-0 lead in games, can wind up the best-of-seven series with a victory in tonight's fourth game. They won the first three games by scores of 6-4, 6-3 and 7-3.

After a St. Boniface workout Sunday, manager Lorry Dedarjdine said:

"We are in a tough spot and against a tough team, but we've come this far and if we had received a few breaks, the scores could have been reversed."

The fiery French-speaking Canadian said wingman Ken Busby will get into his Memorial Cup game tonight, "but that does not mean we're giving up. Ken is a keen competitor. The boys respect him and he may be just the spark we need to get rolling."

Dedjardins didn't know who would be dropped to make way for Busby. He said it could be a defenceman and that Ken could play a wing or alone with only three rearguards.

That's a strong possibility, as coach Bryan Hextall could always drop third-rock Garry Blaine back on the blueline. The hard-working right-winger often plays that position when the opposition is short-handed. And despite the extra work, Blaine has scored two goals a game against the powerful easterners.

Waterloo, Weston Play 3-All Tie

WESTON (CP)—Waterloo Siskins and Weston Dukes may yet have to settle their battle for the title of the Ontario Hockey Association's Junior B championship.

Saturday night the two teams moved into the first of a two-game total-goals series, called when the best-of-seven final series ended in a 3-3 tie, and the game tied. Saturday night's game ended in another 3-3 tie.

The teams now move to Waterloo for the second game Tuesday night.

Dark Star Twinkles to Win Derby; Post Mortems Blame 'Dancer's Jockey

By JOHN CHANDLER

LOUISVILLE (AP)—One of the loudest post-Kentucky Derby post-mortems in many a year was spinning around racing circles the day after Dark Star Saturday gave the business to Native Dancer's unbeaten streak in the 79th edition of the run for the roses.

Did the best horse win? The consensus was that he did not—that the big grey Dancer should have copped the three-year-old prize.

Dark Star, the brown Calo Hoy Stable colt who led all the way to score a terrific upset by beating the Dancer by a head at the best-of-seven final series ended in the 1¼ miles in two minutes, two seconds.

The finish now move to Waterloo for the second game Tuesday night.

Used His Head

It was generally agreed that Eddy Morono, the little jockey who rode Dark Star, did a whale of a job in the saddle. A lot of onlookers thought jockey Eric Guerin got a bit panicky and lost his head when Native Dancer challenged around by Money Honey in the first turn.

"Our boy used his head, and couldn't have done better with a blueprint," said the trainer for Harry F. Guggenheim, master of the Cain Hoy Stable.

Hayward said he told Moreno to take it easy at the start, but when Moreno discovered soon after the start his horse was raring to go, he went on to the front and stayed there. Correspondent from California, Straight Face from New York, Native Dancer from the same place and the others all took a crack at him one time or another, but they never caught him.

Many observers thought Guerin was laying back too far in the first turn past the stands, and was asking for trouble on the first turn. Native Dancer was sevenths, where he is easy at his best, but when Dark Star, Correspondent and Ace Destroyer in that first quarter mile.

Dark Star paid $15.20 for $2 in the upset victory. He paid $13.60 to place and $7 to show.

Your insurance policies should "Match Up"

To prevent "holes" or expensive overlaps in your insurance coverage, your policies should all be written by one agent (us, we hope, naturally.)

The reason is, policies can be made to supplement each other wisely and economically. Often, several policies can be combined in one at considerable saving.

And an over-all knowledge of your insurance coverage, may reveal to us that you are omitting some important protection that you should have.

Picton Gunner Wins Canadian Middle Title

GLACE BAY, N.S. (CP)—Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., battered-George Ross of West Bay, Cape Breton, to a 12th-round technical knockout Saturday night to win the Canadian middleweight boxing championship.

Referee John Joe McLean stopped the scheduled 12-round match at one minute and 13 seconds of the final round to award the decision to Durelle, now stationed with the Canadian Army at Picton, Ont.

Durelle took the lead early and had Ross bloody and battered from the opening round. The heavyweight champion, bleeding from both eyes after several rounds.

"I've through this time, for sure," the 30-year-old Ross said after the bout. He retired from the ring two years ago after losing the title to Roy Peters of Vancouver in Montreal, but was undefeated in eight fights after his comeback.

The fight was ordered by the Canadian Boxing Federation after Wouters failed to defend his title within the time limit.

CLAIMS BEST GOALIE

GUELPH (CP)—Roy Mason said Sunday he has already started rebuilding the Guelph Biltmores Ontario Hockey Association Junior A team for next season. "I've already signed my best goal-keeper in Ontario," he said. "I'm not telling anybody who he is."

He also said Ted Maki and Bill Fitz of South Porcupine Gold Kings have agreed to play for Biltmores next season.

Amateur Boxers Start Tourney In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—The cream of Canada's amateur boxers start tossing leather at each other tonight and when the smoke has cleared away Wednesday night the champions will be crowned in nine weight classes.

More than 80 boxers, representing points from Halifax to Vancouver, have entered the meet with Quebec having the heaviest representation — 34 entries. Ontario comes next numerically with 13.

The heavyweight class has brought names as Jim Saunders of Winnipeg, present national titleholder and member of Canada's 1952 Olympic team, Lee Dossen of Regina and Calvin (Jumbo) Brown of Montreal.

Another former Olympic fighter will see action in the 139-pound class—Freddie Daigle of Montreal who came out of retirement to win the recent golden gloves final. Others in the class are Wilf Desjarlais of Regina and Calry Mason of Toronto.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

A clever bridge wolf picks his spots for outwitting opponents. When he can't win it he can sit back and lick his chops. The fooled opponents lie there feeling sorry for themselves.

Came the deal shown here:

♠ K 7
♥ K Q 10 4
♦ J 8 6 4 3
♣ 10 8 3

WEST
♠ 9 8
♥ A
♣ A J 9 5
7 6 4 2

EAST
♠ None
♥ 9 8 7 6 5 2
♦ K Q 7 5 2
♣ K Q

SOUTH
♠ A Q J 10 6 5 4 3 2
♥ 3
♦ 9 3
♣ None

They tell me that south opened with a bid of two clubs. The west hand passed. North responded with a bid of two hearts. East passed. South jumped to four spades and west doubled.

West took first side with an opening lead of the king of hearts. He then led club ace. Hoping to find east void in clubs, his plan was to lead a second club for east to ruff.

This would permit east to return a heart that west could ruff. Cashing diamond ace would then defeat the contract by two tricks. At least, this was how west had it figured out.

But this plan went haywire when declarer ruffed the club ace. Trumps were pulled and south shifted both his diamond losers on the now good dummy hearts. Instead of down, two extra tricks were made.

As you can see, the opening bid of two clubs by south was only a phoney. It was a ruse for reaching a four spade contract that the opponents would be induced to double and then lead wrong.

It worked just as south had schemed. But it was foreign to basic bridge for correct bidding. And it has nothing whatever to do with the elementary or fundamental as a player must first learn.

Now west wails that learning the correct rules is a waste of time. Here was an opponent who made more with a wrong bid than a rule bidder could have made with an opening bid of four spades.

But west feels this way, it is a wrong slant. But many others likely hold the same opinion at times. So, perhaps the matter should not be left right there. Let's say more on it.

AT THE McCARTHY

"The Happy Time"

A joyous, warm and tender romantic comedy, Columbia Pictures' "The Happy Time," the Stanley Kramer production of Rodgers and Hammerstein's frank and funny Broadway hit, opened today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. "The Happy Time" is as happy as its name, a buoyant film that treats of a subject eternally full of wonder and tenderness: a boy's coming of age and his first wide-eyed awareness that the world is filled with beautiful things—all women.

A wonderful cast that obviously delighted in carrying through their assignments is headed by Charles Boyer and Louis Jordan and they have stalwart support from Marsha Hunt, Kurt Kasznar, Linda Christian, Marcel Dalio, Richard Erdman and Bobby Driscoll.

"The Happy Time" is a delightful tender story of the springtime in a boy's life, when the very act of being alive is a thing of sheer delight. In this case, the boy is young Bobby Driscoll, who is busy watching and learning from the uninhibited manner in which his elders live their lives.

He sees his father, leader of an orchestra in an Ottawa theatre, rescue Marsha Hunt, an attractive young woman, from the advances of the magician for whom she works. He sees his handsome Uncle Desmond, the girl-chasing wine salesman, become attracted to Mignonette when she is' installed as a maid in the household. The boy sees his Uncle Louis turn philosophic under the influence of wine which he drinks like water. He sees his grandfather frankly pursue his amours with casual disregard for his age and disrespect for the opinions of the doctor. More important the boy sees his own mother in eye-twinkling disagreement with the lessons in romance he might learn from his frankly gallic uncles and grandfather, though she knows that they—and he—are essentially kidding. And, of course, the boy becomes involved in a puppy-love affair with Mignonette.

Boyer is thoroughly enjoyable as the warmly sympathetic father whose son emerges from childhood to the brink of man's estate. In one of the tender moments of the film, the star gives a delightful delineation to his son of the true meaning of love. As the dashing lover who collects garters from burlesque queens until he falls in love, Jourdan also gives one of the best performances of his career.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The news that Jimmy and Tommy Dorsey are forming a band together caused a stir in musical circles. Folks are wondering if the boys have mellowed enough to get along on the same bandstand.

The Dorseys spent most of the first 40 years of their lives fighting with each other. A fight in 1935 broke up their first band together. But perhaps Jimmy and Tommy, 49 and 47 respectively, can play in harmony now.

Music fans hope so, particularly brothers tiffed constantly.

On the night of May 30, 1935, the band was playing the Glen Island Casino in New York. Tommy started the beat for "I'll Never Say Never Again." Jimmy didn't like the tempo and said so. Hot words followed, and Tommy stalked off the bandstand. He never returned, his records of "Marie" and "Song of India."

AT THE CAPITOL—Jean Simmons and Victor Mature are plunged into a stormy romance in Gabriel Pascal's "Androcles and the Lion." Portraying a lovely captive facing certain death in the arena and the stalwart Captain in charge of a band of Christians slated for lion fodder, the co-star team of Simmons and Mature Evans and Alan Young as Androcles, RKO Radio distributes the comedy which is based on Bernard Shaw's famed play opening tonight at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program all-true Underwater Wonder show! "Under the Red Sea." Both attractions are first Belleville showings.

those who recall the great Dorsey bands of the '30s and '40s. The two Shenandoah, Penn., boys have added much to the legend and legacy of popular music.

James Francis Dorsey was born in a coal mining family two years before Thomas Francis Dorsey. But as they grew up, Tommy was the one who started the fights. He was excitable and aggressive, Jimmy was shy, but had enough Irish in him to fight back.

Their father earned $10.20 a week in the mines, but he had ambitions for his sons. A musician, he insructed them in the cornet when they were five and seven. Jimmy quit high school after one year and became a blacksmith's helper. In 1925 they joined some friends in leaving town to try their luck in the music world.

Their first job paid $285 a week for the whole band in a Baltimore park. The Dorseys' luck improved in New York, where they played with the Paul Whiteman and Vincent Lopez bands. But Tommy wasn't happy.

"We're suckers," he'd say. "We should have our own band."

"No," said cautious Jimmy. "We are making good money. Be satisfied."

Tommy won out, and they formed the Dorsey brothers orchestra, which had such stars as Glenn Miller, Charlie Spivak, Ray McKinley, Bunny Berigan and Bob Crosby. Despite their success, the band," Tommy vowed. "I won't give up until it's twice as good as his."

Jimmy came to Hollywood for the lush job of conducting for Bing Crosby. Tommy bit the road, playing the grind of one-nighters. Finally he hit the bigtime with the bandstand. He never returned, his records of "Marie" and "Song of India."

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY, MAY 5, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—One of the best, most encouraging planetary days in a good while. Get started and know what you are about, don't aim above your head, and you will achieve desirable goals.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Should be a bonanza day for you keen, intelligent Taureans. Just don't be too optimistic and spoil things. News of real interest.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Stimulating day in business, professional, personal endeavors. Heart interests also share these auspicious rays.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer)—Like Gemini and Taurus you can do the right thing at the right time, and success will be yours. Domesticity, romance have fresh impetus.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Today bids fair to top most days this past week for opening the door of achievement. Be quick but not foolhardy. Smart daring will help.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Excellent credits possible in well planned action. Good influences for marriages, reconciliations, family reunions; for children's activities and needs.

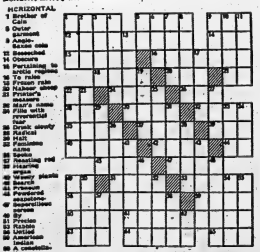
September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Essential work, trading, legal deals, financial undertakings should bring desirable results. Have no misgivings over your prospects today.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—With proper attention to the important matters and calm approach you should come through day satisfactorily. Have regard for the small items.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—May find a few obstacles in a.m., but you can chalk up a good score if you try hard enough. Heart interests, domestic affairs rate high.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Things may take on a new, more encouraging trend unexpectedly. Be on lookout for the unusual, the original.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Cut wasting time and you can turn in fine effort to bring better-than-good results. But don't allow self to be misled into shoddy deals.



February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Good day to wheedle one can make headway in most anything if reasonable. Know what you are about. Inject a touch of newness, if it will help.

YOU BORN TODAY are of the Sign Taurus. Friendly, kindly nature; ready to give a helping hand. Excellent scholars in Taurus, can achieve a great deal in business, science or other professional work. Watch for a tendency to be too set, determined, sometimes even pessimistic. 1953 offers greater scope for you clever, alert ones.

Birthdate of many able scientists, artists and educators.

WALLBRIDGE

WALLBRIDGE — The regular meeting of the Wallbridge "Supper Club" was held recently at the home of Mrs. Roy Woods with 11 members present.

Mrs. Frank Tucker, assistant leader, demonstrated how to make salad dressing, with the members taking part. Mrs. Woods then discussed the care of vegetables and different types of salad by preparing and making five different varieties.

The W. I. met at the home of Mrs. Clarence Woods on Wednesday afternoon with a good attendance and in the evening the program committee met at the home of Mrs. J. Sine to prepare the program for 1953.

All welcome Mr. and Mrs. German Moore back to the village again where they lived a few years ago. They are residing with Mr. and Mrs. Blake Johnson.

The second of the milk trucks is again heard as the cheese factory opened Monday morning for another season.

Mr. George Kurnan and Miss Jenny Kurnan attended the funeral of their sister-in-law, Mrs. Ed. Kurnan, who passed away at her home on Monday, in Buffalo, N. Y. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved ones.

Mr. Roy Woods is getting his lot ready to build on the corner of Wallbridge and 5th concession.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Donaldson and baby Jane, have moved to their new home at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fair. Alvin and June will be greatly missed around here as they were always ready to help in all activities.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pound and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Pound and baby, Dale, were Monday evening callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Sine of Tweed were recent week-end guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Sine.

The farmers are busy with their sowing of peas for canning factory while grain is also be[ing] sown as the weather during the past two days has been favorable.

Many friends of Mr. Lorne Badgley, regret to know he is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital. His many friends and neighbors wish him a speedy recovery.

On Thursday evening, the Orange Hall was well filled when Wallbridge Music Festival was held, sponsored by the South Hastings Educational Association. The program was well given by the pupils. Their teacher, Mrs. Ira Rickley and music supervisor, Miss Grace Pitman, deserves much credit for such a splendid program.

Crisis Threatens, Until Big Brother Comes to Rescue

JUBILEE EVENING AUX.

The Jubilee Evening Auxiliary of Bridge Street United Church, held its monthly meeting recently in the ladies' parlor. There were several items of business discussed, one being the date of the June meeting, which, due to Coronation Day, will be held later in June.

The program was under the direction of Mrs. H. Tisdale, who gave a short description of the work being done by the group among the new Canadians in Belleville, and urged the support of all the association.

Peter van Everdingen sang two lovely solos, "The Lord is My Shepherd", and "It is no Secret". His clear, English soprano was a joy to hear. He was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. M. Hoonton.

Miss Grace Houston read a fine story, illustrating the "Stewardship of Time".

Mrs. H. Calnan read a brief but to the point temperance article.

The scripture reading was given by Mrs. Tisdale.

The speaker of the evening was Mrs. I. Knight, who told of her brother-in-law, Dr. Alan Knight, in Angola. Being an agricultural missionary, his problems were varied. He certainly has become real to the members of who were fortunate enough to be present to hear Mrs. Knight.

Club Activities

NEIGHBORS' AID

2nd. Thurlow — The April meeting of the 2nd. Thurlow Neighbors' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. Percy Sprackett, Belleville, on Wednesday afternoon. About 20 were present. Mrs. Corah Howard presided, with Mrs. M. Mitchell at the piano. Thank-you notes were read by the secretary, Mrs. Ray Desh, and the treasurer, Mrs. H. Atkins, gave a report on the cash here and financial standing.

The following program, arranged by Mrs. Donald Mitchell, and conducted by Mrs. F. Mitchell, was enjoyed: Instrumental, Mrs. M. Mitchell; reading, Mrs. A. Greatrix, prepared by Mrs. I. Conner and read by Mrs. A. Mitchell; two contests in charge of Mrs. Douglas Atkins, was won by: first, Mrs. E. Grille consolation, Mrs. R. Greatrix; second contest, Mrs. A. Mitchell; consolation, Mrs. I. Leeming. A reading, Mrs. F. Mitchell, "Good Fathers Must be Interested in Children"; instrumental, "It's No Secret", "Now is the Hour", "Let the Rest of the World Go By", by Mrs. M. Mitchell; clipping, Mrs. L. Conner.

Refreshments were served by Mesdames K. Greatrix, Bert Greatrix, Olga Lazarulk, and Edythe Thomson.

Women's Institute

WALLBRIDGE WI.

The April meeting of Wallbridge Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Clare Woods with an attendance of two visitors, 18 members and three children, with the president presiding.

The usual business was transact. The secretary-treasurer, read the correspondence and the financial report of the year which showed receipts of $970.06 and expenses, $568.95 with a balance of $401.11.

The Extension Service program for making a choice of service, was passed around for each one to choose her favorite subject.

Mrs. Roy Woods reported the sick and visiting committee for the year.

The topic centred around a discussion of the "Handbook" and was taken by Mrs. C. G. Smith and Mrs. Harold Phillips, such as good form in procedure of Women's Institute meetings on the part of the president, secretary-treasurer, directors and committees also the standing committees and their functions; legislative grants; the Institute colors, badges and when properly worn and advising all to study the handbooks in order to understand Institute work better. There were a few orders for more handbooks.

Presentation

Mrs. E. Phillips, the retiring president, was presented with a sterling silver Maple Leaf pin and earrings set with brilliants, for her untiring efforts in her two years term of office. These were presented by Mrs. Ted Evans. Mrs. Phillips graciously thanked the members for the gifts.

A reading by Mrs. Morley Phillips and Mrs. H. Ketchenson of a C.N.R. museum train in anniversary run from Toronto to Aurora, commemorating the 100th anniversary of the first railroad service in Ontario. This museum model dated back to its first appearance in Canada in 1836.

Mrs. E. Phillips also gave a reading entitled, "The Oyster".

The May meeting will be held at Mrs. Morley Phillips', change of date as meetings to second Thursday of each month.

The hostess was tendered a vote of thanks for opening her home for this meeting.

The lunch conveners served refreshments and a social half hour was spent.

Allies Refuse To Send Balky POW Outside of Korea

Reds Accused of Throwing Up Smoke Screen in Talks

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The United Nations command today accused the Communists of throwing up a smoke screen in the Korean truce talks and said Red stalling "casts serious doubts on their sincerity."

Lt.Gen. William K. Harrison insisted the Allies could not agree to Red demands that 48,000 prisoners who have spurned communism be shipped to a neutral Asian custodian.

They would destroy themselves rather than submit to removal from Korea", the senior Allied delegate said.

Werth Welcomes Visitor

The most Red truce delegates would say was that Allied nomination of Sweden as a neutral caretaker was "worth welcoming." They also insisted that both sides first work out the functions of the neutral before deciding on the country itself.

Harrison, senior Allied delegate, told reporters that the Allied command would apply equally to any neutral and said of the Red demand:

"That is merely a negotiating smoke screen. That's all in the world it is."

North Korean Gen. Nam Il, chief Red negotiator, said the "important question" is whether unwilling prisoners shall be sent to a neutral state or whether they are sent to the neutral custodian in Korea. Wants Clarification

Nam asked the UN command to clarify these three points:

1. What people would the Allies take to remove military control over the prisoners?

2. How would the UN command at the same time enable the neutral to take control of the PoWs?

3. How would it maintain order in the prison camp?

Harrison replied such matters could be quickly solved once agreement was reached on the neutral nation.

He added:

"Your evasion of the matter of agreeing on the neutral merely causes suspicions as to your motives. I think you are prepared to accept one of the nominees or nominate a different one, we have nothing further to say."

Nam replied:

"Since your side has nominated Pakistan to serve as a neutral nation we consider that your side has obligation to be able to clarify how to request Pakistan to accomplish its functions."

"We would still like to know the concrete views of your side on the questions I have put forward," Harrison replied: "I have nothing further to say."

Harrison talked with newspaper reporters for more than 15 minutes outside the tiny truce hut after the session.

He said that in the Reds' repeat failure to nominate a neutral "we find the same reluctance to stand firm" and not discuss other details. The delegates meet again Wednesday.

Diefenbaker Will Stand For Seat In Prince Albert

PRINCE ALBERT (CP)—Word was received here from Ottawa Monday that John Diefenbaker will stand for the Progressive Conservative nomination in the federal riding of Prince Albert.

The long-awaited statement from the fiery opposition member in the Commons ended a temporary lull in political activity here begun when Mr. Diefenbaker addressed a mass meeting organized by the Diefenbaker club" movement almost two weeks ago.

This group, including members of all political parties, attempted to obtain Mr. Diefenbaker's nomination here, following drastic alterations in the former riding of Lake Centre.

The group now is represented by Frank Helme, Liberal, who last year announced his intended retirement.

In the redistribution of seats following the 1951 census Mr. Diefenbaker's riding of Lake Centre was amalgamated with Moose Jaw, represented by Ross Thatcher, CCF member.

PLASTIC FILLINGS

CLEVELAND, O. (AP)—A dental professor Monday said new plastic fillings that can be installed without much less drilling pain were used on some 10,000 persons last year. Dr. Fred Slack, associate professor of prosthetic research at the University of Pennsylvania, described the new filling at a clinic and the Cleveland Dental Society. The fillings have an adhesive quality and filling that is formed by computer to one-half, he said.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: The warm sunny weather over Ontario is interrupted today and evening as showers moved northward into southwestern counties. This rain area will hover in the vicinity of the lower lakes today and Wednesday, threatening precipitation in southern sections both days. Elsewhere over the province there will be considerable sunshine except in the far north where forenoon cold air will bring cloudy cool weather as far south as the Kirkland Lake region.

SECOND COMMONS VOTE EXPECTED ON GOVT. POLICY

Natural Resources Subject of Debate

OTTAWA (CP)—A second vote in two days on government policy on natural resources development appears in prospect for today.

The Commons defeated one CCF motion Monday night—a technical vote of confidence in the government—and today it was expected to deal with another from the Progressive Conservatives party.

The vote Monday night was 118 to 17 to uphold the government's resources policy. The Progressive Conservatives voted with the Liberals against the CCF and the Social Credit parties.

The vote came up in unusual fashion on a CCF amendment to a Progressive Conservative motion on resources. The Progressive Conservative motion called for a "free enterprise" program on resources and set out some points specifically, the CCF amendment to the motion, but without the "free enterprise" angle.

The vote came after Prime Minister St. Laurent had defended government policy and suggested the government could accept the Progressive Conservative motion if it were changed to propose that the House suggest the government "continue" policies the official opposition thought should be in effect.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader declined to go that far, of course, but said his party's motion was not intended as one of "condemning" the government.

Proposals Lost

From his statement, it appeared the Progressive Conservative motion was to be voted on but would not be regarded by his party as one of non-confidence, though the CCF might regard it as such, technically. No CCF member disclaimed this.

Two other proposals by the Progressive Conservatives were lost in the House. The two attempts were aimed at tightening control by Parliament on the tax-revenue money that the federal corporations gets from the treasury.

Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) was the main questioner. One was to have Parliament give an annual review of the grants made to the CBC, under the last budget, from the 15-per-cent excise tax on radio and television sets and television sets.

The other proposal was that the estimated $12,000,000-a-year revenue from the excise tax on radios be allocated evenly between both these operations.

Both proposals were opposed both these. The first was ruled out of order and the second was defeated on a voice vote.

Apart from legislation, the House heard Leonard Tron Trade Minister Howe that grain should be put in shelters on the Great Lakes shipping routes during hostilities to avoid the obstacles quickly during invasions.

It had also saved British millions of dollars because the ships were converted from existing Churchill tanks and did not have to be built from scratch, he claimed.

Deveau's claim was heard by the royal commission on awards to inventors, a government body set up after the war to deal with claims for wartime developments.

Mr. Sperling was sitting during his duty with Britain's department of tank design, Deveau declared. He was, necessary, to build a tank rather than go through "proper channels" and risk defeat from the start through red tape, he said. Deveau's claim is for a royalty on the Women's Army Corps, who could help. "

RIFE OLD AGE

PRAIRIE HOME, Mo. (AP)—Mrs. Ellen Harrison, who was believed to be 109 years old, is dead. The woman, who came to Missouri as a slave in 1850, died here Saturday at the home of a daughter. Family records indicate she was born at Louisville, Ky., in 1844. She and her husband had 21 children, nine of whom survive.

Canadians Experience Heaviest Bombardment of War While Repulsing Chinese Attack

IN KOREA (AP)— A picture of confused, bitter fighting—punctuated by the heaviest Red bombardment of Canadian troops in the Korean war—was recounted today by men of the Canadian 25th Brigade who stood off a 750-to-1,600 man Chinese attack early Sunday.

The Canadians held of hand-to-hand fighting, and of one soldier who took a bayonet in the throat—a gag and beat him w' death with it.

C Company of the 3rd battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment bore the brunt of the attack.

Describing the enemy fire, Capt. M. J. Mullin, commander of C Company, of 172 Grafton street Charlottetown, P.E.I., said, "I have never experienced shell fire such as this. During the last wave of the enemy bombardments I experienced worse pressure than ever before. They must have even fired the kitchen sink."

When attacking, the Reds did not wait for their own barrage to lift, Chinese troops, reformed up the slopes around the forward positions through their own gunfire. Once the main troops in the assault started up on the Chinese but were unable to stop the attack.

The first wave of Chinese to hit the position were met by small arms fire and were well supplied with hand grenades which they threw at the Canadians.

Lieut. Ed Hollyer of Toronto, commander of one of the forward platoons, said he saw two green flares and a red one come from the Chinese lines. The green were to signal the start of the whole affair.

"As soon as they appeared," he said, "all hell broke loose. Chinese shells and mortar bombs rained down on us by the hundreds."

The Chinese first appeared on the right of his position in what he thought was small machine gun fire. Then a large force stormed up the sides of the slope into his positions. They were "condemning" the government.

Chinese were the only people above the ground in the area. He stopped the concentration of fire only when he could no longer hear the Chinese running about.

After the bombardment, Hollyer and a sergeant went out of the command post and started a tour of the area. They could find no Canadians dead themselves, a signaller and a medical assistant.

They were ordered to withdraw.

The 61st field regiment, Royal Canadian Artillery, fired more than 1,000 shells in support of their besieged countrymen. Eyewitnesses reported the firing was intense, but that the gunners were not without casualties.

At first light, when the Chinese were retreating, the gunners sent an observation post that did not reected the fire of one battery.

Capt. Mullin, in describing the treatment of the retreating Communists, at least 12 bodies were counted, estimated the final estimate of enemy losses. Reports indicated that many died when the battle still was raging the Chinese were shelling their dead and wounded as soon as they were hit and getting them out of the way.

One report told of the dead trenches of the forward position. The Royal Canadian Regiment was filled to the top with moaning Chinese and that others were grappling with the dead to climb down the hill to waiting comrades. The Canadians are not yet fully confirmed.

During the night there was no other report on the Commonwealth front. The 3rd battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry suffered casualties when Chinese made a diversionary thrust at one of their positions. They were also subjected to heavy shelling.

Brig. Jean Allard, commander of the 25th Canadian Brigade, described fire support was given to the Royal Canadian Regiment by both the PPCLI and 1st battalion, the King's Regiment as well as the 61st field regiment and the other Commonwealth artillery regiments.

"By standing firm and keeping the lines of communications open we and the 1st Canadian Regiment made possible much of the destruction of the enemy by artillery fire."

Canadian Army Officer Claims He Converted Army Tank Into Successful Assault Weapon

LONDON (Reuters)—An enterprising Canadian Army officer, who had his English wife help him steal an army tank for him so he could convert it into a successful assault weapon, was knighted by the King Monday for recognition and payment.

John J. Devenan, 37, of Montreal said here that his "engineer tank," extensively converted from Churchill hard saved thousands of lives by its ability to overcome many land obstacles quickly during invasions.

It had also saved British millions of dollars because the ships were converted from existing Churchill tanks and did not have to be built from scratch, he claimed.

Deveau's claim was heard by the royal commission on awards to inventors, a government body set up after the war to deal with claims for wartime developments.

Mr. Sperling was sitting during his duty with Britain's department of tank design, Deveau declared. He was, necessary, to build a tank rather than go through "proper channels" and risk defeat from the start through red tape, he said. Deveau's claim is for a royalty on the Women's Army Corps, who could help. "

First Saw Need Claim

He first saw the need for an assault vehicle when he studied the Canadian Dieppe raid of 1942 on Dieppe, France, in 1942. "What was needed was something to bring the engineers with the first wave of the assault, so they could dispose of the obstacles before the enemy everyone else," he said.

He submitted a personal suggestion to the department but it came to nothing. Then he decided to do it himself. Canadian tanks were scarce at that time, and if anyone else got hold of one of difficulties, the project never would have started," he said.

He Bears Time

"I had a girl friend who was transport officer in charge of tanks and arranged to borrowed a tank from her. Perhaps a better way to describe it is to say that we stole this tank.

"We took it to a friend's unit where there was a work shop and I worked there on it in my spare time. It was as a result of this work that the Royal Engineers' assault vehicle was produced," he told the commission.

From 1943, the government produced tanks using them in the Normandy invasion and every landing after that. They are most operations through France and Germany, his lawyer, John Wilford, added.

THE PESSIMISTS

GREENWOOD, S.C. (AP)—A 77-year-old defendant Monday was sentenced to 10 years in prison for his fourth offence against federal narcotics laws. "I don't think I'll make that, judge," said Sam Bonner, an addict for 42 years. "I don't think you will either," judge C. C. Wyche replied. "Just do the best you can."

DOCK LEADER SHOT TO DEATH ON WATERFRONT

Slain About Two Blocks From Police Station

HOBOKEN, N.J. (AP)—A dock leader was shot to death Monday night in Hoboken's second waterfront slaying within two years.

A single bullet in the head proved fatal to Francis Kelly, who was to have started work today as a waterfront hiring boss at a newly-reopened pier.

The shooting was another in a series of violent incidents on the New York-New Jersey waterfront, being probed by a United States Senate committee.

Kelly, about 40, was found at a deserted intersection just around the corner from his home—a little more than two blocks from police headquarters.

He belonged to local 867, International Longshoremen's Association (AFL) and was to have been hiring boss at the pier for the Farbo Corporation, one of the largest stevedoring firms in the world.

Police said Kelly had brushes with the law "a long time ago." Patrolman Joseph Mundo Alcotin, a longshoreman, was shot to death in the doorway of local 791, Three brothers — William, Francis and Michael Murphy—have been indicted on murder charges in connection with the killing.

A few weeks before Alcotin's slain, a hand grenade was hurled into the Jersey City headquarters of local 1247 on the eve of a union election. Five longshoremen were hurt.

Cheese Exchange Sessions Will Be Postponed

STRATFORD (CP)—Cheese exchange sessions have been postponed until provincial and federal governments announce a dairy support floor prices.

Cecil Gill, Ingersoll, secretary of the Western Ontario exchange, said Monday that today's scheduled session would not be held.

Since then bids on the Western contract cheese have never been below 30 cents a pound. At the last exchange session in Stratford buyers paid the minimum 30 cent price.

Husband Returns Home to Find All Gas Jets Open

Note Left by Wife Asks Forgiveness for Action

TORONTO (CP)—A 36-year-old "model mother" and her four young children were gassed to death early today. Police said it was a murder and suicide.

Found dead in their third floor bedroom were Mrs. Adele Holmes and her four children, Nancy, 6, Irene, 5, Linda, 4, and Kenneth, 3.

Firemen, who worked over the victims, said Mrs. Holmes and Linda were found sprawled on the floor and the other children were in their beds.

The father, William, a truck driver, discovered the bodies when he arrived home from work at 2 a. m. to find four gas jets open on the stove. He smashed windows and applied artificial respiration.

Police said there was no apparent motive for the slayings. They said a note was typed beside the woman's body. It was addressed to the husband and read:

"I love you too much to spoil your life. Sell out and go away. You now have a chance to get out of your debt. I'm sorry to do this Bill. I hope God will forgive me."

Mr. Holmes, who was taken to his mother's home and given a sedative, said police his wife was a model mother."

"We didn't have a serious quarrel in our 9 years of marriage," he said. "We were a happy family with no unfortunate bones."

He added:

"My wife seemed quite happy. I telephoned her at 7 p. m. and we talked for a while about renting the basement apartment to someone. After that I don't know what happened to her."

Police said if they believe Mrs. Holmes cooked supper for herself and the children, then washed the dishes and put them away. She apparently put them to bed and then went to bed, did Linda's hair up in curls, turned the gas on and took Linda up to the bedroom.

Johnson Says Canada Wealthy In Talent

MONTREAL (CP) — Edward Johnson, former director of the New York Metropolitan Opera, said Monday Canada is wealthy in one of the most important, natural resources of all—in the talent of its young people.

Speaking at the annual luncheon of the women's committee of Les Concerts Symphoniques, he said if Canada lacked the trouble to develop these talents, this country could easily become a leader in the world of music.

Middle-Aged Pilot Astounds London As He Flying Under 12 Bridges

LONDON (AP)—A skylarking, middle-aged pilot flew under 12 bridges over the heart of London today by skimming his light plane just a few feet above the waves of the Thames.

Members of Parliament, bus drivers, tugboat captains and stenographers gasped in amazement as the single-engine plane zoomed under bridge after bridge. Policemen patrolling the bridges were thunderstruck.

Other men have flown under London's bridges before, but their efforts usually were limited to one or two spans. This was the work of a real daredevil.

A movie photographer also was aboard the plane which had a wing span of 36 feet.

Amateur photographer Douglas McKenzie, who took pictures along the bank, said he knew about the plan to make the flight.

He said the plane was piloted by Maj. Christopher Draper and the movie photographer who accompanied him was Joe Matthews.

Draper kept it quiet before he began his flight," McKenzie said. It was 40 feet.

Labor Minister Will Provide Benefits For Sick

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Gregg Monday introduced legislation to provide unemployment insurance benefits to persons who become sick or injured after being laid off work for other reasons.

The principle of the legislation met approval from members of all parties in the House of Commons, though some opposition members said the government should have gone further and covered workers against unemployment because of sickness.

Persons thrown out of work now receive insurance benefits only as long as they are available for work. The Unemployment Insurance Act amendment will extent benefits to those who become incapacitated after becoming unemployed.

The period of benefit payments will be unchanged for each worker. Contributions to the unemployment insurance fund also will remain the same as now. Workers becoming unemployed because of illness will not be covered in the new legislation.

Mr. Gregg said he was unable to give a precise estimate of what the new provision will cost the unemployment insurance fund, but now it is than $800,000,000. But it was not felt it would add "materially" to the number of persons claiming benefits.

Unofficial estimates of the yearly cost range between $2,000,000 and $5,000,000.

Michael Starr (PC—Ontario), said he hopes the government move in the first sitting days to amalgamate the whole Unemployment Insurance Act.

Parental Attitudes May be Cause Of Emotional Conflict in Youngsters

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Parental attitudes may be feeding the fires of emotional conflict in the youngster and keeping him awake, Dr. Melitta Sperling told the University of New York Mmedical Centre told the American Psychiatric Association Monday.

He cited the case of an overprotective mother who was so afraid of her boy's crying that she hired a helper to sit with him through the night.

Dr. Sperling told the mother to let him cry. The mother said she would be evicted if she did that. Dr. Sperling gave her a certificate saying it was necessary. It worked. Three years later the boy was sleeping normally.

Dr. Sperling also told of a woman whose overconsciousness of her six month-old baby disguised a feeling of hostility, She would lean over the crib to make sure he was breathing; would fuss with her bed clothes and awaken the child, then take him out of his crib.

The mother had to be made to realize her attitude was responsible, Dr. Sperling said.

There was a 10-year-old girl who would awake until early morning, then slept until she would be late for school. Dr. Sperling found that as a baby the girl had been given hourly bottle feedings during the night because the mother thought the child's stomach was small. The girl drank a quart of milk during sleeping hours, and when the feedings were stopped she developed serious insomnia. Spankings and sedatives did no good, but psychiatric treatment straightened her out.

CLEVELAND, O. (AP)—A dental professor Monday said new plastic fillings that can be installed without much less drilling pain were used on some 10,000 persons last year. Dr. Fred Slack, associate professor of prosthetic research at the University of Pennsylvania, described the new filling at a clinic and the Cleveland Dental Society. The fillings have an adhesive quality and filling that is formed by computer to one-half, he said.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: The warm sunny weather over Ontario is interrupted today and evening as showers moved northward into southwestern counties. This rain area will hover in the vicinity of the lower lakes today and Wednesday, threatening precipitation in southern sections both days. Elsewhere over the province there will be considerable sunshine except in the far north where forenoon cold air will bring cloudy cool weather as far south as the Kirkland Lake region.

SECOND COMMONS VOTE EXPECTED ON GOVT. POLICY

Natural Resources Subject of Debate

OTTAWA (CP)—A second vote in two days on government policy on natural resources development appears in prospect for today.

The Commons defeated one CCF motion Monday night—a technical vote of confidence in the government—and today it was expected to deal with another from the Progressive Conservatives party.

The vote Monday night was 118 to 17 to uphold the government's resources policy. The Progressive Conservatives voted with the Liberals against the CCF and the Social Credit parties.

The vote came up in unusual fashion on a CCF amendment to a Progressive Conservative motion on resources. The Progressive Conservative motion called for a "free enterprise" program on resources and set out some points specifically, the CCF amendment to the motion, but without the "free enterprise" angle.

The vote came after Prime Minister St. Laurent had defended government policy and suggested the government could accept the Progressive Conservative motion if it were changed to propose that the House suggest the government "continue" policies the official opposition thought should be in effect.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader declined to go that far, of course, but said his party's motion was not intended as one of "condemning" the government.

Proposals Lost

From his statement, it appeared the Progressive Conservative motion was to be voted on but would not be regarded by his party as one of non-confidence, though the CCF might regard it as such, technically. No CCF member disclaimed this.

Two other proposals by the Progressive Conservatives were lost in the House. The two attempts were aimed at tightening control by Parliament on the tax-revenue money that the federal corporations gets from the treasury.

Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) was the main questioner. One was to have Parliament give an annual review of the grants made to the CBC, under the last budget, from the 15-per-cent excise tax on radio and television sets and television sets.

The other proposal was that the estimated $12,000,000-a-year revenue from the excise tax on radios be allocated evenly between both these operations.

Both proposals were opposed both these. The first was ruled out of order and the second was defeated on a voice vote.

Apart from legislation, the House heard Leonard Tron Trade Minister Howe that grain should be put in shelters on the Great Lakes shipping routes during hostilities to avoid the obstacles quickly during invasions.

It had also saved British millions of dollars because the ships were converted from existing Churchill tanks and did not have to be built from scratch, he claimed.

Deveau's claim was heard by the royal commission on awards to inventors, a government body set up after the war to deal with claims for wartime developments.

Mr. Sperling was sitting during his duty with Britain's department of tank design, Deveau declared. He was, necessary, to build a tank rather than go through "proper channels" and risk defeat from the start through red tape, he said. Deveau's claim is for a royalty on the Women's Army Corps, who could help. "

Canadians Experience Heaviest Bombardment of War While Repulsing Chinese Attack

IN KOREA (AP)— A picture of confused, bitter fighting—punctuated by the heaviest Red bombardment of Canadian troops in the Korean war—was recounted today by men of the Canadian 25th Brigade who stood off a 750-to-1,600 man Chinese attack early Sunday.

The Canadians held of hand-to-hand fighting, and of one soldier who took a bayonet in the throat—a gag and beat him w' death with it.

C Company of the 3rd battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment bore the brunt of the attack.

Describing the enemy fire, Capt. M. J. Mullin, commander of C Company, of 172 Grafton street Charlottetown, P.E.I., said, "I have never experienced shell fire such as this. During the last wave of the enemy bombardments I experienced worse pressure than ever before. They must have even fired the kitchen sink."

When attacking, the Reds did not wait for their own barrage to lift, Chinese troops, reformed up the slopes around the forward positions through their own gunfire. Once the main troops in the assault started up on the Chinese but were unable to stop the attack.

The first wave of Chinese to hit the position were met by small arms fire and were well supplied with hand grenades which they threw at the Canadians.

Lieut. Ed Hollyer of Toronto, commander of one of the forward platoons, said he saw two green flares and a red one come from the Chinese lines. The green were to signal the start of the whole affair.

"As soon as they appeared," he said, "all hell broke loose. Chinese shells and mortar bombs rained down on us by the hundreds."

The Chinese first appeared on the right of his position in what he thought was small machine gun fire. Then a large force stormed up the sides of the slope into his positions. They were "condemning" the government.

Canadian Army Officer Claims He Converted Army Tank Into Successful Assault Weapon

LONDON (Reuters)—An enterprising Canadian Army officer, who had his English wife help him steal an army tank for him so he could convert it into a successful assault weapon, was knighted by the King Monday for recognition and payment.

John J. Devenan, 37, of Montreal said here that his "engineer tank," extensively converted from Churchill hard saved thousands of lives by its ability to overcome many land obstacles quickly during invasions.

It had also saved British millions of dollars because the ships were converted from existing Churchill tanks and did not have to be built from scratch, he claimed.

Deveau's claim was heard by the royal commission on awards to inventors, a government body set up after the war to deal with claims for wartime developments.

Mr. Sperling was sitting during his duty with Britain's department of tank design, Deveau declared. He was, necessary, to build a tank rather than go through "proper channels" and risk defeat from the start through red tape, he said. Deveau's claim is for a royalty on the Women's Army Corps, who could help. "

First Saw Need Claim

He first saw the need for an assault vehicle when he studied the Canadian Dieppe raid of 1942 on Dieppe, France, in 1942. "What was needed was something to bring the engineers with the first wave of the assault, so they could dispose of the obstacles before the enemy everyone else," he said.

He submitted a personal suggestion to the department but it came to nothing. Then he decided to do it himself. Canadian tanks were scarce at that time, and if anyone else got hold of one of difficulties, the project never would have started," he said.

He Bears Time

"I had a girl friend who was transport officer in charge of tanks and arranged to borrowed a tank from her. Perhaps a better way to describe it is to say that we stole this tank.

"We took it to a friend's unit where there was a work shop and I worked there on it in my spare time. It was as a result of this work that the Royal Engineers' assault vehicle was produced," he told the commission.

From 1943, the government produced tanks using them in the Normandy invasion and every landing after that. They are most operations through France and Germany, his lawyer, John Wilford, added.

THE PESSIMISTS

GREENWOOD, S.C. (AP)—A 77-year-old defendant Monday was sentenced to 10 years in prison for his fourth offence against federal narcotics laws. "I don't think I'll make that, judge," said Sam Bonner, an addict for 42 years. "I don't think you will either," judge C. C. Wyche replied. "Just do the best you can."

DOCK LEADER SHOT TO DEATH ON WATERFRONT

Slain About Two Blocks From Police Station

HOBOKEN, N.J. (AP)—A dock leader was shot to death Monday night in Hoboken's second waterfront slaying within two years.

A single bullet in the head proved fatal to Francis Kelly, who was to have started work today as a waterfront hiring boss at a newly-reopened pier.

The shooting was another in a series of violent incidents on the New York-New Jersey waterfront, being probed by a United States Senate committee.

Kelly, about 40, was found at a deserted intersection just around the corner from his home—a little more than two blocks from police headquarters.

He belonged to local 867, International Longshoremen's Association (AFL) and was to have been hiring boss at the pier for the Farbo Corporation, one of the largest stevedoring firms in the world.

Police said Kelly had brushes with the law "a long time ago." Patrolman Joseph Mundo Alcotin, a longshoreman, was shot to death in the doorway of local 791, Three brothers — William, Francis and Michael Murphy—have been indicted on murder charges in connection with the killing.

A few weeks before Alcotin's slain, a hand grenade was hurled into the Jersey City headquarters of local 1247 on the eve of a union election. Five longshoremen were hurt.

Cheese Exchange Sessions Will Be Postponed

STRATFORD (CP)—Cheese exchange sessions have been postponed until provincial and federal governments announce a dairy support floor prices.

Cecil Gill, Ingersoll, secretary of the Western Ontario exchange, said Monday that today's scheduled session would not be held.

Since then bids on the Western contract cheese have never been below 30 cents a pound. At the last exchange session in Stratford buyers paid the minimum 30 cent price.

Middle-Aged Pilot Astounds London As He Flying Under 12 Bridges

LONDON (AP)—A skylarking, middle-aged pilot flew under 12 bridges over the heart of London today by skimming his light plane just a few feet above the waves of the Thames.

Members of Parliament, bus drivers, tugboat captains and stenographers gasped in amazement as the single-engine plane zoomed under bridge after bridge. Policemen patrolling the bridges were thunderstruck.

Other men have flown under London's bridges before, but their efforts usually were limited to one or two spans. This was the work of a real daredevil.

A movie photographer also was aboard the plane which had a wing span of 36 feet.

Amateur photographer Douglas McKenzie, who took pictures along the bank, said he knew about the plan to make the flight.

He said the plane was piloted by Maj. Christopher Draper and the movie photographer who accompanied him was Joe Matthews.

Draper kept it quiet before he began his flight," McKenzie said. It was 40 feet.

Husband Returns Home to Find All Gas Jets Open

Note Left by Wife Asks Forgiveness for Action

TORONTO (CP)—A 36-year-old "model mother" and her four young children were gassed to death early today. Police said it was a murder and suicide.

Found dead in their third floor bedroom were Mrs. Adele Holmes and her four children, Nancy, 6, Irene, 5, Linda, 4, and Kenneth, 3.

Firemen, who worked over the victims, said Mrs. Holmes and Linda were found sprawled on the floor and the other children were in their beds.

The father, William, a truck driver, discovered the bodies when he arrived home from work at 2 a. m. to find four gas jets open on the stove. He smashed windows and applied artificial respiration.

Police said there was no apparent motive for the slayings. They said a note was typed beside the woman's body. It was addressed to the husband and read:

"I love you too much to spoil your life. Sell out and go away. You now have a chance to get out of your debt. I'm sorry to do this Bill. I hope God will forgive me."

Mr. Holmes, who was taken to his mother's home and given a sedative, said police his wife was a model mother."

"We didn't have a serious quarrel in our 9 years of marriage," he said. "We were a happy family with no unfortunate bones."

He added:

"My wife seemed quite happy. I telephoned her at 7 p. m. and we talked for a while about renting the basement apartment to someone. After that I don't know what happened to her."

Police said if they believe Mrs. Holmes cooked supper for herself and the children, then washed the dishes and put them away. She apparently put them to bed and then went to bed, did Linda's hair up in curls, turned the gas on and took Linda up to the bedroom.

Johnson Says Canada Wealthy In Talent

MONTREAL (CP) — Edward Johnson, former director of the New York Metropolitan Opera, said Monday Canada is wealthy in one of the most important, natural resources of all—in the talent of its young people.

Speaking at the annual luncheon of the women's committee of Les Concerts Symphoniques, he said if Canada lacked the trouble to develop these talents, this country could easily become a leader in the world of music.

Labor Minister Will Provide Benefits For Sick

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Gregg Monday introduced legislation to provide unemployment insurance benefits to persons who become sick or injured after being laid off work for other reasons.

The principle of the legislation met approval from members of all parties in the House of Commons, though some opposition members said the government should have gone further and covered workers against unemployment because of sickness.

Persons thrown out of work now receive insurance benefits only as long as they are available for work. The Unemployment Insurance Act amendment will extent benefits to those who become incapacitated after becoming unemployed.

The period of benefit payments will be unchanged for each worker. Contributions to the unemployment insurance fund also will remain the same as now. Workers becoming unemployed because of illness will not be covered in the new legislation.

Mr. Gregg said he was unable to give a precise estimate of what the new provision will cost the unemployment insurance fund, but now it is than $800,000

IMMIGRANT LOSES $500 IN CARD GAME

Loss of $500 in a confidence game with two strangers was reported today to Belleville detachment working in the Bloomfield area.

The man, Jacob Nicholas Van Spengen, told police that he had met the two men and had gone to a hotel room and in the course of a card game had lost the money.

Police are investigating the complaint.

THOUSANDS OF DUCKS SOJOURN ON BAY NEAR CONSECON

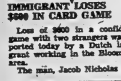
Thousands of ducks have been sojourning in the bay off Consecon village for the past three weeks.

The ducks, say veteran fishermen of the village, feed off the refuse from a grist mill and are said to be in fine condition. —

According to Les Phillips, three out of five of the ducks are drakes, these being distinguished by a white patch. The flocks approach the shore at times to within some fifty yards.

70,000 Income Tax Returns Filed at Office

Approximately 70,000 income tax returns were filed by the deadline of April 30 at the Belleville and district branch of the Dominion Income Tax Division, Harold Parker, manager, information officer for the district, announced today.



The figure marks a considerable increase above last year since three new districts — Victoria, Haliburton and Durham— have this year come under the local office's jurisdiction.

"On the whole, this year's returns came in smoothly, Harold Parker, manager of the branch here said today. "I believe that people are becoming more and more aware that it is to their advantage to file their income tax forms accurately and in time. All in all, my reaction to response this year was gratifying."

Salvation Army Appeal For $7,000 Well Under Way

The annual campaign of the Salvation Army is gradually getting into full swing, Army officials said today.

The quota for the city and district is $7,000 with the campaign which started on Monday, closing on May 18th.

People from all walks of life have volunteered their services as canvassers, while many uniformed members of the Army will also act in this capicity.

A special names committee has been appointed and the whole campaign machinery under Col. Roscoe Vanderwater, chairman, is beginning to function smoothly.

The aged, the underprivileged, the homeless, the sick, the patientless child, all look to the Salvation Army for help in their time of need. The Army feels that residents of the city and district will realize that the Army's reputation of "never letting a worthy humanitarian case go down."

In times of disaster, flood, catastrophe, the Army stands by willing to aid in whatever capacity is needed. This work must continue and be increased to meet the needs.

Canvassers will be calling on householders this week and they will be in the familiar uniform of the Army, others will be in plain clothes. Whatever dress they are giving of their time and effort to aid the Army's appeal for much-needed funds.

Please be generous when the canvasser calls.

Probation Officer Issues Warning To Householders

Belleville householders purchasing articles from juveniles making door to door canvasses should first make certain that such articles have not come into the possession of the seller through theft, it was warned today by Mr. MacKinnon, Belleville probation officer for the family court.

"It has been brought to the attention of the family court by city police that local juveniles from time to time are found selling articles which have come into their possession by theft," Mr. MacKinnon noted. Persons buying such merchandise from the theft deriving from the articles have not been stolen."

In purchasing articles from juveniles householders leave themselves open for prosecution by contributing to juvenile delinquency, according to Mr. MacKinnon, who went on to note that the Juvenile Delinquents' Act takes a serious view of such offences and on conviction the penalty is a heavy one.

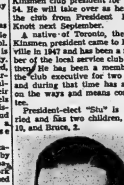
Mr. MacKinnon asks the public to co-operate with the family court and report to the police any cases where they are suspicious that articles offered for sale by juveniles may have been stolen.

$500,222 in Drive

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario campaign for funds for crippled children to date has brought a total of $500,222, compared with $48,290 last year, it was announced today.

Treasurer Conn Smythe said the $500,000 mark has been passed for the first time in the history of the annual drive. Not all returns from the sale of Easter seals have been received by the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, but of 139 service clubs which took part, 171 have reported.

The target for the 1953 campaign was $475,000.



Returns from Toronto included $12,700 from the sportsmen's dinner plus another $12,700 from an anonymous donor who offered to match dollar for dollar the amount raised by the dinner.

Stuart Martin New President Kinsmen Club

A. Stuart Martin, local manager of Percival Stores, is the new Kinsmen club president for 1953-54. He will take over as head of the club from President Harry Knott next September.

A native of Toronto, the new Kinsmen president came to Belleville in 1947 and has been a member of the local service club since then. He has been a member of the Club's executive for two years and during that time has served on the ways and means committee.

President-elect "Stu" is married and has two children, Alan, 10, and Bruce, 2.

STUART MARTIN

Named to the club executive along with the president-elect, were Don Bonisteel, Cecil Brown, Dave Brophy, H. Doidge, Harold Farmer, Bill Fraser and Hugh Sullivan. Committee chairmen will be named from the executive at a later meeting. Mr. Martin was given an acclamation as club president.

Election of the new slate of officers was the principal item on last night's agenda, the election being in charge of past president Art Cruikshank.

President-elect Martin and Johnny Fisher were named as delegates to represent the club at the District No. 8 convention to be held at St. Jerome, Que., May 30-31.

An out-of-towner, George Clarke, of Newcastle, Ont., was the winner of the Kinsmen 1953 Pontiac car which was drawn for Saturday night at the club social evening held in the Armouries.

Hospital Day

Public Invited to Tour Hospital To Inspect Services, Facilities

On May 12 the citizens of the city are going to have an opportunity to see how their hospital is run. According to Administrator, Kenneth E. Box, Tuesday has been set aside as Hospital Day.

At that time, tours for all kind interested, will be conducted throughout the various wards and departments from 2-4 p.m. in an effort to acquaint the public with the operation of a modern hospital.

Mr. Box stressed the fact the hospital is not looking for donations of either money or services through this tour, but is only making an effort to let people know what is done for patients in the institution. As a special service to those who might have transportation problems, arrangements have been made with the company to supply free transportation to and from the hospital if they will call and request this service at the hospital.

The May meeting of the Belleville Ministerial Association was held Monday morning with the president, Rev. Sidney E. Larmon presiding. Devotions were conducted by Canon J. B. Creegan.

The committee previously elected to arrange for the drumhead cremation service, composed of Rev. Sidney E. Larman, Rev. James S. A. Spearman and Canon J. B. Creegan, reported. The detailed plans of the service, which is to be held on the morning of June 2, were adopted by the association.

The president presented Ven. Archdeacon F. A. Smith with a book, "The Book of Common Prayer" by Proctor and Frere, a gift from the ministers of the association. Archdeacon Smith, who will soon be leaving the city for his new parish in Toronto, accepted and thanks for the gift.

Canon J. B. Creegan, president of the local branch of the Bible Society, drew attention to Bible Sunday which is to be held this year on the Sunday of May 24. Mr. Creegan said that the speakers for the different churches would be announced soon.

Rev. Arthur Bristow gave a timely address on the subject, "The Queen and Her People in Coronation Year."

EDEN IMPROVING

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, recuperating from two operations in April, "had a good night and gained strength," a bulletin signed by three doctors said today.

BIRTHS

BROWN.—At Mrs. and Mrs. Phillip Brown, (nee Ryan), Detroit, wish to announce the birth of their daughter, Deborah Ann, (7 lbs. 6 oz.), April 30, 1953.

DEATHS

REEDER, James Sidney.—At Belleville General Hospital, on Monday, May 4, James Sidney Reeder, aged 75 years. Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Service in the chapel on Wednesday at 2:00 p.m. Interment, Belleville Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

HANNA. In loving memory of our dear mother, Maggie Hanna, who passed away May 3, 1951.
God knows how much we miss her.
Never shall her memory fade.
Loving thoughts are with her always.
To the spot where she is sleeping
Flowers are carried by kindred hands.
And grandchildren.

HANNA.—In fond and loving memory of my dear wife, the late Maggie Hanna, who passed away May 3rd, 1951.
A beautiful memory, dearer than gold
Is the memory of one we loved and sold.
Alone, unseen, she stands by my side
And whispers softly, grieve not, I died.
"Every day is filled with her memory to me."
Of one I still love and can never forget.
Though two years many be passed
I will always be thinking, dear mother, of you —Ever remembered by husband Jim.

CHARLTON.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Agnes Charlton, who passed away May 3, 1952.
Sweet is the memory of her we love,
Dear who was better, God knows above
Her heart was filled with love so true
She is a million, that mother was to you.
Just in your judgment always right,
Honest and liberal, ever upright;
Loving and kind, in all you do
Such was the mother we knew.
A wonderful mother, that mother was ever
—Lovingly remembered by Agnes, Mina and children.

CHARLTON. In loving memory of a dear wife, Lena May Charlton, who passed away May 3, 1952.
Loving and kind in all her ways,
Upright and just to the end of her days.
Sadly missed by husband and mother.

Beautiful memories she left behind,
Ever remembered by husband Bert.

CHARLTON. — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Lena Charlton, who passed away May 3, 1952.
You are not forgotten, Mother dear,
Nor ever will be while life is here
Kept in life and memory fast,
We will remember then.
—Lovingly remembered by Arthur, Georgina, Bill, Don and Ethel.

CARDS OF THANKS

Mrs. E. H. Rowe, Deseronto, Secretary of Second of Thurlow, Belleville, wishes to thank all her relatives, friends and neighbors for the lovely cards and gifts received from them during her illness in the Belleville General Hospital. Also thanks to the blood donors.

We wish to thank all friends and neighbors for cards, flowers, gifts and will and help in recovering the body, also the pall bearers, Rev. Page and Belleville Burial Funeral Co. for their kindness in our sudden loss of a dear brother, son and fiance, Wilbert McCarthy.
—Mrs. Ruth Hall and family, Mr. Will McFarlane and Verna Hoover.

TORONTO STOCKS

Industrials and base metals led the advance and golds followed. Western oils weakened slightly. Volume for the first hour totalled 345,000 shares.

Constructions, banks and papers were strong in industrials. Investitals, utilities and textiles also gained.

Higher-priced base metals gained slightly and most others followed.

Western oil losses outnumbered gains but most gains were larger than the losses.

PRODUCE MARKET

The egg market was firm and top grade prices lost. Quotations for graded eggs in fibre cases were: A large 54; A medium 53; A small 50; grade B 46; grade C 43. Delivered prices were: A large 59; A medium 58; A small 55; grade B 52; grade C 47.

Butter solids: First grade, tenderable 58; non-tenderable 57¼; 57¾.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP)—Cattle sales were steady at the Toronto stock yards today. Receipts: Cattle 530; calves 180; hogs 270; sheep and lambs 50; holdover from Monday 1,100 cattle.

Choice weighty steers 20-21; good 19-20; medium 15-18; good heifers 18.50-20; good cows 14.50-15.50; good bulls 14-15; plain downward to 12; choice fed yearlings 21-22; medium 18-20; good and choice calves 17-20.

Choice veal calves 25-27; medium to good 20-24; plain as low as 12. Hog prices not established.

Mayor of Granby Pushing Plan For More Homes

GRANBY, Que. (CP)—P. Horace Boivin, restless, energetic mayor of this bustling Eastern Townships city, is currently pushing a plan to provide every Granby family with its own home.

Mayor Boivin has actively participated in formation of four housing co-operatives, enlisted the backing of city council and now is getting Granby employers to cooperate in the plan.

The scheme already has produced concrete examples of its effectiveness—some families pay as little as $19.65 monthly to own a home. Mayor Boivin estimates 50 per cent of Granbyites could afford homes. He is aiming at the record of Shreveport, La., where 96 per cent of the families own homes.

He wants the employers to put up the down payment on their employees' homes and then deduct the money from individual paycheques.

Originally, both employers and unions were against the scheme. Employers feared the workers would leave town before paying their debt while the unions didn't want their members tied to any company.

Mayor Boivin has overcome most of the arguments with a mortgage plan that enables the worker to withdraw at will and reduces employer risk to a minimum.

Mayor Boivin also helped get a three-per-cent rebate of the interest money from the provincial government for home-builders constructing low-cost bedroom houses. City council came through with a rebate on sewage and water rates for the first two years for co-operative members and exempts them from sidewalk and roadbuilding charges.

The city is also issuing 6,000 trees to Granby householders. The co-operatives themselves can offer low-cost lots by merely having bought land before Granby's present real estate boom.

FASTING RECORD

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Mrs. Cornelia Foster today claimed the world's fasting record. Since Feb. 15 she said she has subsisted only on water and soda. Mrs. Foster said she spent the last period playing the harp, reading Shakespeare and preparing meals for her husband.

August Election Predicted In Ottawa Circles

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A hot weather general election campaign with voting in mid-August was forecast here Monday in the buzz of fresh rumors on Parliament Hill.

There was nothing new in the August speculation but the Ottawa Journal, with an eight-column front page headline, said it had learned "from indisputable sources" that the voting would be either Monday, Aug. 10 or Monday, Aug. 17.

There was no official confirmation or comment and none was expected because Prime Minister St. Laurent must go through certain formalities before he can let the public know his decision.

Good Grounds for Belief

However, the Journal was widely held among observers on Parliament Hill that there were good grounds for belief in August dates—the choice between the two depending largely on how Mr. St. Laurent can get back from his coronation trip to London.

This would mean a short campaign and less cost to the candidates but it would put a heavy strain on the prime minister and most of his cabinet colleagues.

For a long time the widely accepted, likely voting month was October 12 or 19 or Oct. 26 or 31.

But it is reported the rank and file of the party have argued for an early August date to shorten the campaign and lighten the drain on finances.

Would Hurry Back

The August voting would mean that the 74-year-old prime minister would have to hurry back from the Coronation, and the Commonwealth Conference which follows it, and plunge almost immediately into the election.

The routine procedure is for the prime minister to ask the governor-general to dissolve Parliament and sign an order in council fixing the voting date and the dates for nominations which vary in certain constituencies.

He then would advise Nelson Castonguay, chief electoral officer, to get his machinery in motion. What the prime minister may tell his close cabinet colleagues before his official procedure is for himself to decide.

Three New Dead In London Fire

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Mae Delfino, 45, died in hospital Monday, bringing to three the number of lives lost in a fire which, swept through a rooming house on Dundas street Sunday.

Mrs. Mary Ann Hill, 80, mother of Mrs. Delfino, died Sunday and Mrs. Marie Zorko, about 35, died in hospital earlier Monday.

All three suffered severe burns when trapped on the second floor of the flame-swept building.

A double funeral will be held for the mother and daughter.

Meanwhile the fire-gutted 10-room house is under lock and key pending arrival of investigators from the Ontario fire marshal's office.

Fire chief R. C. McDonald said he had called in provincial authorities as a "precautionary measure" to probe the origin of the blaze which forced five other occupants into the street.

De Gaulle's Party Badly Defeated

PARIS (Reuters)—Partial results from the second round of country-wide French municipal elections showed today that Gen. Charles de Gaulle's rightist party suffered a disastrous defeat.

The interior ministry said the returns from the balloting was about the same as in voting the previous Sunday. No figures were given.

A ministry spokesman said the Communists have returned by far the country's biggest single party, followed by Socialists who made notable gains. The Moderate Independents fighting a municipal election for the first time under the banner of former premier Antoine Pinay, also made a solid increase, he said. The Pinay gains are largely at the expense of the Gaullists.

Rassemblement du Peuple Francais, the Gaullist party, which swept the boards in the last municipal elections in 1947, has slumped to a point where observers doubted its future position as a major political force.

The second-round vote took place in towns of less than 9,000 population where candidates failed to win an absolute majority April 26. The Socialists officially spurned a Communist offer to establish a "common front" ticket in the second round.

In the town of Murel, however, the two parties offered a common ticket and lost all the council seats to a Moderate-Conservative alliance.

Director Says Company Trying To Smash Union

WINNIPEG (CP)—T. W. Dowling of Toronto, district director of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO-CCL), said Monday Swift Canadian Company appears to be "determined to smash our organization."

He addressed about 100 delegates to the eighth Canadian conference of the UPWA.

Such tactics as "police violence, injunctions, court cases and . . . a threat to close (the Stratford, Ont., plant) and move to another community unless striking employees accept company terms" foreshadow "strong employer opposition to any improvements in our contracts this year," he said.

This is clearly underlined, Mr. Dowling said, by the present strikes at Stratford and at the Quaker Oats mills at Peterborough and Lindsay.

"In none of these strikes is there any logical reason. The unions are not demanding the impossible, nor are they the most wealthy and powerful in the world to meet conditions already established by their competitors."

At Stratford, said Mr. Dowling, Swift's refusal to accept a majority report of a conciliation board, "which though they were recommending a settlement the company would accept without question, leads us to suspect the company is not anxious to get a reasonable settlement.

"The seven cent wage increase would have left the wages far below what is paid by the immediate community of Stratford."

Frog Making Long Journey To Compete

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A swivel-eyed gent in a frog-green coat has left on a 2,000-mile hop-trip here bring London into the spotlight of world-wide jumping.

At Angels' Camp he will compete with fellow frogs from Cadets, South Africa, England, Australia, South America, the Philippines, Mexico and the United States.

Other Canadian entries in the contest include a yet unnamed entry by Ben A. Graham of Owen Sound.

Cheque Artist Pleads Guilty On Fourteen Counts; Woman Remanded Week on Charge

A Friday evening shopping spree which saw no less than 14 local stores victimized through acceptance of what turned out to be bogus cheques, had its sequel today when Donald Thomas Gibbons, 42, and Lucy Politza, 24, both of Toronto, appeared in magistrate's court.

Gibbons pleaded guilty to all 14 charges of passing the bogus cheques and was remanded one week for sentence, while his woman companion was arraigned on one charge and was remanded one week at request of counsel.

The couple was arrested Saturday in Kingston after their descriptions had been phoned by local police with the request that police hold them for the local lookout. Stores were advised and the pair were arrested as they attempted to pass a cheque.

Monday Gibbons was fined $10 or Belleville the two appeared in Kingston court on charges of attempting to pass a bogus cheque and were fined $20 each with costs.

Cheques Total $200

Cheques passed in this city Friday night totalled nearly $200. All were representative of local pay cheques issued on the Dominion Bank at Belleville by the Dept. of Veterans' Rehabilitation Company. All cheques bore a stamp similar to that of Mc-Farland's.

Ladies' and men's wearing apparel stores and shoe stores, were the shops favored by the cheque artists. In each instance a small purchase would be made with a cheque then being tendered in payment. All cheques were written for amounts ranging between $25 and $50.

"I never heard of such wholesale victimization of innocent people," remarked Magistrate T. Y. Wills as he remanded Gibbons for sentence.

Police believe that at least one other man is connected with the cheque passing.

Had Little Cash

When arrested in Kingston on Saturday, Gibbons and the Politza woman had very little cash and no merchandise in their possession.

It is believed by police that after the couple emerged from each store, the cash secured and the merchandise purchased was handed over to the third man in the car. However, police have had no success in tracing the third party.

And Gibbons has not talked. In reply to police questioning his answer is that he did not know the man; that he was merely working for the man, who picked him up in Toronto.

Police said Gibbons is also wanted in Oshawa and Toronto.

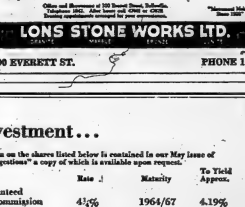
Who Were Most Surprised, Ducks Or Caretaker?

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—It's a question which may never be answered—Marie Jacobson, or the ducks.

Miss Jacobson, preparing to light the furnace in the congregation arrived at Sprucehome Lutheran Church Sunday morning, opened the furnace door—to find two wild ducks staring at her.

It wasn't until they'd come that took off immediately. The ducks apparently had come down the chimney and, through the entire length of the church through the pipes.

They were caught and released outdoors.



Pleads Innocence

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Homer Millinellis, 38-year-old Toronto man accused of smuggling aliens into the United States, pleaded innocent Monday in federal court to a four-count indictment.

Judge John Knight adjourned trial until the court convenes in Rochester May 12.

Millinellis was picked up by immigration service authorities when, they said, he tried to smuggle Christina Bethlehemth, 31, across the border at Niagara Falls in a panel truck that had a false door.

Miss Bethlehemth, a Greek from Toronto, was indicted on conspiracy count and also pleaded innocent. She, too, will be tried during the Rochester term of court.

WHAT DO THEY BELIEVE?

One of the most disturbing reports brought back by repatriated prisoners of war from Korea was one that had nothing to do with ill-treatment or torture. It was the story concerning some British prisoners who expressed the belief that the Korean war was "stupid" and "useless," and one of them particularly, who was convinced that the war was started by the United States "to make profit", and that it "has nothing to do with Britain at all."

All told of Communist-conducted lectures on "current affairs". They either insisted, however, that they had not been subjected to Red indoctrination, or they declined to speak about attempts of the Red Chinese to indoctrinate them. "It wasn't propaganda," one of the said. "They just gave us talks on what was going on."

The sad part of this is that either these British soldiers had never understood why they had been fighting in Korea or they had become victims of the subtlest of Red propaganda. How much it is in keeping with the broad Communist program to instil in the minds of British soldiers that they were fighting a war of Yankee imperialism and all for the benefit of Wall Street.

The impression is much about the Korean war that can be aptly described as "stupid." The apparently interminable stalemate strikes most of us as the product of stupidity. If this ceaseless fighting, without any material advantage being gained on either side, appears senseless to many at home, how much more so it must seem to the men who are doing the fighting. But even admitting this, the meaning of the fighting in Korea should not be lost. And it is being lost when British prisoners of war return home believing that Korea is a war of profit being fought for the United States, and that it has nothing whatever to do with Britain.

Armed intervention in Korea in June, 1950, by the United Nations—not by the United States—was the first challenge to the United Nations to honor a pledge that they would come to the assistance of any member nation resisting unprovoked armed aggression. To this cause, on behalf of the democratic South Korean Republic, have come fighting men from Canada, from Greece and Turkey, from Australia and New Zealand and other nations as well as the United States and Britain.

In the fact that the aggression of the Communists has been thwarted is to be seen the success of this intervention, and the challenge — to those who still think there can be no victorious end in the war itself. We know that whatever terms finally end the war they must establish the full redemption of South Korean independence. That is the whole issue.

The disturbing thing is that some British soldiers might never have known why they were fighting in Korea. Or that some of our own Canadians are unaware of what the Korean war is all about. If they are to believe that there is some ulterior motive and sinister cause behind this struggle against Communism, then the Korean war is now being lost whatever the decision in arms may ultimately be.

SOON BE PICNIC TIME

Another summer season will soon be flooding the highways of our province with Canadians and visiting tourists who have come to know and appreciate the many roadside parks and picnic sites which Ontario provides for the convenience of all travellers.

As a release from the Highways Department discloses that the department owns and operates 62 roadside parks, with more than half of these being located on the 1,432 miles of road being developed to four-lane standard as part of the Trans-Canada Highway. These parks are provided with outdoor fireplaces, sturdy picnic tables, deep wells and other conveniences. All camps are located in parks of scenic interest and have ample space for trailers. No charge is made for use of the roadside tourist parks.

Also operated and maintained by the Department of Highways for the convenience and pleasure of motorists are roadside picnic sites, of which there are 823 well situated along the province's busiest highways. The picnic sites have one or more lunch-tables. These picnic tables are equipped with covered containers for refuse.

In order to accomplish the purpose for which they were built, the camping and picnic areas must be kept clean, tidy and generally attractive to all who use them. In this connection, Highways Minister Doucett has appealed to Ontario motorists who make use of these places to set what he calls an "example in hospitable neatness."

It is requested that all picnic sites and camp areas be cleaned up after they have been used. Unfortunately, there are many people who are inconsiderate of others. As a result, many of the Highways Department's picnic spots are frequently littered with paper, garbage, broken bottles and other refuse. People responsible for this debris have been aptly termed by the department "litter-bugs". It is expected Ontario residents will set an example by keeping these camp and picnic sites neat, orderly and tidy. That's own and the pleasure of others will be increased in this way.

EXPORTERS FACE PROBLEMS

American exporters are about to encounter intense competition from foreign manufacturers, the N.Y. Journal of Commerce warns them. Many fields German and Japanese concerns are now in a position to meet or beat United States corporations. Since the war their manufacturing facilities have been rebuilt, enlarged and improved, and their engineering and designs have advanced rapidly.

CONVALESCENCE
(Man's version)

They've done with fussing over
That I am getting well again.

They laugh it off when I complain.

The wrong, make it clear to me

Of patience they are running out.

I must be getting well again.

To please me they no longer try.

And since I now am free from pain

For what I want I have to shout.

They gladly tell the neighbors I

They argue with me, and it's plain

Am getting like myself again.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO

May 6th., 1923

The population of the Village of Stirling is up from 700. The assessment rolls has dropped two in the past year. Assessor Harry Wickett gives the present population of Stirling as 902.

Following are the elected officers of the Belleville Anglers' Association: President, Joseph E. Shortt; vice-president, Dr. Van Blaricom; secretary-treasurer, J. Harold Legate; executive committee, William McEwen, Capt. Bothen, Percy Pitcher, A. Johns, C. M. Reid and Mr. Hall.

Miss Josephine Haines and Miss Helen Graves are spending the week-end in Kingston.

Mr. Alan Sprague of Toronto is receiving the degree of Bachelor of Arts at Queen's University, Kingston, on Wednesday.

Miss Laura Webb of Toronto is the guest of Mrs. Richard Hall and Mrs. Hall.

30 YEARS AGO

May 5th., 1923

At a meeting of the Trent Valley Hockey League which was held in Madoc the following officers were elected: hon. president, William Cross, Madoc; president, Robert Colling, Belleville; first vice-president, R. A. Elliott, Deloro; second vice-president, Robert Colling and H. Williams, Belleville; Harney Quinn and J. Ritchie, Havelock.

Mrs. H. Vernon Clarke and Mr. Victor E. Bullock of this city have received the degree of Master of Arts at Queen's University, Kingston.

Mr. Theodore Marsakas has returned home from Detroit, Mich., where he resided for the past six months.

40 YEARS AGO

May 5th., 1913

The schooners Meitzner and New Dominion have arrived at this port with cargoes of coal.

The Rev. W. G. Clarke and Mr. Bacon are on a fishing trip down the bay.

Messrs. J. S. McKeown and J. V. Jenkins are spending a few days at Westmoreland Lake.

Messrs. T. P. J. Power and James Clarke will leave here tomorrow for Milwaukie, Wis., where they will join the Belleville Kilties Band.

A meeting will be held in the city hall on the evening of May 7th for the purpose of organizing a Young Men's Booster Club.

The Rev. J. Bruce Hunter, who has many friends in Belleville, has received the degree of B.D. from Victoria University.

50 YEARS AGO

May 5th., 1903

In the opinion of many Belleville citizens the assessment rolls should be published.

The city's kick about the street lights is a long time overdue. The lights are so dim that it is almost necessary to carry a light to locate the lamps. The evening a way prevents the watches, to incandiscent electric lights is the biggest argument against them, an argument which, by the way, does not apply to gas lights.

Mrs. Reuben Wells of Vancouver, B.C., formerly of this city, is here on a visit and is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Ford.

Mrs. Armstrong, Bridge street east, is visiting friends in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Tyman have returned home after spending some time in New York City.

Mr. Newton Conley of Toronto is spending a few days in town.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A bus route runs less than a mile from my home and rather than take my car downtown and fight and twiddle around looking for a parking space I usually take the bus. But while I stand at the white post waiting, for the usual stream of cars swishing by almost invariably includes one that, with a short snort of its horn, attracts my attention, pulls into the curb, and then hangs open while the driver beckons me to come on.

It is because of this service that I have been making a survey of these kindly picker-uppers. They are usually men in the thirties or early forties. Most of them are fair haired, ruddy faced and chatty. They are hearty men, with good big noses. When I first began classifying them, I began to suspect that the majority of them were salesmen, agents, or others in the habit of looking for customers, on all occasions, and found that this proved to be not so. Some of these good-natured men are simply naturally born talkers, and like company. Over a period of a year, I find that the subject of conversation in which most of them engage is the fifteen most used rubber in get downtown, is either children or gardens, depending on the season of the year. In fall and winter it is about their children they chiefly talk. At this time of year, it is about their gardens, lawns, perennial bolsters and shrubs. If I happen to mention fishing, of course we talk about that.

But the most striking feature of these pick-ups is an astonishing one. It is almost never a beat-up old car that stops for me. No sir, twenty times is it a new or sporty looking car. In fact, if I were a thumber, and was looking for a ride (which I am not, really, preferring to sit in a bus and read the paper), I would never hail a smart car, but are my biceps and thumbs for the really battered old jalopies. They're the ones who are driven by, what we might call our fellow men.

Maybe a man in a new car is so busy worrying about his financial affairs that he has no eyes for the world around him. He isn't the reason. He's just preoccupied.

No Horses In Calgary

(Calgary Albertan)

Calgary's growth into a "big city" is underscuting its interest in horses. The so-called "riding academies" are being driven out of the city, because of the housing expansion and the health regulations, and either they are closing up stables or they are importing a well beyond the population limits.

That puts them beyond the reaches of most children. To get to where they can ride a horse, children have to have a car. No longer can they just take a bus.

Apart from all other considerations, horses are a good exercise for children. It's too bad that they can't be made accessible to them.

Cog or Spark Plug

(Brandon Sun)

A man who is satisfied to be a mere cog in the wheel is happier than a discontented spark plug.

Sensible Exchange

(Windsor Star)

Often there is a tendency to think of London's Metropolitan Police as efficient and old-fashioned. But no such forces becomes antiquated—where the urge to learn is the case of the London police have proven themselves quick to adopt new ways of doing things.

That explains why one of London's police officials has turned up in Chicago, to learn that city's crowd management and traffic-handling techniques.

Chicago may have a bad and even exaggerated record as a crime centre, but its police department's ability to handle crowds and traffic under exceptional circumstances was well demonstrated during last year's Republican and Democratic conventions. At these, the London police have heard all about it, and wish to acquire that knowhow in preparation for the handling of Coronation crowds.

Indeed, the opportunity for an exchange of opinions exists. Derrigalog references sometimes are made to "the manners of a Chicago gangster." With their reputation for impeccable manners, the bobbies can swap lessons in police urbanity for the traffic tips they'll receive.

Gentle Mercies

(Sydney Post-Record)

Nova Scotia's 1953 apple crop from the lush Annapolis Valley is the largest ever harvested in that apple. That's the word from Ottawa, which reports that exports having shipped 80,000 bushels to the United States. It was the largest shipment of apples in that country from Nova Scotia since 1929. Most of the crop in the Valley apples was about a million bushels, a bumper crop compared to any other place you can name.

Come to think about it, and this isn't exactly original either, somebody right now is going into the kitchen, to cut open a of Nova Scotia apple juice and bake a deep apple pie. Does one think of half a dozen other things to drink less palatable and not nearly as good for what ails you. Take the apple any way you please in sauce, in juice from the can, or in the round with the bloom of health upon it. It is a beneficial thing to come from a tree. Many are grateful for Nova Scotia apples, when they are served with doughnuts. Think heaven for gentle mercies.

Take Warning

(Vancouver Sun)

We are alarmed by the report that certain senators at Ottawa believe a little more alcohol would do any harm.

Don't these senators know the fable about the Arab who allowed the camel to get his nose inside his tent on a cold evening? About how the camel wriggled its head inside, then its neck, and finally its whole body? The Arab was ejected out into the cold.

Argentina's constitution guaranteed freedom of the press. Argentina's newspapers were among the freest in the world and La Prensa was one of the best. But that didn't prevent Peron, acting in the name of freedom, from bringing La Prensa to heel by a direct control, strangling La Prensa when it refused to bow to the will of Peron, the country from a democracy to a dictatorship.

Censorship always starts small, but its appetite never ends. Remember the little red book of democracy until freedom dies.

Yesterday the Senate's committee on salacious literature should keep their report. Correspondents note hints that they favor banning all magazines devoted mainly at low-priced pocket books, magazines, comics and like publications which could be defined as obscene."

That is precisely what should not be done. The Criminal Code already has adequate control except to deal with obscenity according to definitions fixed by Parliament.

It would be the greatest possible mistake to empower a board of government censors to suppress publications at will. Such an all-set-up could easily become the framework for a complete government censorship extending its control over every printed word we see, hear or now controls every word broadcast by radio.

Slow Motion

(Winnipeg Tribune)

The fact is that if all motorists were to drive in such a manner as to be ready to cope with all the foolish, falsehead things a minority of drivers seem capable of doing, traffic would move at a uniform rate of two miles an hour.

Poker And Sociology

(New York Times)

A quarter of a century ago Prof. John von Neumann of the Institute for Higher Learning and Dr. Oskar Morgenstern of Princeton published a book, on the "Theory of Games and Economic Behavior." Its importance has this week become that in the University of Wisconsin poker is being played by advanced students who bluff, cheat, scheme and do not even hesitate to assault one another. The resemblance with a night out with the boys is only superficial. For after the games are over comes a difficult application of the theory of probabilities to find out what social and economic lessons may be drawn from the results.

There is more sound sense in this procedure than you may be supposed. Every business deal has in it some element of bluff. The negotiators have no full knowledge of each other's intentions or previous decisions. Most successful card games is war, and it plumb fit mysteries the British developed—what is now called "operations research"—to technique that made it possible to find the optimum mix of one's tactics and of the chances of success that would follow a raid on the German rear. The Battle of Out in California is a research institution that has for years division devoted to the military application of the theory of games.

It is when the information is partial or false, as it usually is in the concepts of von Neumann and Morgenstern, that it is especially important applications. These are precisely the conditions that exist in the world when social and economic problems must be solved. Sociological law is often been charged with practicality because it is supposed that they cannot control the human variables that are the subject of study. It does not. The games and other games of strategy will give them the same power of prediction that they have in the physical sciences if chance have been played for many centuries. By studying the way in which a gambler at a Canadian formulated the theory of probability as early as the seventeenth century. It took a long time to develop the edge on poker. Now it seems that playing cards for money in a game of strategy can teach us much about the economic and social life that we did not know before.

His Own Press Agent

(New York Times)

There is a Spanish adage something to the effect that the best of meals concludes with figs, cheese, wine and an olition. Old Omal imagines a meal ending with a jug of wine, some lyrics and a damsel indicated as "Thou." It is not known what the lady did to the writer to merge excellent features of the repast into a paradise a song entitled "An Oolion and You."

The other day in these columns appeared a query as to the significance of the word "oolion." It was to be found chalked most dexterously on the risers of many of the best subway stairs. There is evidence that the casual puzzlement of the public was also perplexing despite the worldly wisdom of some skeptical correspondents.

Now it is revealed that the composer of "An Oolion and You" is a most versatile man, a grocery clerk, and agilist and calligrapher as well as a composer. It is also to be noted that his form of promotion of his work was one of the most personal, persevering, night-and-day and back-breaking on the record.

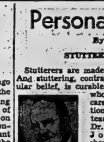
Testing Eyes Of Umpires

(Winnipeg Free Press)

Even before the end of the hockey season—and that was a live season of baseball, a relatively new development in this area. The big leaguers, of course, are playingalready and during recent warm days in the streets and vacant lots in local parks and playgrounds, staggering a few fines and occasionally pitching arms.

Baseball is still in the air and this makes us very happy. But there is one dark cloud. We learn that down at the Belleville Inter-County Baseball League has ruled that their umpires are to be put to their eyes tested by registered opticians.

Let us be vigilant that this does not happen here. Imagine, if you can, a game at which players were discouraged from the traditional cursing the eyesight of the man-in-blue.



We can hear those fans chant: "Aw, yer blind—less see your eye certificate". Whereupon, a limp, would grab a tattered paper from among the baseballs in his pocket, and with a flourish hold it up to the screen for all to see.

What fun could there be in the game after that.

STUTTERING IS NOT A SPEECH DEFECT

Dr. Brady

Stutterers are made, not born. And stuttering, contrary to popular belief, is curable. Parents who will give careful attention to the teachings of Dr. Wendell Johnson should be able to cure their own stuttering children.

Stutterers are not different in any way from non – stutterers. Their training was different.

An amazing finding came to light when a study was made of forty-six stuttering children and forty-six non-stuttering children.

The non-stutterers made as many repetitions and hesitations as the stutterers. The only explanation was that the stutterers accompanied their hesitations with signs of tension and anxiety, such as closing the eyes, turning the hand, swinging the foot and other spasmodic or pecular movements.

Now remember, these disorders are signs of anxiety did not appear in the children until after they had been classified and labelled "stuttering." In other words, it was not until the parent or teacher — misguided speech therapist had called the normal hesitations and repetitions to the child's attention, had made an issue of it, had made him aware that he was doing a sign of anxiety about his own speech.

It is noteworthy that in practically every case, the diagnosis was made by one with parents. The child was made to feel that his speech was defective, or somehow not acceptable. So he became reluctant to speak. He hesitated to hesitate!

Naturally the parents or teachers tried to "help" him, with admonitions to speak more slowly, to stop and start over, to take "deep breaths," etc. They were anxious because the many stutterers frantically he hesitated to hesitate!

Non-stutterers show social approval of their speech they have not been made fearful or ashamed of the hesitations. They do not hesitate to hesitate.

The teachings and methods of Dr. Wendell Johnson have been rarkedly successful. In a later column I shall outline his methods. (By H. B. C.)

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

What! No Milk?

My uncle and aunt have quit drinking milk because their doctor has told them that milk is bad for elderly people. I should appreciate your opinion.—(Mrs. T. B. C.)

Answer—In my opinion the best food for elderly people is milk, skim milk, buttermilk, cultured milk, sour milk, cheese cream, butter.

When the Heart Skips Beats

What causes the heart to skip a beat... have noticed this for the past year. Have found it not to be concerned. Can it be correct?—(E. G. S.)

Answer—I dunno. When mine does so I either ignore it or roll over and pretend it is not there. Or take calisthenics and forget it.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

KEEP HAVING FUN

Too many useful human beings are being smitted out of life because they refused to take time out for fun! And by fun I mean anything that creates pleasure, whether mental or physical. Anything that contrasts large against "the daily grind," or usual, day after day.

Applause for President Eisenhower with his days off for golf. Let us hope for him a comfortable place on the nineties, into the eighties—and perhaps some day into the seventies! He's getting his fun, well-earned. Breaking into the champion golf class will all the more fit him to break the cruel tales of war and give to the world its peace, we who pray daily offer up their prayers!

Fun is elixir to the soul! It relaxes the tensions, soothes the nerves and reconditions one's entire outlook upon life. Fun is self-forgetting, with nothing but pleasant and thrilling after-effects. Fun is the endless variety of escapes from worry, discouragement and often despair. It's the earliest symptom of health and happiness. Youth is strong for it. It couldn't well live without it. Why should it ever, therefore, be abandoned by anyone, at any period of life?

I like the animal world fun fo one of its biggest cards. Your faithful correspondent never enjoyed it if he didn't get his fun every day of his life. One day at the Toronto Island retreat I watched with interest the play of a rat and squirrel with each other. It was the most absorbing in life. People begin to fall in love when they let the spirit of their lives.

Keep having fun. You know the old saying: "All work and no play" makes Jack a dull boy." People go by the millions to their baseball parks to see a game between two of their most unhealthiest of fun at that. People take vacations because they give them a chance to have more fun. People become collectors of hobbies because they enjoy them because they get fun out of it.

Keep on having fun we start slicing off many possible years of health, happiness, pure pleasure, and usefulness.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

HEAVEN HAS ITS MEASURING RODS.

The more you have the more you get. This fact is basic in the world's philosophy. It is fundamental. It is also a Christian teaching. "For unto everyone that hath shall be given . . ." but from him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he has."

Yes, this is in the Bible. But there is another teaching in the Bible which balances this teaching and completes it. This other teaching might be called the principle of gain by surrender. It declares that we never get anything without giving up something, and that we never get the deepest things in life until we are willing to give up life itself. This may mean the surrender of one's physical life; it always means the surrender of one's self-centered desires and ambitions and—above all—to the will of God. When we lose our lives we find them. When we clutch our lives to our breasts and try to get everything out of them we will find that life's finest rewards elude us. Time and toil and pain and effort is always rewarded. But in your getting seek the highest things. Come and stand within the circle of self but within the widest circle of society. The secret of such success is surrender to the will of God. God forgets one lives not by what we try to do but by what we are willing, in complete unselfishness, to surrender.

WOMEN TRADING

LONDON (Reuters)—Twenty-two officers and rankers of the three women's services of Australia and New Zealand are limbering up here with man-sized hikes in preparation for the Coronation procession. The women plan to step up their mileage day by day until they can take the 16-mile Coronation processional route in their stride.

Another new addition to Trenton's industrial expansion went into production yesterday with British industrialists and Canadian government officials looking on as the Hon. Dr. J. J. McCann, Minister of National Revenue, threw the switch starting the $1,000,000 electric cable factory machines. The spacious modern built plant, the first in a series of three to be built by Pyrotenax of Canada in the next five years, is located on West Street north of the C.P.R. right-of-way.

Hon. Dr. J.J. McCann Opens $1,000,000 Electric Cable Plant of PyrotenaxCo.

Trenton (Special)—The Hon. Dr. J. J. McCann threw the switch which officially sent the new $1,000,000 manufacturing unit of the Pyrotenax electric cable factory into production here yesterday. Dignitaries on hand for the opening ceremony included Sir Brograve Beauchamp of England head of the English company; Senator W. A. Fraser of Trenton; Mayor R. E. Whitley of Trenton; Frank Follwell M.P., of Belleville; Ontario Hydro Commissioner Robert Saunders of Toronto; J. J. MacRae, assistant general manager of the Bank of Montreal in Toronto; William Tomlinson, Gordon Davies and W. T. Joicey executives of the Pyrotenax company.

The minister of national revenue praised the English manufacturers for their decision to build a plant in Canada suggesting that Canada offered great possibilities to other manufacturers from across the sea. He gave credit to Senator Fraser telling the story of how the Trenton Senator met a Pyrotenax executive on a train from Ottawa and induced him to have a look at an industrial site in his own home town. The revenue minister said it was only natural for a local boy with as much sentiment for Trenton as Senator Fraser has to keep trying to bring prosperity to the town.

Good Word For Trenton

In conveying the message of welcome to the visitors which included the town council and clerk treasurer, D. W. Larry, Sir Brograve Beauchamp expressed gratitude to Hon. Dr. McCann, explaining that the revenue minister left important business in the House of Commons at Ottawa to officiate at the factory opening. He assured the distinguished gathering that he would urge firms in Britain to follow the example of his company establishing production in Canada. "And I hope they decide on a factory site at Trenton," he added.

Senator Fraser thanking Dr. McCann for making it a point to be in Trenton for the opening of the new industry, said that Trenton has become known in British manufacturing circles because the Pyrotenax located and erected a plant here. He said he had never been associated with a finer group of people.

Hydro Commissioner Saunders, announcing that he knew the Pyrotenax people and that hydro was one of their customers, said that hydro was interested in the plant opening. Hydro was also interested in the products they manufacture to the extent that the utility was installing 70 miles of Pyrotenax wiring in a plant at Windsor. He encouraged English businessmen to have great faith in Canada and shared Dr. McCann's words suggesting that English companies move to Canada and assist Trenton and other towns.

Surrey is a Beard

From the serious strain Commissioner Saunders asked Mr. Follwell when he was going to start growing a beard since Trenton celebrating centennial this year was in his constituency of Hastings South. He insisted that the Belleville M.P. let his whiskers grow, pointing to Trenton's Mayor Whitley, who has been in the contest for a week and has a fair crop to show.

Mr. Follwell did not consent to enter the beard growing contest but he did thank his hosts for the pleasure of having witnessed the official opening. He promised the factory officials they could count on his co-operation.

The new Pyrotenax plant is situated on West street just south of the Central Bridge Company. Fashioned from light yellow brick and steel with spacious natural lighting facilities it promises the finest industrial advertisement in town.

Pyrotenax came to Trenton from England four years ago, deciding to build a plant at Trenton about a year ago.

Surgeon Removes Part of Foot Crushed by Train

Bobby Towns, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Towns of 102 Stanley street, was playing with Freddy Lebelle apparently tried to jump on the moving train and slipped. After the accident he sat down by the side of the tracks and attempted to remove his boot and stocking. He got up and started to walk toward home several blocks away but a passerby made him sit down despite the little boy insisting "I've got to get home and get my dinner and get back to school."

Bobby was taken to the Trenton Memorial Hospital, where surgeons removed part of his foot. His father works at the Hinde and Dauch paper mill. He has three brothers and four sisters.

Cheque Presented to V.O.N.

At a meeting last night the I.O.O.F. and Rebekah lodges presented the Trenton V.O.N. with a cheque covering the balance needed for the purchase of a new car. Child Hit By Car

Four-year-old Ann Fllion darted into the path of a car driven by contractor James F. Day yesterday escaping without injury because the driver stopped his car on impact. Mr. Day proceeding south on Spring street saw the little girl in time as she was endeavoring to retrieve a ball which had rolled out into the roadway. The child is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fllion.

Course in Water Safety Under Way at RCAF Station

A course in water safety for residents of Middleton Park and the town of Trenton is underway in the RCAF Station Trenton indoor swimming pool under the supervision of W. H. Workman, Trenton Recreational Director.

The classes are available, free of charge, to both swimmers and non-swimmers, over 5 years of age. In two groups—Junior and Beginner group and Intermediate and Senior group. The training is in line with the Red Cross curriculum under instructors Cpl. Percy McGraw and LAC Don Sellen. At the conclusion of the courses examiners will come from Toronto to test the swimmers. Successful pupils will receive Red Cross pins and crests.

The water safety training program is a joint effort by the town of Trenton and RCAF Station, Trenton. The town appropriated a sum of money to carry on the project and the facilities of the pool were offered by the RCAF Station.

In the Intermediate and Senior group, applicants are required to swim 150 yards before their acceptance. To qualify for their senior award they must be able to swim 300 yards using various strokes as laid down by the Red Cross. They must also hold an Intermediate Red Cross certificate or the equivalent and know theory and practical water safety.

The entire program includes instruction on treading water, deep water entry, surface diving, underwater swimming and other conditioning exercises. Before a senior can qualify for his badge he must learn artificial respiration.

Class times are as follows: Intermediate and Senior boys, 9 a.m. to 10.30 a.m.; Intermediate and Senior girls, 10.30 a.m. to 12.30 p.m.; Junior and Beginner boys, 1.00 p.m. to 2.30 p.m.; Junior and Beginner girls, 2.30 p.m. to 5.00 p.m.

The program will end in June with tests and presentation of awards to successful swimmers.

S.L. D. O. Lawrence, Ward representative, reported that 'anyone interested can apply for a plot, provided they are willing to pay a small fee which will be charged to pay for the cost of plowing the field.'

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Vaughan, Patricia and Warren, accompanied by Mrs. W. Vaughan, spent the week-end in Ottawa, where they attended the wedding of their eldest son, Robert, to Miss Elizabeth Lewis, of Yarmouth, N.S., at St. Matthias Church, Ottawa.

Rev. James S. A. Spearman, minister at the Wesleyan Methodist Church, has returned home from the recent Canadian Conference of the Wesleyan Methodist Church held in Shawville, Quebec, when he was appointed over the Belleville Field by the stationing committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant McAllister and Mr. and Mrs. Ian MacKenzie, of Ottawa, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Vaughan, Trent Rd., at the Lennox and Addington dinner dance, Saturday night.

BEER STORE HELD UP

TORONTO (CP)—A gunman stole $864 from an east-end beer store Monday night, police said. He walked into the store one minute before closing time, filled a blue cloth bag with money and fled after firing a shot which ricocheted around the building and cracked a plate glass window.

ALEXANDER—JUDGE

St. George's Anglican Church, Trenton, was the scene of a lovely wedding on Saturday, May 2, at 2:30 p.m., when Wilma Eva Judge, of Trenton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Judge, of Belleville, became the bride of Kenneth Erwin Alexander, of Toronto, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Alexander, of Toronto, and the late Mr. Alexander. The altar was adorned with pink and white snapdragons, and the guest pews designated by bows of white satin and tiny baby' mums. The Rev. A. S. McConnell, M.B.E., L.Th., B.D., rector of the church, officiated.

The wedding music was rendered by Mr. George Downs, and included: Walther's "Prelude" from "Der Meistersinger."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her bridal gown of lustrous satin organdy embroidered with white roses, over net and taffeta, with molded bodice and full skirt in waltz length. Her shoulder-length veil was caught to a matching Juliet cap outlined with seed pearls. She wore matching mitts and carried a nosegay of white stephanotis and lily-of-the-valley, and a Brussels lace handkerchief sent from Belgium for the occasion.

Miss Elizabeth Redner, of Port Credit, was maid of honor, gowned in apple green organdy featuring a fitted bodice and bouffant skirt in waltz length. She wore a matching rose-trimmed headdress and carried a nosegay of mixed spring flowers.

Little Miss Betty Ann De Clercq, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl, demure in her apple green frock of organdy with bouffant skirt and matching headdress. She carried a basket of tiny pink Sweetheart roses.

Mr. Lloyd Hesslip, of Trenton, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Philip Flagler, of Trenton, and Mr. Neil Judge, of Belleville, brother of the bride, were ushers.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, at the Pleasant Road, which was beautifully arranged with white snapdragons, ferns, and pink carnations. The bride's mother, gowned in lilac tricotine and Chantilly lace with violet accessories and corsage of pink roses, received the many guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, wearing Burgundy crepe and Chantilly lace with navy accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

For the wedding trip by motor to points east, the bride chose a Frisco green knitted dress with fitted natural linen topcoat, black patent leather accessories, and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander will reside in Trenton.

During the reception, telegrams from Philadelphia, U.S., Red Deer, Alberta, Washington, D.C., Toronto, Regina, Sask., and Vaalardingen, Holland, and one from a friend aboard the "Scythia," wishing the young couple every happiness, were received and read.

Guests were present from Toronto, Kingston, Smithville, Bedneraville, Hamilton, Woodstock and Ottawa.

WHELAN—GRAHAM

Daffodils and lilies formed a lovely background in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, on Saturday, April 18, at 2:30 p.m., for the marriage of Elizabeth June Graham, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Allen Graham, to Donald George Whelan, also of that city, son of Mr. J. J. Whelan, of Trenton. The Rev. J. J. Buckley officiated.

Miss Dorothy Grant provided the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Bob Lacy, who sang before the ceremony, "My Task", "Panis Angelicus" and during the signing of the register, "O This Day O Beautiful Mother."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her bridal gown of white Chantilly lace and net over satin, featuring a bouffant skirt tiered with alternate rows of lace and nylon net ending in a deep flounce over matching crinoline. A tiny cuddle jacket of lace with long sleeves tapering to points over the hands. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a Juliet cap banded with seed pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white gardenia and feathered white carnations.

Mrs. Douglas Green, of Belleville, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, gowned in nylon net and taffeta in royal purple, featuring a full skirt, handappliqued with court fans of matching satin. The taffeta jacket featured a portrait neckline.

Miss Sylvia Graham, of Belleville, sister of the bride, gowned in queen orchid, and Miss Helen Bellhouse, of Point Anne, in emblem yellow, were bridesmaids, wearing gowns in style similar to that of the matron of honor. All wore matching halo hats trimmed with purple and yellow flowers, and carried semi-cascade bouquets of sweetpeas, pansies and purple stocks.

Mr. Bruce Lynch, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Robert Green, and Mr. Jerry Whelan, brother of the bridegroom, acted as ushers.

The reception was held at the Golden Acre Inn, Kingston Road, where the bride's mother, attractively gowned in a French model of navy and white crepe, wore an antique shantung with Butterfly rose corsage. Assisting her was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore navy sheer over white taffeta with Butterfly rose and pink carnation corsage.

For the wedding trip to eastern points, the bride chose a grey suit with navy and grey check topcoat, matching accessories and white gardenia corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Whelan will reside at 282 Charles Street, Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from Bradford, Penn., Toronto, Barrie, Ottawa, Trenton, Arnprior, Renfrew and Napanee.

Prior to her marriage the bride was the honored guest at several showers: by the staff of the Royal Bank of which the bride was a member, from whom she received a mahogany coffee table; a linen shower at the home of Mrs. Elmer Johnston, Trent Road; a step-up table at the home of Helen Buchanan, Point Anne, on behalf of the girls at the shower.

Mrs. William Belch Enjoys Surprise Party

A most happy time was enjoyed on Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Belch, Sr., R.R. 8 Hillcrest, when their immediate family, grandchildren and great grandchildren, held a surprise party in honor of Mrs. Belch's 78th birthday, which was, incidentally, the first birthday party of her long and eventful life.

The evening was spent in a happy get-together, reminiscing about the days gone by, and looking ahead to the future with hope and cheerfulness.

Mrs. Belch was the recipient of many cards conveying to her the congratulations of friends and relatives, and wishing her many more such anniversaries, as well as the other lovely and useful gifts including a purse of money.

Mr. and Mrs. Belch have resided in Hillcrest for over 40 years, coming to Canada from England in 1903. They have six children, three sons and three daughters: Mrs. Blake Lockwood, (Florence), of Port Hope; Mrs. William Lloyd, (Mabel), of Bloomfield, and Mrs. Charles Lockwood (Beatrice), of Hillcrest; Messrs. James, William and Wilfred Belch, all of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Belch are enjoying good health, take a keen interest in the events of the hour and the happenings in the world abroad, Mrs. Belch does all her own work, assisting with a smile, "with Mr. Belch assisting me when he is not busy himself." For some time Mr. Belch, before retiring, was engineer at Lasier's paper mill, and later worked as engineer for the Hotel Quinte.

Congratulations are tendered Mrs. Belch and best wishes for the days that lie ahead.

HURT IN FALL FROM CAR

GODERICH (CP)—When a door of his parents' car opened Sunday night, Gerald Ball, 2, of Owen Sound, fell from the car and suffered lacerations. He required 25 stitches. Gerald was taken to Alexandra Marine General Hospital where his condition was reported satisfactory Monday. The accident occurred on Highway No. 21.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Do You Really Have To Make A Choice?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have to make a choice between two boys, both of whom I like very much.

I was going with one boy first, but we couldn't get along so we broke up, and after that I met this second boy. He is very nice to me although he has never really said he cares for me. We have gone on many dates together and get along well.

Now my first boy friend has asked me to go with him again, and I don't know what to do. How can I know which is the right one? — T. Dear T.:

Any nice boy is "the right one" for any nice girl. And do you it's really necessary that you "make a choice"? Don't you think you you could make it clear that you would like to go out with one boy sometimes, and the other at other times, and that each of them should be perfectly free to take out other girls besides yourself?

I realize that most of you teenagers feel that there can be only one boy in a girl's life at a time. But I know, too, that some of you, at least, take a more sensible attitude, and think it wiser to go out with more than one boy until they are old enough to be serious about a special one.

I suggest that you try this latter plan and see if you don't really have more fun, and fewer romantic heartaches, by having lots of boy friends instead of just one. "Going steady" may be fun for awhile, but sooner or later it almost always ends in a break-up and hurt feelings. Then along comes a new boy friend and it's the same thing all over again. What sense does that make?

Think this over and let me know if you don't agree with me, and if not, why not?

She Doesn't Want To "Go Steady"; He Does

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm 15 years old, and have gone steady with a boy for a year. Three weeks ago I realized it was foolish to go steady, and that I was missing a lot of good times, so I told Tom that while I liked him better than any other boy, I had decided I didn't want to go steady with anyone. He was hurt, and said in that case may be it would be better if we didn't see each other at all, but I begged him to understand that I still wanted to see him, so he finally agreed.

However, now he claims that this arrangement doesn't work, and that it is driving him crazy, so he thinks we should stop seeing each other and maybe be cold forget.

I know I like this boy, and that no other boys seriously interest me, but when we were going steady, we kept getting on each other's nerves and were always quarreling.

The way things are now, I just don't know what to do.

Frances.

Dear Frances:

While I fully realize that teenagers today usually feel that they have to "go steady" with one particular person, it has always my feeling that they would be much more sensible, and really much happier, if they would go out with lots of friends, just as you have come to feel now.

If I were you, I wouldn't be too upset about this particular boy, because if you were quarreling so often, you were bound to break up sooner or later anyhow. I think would do well to tell him in a friendly way that if he thinks you and he should stop seeing each other, you will accept his decision. You can add again that you would like to have him for a friend with whom to go out on occasional dates, but that you don't want to limit yourself to having all your dates with just one boy.

Then throw yourself into just as many interests, with just as many friends, as you have time for, and I think you will find yourself having lots more fun and many more good times than under the other other plan.

The Women Get Together

By Mary Moore

The lovely tulips and carnations have not wilted yet (but I have). By-ten o'clock this morning the bouquets had been fourteen times. It is only a few hours before deadline time—but the Tulip Conference was a success and I'm happy.

Wouldn't you know they'd plan a Regional Conference just when I was president? Now I know what "Hoist on his own petard" means. I know it. I have even had to! I not only had to be on the conference planning committee and preside at meetings and dinners, but at one of the planning meetings we were so enthused we decided that dress at the head table should be formal, at the dinner at which Dr. Hugh Keenleyside was guest speaker.

That meant Mary had to buy a new gown—and buy a new gown she did. After four weeks of spasmodic shopping I had it, and harassed and all as I felt they tell me I looked cool as a cucumber. I'm glad I bought that dress. I felt so elegant in it.

There are plenty of you in this audience who know girls who attended the Conference, such as Kay Hannold, Jean Bolton, Pansela Baker, Frances Flaherty (who won the Decorator Refrigerator—the most exciting prize at the whole affair), Jean Stenton, Jean Wahlde, Helen Stevenson, Mary Hill, Marion Rogers, Gladys Arnold, Frances Baldwin. . . . and I even hundred other gals famous in and out of the press world.

My! they are a stimulating crowd. It's fun wondering just how much you say is going to be quoted—I know for I do the same trick on them!

The Brunch Party on Sunday morning sponsored by the company whose slogan is "You can't be sure. . . " certainly made sure that that meal was novel and tops.

It was a full scale English Breakfast Party with grilled lamb's kidneys, grilled kippers, scrambled eggs, ham, bacon, muffins, sweet rolls, toast, orange juice, tomato juice, preserved figs, apples, oranges, bananas, jam, marmalade, jelly, coffee . . . with second helpings too, if you could manage them.

The grilled lamb's kidneys and the preserved figs were standouts. I'm sure that Mary Ann Bertola, who is the company's head dietitian, planned that menu with exacting care. For she knew that gals of such fame as Maud Kerr, and Marie Holmes, director of Chatelaine Institute, were in conference delegated.

Do you know how to grill a lamb's kidneys? Do you use to advantage the lies of perfect ripe preserved figs we can now buy? They should be served by cold —three or four to a serving, as a first course for breakfast or dessert for lunch or dinner.

Grilled Lamb's Kidneys

Split lamb's kidneys open. This is one kidney where it is not necessary to remove veinous portion. Soak in cold water 30 minutes. Drain and dry. Brush with melted butter and broil 10 to 15 minutes under hot burner—time depends on size. Turn them once. When they are turned sprinkle with salt and pepper, and if you like ever so little dry mustard. Serve on hot platter or (as they did at the Conference) in silver chafing dish. If on platter, a garnish of lemon wedges and green pepper rings is pretty and makes a good flavor companion.

Actually I feel more than a little selfish giving you such bare details of the wonderful time we had. But if you want to write to me and have a little private chin wag about your friends who were there I'll be glad to answer.

Above I said the girls were famous "in and out of the press world" I said that because Alice Roger Collins, well-known Canadian pianist, is a press club member too, and she came, to the delight of all of us.

Remembrance. . . The Endearing Word For Mother's Day

Mother's Day. . . it's the tendcrest day of all the days in the year. The second Sunday in May is, as the resolution for the celebration of Mother's Day reads, "dedicated to the memory of the best mother in the world, your mother." And. . . are you listening, one and all?. . . this resolution urges that "through some distinct act of kindness, visit, letter, gift, or tribute, all may show remembrance of the mother to whom it is designed to perpetuate all family ties." "Remembrance". . . is this is the beautifully inspirational word for the hows of devotion and homage that belong to the observance of Mother's Day.

Did You Know

That the idea of Mother's Day was started in 1907 by a Philadelphia woman, Miss Anna Jarvis, as a loving tribute to her mother?

That Miss Jarvis in her plan for the observance of Mother's Day, made three important decisions?

(1) She decided on the day. . . it should be a Sunday.

(2) It should be the second Sunday in May. . . "for then the grass would be green and the flowers coming."

(3) The emblem of Mother's Day would be the white carnation, chosen because, in the front yard of the old home in West Virginia, her mother had grown a garden of "white pinks," her favorite flower. There was a practical reason too for her choice of a carnation. . . it was the flower most men would mothers. . . but also for grandmothers, for godmothers, for stay fresh a long time in the buttonhole. So carnations are naturally always popular as blossom gifts for Mother. And carnations are often featured in the designs for Mother's Day greeted cards.

That it was Abraham Lincoln who said the famous words, "All that I am, or hope to be, I owe to my angel mother"?

That Abigail Adams was the wife of one president and the mother of another President? (She was the wife of John Adams, the second President, and mother of John Quincy Adams, the sixth president.)

That it was a mother. . . Mrs. John Bruce Dodd, of Spokane, Washington, who was the founder of Father's Day?

That "Mother Goose" was the pen-name of Mrs. Isaac Goose (of Boston, Massachusetts); whose wonderful rhymes are loved by millions of children of all ages?

That this year there are not only Mother's Day cards for

And that another tree has been planted near the Capitol Building, as a tribute to all American mothers?

That the best of all grides for your Mother's Day message is "Look into your heart and write"?

And that the best of all grides for your Mother's Day tribute is "Look into your heart and speak"?

India Trying To Get Back Famous Diamond

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—India is trying to get back the famous Kohinoor diamond which forms part of Britain's Crown Jewels, deputy education minister K. D. Malviya told the House of the People (lower house) today.

He said the Indian government is trying to recover as many as possible of the jewels, art treasures and antiques of historical interest including the Kohinoor, removed to Britain from India.

The Kohinoor weighed 186 1-16 carats when it was presented to Queen Victoria in 1850 and 106 1-16 after being re-cut. Its origin is doubtful. It may have come from an even larger stone, the Mogul diamond, known to have been in existence in the 14th century.

In any event it belonged to Nadir Pasha in 1736, the rajah of Lahore in 1813, and was presented to Queen Victoria by the East India Company, the commercial trading concern which exploited India in the first period of British penetration into the sub-continent.

The Kohinoor was incorporated into the crown made in 1937 for Queen Elizabeth, now the Queen Mother. It had been worn by all the queens of England since Queen Victoria.

The diamond is traditionally supposed to bring good luck to a woman who wears it, but bad luck to a man. It is the centre of the great cross that occupies the front of the crown.

Churchill Says Problem Close To Being Overcome

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill said that the involved problem of prisoner repatriation in Korea "may be overcome and it certainly is very near being overcome."

He told the House of Commons he thought the West might hopefully await further events.

Answering Labor questions on the prisoner-of-war issue, Churchill said:

"I think the matters of principle have been settled. It now is a question of method. I don't see why there should not be an agreement reached quickly on this and why we should not move forward to larger topics and larger questions in Korea."

Earlier Churchill's Conservative government gave complete backing to the way United States Lt.-Gen. William Harrison is handling the truce talks in Korea.

Labor members asked what the UN position was on accepting an Asian nation as the neutral to be temporarily in charge of war prisoners who declined to be repatriated.

Churchill said Harrison's position had been misreported here. He said the U. S. general had not refused to accept an Asian nation but had stated that until a specific country was named, the UN command had no option but to stand by the original proposal of a country such as Switzerland.

"Her Majesty's government would be glad to see these responsibilities assumed by India or Pakistan, and have made known their opinion to United States authorities," Churchill said.

Phils Take Over National Lead; Bucs, Braves, Redlegs Streaks Broken

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Gordie Howe and Marty Pavelich ml is a well-appointed cottage at Rossmere last fall, swatting the day when they were to report for training. The Detroit Red Wings stars are better than ever next two breaths, whether it is on the ice, at the table, or anywhere.

They got in a few days' fishing, six three solid square meals a day (brother, how that Pavelich can stow the groceries) and generally put themselves in fighting trim for the tough training grind. Not that they had much to do in that respect. Both were "hard as nails" and ready to burn the icelaces.

Marty was the spokesman for the pair. Gordie, a modest cuss, to say the least, just nodded and put in an occasional comment. But there was nothing of the braggadocio about the headsome bloke from Saskatchewan. He merely smiled when the "Rocket" was mentioned; grinned when asked if he would beat the "Rocket's" scoring record this year, and clamped up tighter than a scared oyster when the question of the "best right winger" was put to him.

We didn't know at the time we were talking with the 1953 package of hockey dynamite. For it was announced yesterday that Gordie had been awarded hockey's top individual award, the Hart trophy for the second year in succession.

Howe had more than twice as many points as his closest rivals, Al Rollins, of Chicago Black Hawks, and Red Kelly of Detroit, the three-time N.H.L. scoring champion pulled in total of 58 points out of a possible 90 in winning the trophy. Rollins, Chicago's great goalkeeper, who was the Hawks' No 1 one star all year, had 25 points, as did Kelly. However, Rollins had one more first place vote than Kelly and would therefore gain the runner-up position.

Rollins was the first choice of three selectors, the second pick of three and the third pick of one for a total of 25 points. Kelly polled two first-place votes, three seconds and six thirds for his 25-point total.

No other players were very close to Howe, Kelly and Rollins.

The 25-year-old Howe enjoyed his greatest individual season in the National Hockey League during 1952-53. Besides winning the Hart trophy he also copped the Art Ross trophy for winning the National Hockey League scoring championship and was a unanimous choice for the right wing position on the First All-Star Team. In winning the scoring crown for the third successive season Howe established a new N.H.L. points record. In 70 games he scored 49 goals and had a total of 95 points. The previous record for most points in a season was 86 and was also held by Howe.

As well as topping hockey's major circuit in most points he was also the highest goal scorer for the season with 49, and assisted on more goals than any other player—46 all told. Howe fell one goal short in his effort to tie the N.H.L. goal scoring record for one season. Maurice Richard of Canadiens holds this record—50 goals in 50 games.

The 1952-53 season was a most lucrative one for the big "6" (Ted Lidl, 1917 comment) workhorse. Winterset, in addition to his regular N.H.L. salary, which is one of the highest in hockey, he collected no less than $4,500 in bonus money from the National Hockey League. He pocketed $1,500 from the league for winning the Art Ross trophy, he picked up another thousand for winning the Hart trophy, and another $1,000 for making the All-Star team. He received $1,000 for being a member of the team winning the National Hockey League championship, and $500 for being a member of the team eliminated in the Stanley Cup semi-finals.

Howe was born at Floral, Sask. (a stone's throw from Saskatoon) on March 31, 1928. He turned professional with the Omaha Knights of the United States Hockey League at 17. After one year with Omaha he broke into the Red Wing lineup at the start of the 1946-47 season. He has just completed his seventh season in the N.H.L. He has been picked to the right wing post on the First All-Star Team for the past three seasons and was a member of the Second Team in 1948-49 and 1949-50. Howe has scored a total of 209 goals in the N.H.L. during regular scheduled play. He is the youngest player in history to move into the exclusive 200 or more goals class.

SOFTBALL MEETING!

President Cy Barriage, of the Belleville District Softball League, said today that an important meeting of the loop executive has been called for tonight. The meeting is scheduled for the Tip Top Tailor store and will get under way at 7.30. Important business is on the agenda and all members are urged to attend.

Frankford Sport

Frankford — Frankford Bowling League wound up their season's activities with the Hopefulsie in Division "A" being the league champions, and the "Merry Macs" being the trophy winners in Division "B".

In Division "A", Bob Arbuckle's champions battled right down to the wire against Preston Chase's Jets, finally taking them four games to two, winning the last two games by 9 and 14 pins respectively.

Congratulations, then, to the Hopefulsie, Bob Arbuckle, Ed Loucks, Will Rankin, Jack Heenan, Helen Rogers, Peggy Berry, Edith Henry and Rhoda Hanna.

In Division "B", Earl Rogers' Merry Macs had little trouble in disposing of Selbourn Sharpe's Kareless Kids, after carrying a 425-pin advantage into the final night. The "Kids" did win the first game Thursday night by 16 pins, but dropped the finale by 5 pins. From then had they won all three games, the Merry Macs would have had it on total pins.

Congratulations to the Merry Macs, namely: Earl Rogers, Leonard Reid, Reta Clarke, Edward Green, Lucy Burkitt, Dorothy O'Rourke, Ruth Beach and Helen Elder.

Another phase of the bowling season completed Thursday night, as Elmer Rogers' Screwballs, Division "A" champions of the second winners, took out the Division "A" champions, the Outlaws, led by Harry Scott, four games to one. The Outlaws, after setting a new league record for total pins, made a very sad showing in the playoffs, both in their own division, and for the league divisional trophy.

Congratulations to the Screwballs, namely: Elmer Rogers, Jack Beach, Allan Rogers, Bill O'Rourke, Marjorie Mikel, Marie Todd, Betty Dafoe and Iris Rogers.

Defeat Chicago As 'Bums' Lose To Milwaukee by 9-4 Score; Detroit Tigers Claw Yankees

By Ken Prilegar

The folks down in Vinegar Bend, Ala., better start thumbing their St. Louis guidebooks. This appears to be a good year to go watch Wilmer pitch.

Wilmer, as he is known to his grandma, is better known to baseball fans as Vinegar Bend Mizell, the 22-year-old plowboy who pitches for St. Louis Cardinals.

Mizell looks as if he's on the victory track. Monday night at Pittsburgh Vinegar Bend mowed down the Pirates on two hits 5-0. He struck out nine and had a no-hitter until rookie Carlos Bernier broke through with a single in the sixth. Frank Thomas got the only other Pittsburgh hit, also a single, with two out in the ninth.

When Mizell was pitching for Houston of the Texas League in 1951 the entire population of Vinegar Bend decided to turn over to see him work against Shreveport. Vinegar Bend, a village tucked against the Mississippi line, now has 38 inhabitants.

Mizell's mark was two games and pitched one rain-shortened tie, this week's season opener, and time for them to take another look at the local boy.

While Mizell was ending the Pirates' five-game winning streak, two other streaks in the National League also were broken. Milwaukee Braves stopped Brooklyn at six straight with a 9-4 decision at Ebbets Field and Cincinnati Redlegs snapped their eight-game losing string at the expense of New York Giants 4-3 in the second game of a doubleheader after the Giants won the first 13-4.

Philadelphia Phillies took over first place in the National League by whipping Boston 9-4.

In the only American League action Detroit Tigers conquered New York Yankees 10-8, knocking the Yanks into a tie for first place with Cleveland Indians. Boston at St. Louis was postponed because of wet grounds and the other four clubs were not scheduled.

Was Sweet Victory

The Braves' victory was a sweet one. Last season they bowed 18 times in 21 meetings with Brooklyn. After Joseph Preacher Roe to the showers in two innings the Braves knocked for five runs against Clem Labine in the third inning to get the decision.

Del Ennis drove in five runs for the Phillies as Jim Konstanty picked up his second success against one loss.

Detroit's new Giants' rookie, third baseman, smashed his first major league grand slam home run in New York's first-game triumph over the Redlegs.

Gus Bell matched Spencer's effort for Cincinnati in the nightcap. In all Bell and Ted Kluszewski collected 3 hits and drove in 12 Cincinnati runs.

AIDS BLIND

CAPETOWN (CP)—The South African National Council for the Blind, in co-operation with the Labor department is launching a campaign to place blind people in the competitive labor market. A meeting here was told there are more jobs available for physically handicapped people than there are persons to fill them.

Thirty-Five Nags Enter Colorful Queen's Plate

TORONTO (CP) — Thirty-five speedy three-year-olds are still in the books for the 84th running of the Queen's Plate, oldest continuously-run horse race in North America.

Owners of the Canadian-breds now training for the 1¼-mile event made the $50 May 1 payment to keep their entries eligible for the June 2 stakes, the Ontario Jockey Club announced Monday.

That payment cut the big field from 72 that were eligible after the Dec. 1 payment.

There were 178 Plate hopefuls originally nominated. More probably will be scratched by the time final declarations for the classic, to be run at Woodbine race track, are made just before post time.

The number of casualties in the May payment was not surprising in view of the way Canadians, the even-money favorites, had been training. Owned by E. P. Taylor of Toronto, Canadiana has been working so fast that railbirds are already figuring the first-second-and third-place finishers.

Canadiana's great rival from Windsor, Canada, Virginia Fair, is still in the race. Her owner, James Charlesworth of Edmonton, made his payment a month before the May 1 deadline.

Most notable of those dropped was Gala Easter, owned by Attorney-General Lucien Maynard of Alberta.

The plate purse runs about $25,000 made up of pre-race payments and $15,000 added by the Jockey Club. The Queen donates the traditional 50 guineas, a custom started by Queen Victoria in 1860 with the first running.

Biggest codfish caught in the Atlantic may weigh as much as 100 pounds.

Of Canada's 30 active feldspar and quartz mines, 17 are located in Quebec province.

'Rocket' Richard Mosdell in City On Thursday

Maurice "The Rocket" Richard and Kenny Mosdell of the Montreal Canadiens, world's hockey champions will be in the city on Thursday as guests of the Bata Shoe Company at the opening of their new store on Front street.

The "Rocket" and Mosdell will act as "guardians" to the famous Stanley Cup which will be on display with other trophies of lesser fame during the day.

Richard and Mosdell will arrive in the city on Wednesday evening and will be taken on a tour by Arthur Dezana, public relations officer of the Bata Company.

The two stars will appear at the store at 10 o'clock Thursday morning and at intermittent periods during the day. A definite time is between four and six o'clock in the afternoon when hockey-minded kiddies will be given the opportunity to meet the stars.

Another Boston marathon, a truly amateur race that has come to be the most important of its kind in the world, attracted runners of many lands, passed the halfway mark, last month.

A great number of Canadians have won this gruelling battle over the full marathon distance: Jack Caffrey, twice, Johnny Miles, Gerard Cote, a remarkable French Canadian; four times; Tom Longboat, Freddie Cameron, Jimmy Duffy, Dave Komonen, Edouard Fabre, and a full, slim young fellow named Walter Young, whose home was, and is, in the Manitoba township of Verdun.

We don't intend to make comparisons as to the courage, physical and mental, the joy of contest, the hope of fame, that activated all these, and all the other runners who took the world over to compete in this gruelling battle over the hills and slopes that climb, after some forty miles and more, to pitch the runners into the cobbled streets of old Boston town, to finish the grind, and sink exhausted on the camp beds provided.

But we do say that seldom, if ever, did a Boston marathon winner possess a less inspiring background or a more smudged line of form than Walter Young. When he finished, first of 1936, he started training for the Boston Marathon of 1937. For Walter Young was then, as he is today, in the late days of the Great Depression. He was a recipient of that form of national charity which contributed to each man, each family, enough to allow bare existence, to pay humble rental, to buy scantily of the cheapest of foods. In brief, to keep together body and soul.

It was a shameful way of life, and no one felt more bitter about his lot than jobless Walter Young, married, with a wife, an infant son, and a mother to support. He had engaged in athletics, and he thought, if he could enter, perhaps make a good showing, in such a race as the Boston Marathon, it might lead to better times for himself, his wife, his little family.

He discussed this with a great professional runner, Pete Gavuzzi. Gavuzzi loved to run. He found a willing pupil in Young. Through the autumn, the winter, the early spring, these two ran in preparation for the marathon. They ran 150 miles per week. They ran 1,700 miles in all before they decided Young was physically ready for the Boston test. Then they scraped up the money to ride a bus to Boston, with just enough left to feed and house them there.

Inspired by the possibility that victory could get him off the misery of relief rolls, Walter Young ran like a man possessed. He led 190 other runners from the world over, won by himself. And his great race was not in vain. Sporting Verdun gave him a job as a policeman. At least he was off relief. He was working at a man's job, earning a living. And he's a policeman still, though promoted from the lower ranks of the force.

Dutchies Defeat Penticton; St. Boniface Whips Barrie Flyers 7-4

Swarm Over Goalie Gillson To Win Third Victory 5-3; Both Teams Blast Officials

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—Bobbie Gillson went working again Monday night, but the Owen Sounder's efforts in Penticton Vs' net didn't stop Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

The Dutchmen swarmed over Gillson to defeat the western representatives in the Allan Cup finals 5-3 and take a 3-1 lead in games in the best-of-seven series.

Gillson was called in by the Vs Saturday night to replace the injured regular goalie Fran McClelland and his efforts helped greatly to give the Vs their first series victory.

The Dutchmen tied an official protest with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association over Gillson's presence. They claimed permission for his use wasn't gained when Owen Sound Mercurys with whom Gillson played during the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

Worked Harder

George Dudley, CAHA secretary-manager, said in Midland, Ont., that he had received a telegram from the Dutchmen, but he did not expect the official protest, sent by mail, to arrive until today. He said he would then have to order an airmail vote of the CAHA executives.

Gillson was forced to work harder than he did Saturday night. The agile netkeeper made 47 stops Monday night, compared to 44 his first night out. He stopped 17 in the first period when the teams battled to a 1-1 tie.

The Vs took a 3-2 lead in the second period, but in the third the Dutchmen launched a powerful attack and swept into the lead, mostly due to the delight of the 4,719 fans.

The series crowd total now stands at approximately 29,000.

The fifth game will be played here Wednesday night.

Kitchener opened the scoring when Clare Martin connected with George Hicks' pass at 3:23. But 37 seconds later Bill Warwick hit the corner for Penticton. Willie (Scrap from) Schmidt sent the Vs ahead mid-way in the second period when he sent home Doug Kilburn's passout.

Dutchmen knotted the count when Don Bauer scored on a pass from Art Hurst. Then Grant Warwick put the Vs ahead at 12:16.

Ken Broadworth "missed" their third-period assault when Cliff Verity tied it up on Howie Lee's pass. Don Hope passed to Hicks' relay at 7:40 and then from the faceoff Al Buchanan sent in a goal-mouth pass by Hope.

Penticton coach Bill Carse, raging over the officiating, said after the game the Vs planned an immediate appeal to have referees Vic Lindquist and Lorne Linden of Whitby replaced, if possible, by National Hockey League officials as airmail vote of the CAHA executives.

Kitchener club officials also criticized the refereeing.

"These guys have elephant ears" yelled Carse. "They're not capable of refereeing peewee games. . . They can't keep up with the play and don't even know how to face off properly."

"It looks as though the CAHA has this thing all cut and dried,"

Kell, Wyrostek Top Hitters In Major Loops

NEW YORK (AP)—George Kell, a sparkplug in the surprising early season showing of the fourth-place Detroit Tigers, for has taken over as the American League's leading hitter.

The 30-year-old third baseman, who led the junior circuit in batting in 1949, has collected 37 hits in 85 at bats for a .435 mark. Kell has 13-for-27 (.444) last week and picked up 30 points as he shot past Gene Woodling of New York Yankees.

In the National League, Johnny Wyrostek of Philadelphia Phillies, although unable to maintain last week's .500 pace, still is the pace setter, at .451. Records include games played Sunday.

Woodling, sidelined with an eye inflammation last week, dropped to second in the American League at .408. The Yankee flychaser had only three hits in 10 at bats.

Davey Philley of Philadelphia Athletics and Cleveland's Al Rosen are tied for third at .395. Philley had seven safeties in 24 trips and Rosen eight-for-22.

Cincinnati's Jim Greengrass zoomed into second place in the National League with .405. The rookie outfielder had 19-for-39 last week.

Duke Snider of Brooklyn Dodgers and Hank Sauer of Chicago are deadlocked for third with .371.

Gait Defeats Red Sox 8-6

BRANTFORD (CP)—Galt Terriers Monday night defeated Brantford Red Sox 8-6 in an exhibition intersquad baseball game. Lesgue game.

The Galt outfit the Terriers 104 and committed only one error—one less than the winners.

said Carse. "We got the same business from the referees in the series against Fort William Beavers.

"Our club was playing great hockey, but they were worn out at the end of the second period because they had to kill off so many outrageous penalties."

Coach Bob Rafferty of the Dutchboys came from behind, but he still declined to predict how long the series would last.

He also said he was disappointed over the refereeing and indicated that he and Dutchmen officials would support any more Penticton made to have Lindquist and Linden replaced.

"Our club is still in pretty good shape, and we proved tonight that goalie Bob Gillson isn't enough to stop us," he said.

All-Out Team Effort Gives Westerners 1st Win in Four; Emms Blames Ice, Officials

By AL VICKERY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—An all-out team effort gave St. Boniface Canadiens their first victory in four Memorial Cup games against the Barrie Flyers Monday night.

The Habs, facing elimination with another loss, remained in the running with a 7-4 triumph over the powerful Flyers.

And coach Bryan Hextall of the Habs thinks they'll be in a tough series yet. We've got a long way to go."

Fifth game of the best-of-seven Canadian Junior hockey final will be played here Wednesday night, with the sixth, if necessary, at Brandon, Friday night.

The St. Boniface victory halted a 12-game eastern winning streak for Memorial Cup play, dropping Flyers' single win in the fourth game of the 1949 series against Montreal Canadiens was the last time the west had wound up on the long-end of the score.

Goalie Hal Dalkie played a standout game, especially after suffering a cut over his right eye late in the first period. The four dashed from player to player after the game, banging them on the back and cackling.

"If they can win three straight, we can take four in a row."

The whole St. Boniface crew was a tired but happy bunch.

Barrie's coach Jerry Emms was anything but happy.

"I've seen some poor officiating, but that calling, especially in the first period was the worst ever," said Emms.

He also levelled a blast at the rink management.

"The ice was horrible; that is if you could call it ice. It was just a pool of water. In fact, the whole setup at this barn is a disgrace."

Emms said the team missed the services of goaltender Billie Tosey who only took three turns on the ice—two in the first period, one in the second, and none in the third.

Poeta, a thorn in the Habs' side in the first three games, injured a knee injury in the second period of Friday's third game, and it has failed to respond to treatment. He missed last Saturday's workout and has been hobbling around ever since. He is a doubtful starter Wednesday.

Canadien's reserves went to Leo Knuyt, Bill Short, Barry Thorndycraft, Lou Marins, Gabe Pankhurst, Garry Blaine and Len Thornton.

St. Boniface ran up a 2-0 first-period lead, increased it 5-1 in the second, then were outscored 3-2 in the final frame.

Pankhurst scored the prettiest goal of the night when he dipsy-doodled through the Barrie defence, twice losing control of the puck momentarily, and then drew out goalie Marve Edwards' to score.

Leafs Win Over Baltimore 7-2 Royals Defeated

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Syracuse's Duke Marshell, a 16-game winner last year for Toronto, this season is shooting the Maple Leafs who they shouldn't have let him go.

The big veteran right-hander, a native of Paris, France, won his third game of the young International Baseball League season Monday night, giving up only five hits as the Chiefs downed Montreal Royals 6-2. It was the best performance of three scheduled games.

Marshell had only one bad inning, the third, in which the Canadians knocked three hits with a walk and an error to score all their runs.

Marshell's cause was helped by catcher Roy Partee, who hit safely three times in five trips to the plate, and right-fielder Johnny Stanish, who blasted a two-run fifth-inning round-tripper.

Buffalo's Red Fahr, a hold-over, showed perfect control in his first start of the season in leading the Bisons to a win over Baltimore Orioles and sole possession of first place with Montreal. The right-hander allowed seven hits and struck out four men.

Buffalo scored two-record, the first of three Baltimore pitchers, took over in the second in as many tries. Third-baseman Mike Goliat gave Fahr a hand with a three-run first-inning homer, his second of the season.

Lefty Freddie Hahn hurled a shutout in his first start for Rochester Red Wings, whitewashing the tail-end cubs only at hits, fanned seven and walked only two.

Ottawa at Buffalo and Springfield at Rochester are the only games scheduled today.

GLENGORAN WINS REPLAY

DUBLIN (Reuters)—Glengoran defeated Cushendun 5-3 Monday in a first-round Irish Gold Cup soccer replay.

Indian Fighter From Regina Catches Eye of Crowd At Ring Championship

MONTREAL (CP)—Wm Desjarlais, the Indian boy from Regina whose punches land like the blind legs of a kicking mule, takes on a cagey veteran tonight in the Montreal Forum in a bantamweight tour boxing championships.

Fighting in the 118-pound class, Desjarlais tune up against Fred Daigle of Montreal, a member of Canada's 1948 Olympics Boxing team who came out of retirement this year.

The 18-year-old battler from Regina caught the fancy of the crowd at the opening of the three-day tournament Monday night when he slugged his way to a win over tough Gaspard Bouchard of Montreal, a fellow who is converting h and throwing solid punches.

Desjarlais went out to fight with a jaw so sore from a broken-scene wisdom tooth that, even application of novocaine to his face before the bout was painful.

But he was the class of the night's 14 lively bouts. More than half the battlers in tonight's semi-finals were from Montreal, Monday night or their weight class was not on the card.

Daigle had a tough job getting by the preliminary round with a decision over Gerry Taylor of Montreal that was booed but his third-round finish with hard rights that brought blood from Phelps' nose appeared to give him the edge.

Danny Saunders of Montreal, winner in the only bout that failed to go the three-round limit, meets Roman Moraresh of Montreal in the 147-pound class.

Saunders won by a technical knockout after 1:37 of the last round over Gene Powers of Toronto. The bout was stopped because of a deep cut over Powers' eye. Moraresh, a tough fight artfactory, took the decision over Bob Hickie of Melville, Sask.

Gale Kirwin of Ottawa was over Mike Scott of Montreal in the 125-pound class, scoring a knockdown in the second round for an automatic eight count. He meets Peter Kawulla of Winnipeg who had a bye in the preliminary card.

Ralph Hazak, a southpaw from Bar Head, Alta., and Lloyd Lawrence of Toronto qualified to meet in a 138-pound affair tonight.

Ronald Leclair and Montreal's Marcel Durand with effective long lefts. Lawrence won an unpopular decision over Willie Durant of Montreal.

In the 165-pound class, Burke Emery of Montreal, who won by default over Richard Walton, Montreal, will meet Hamilton's Ernie Gelzins, who took a close decision over Pinkey Mitchell, Ottawa RCAF.

SCHOOLBOY DAVIS CUPPER

LONDON (AP)—Bobby Wilson, 17-year-old London schoolboy, today became the youngest player ever selected for a British Davis Cup tennis team. Wilson will join veterans Tony Mottram, Geoff Paish and Gerry Oakley when they meet Norway in Oslo, May 15-17, in a European zone round match.

Your insurance policies should "Match Up"
To prevent "holes" or expensive overlaps in your insurance coverage, your policies should all be written by one agent (us, we hope, naturally.)
The reason is, policies can be made to supplement each other properly and economically. Often, personal policies can be combined in one at considerable saving.
And an over-all knowledge of your insurance coverage, may reveal to us that you are omitting some important protection that you should have.
Carry matched insurance—not "patched" insurance.

OTTAWA (CP)—Salary increases ranging from $250 to $600 annually have been approved for nine scientific and engineering classes in the civil service, it was learned Monday. The increases are reported to cover some 5,000 employees in-lowering the age limit for its reserve or part-time units to 18 from 17, headquarters said Monday. Young men of that age will train one night a week but won't take two-weeks summer training until they reach 17. In wartime, they would not go into operations until reaching 17.

Bucceroni KO's Wes Bascom; Loser Weeps

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Wes Bascom, eighth-ranked light heavyweight from St. Louis, fell to his knees, beat his head on the canvas and burst into tears Monday night when referee Ted Jamieson stopped his fight with rugged Dan Bucceroni and gave Bucceroni a seventh-round technical knockout. The fight was slated for 10 rounds.

The booing was so loud after the fight was stopped that the time of the TKO couldn't be announced.

Bascom, who at 174 pounds gave away 17 to his harder-hitting foe from Philadelphia, was bleeding from the mouth when Jamieson stopped the bout after Bucceroni landed several good punches.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Your Neptune rays now sponsor your particular talents and interests. Confidential matters, maritime activities greatly encouraged. Happy day!

YOU BORN TODAY are blessed with a good disposition, capable of acquiring knowledge and attaining high position. Could be eloquent in speech; as a lawyer, would be successful with good, cheerful people. Don't fret over ingratitude. Seek God's help always and keep smiling. Birthdate: Robt. E. Peary, Arctic explorer; discoverer of North pole.

BLACK KRAUT MARKET

BERLIN (AP)—The Communists announced Sunday they have broken up a sauerkraut black market. The government news agency ADN said Berthold Schenzmann and his brother Klaus were jailed for five and six years, respectively, as "economic criminals." They were charged with selling the output of their sauerkraut factory in the free market at inflated prices.

Ore-Hunting Device May Lead To Sunken Scow

TIMAGAMI (CP)—A flat-bottomed scow is to be used today in the search for the lumber tug Bear, believed to have gone down in a wilderness lake last Thursday carrying four men to death.

Missing and feared drowned are Leslie Taske, 23, of Buckingham, Que., captain of the White Bear; Fred Kozik, 21, of Ottawa, woods foreman for the Gillies Brothers Lumber Company; and lumberjacks Leonard Conroy, 35, of Buckingham, and Edward Hamilton, 61, of Timagami.

The scow is expected to provide firm footing for a magnetometer, an instrument normally used in hunting mineral deposits.

Searchers will also make soundings of Bellevue Lake. The point 300 yards offshore where a large oil slick is thought to mark the spot that the diesel-driven tug made her fatal plunge with the four men and a steel boat she was towing.

Recently Transistorized

The magnetometer was used Monday but results were unsatisfactory. It was impossible to read the instrument, because waves on the choppy lake 10 miles west of this Northern Ontario resort centre kept rocking the small boat in which it was carried.

Rangers in canoes spotted the oil slick. They expressed belief the oil was forced out of tanks of the sunken tug and steel boat.

Throughout the day, lumbermen in canoes crossed the lake in the hope the four men escaped and were wandering through the bush. Planes criss-crossed the area without finding any trace of the men. Believed Drowned

One theory is that the four were driven inside the cabin of the White Bear by a snowstorm and were warming themselves around a stove when the vessel blew up and sank while on a trip up the lake to get a log boom.

Several oil drums and pikepoles, as well as the captain's shattered stool, were found floating on the lakeSunday.

If the tug is found in the 130-foot-deep water at the spot where the search is concentrated, it is expected divers will be brought from Timmins and the tug and the steel boat will be towed ashore.

ROBERT DONAT WEDS

LONDON (AP)—Robert Donat, British stage and film star, married Renee Asherson, British actress, Monday.

The marriage came as a surprise to members of the Old Vic company where on Saturday night Donat, 48, finished a triumphant comeback as the star of T. S. Eliot's "Murder in the Cathedral." Miss Asherson's age was given as 30.

This was her first marriage. Donat's first marriage in 1929 ended in divorce in December, 1948. He has three children.

PICTON
New Car Ferry Will be Built To Handle Traffic

PICTON—Plans for the building of a new ferry for the Glenora-Adolphustown ferry are complete but it will not be put into operation this season, it was announced yesterday when a Chamber of Commerce committee met with Mayor H. J. McFarland and Harris Whitney, M.P.P. Tenders are expected to be called shortly for building of the new ferry. For this year, the present 12-car ferry will be called upon to handle traffic at this point on No. 33 Highway. The new ferry will have a 15-car capacity and next season both will operate, providing excellent service, it was stated.

That plans for the ferry are so far advanced, and because contracts have been let and work under way for ferry landings, it is not likely that any move to have a bridge built between Glenora and Adolphustown will have much weight.

Mr. Whitney revealed the plans for the improved ferry service and the committee agreed that long-range planning should be done, so that should traffic at this point grow so that the two ferries would be inadequate, pressure for a bridge could be brought to bear.

This matter had been discussed by representatives of the Kingston and Picton Edward Chambers of Commerce.

Not Wise to Seek It

A proposal that a bridge be built east of Picton to join at Thompson's Point in Lennox was discussed and it was felt it too would not be wise to seek it at the present time.

For some time there has been a proposal that a bridge connect the County of Prince Edward at Crook's Point with Deseronto. The committee will ask that surveys and estimates be made on that Hastings and Prince Edward County Councils will know what the cost of the cost might be. The provincial government originally offered to pay eighty per cent of the cost of the causeway with the federal government paying for the central swing span. The federal government refused to share any part of the cost, and the province then agreed to pay eighty per cent of the cost of the causeway and swing span as well. The remainder to be paid by the two counties, Mr. Whitney said. He decided a local newspaper report that the province would pay the full cost of the road improvements were being cut in order, to pay for the bridge.

Mayor McFarland brought forth the suggestion that the railway spur, now built from Trenton to the High Shore road, east of Picton, to the mines of iron ore from Marmora, might eventually be extended to carry to Deseronto over the proposed bridge. He mentioned iron ore developments in many parts of this part of Ontario and if such work is carried out, ore might be brought to Picton for shipment.

It was also pointed out that a bridge to Deseronto would permit trucks to join up with the four-lane highway when it is built in that section.

The meeting agreed that its latest request would be to "give moral support to the Deseronto bridge proposal, to express thanks for the improved ferry service and to look upon a bridge at Glenora as a long-range project.

Batawa Defeats Trenton 4-1

Batawa defeated Trenton Merchants by 4 goals to 1 in an Eastern Ontario Football League game played at Batawa on Sunday. Due to the previous day's rain the ground conditions were not conducive to good soccer in fact parts of the ground were under water. Ridge opened the scoring for Trenton after 12 minutes of play and Pacas evened the tally at the 25 minute mark. The teams changed over at half time with the score one goal each. Midway through the second half L. Helyer twisted his knee and had to retire from the game. Batawa then were able to take control of the game and scored three goals in 10 minutes; by Fillipoul, R. Hrywnak and Salkjevic, Les Digby was the referee. The two games for Saturday Peterborough Merchants and Northern Electric and Concordias and Peterboro UEW were rained out

Alley 'Cats' Extend Lead

Bill Bateman of the Alley Cats cont.' in the Spring Bowling League is thinking seriously of going out of town every time his team plays, from now on. Bill got himself a substitute to perform in the regular weekly session last night and what happened? The "sub" Frank (Malvihill) copped the night's scoring honors with a triple of 870 made up of singles of 325, 249 and 296.

Incidentally the "Cats" (3617) took seven points from Tribards (3321) while in the other games Orhan (3724) defeated Combines (3548); 5-2; Quinte Distributors (3551) set back Canada Cement (3398) by the same score and Kirkwood's Singles (3143) edged G. H. Woods (3264) 4-3.

Other good scores were: J. McKenzie 817 (277), L. Lacelois 812 (325); H. Whittaker 746; Joe Legault, 712; B. Knott, 701; J. Elliott, 703 (330); V. Sagriff 710; C. Martin, 757; A. Atkin, 715 and R. Bellis, 772.

The standing: Alley Cats, 28; Kirkwood Singles, 16; Tribards, 15; Combines, 12; Orhan, 12; Quinte Distributors, 11; Canada Cement, 10; G. H. Woods, 10.

Grandame Heads Belleville Dist. Baseball League

The old Bay of Quinte Baseball League was reborn last night but it left its name with its illustrious forebearers, and will henceforth be known as the "Belleville and District Baseball League."

Five teams were definitely entered at the meeting, these being Belleville Legend, Junkers, Wheaton RCAF; Napanee, Prince Edward Baseball Association, and the Belleville "Kellebers."

The last-named team was a last-minute entry, and was proposed by Allen Kelleher. The entry was unanimously adopted. The Trenton-Batawa Combines were not represented but it was stated they would be an entry.

Frank Grandame was the choice of the meeting as the league's first president with 'Red' Doran named secretary-treasurer. The executive will consist of representatives of member teams. Walter Gerow was named umpire in chief.

Teams will furnish a panel of umpires to the executive for approval. Umpires' fees were set at five dollars each, with the base umpire being in charge of the game.

The deadline for entries was set for May 11th when another meeting of the executive will take place. League play will probably start around May 24th.

Some discussion centred about the playing venue of Bill Greer of Wellington. The Prince Edward delegation stated that Greer said

Howe Wins Hart Trophy

MONTREAL (CP)—Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings is winner for the second consecutive year of the Hart Trophy as the player most valuable to his team, the National Hockey League announced Monday night.

Howe had a total of 58 points at a possible 70. Closest were Al Rollins, Chicago goalie, and defenceman Red Kelly of Detroit, each with 25. Balloting was by 18 hockey writers and broadcasters in the six NHL cities. Points were awarded on the basis of five for first choice, three for second and one for third. Howe had nine firsts, Rollins three and Kelly two.

he would play for their team while the Belleville Junior defenceman stated that Greer had been working out with their team and had stated he would play for them. It was suggested that the player be brought before the executive's next meeting and state his intentions.

A motion was passed stating all players must play for their "respective team."

The meeting was told that the Point Anne entry had been withdrawn. It appears the "Ox-Pointers" will concentrate on softball as their main summer sports activity.

Big 'A' Wins Darts League Championship

Trailing the Hasty Pots practically all season, the Big "A" team of the Belleville Service Darts League, defeated the league leaders three games to two in the playoffs to win the league title and the J. J. Lee Trophy.

The series was a hard-fought affair with the lead going from one team to the other. The finals narrowed down to two "double-out's" before the Big "A" emerged victorious. The scores were 6-4, 1-6, 6-4, 2-8 and 6-3.

In the consolation playoffs Corbins defeated Mall Carriers in three straight games to annex the Labatt Trophy.

The annual banquet and presentation of trophies and prizes will take place on May 29 at the RCAF Wing clubrooms, Front Street.

OLSON, YOUNG TO MEET

NEW YORK (AP)—Bobo Olson of San Francisco and Rocahlio and Paddy Young, New York, agreed Monday to meet June 19 in Madison Square Garden for the U.S. middleweight championship. The winner probably will meet the European titleholder for the world crown. It will be a 15-round bout.

Phils Big Three Will Pitch 1,050 Innings

NEW YORK (AP)—Steve O'Neill, veteran manager of Philadelphia Phillies, predicted earlier this spring that his big three of Robin Roberts, Curt Simmons and Karl Drews would pitch a combined total of 1,050 innings this season. That's 330 apiece.

So far it looks as though O'Neill wasn't talking through his hat. With the 1953 campaign only three weeks old, his hard-working trio has accounted for an aggregate of 120 innings.

Figures compiled by The Associated Press through Monday night's games show that Roberts has hurled 50 innings, the most in the National League. Simmons has worked 45 frames and Drews 25. Roberts and Simmons each has won four games and lost one. Drews has a 3-1 record.

Jim Konstanty, the Phillies' other starter, has pitched 23 innings. He also has two victories and one setback.

CONFIRMS SUSPENSION

WATERLOO (CP)—Bill Hanley, Ontario Hockey Association business manager, confirmed Monday the suspension of Sun Cooke, coach of Waterloo Siskins Junior B hockey finalists, for one year.

Hanley said the suspension was for "molesting" referee Jim Cronbie of Bowmanville at Weston Arena April 25.

Manager Bob Noble will handle the Siskins tonight when they meet Weston Dukes here in the deciding game of the OHA Junior B final.

COMPLETE DRY-WALL CONSTRUCTION SAVES TIME . . . MONEY!

NEW *MASONITE TEMPERED PRESDWOOD EXTERIOR SIDING

It's smoother . . . stronger . . . permanent! The perfect exterior siding in panels of 12", 14" and 16" wide by 4' and 8' long. No seams, no splits, no warping. Harder than oak. Won't rot or decay. Sets snugly without gaps. Nails hold securely. It will outweather the weather and contain the framing. Takes less paint and holds it longer. Tests for years have proven long life, lasting appearance and definite economy of this improved siding.

Available in 3/8" and 1/4" thickness. Comes in natural color Tempered Presdwood that requires priming and paint finish . . . or surface primed ready for final paint finish.

AND *TEN/TEST ASPHALT PROTECTED INSULATING SHEATHING

It's rigid, bracing insulation! Greater insulation is 5/8" thickness as the large panels cut down on joints and reduce cold infiltration. Same applies as 4' x 8' panels can be easily handled by one man — reducing nailing, lining and sawing to a minimum. There is less waste, for even cut-off pieces can be used at eaves and under windows. No open knots or split ends — a sound sheathing. The large panels cover greater sheilding area and ensure a stronger, more durable structure. A money-saving innovation!

Remember asphalt protected TEN/TEST insulating Sheathing repels water moisture, but still allows free passage of vapour for the prevention of condensation. It builds stronger, warmer, economical — well insulated homes.

WITH *IP. BIRCH HARDWOOD PLYWOODS

It's rich . . . lasting . . . beautiful! The attractive, velvety surface and rich graining of IP. Birch Plywoods make them the accepted choice for interior wall panelling of discriminating home owners. Many individual wall treatments can be realized with these smooth, rich grained plywoods. So bright when applied in natural finish — so distinctive when stained to simulate any wood treatment. Won't check or crack — the finishes will last indefinitely.

Practical, too, for wall built-ins, furniture, cupboard doors and counters. Easy to work with ordinary carpenters tools. In panels up to 4' x 8' and thicknesses of 1/4" to 3/4".

Ex-Prisoners Protest Stigma of "Red Label"

During an interview with newsmen at the Valley Forge military hospital by Phoenixville, Pa., Cpl. Robert A. Hickox, left, of Syracuse, N.Y., and Cpl. Richard D. Morrison of Burlington, Iowa, protested statements that they or any of their fellow inmates had succumbed to Communist indoctrination while prisoners of the Reds in Korea. The two men were part of a plane-load of 23 repatriated prisoners who had been sent from Tokyo under an unusual security prohibition against press interviews. They had landed in the U.S. to face a defence department statement indicating that they, along with eight others, were part of a "small group" who "suffered many privations and great danger while under Communist control and consequently might have been more susceptible to Communist influences than they would have been under any other circumstances." The men reported they had creditably resisted ptesby Communist propaganda indoctrination over a long period of time, baby to return home facing some doubts as to their actual steadfastness or loyalty.—Central Press Canadian.

ALLIED PROPOSAL TO FREE POW IS REJECTED

'Zero' Progress Made In Armistice Talks

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

PANMUNJOM (AP)—A United Nations truce negotiator said today "zero" progress had been made toward a Korean armistice after the Reds rejected a proposal to free 32,000 North Korean prisoners who refuse to go home after a truce is signed.

The Reds again ignored the Allied neutrality of Pakistan as neutral custodian of 48,500 prisoners who refuse to return to their Communist homelands.

Instead, Gen. Nam Il charged the Allied proposal was "void of reason" and "unworthy of refutation." He reiterated the Red demand that talking captives be shipped to a neutral country and that the fate of the rest of the world be ironed out before deciding anything else.

Made Suggestion

Lt.-Gen. William K. Harrison suggested that the 32,000 North Koreans be released immediately after a truce is signed and that they be given civilian status as displaced persons in South Korea.

He made no mention of Chinese captives who refuse repatriation. Some observers speculated that the UN command might be willing to listen to a compromise plan which would send Chinese to the neutral custodian while leaving Koreans in Korea.

The Reds want all 48,500 sent bodily to the neutral state pending a decision on their future. They insist that all will want to go home once their fears have been quieted by explanations.

Must Remain

The UN says the captives must remain in Korea under neutral supervision until they have made their minds where they want to go. Many PoWs have vowed to kill themselves if they are thus keep Korea, the Allies said.

After Harrison made his proposal, the Reds took a one-hour-and-48-minute recess. Nam Il returned with a typed text in angry tones.

Allied spokesmen said the usually poker-faced Nam showed anger in his facial expressions and by speaking in short, clipped sentences.

They said Harrison failed to clarify questions the Communists posed about how the proposal would operate. After Tuesday's meeting, Harrison called the Red questions "a lengthy exercise in evasion."

Nam said the Allies "had taken a step backward" on today's proposal "in an attempt to discard the negotiations on which both sides have already agreed"—that a neutral be named to handle the PoW problem.

Negotiators will meet again Thursday.

TV Recordings of Coronation Will Be Shown Same Day in Canada, U.S.

OTTAWA (CP)—Three RAF Canberra aircraft and a Canadian fighter jet will fly television recordings of the Coronation to North America in time for afternoon and evening TV showings in Canada and the United States June 2, it announced today.

The recordings will cross the Atlantic in three flights and each flight is expected to cover the 3,293 miles from North Weald, near London, to Montreal in approximately 7½ hours.

This would mean delivery time at Montreal at about 4 p. m., 5:30 p. m. and 8:30 p. m. EDT.

Details of the plane were disclosed in a joint announcement by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, which is sponsoring the flight, the RCAF, the BBC and the RAF.

The announcement did not cover details of distribution of the recordings to broadcasters.

The CBC will pay for the operation and has made subsidiary arrangements with U.S. United States networks to share them.

The material carried on these flights will include edited versions of the teleprocessing of the procession to the abbey and the Coronation ceremony made by the BBC, and the full-length unedited recording of what will be seen on British television screens, many of which the CBC and certain of the American organizations concerned," the announcement said.

U. S. networks participating in the scheme are the American Broadcasting Company, the Columbia Broadcasting System, the National Broadcasting Company Dumont and the Mutual Broadcasting System and one television newsagency, U. P. Movietone.

Prime Minister Tells House He Will Not Decide Election Date Until After Coronation

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Tuesday he won't decide the date of Canada's next general election until after the Coronation June 2.

But in his comments on the subject in the Commons he did not rule out two dates widely-accepted among observers—Monday, Aug. 10 or Monday, Aug. 17.

Mr. St. Laurent's statement was prompted by Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) who asked about the correctness of newspapers' reports that the August dates had been selected as election targets.

Mr. Fleming said "tens of thousands" would be disfranchised in an August election because so many would be on holiday or busy with farm activities. He asked the government not to set such a date.

Mr. St. Laurent replied: "I have purposely refrained from arriving at even a tentative reason about the next general election before the Coronation. He said he does not want the Coronation to be "dimmed or blurred or disturbed by political controversy."

Not Deterred

The fact thatte the Aug. 10 date had been mentioned in newspapers would not deter him from picking it, if it was considered the best date to be the most appropriate and convenient for the holding of an election." But that same face, he added, "is not going to be a reason for making the selection."

There has been no August election in Canada since confederation in 1867.

Mr. St. Laurent disclosed some of the government's thinking on the subject of election timing when he announced in the Commons agreement that summer—a time for holidays and busy farm work—was no time for an election.

He said an even more important factor was that the enumeration of voters must be carried out at a time when there is the least likelihood of any names being left off. A start on preparing voters' lists must be made on April 1, the 49th day before polling day—always on a Monday.

"The matter must be carefully considered because if we are not to have an enumeration in July and August we could not have one that would start earlier than Sept. 14—because it has to start on a Monday and the first Monday in September is Labor Day.

"An enumeration that started on Sept. 14 would bring an election in November. Well, November is an inconvenient time, for an election."

Home Wide Open

The prime minister said there are two reasons why people do not vote.

One was that they cannot or will not go to the polls. That was a matter depending largely on the voter himself. The other reason is that their names are not on the list. The prime minister agreed with a suggestion a government would likely mean that some persons would not be home when the enumerator called and would be left off.

Mr. St. Laurent's remarks left the issue wide open. But speculation in political circles had had the left the way open for dissolution in time to start the enumeration about mid-June and have the vote ing Aug. 10.

Commonwealth prime ministers will confer in London immediately after the June 2 Coronation and Mr. St. Laurent, who is going abroad to London, could fly back in time to ask the governor-general to dissolve Parliament and approve election writs by the middle or June.

SUGGESTED CANADA HELP IN INDO-CHINA WAR

External Affairs Minister Does Not Agree

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament's first suggestions that Canada should help out in the French Indo-China war came from a prominent change of attitude may have come over Moscow emerged Tuesday in the Commons' debate. External Affairs Minister Pearson didn't agree with either of them.

Opposition front-bencher Howard Green (PC — Vancouver-Quadra) suggested Canada might at least offer transport planes to the embattled French and native forces now in the "very active" employment in the face of Communist onslaughts.

To that he coupled a call for a realistic approach to the Far Eastern situation, Canada taking steps to help bring stability and guidance to countries ringing the Pacific alliance along the lines of NATO.

It might already be too late because the Western powers had looked too long upon the scattered wars in that area as isolated conflicts rather than what they were —parts of a general Communist pattern of aggression.

Too Much Caution

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, said it seems him that the chief danger in Western diplomacy today "is that there will be, if anything, too much caution."

"Hesitation, delay and cautiousness may cause us to lose valuable time for building peace," he said.

To him, the recent Russian overtures contained indications of a profound change in Russian outlook and in its policy, a change such as had never appeared in all the long Stalin regime.

But it would be unrealistic to expect a quick reversal of the Russian position generally. It would be foolish, for instance, to expect the Russians to free their satellites overnight as President Eisenhower appeared to have asked.

No Lives Lost As Channel Ferry Torn In Two

All Rescued by Ships Cruising Near Accident

By MICHAEL NEWMARCH

HARWICH, England (AP)—Two American ships brought hundreds of passengers to safety today from a British channel ferry ablaze through in a pre-dawn collision with an American transport in the North Sea.

Survivors were landed here and at Dover after a quick transfer of passengers 40 miles off Harwich on England's east coast averted a major sea disaster. A woman and her baby were 'trapped for several hours in the listing ferry.

All of the crewmembers—most of them British Army families returning home from Germany—were from the 4,190-ton Duke of York. Ram Each Other

The steamer and the 7,607-ton American transport Haiti Victory rammed into each other near Galloper light ship. The Duke of York had 438 passengers aboard and a crew of 70, officials said.

The Haiti Victory brought the bulk of the passengers ashore here despite a yawning eight-foot gash in her bows six feet above the water-line. She left the Duke of York in tow for a while but that effort was later lost in heavy seas at the scene.

The 10,587-ton American Merchant took 81 survivors aboard and hurried to Dover with them. Four were reported seriously injured.

Survivors crowded the decks of the Haiti Victory as she came slowly into the harbor at Harwich.

Her damage appeared superficial and it suffered by the Duke of York. Everything forward of the superstructure had disappeared on the Duke of York. Capt. R. B. Adams, her master, and a skeleton crew of 15 remained aboard to work the vessel, which was reported taking some water.

Four hours after the collision the Duke of York, which had been making her overnight run from the Hook of Holland, flashed an emergency call for heavy lifting tackle when the trapped mother and baby were discovered. They were rescued an hour later. An RAF launch took them to the shore for medical treatment.

The collision occurred in darkness about 4:30 a.m. (11:30 p. m. EDT Tuesday) on a calm sea east of the mouth of the Thames. There was no fog, though the sky was cloudy.

Rescued

The Haiti Victory was alongside the York ready to take off passengers a few minutes after the crash was reported. About 45 minutes later nearly all were on board.

Ships diverted to rescue operations were the 10,587-ton United States freighter Exmoor Merchant, the lifeboat from Walton, and the Dover lifeboat, manned by British railways, the Dewsbury.

The Exmoor Merchant arrived in Dover harbor today with about 90 survivors from the collision.

A doctor went out to her in the motor launch. Four of the survivors were described in serious condition.

The Haiti Victory took the York the little further afield, to the course for Harwich. The York was taking water slowly and rescuers of the Essex lifeboat to keep by her side as she had no more boats aboard. The skipper is R. B. Adams.

Hefty Baker In Star Role In Ashcans

MELTON MOWBRAY, England (Reuters)—Harry Beaver, 42, hefty baker who lips the scales at 210 pounds without his outsize boots, today began Britain's craziest job —ashcan jumper.

He gets 10 shillings a week to jump up and down inside seven ashcans in the backyard behind the brisbane store owned by Lewis Palmer in this Midlands town.

Harry has to cram the week's accumulation of waste paper enough to fill 14 ashcans—into the seven bins because of a feud between the town council and local traders.

The job is his until the council allows its garbage men to empty the ashcans free of charge or the traders agreed to pay council a new four pence levy on every ashcan emptied by the city.

Melton Mowbray traders' association claims the levy is unfair and is fighting hard to get it repealed. Richard Barker, town clerk says his council is fully entitled to charge four pence for every ashcan cleared.

Police Claim Wave of Arrests Throughout Argentina Breaks Ring Terrorizing Residents

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Police claim a wave of arrests throughout Argentina has broken a ring that plotted to terrorize the Argentine people by bombings that have estimated more than 150 persons had been taken into custody.

The roundup netted many opposition politicians—chiefly members of the Conservative party—and Argentina's strongest. Party headquarters in many provinces were raided and leaders arrested.

Some Communists were seized in the town of Eva Peron, formerly La Plata, the capital of Buenos Aires province. It was also reported that Dr. Alfredo Palacios, leader of the Socialist party, had been taken into custody.

President Juan D. Peron formally congratulated Gen. Miguel Gamboa chief federal police minister, "for the success of recent pre-emptive measures against the traitors of the people, those who disturb order, and persons forcing interests inimical to the new Argentina."

The president also gave one policeman 100,000 pesos (about $7,000) and awarded 50,000 pesos as rewards for breaking up the alleged ring.

Police claim the plotters were responsible for a wave of bombings that began here in March. Peron himself, escaped injury April 15 when two bombs exploded in Buenos Aires' central Plaza de Mayo while the president was addressing a political rally there. Six persons were killed and 93 were injured in the blasts and subsequent stampede.

OLD CITY UNCOVERED

FOGGIA, Italy (AP)—Archaeologists have uncovered in southern Italy the ruins of the ancient city of Merinum, destroyed by a tidal wave 2,000 years ago. The ruins are in Foggia province near Vieste.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: The disturbance which moved up the Mississippi Valley and threatened to bring rain to Southern Ontario on Friday, reached as far east as almost stationary over Illinois. Cloudiness from this system crept over Southern Ontario Tuesday night, but the sun will dissolve this cloud cover during the day.

The polar air which advanced into the Timmins-Kapuskasing region on Tuesday is showing signs of retreat, and ideal spring weather is forecast over most of the province today and Thursday.

Legal Holiday On June 2nd Says St. Laurent

OTTAWA (CP)—G. K. Fraser (PC—Peterborough West) found out Tuesday a bit behind the news.

He asked in the Commons today if the government is going to declare Coronation Day, June 2, a legal holiday in Canada.

Prime Minister St. Laurent replied that that had been announced some time ago.

Mr. Fraser said if it is to be a holiday, a lot of people in Canada don't know it.

The prime minister said he would dig up the announcement and make a formal reply in the House later so everyone's memory would be refreshed.

Announcement of the legal holiday was made on May 2, June 2, was made Jan. 22. It will be binding on banks and government offices. Courts, stock exchanges and business institutions are expected to observe it.

U.S. With Several Allies May Appeal for UN Action In Dealing With Laos Invasion

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dulles said today the United States is consulting with several allies on a possible appeal to the United Nations for action in dealing with the Communist-led invasion of Laos.

Dulles said that France, Thailand and the three associated states of Indo-China are involved in the new southeast Asia crisis.

"We are in conversation with that group now with reference to possible United Nations action," Dulles told a news conference following

EXTENSION LADDER TAKEN FROM JAIL

Members of the light fingered gentry, who have run afoul of the law, can be expected inside a jailhouse, but normally this is not the way the average thief will stay as far away from as possible.

But apparently not all thieves think along normal lines.

At any rate Robert Scott, jailer at the Hastings county jail, has reported to police that a ten foot extension ladder has disappeared from the premises. The ladder had been left outside the county buildings.

SPRINKLER SYSTEM SETS OFF ALARM

A sprinkler system, which in some manner got out of order and set off the fire alarm, caused a run for the fire department to the Houston Company Tuesday night. No damage of any kind was reported.

Today Mr. Dorland Houston said that a leak in the sprinkler system pipe had been responsible for the alarm which was heard by the night watchman who notified the fire department. Soon breaks occur occasionally, due possibly to a building settling or for some other reason.

A second run was reported by firemen who said an alarm had been answered to a car fire on Moira Street, but on arrival damage was reported to the car.

SOMEONE SPIRITED "SMOKEY" AWAY

"Smokey" is a cute little Blue Tick hound. He is male, old and up to the other day lived the life of Riley at the home of Mrs. Lorne Thompson, Pearl St.

"Smokey" had his own private apartment. He dug a hole under a shed and slept on an ancient chesterfield. He was well fed, well groomed and was undergoing training.

Now "Smokey" probably misses his home surroundings. For the other day some "dog-lover" took a liking to the little pooch and made off with him.

Owner Thompson is disgusted, mad and disappointed. He acquired "Smokey" when he (the dog) was a puppy and has carefully nurtured him for the past five years.

Thompson said today that he will willingly give up the pup's dog tag if the "new owner" cares to call for it.

$200 DAMAGE IN COLLISION

A Detroit truck, transporting live fish, and a Rawson bus were in a rear-end collision on Dundas St. East, this morning, causing damage amounting to approximately $200 to both vehicles.

The truck was following the westbound bus when the bus stopped near Bonn's Motors to allow passengers to alight. The truck driver failed to stop in time and bumped into the rear of the bus.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Kelly, Foxboro, who Sunday caught seven pound, one pound brown trout in Centre Hastings creek, the largest to be landed in the Bay of Quinte area. Kelly hooked the fish and when it appeared he was fighting a losing battle, Mrs. Kelly slid down the bank, waded in and grasped the fish in her bare hands.

Old Time Train Pauses Briefly En Route to Toronto Area

Old timers who happened to be in the vicinity of the north station on Tuesday afternoon must have rubbed their eyes in disbelief as a complete train of two ancient locomotives and six cars and coaches of 75 years ago pulled into the station.

Included in the train were the two museum piece locomotives dating back three quarters of a century, a coach, a sleeper and diner of the same period and three freight cars. The ancient train was the first to make any appearance of the present day.

Superintendent of the Belleville division Mr. A. Wilson, said the train was en route to the Toronto area to take part in the centennial celebration of the Huron, Simcoe and Midland Railway. The old time train will be on exhibition at several of the main centres along the line during the centennial celebration which gets under way on May 22nd.

Mr. Wilson said the train of three quarters of a century ago will be manned by operators in period costume during stops.

Although towed by modern equipment, the train was not keeping very close to schedule on its westbound trip to Toronto. When it pulled into Belleville it was "several" hours late.

LEVEL CROSSING DEATH

ALEXANDRIA (CP) — Albert Vaillancourt, 43, was killed Tuesday night when his car crashed into the side of a Canadian National Railways freight train at a crossing in this town 25 miles northeast of Cornwall. The train was pulling at a telling near the crossing when the accident occurred. Mr. Vaillancourt's car skidded for some 90 feet before hitting the side of a boxcar.

Visit to Mexico Described By Ald. Angus Duffy

For those who wish to escape the worries and trials of overwork and for any who would like an inexpensive vacation, Mexico is the place to go, according to Ald. Angus Duffy. Mr. Duffy outlined his views on the country south of the border to the Kiwanis Club at the noon luncheon in the Centre on Tuesday.

The local garage owner and his wife have recently returned from a month's vacation in the land of tekila and sombreros. He noted there is a great difference both in scenery and people as soon as entry into the country is made. Amazed at conditions there, Mr. Duffy said most of the people live in bamboo huts, while the most well-to-do have adobe homes or barracades.

He said the food is basically beans and the temperature ranges from 60 degrees Fahrenheit on up. Prices, according to Mr. Duffy are for the most part reasonable. A night in the motel would run two people around $2.50.

Probably the most exciting thing the speaker saw when he was in Mexico were the bull fights. Describing this form of entertainment as being "not for persons with weak hearts," he gave an interesting summary of the four matches he witnessed.

A number of other letters received from United States Kiwanis Clubs were read at the meeting. These were in conjunction with Canada-United States Good Will Week.

Saturday is the day the Kiwanis Club has set aside for their annual tag day. Taggers were recruited at the meeting.

The speaker was introduced by Lawrence Kells and the appreciation was extended by Anthony Cakota.

WILLIAM BRANT

Funeral services for William Brant, 21 Joseph Street, Trenton, were held from the Weaver Funeral Home, Trenton, on Tuesday, May 5th, at 3 p.m., the Rev. A. S. McConnell officiating. The funeral was under the direction of I.O.L. No. 206.

The deceased, who died suddenly in Trenton Memorial Hospital on Sunday, was 22 years old in his 60th. year.

Born in Tyendinaga, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Brant, he had lived in Trenton for the past 18 months. Previously he had resided in Northport.

He is survived by a brother, Jacob, and two sisters, Mrs. Norman (Camie) Reddick, and Mrs. Gordon (Marguerite) McGraw, all of Trenton.

An employee of the Trenton Cooperage Mills for the past 23 years, he was a member of the Anglican Church, L.O.L. No. 206, and R.B.P. No. 978.

The pallbearers were: O. C. Reid, Alfred Rupert, Percy Down, Wm. Tickell, Clarence Cassilman and Stewart Thompson.

Christie Ordered To Stand Trial For Murder of 4

LONDON (AP)—John Christie, 55-year-old owl-eyed trucking clerk, was ordered to stand trial today charged with murdering four women in a shabby back-street London flat.

Christie, for 14 years tenant of the death house in Notting Hill district, pleaded innocent. He reserved his defence.

Jury hearing wound up with his lawyer suggesting that "two strangers" may have lived in the drab tenement which has known at least eight slayings in recent years.

Recalls Earlier Case

Defence counsel Derek Curtis-Bennett, who was the son of the late Timothy Evans, a young truck driver who was hanged for the murder of his pretty wife and baby daughter in 1949. They died in the same house where the remains of six women were found this year.

Christie was arrested March 31 after a country-wide manhunt touched off by discovery of three bodies in the walled-up alcove of his kitchen. Under the body of his wife, Ethel, was found beneath the floorboards. He is charged with the murder of the four. Remains of two other women were found in a garden behind the house.

Ten minutes of cross-examination of the chief prosecution witness by Curtis-Bennett brought the Evans trial into the forefront of the courtroom drama.

Christie Said Slayer

Evans went to the gallows protesting that Christie was the real slayer of his wife and child.

Christie denied Evans' accusation.

Police Inspector Albert Griffin testified Evans apparently did not know of his daughter's death when he first confessed to killing his wife.

He agreed with Curtis-Bennett that Evans contended he got rid of the baby's body by forcing her down a drain and this was obviously untrue.

Curtis-Bennett asked: "Did Evans then say Christie had killed his (Evans') wife during an absence?"

"Yes," said Griffin.

Curtis-Bennett: "Were all of this it follows that if the prosecution is right there were two strangers in the same house."

Griffin: "Yes."

"And all the time during the Evans trial there were two more bodies buried in the garden?"

"It is possible."

Lewis Nickolls, Scotland Yard's top science detection expert, said the three bodies in the cupboard all showed signs of coal gas poisoning as well as strangulation. He said, too, that he found seminal stains on Christie's clothing and on the clothing of one of the dead women.

Curtis-Bennett showed him a little bottle taken from the Christie flat.

Said Nickolls: "That bottle contains enough sodium cyanide to poison a lot of more people."

Christie himself, in a statement read to the court, said: "I contended that his wife's murder was a mercy killing on her part out of agony brought on by a convulsive fit.

He also said in the statement that the three walled-up women—Rita Nelson, Hectorina MacLennan and Kathleen Maloney — died in struggles which they started. All three were in their mid-30s and were well known in Notting Hill night spots.

Date for the trial was not set. Christie was driven to court for the last day of his preliminary hearing, crouching and hiding his face behind a newspaper to shield himself from the stares of a jeering crowd.

Main Parties Split Sharply Concerning Committee's Final Report on Currie Matter

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal and Progressive Conservative members of the House of Commons defence committee split sharply today concerning the committee's final report.

A majority report tabled by Col. David Croll (L.—Toronto Spadina) expressed satisfaction with what the army has done about the Currie report's recommendations and with the huge defence construction program.

But the Progressive Conservatives, in what amounted to a minority report, said the Currie report's strong criticisms of the army works services still stand, that evidence before the committee disclosed "gross inefficiency" and an "extensive lack of a sense of responsibility" in expenditure of public funds by defence officials, that adequate control by the committee was frustrated by the Liberal majority and that the committee was not free to make independent and thorough investigation of the whole defence setup can produce satisfactory results.

Still Unchallenged Claim

The Conservatives said the findings of George Currie, Montreal accountant, of a "general breakdown" in planning, supervision and administration of the works services remain unchallenged. They said the fact that the committee was frustrated by the Liberal majority means that an independent and thorough investigation of the whole defence setup can produce satisfactory results.

Two Canadians Aboard Plane Bound for Home

HONOLULU (CP)—A military transport plane with Canadian wives brought to Hawaii the last group of sick and wounded soldiers going home from the bleak prison camps of North Korea.

Aboard the plane were two Canadians, 12 Americans and six Colombians.

The first Canadian off the plane, Lt. Paul Dupuy of Quebec City, walked stiffly and slowly with a painful limp. He was supported by two husky orderlies. Dupuy is badly paralyzed from mortar wounds.

IN MEMORIAM

DOXTATOR. — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Roy, who passed away May 7, 1945.

Every day is some small way,
Memories of you come our way,
Though absent, you are ever near,
Still loved, still loved, still ever dear.
—Ever remembered by, Mother, Sister and Helen. 36

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to express my grateful appreciation to Rev. Woodley, Mr. Hiram Cronk and the nurses of Bellville General Hospital for their many acts of thoughtful kindness shown, during my recent illness. 36

I wish to thank Drs. Kennedy, Redmond and Hartt, the staff and nurses of Belleville General Hospital for their kindness during my recent illness, Retsel-Zinn WI, for their cards and gifts and to my friend Elmer.
—Jack Clarke. 36

The second Canadian, Pte. J. Baker of Montreal, strode jauntily aboard the waiting ambulance with two large parcels, which looked like presents, tucked under his arms.

They were taken to Tripler General Hospital.

The men probably will continue homeward sometime Thursday.

TORONTO STOCKS

Industrials and base metals rose with minor advances on the exchange floor and golds were mixed. Western oils slipped.

Volume for the first hour totalled 796,000 shares.

Uranium and New Brunswick base metals traded lower.

Industrials gained on strength in foods, banks and miscellaneous issues. Most other groups were mixed.

Junior gold producers showed strength but holding companies slipped slightly. Seniors were inactive.

Higher-priced base metals were strong and most other issues followed after an uncertain start.

Western oils losses outnumbered gains about two to one but losses were generally small.

Outlook of Steel Industry Takes Turn for Better

NEW YORK (AP)—The earnings outlook of the steel industry "has taken a sharp turn for the better," The Iron Age, metalworking trade weekly, says today.

The profit potential of steel companies has been raised, the publication says, by the following:

Increases in extra charges and base prices; prospects of excess profits tax relief later this year; consumer demand that appears to assure high operating rates through most of the year, and prospects that the wage question will be settled without a strike.

In addition, any wage increase won by the steelworkers will be passed on to consumers by raising base prices of steel, thus maintaining the higher earnings potential.

The Iron Age predicts that increases in extra charges, which are designed to cover costs of special processing to meet consumer specifications, eventually will embrace nearly all tonnage products.

Steelmaking operations this week are reported unchanged at 100.5 per cent of rated capacity.

Col. M. Isbester Dies at Napanee

NAPANEE (CP)—Col. Malcolm Isbester, 66, a member of the Canadian Army for 31 years—from 1911 until his retirement in 1946—died in hospital nesday.

He was awarded the Military Cross while fighting at Vimy Ridge in the First World War.

Col. Isbester was educated in Ottawa and at St. Andrew's College. He joined his father, a Canadian Pacific Railway contractor, in building railroads through the muskeg north of Lake Superior. He was later associated with J. J. Carrigan and Gen Hogarth in Port Arthur.

In 1917, Col. Isbester was appointed administration officer at the Royal Military College, Kingston. He purchased the Napanee Express, a weekly newspaper, in partnership with H. D. Wightman in 1943 but sold his share to Mr Wightman the next year because of ill health.

Hangs Self in Jail

MASON, Mich. (AP)—Mrs. Helen Streiter, 45, admitted strangling her two young daughters in a barracks apartment on Michigan State College campus April 17, hanged herself in the Ingham county Jail Tuesday.

Coroner Harry Leadley said it was suicide.

She was the wife of Harmon Streiter, graduate student in electrical engineering.

Sheriff Willard Barnes said Mrs. Streiter hung herself on the jail bars with an electric cord.

Police said she had admitted killing her daughters Sandra, 4, and Rhonda, 2½, because "I'm so mean."

Laotian Patrols Make no Contact With Vietminh

HANOI, Indo-China (AP) — French and Laotian patrols swept in a wide arc around the royal residence city of Luang Prabang in Laos today but failed to contact any Communist-led Vietminh troops.

The calm on the Laos invasion fronts indicated the Vietminh is awaiting fresh supplies and is regrouping its forces before making an onslaught on Luang Prabang or Vientiane, the official capital.

Meanwhile the buildup of French-Laotian defences continued at Vientiane, a town of 20,000 population across the Mekong river from Thailand.

The Thais have begun moving 60,000 Viet Namese, mostly of fighting age, from along the northern border deep into west and northwestern Thailand as a precaution against Communist invasion.

The move was apparently aimed at preventing Vietnamese who fled into Thailand border areas at the start of the Indo-China war from being swept up and used by the Vietminh in the event Moscow trained Ho Chi Minh's forces reach the Mekong and try to extend their "liberation" program and cross into Thailand.

French intelligence reports have disclosed that three generals and four colonels who received their military training in southern Communist China are masterminding the invasion of Laos.

KILLED IN COLLISION

TORONTO (CP)—Frank J. Heenan of Toronto was killed Tuesday night when the motorcycle on which he was riding collided with a panel truck on No. 2 Highway at the Pickering town line. Another passenger on the motorcycle, Gary Jarvis, 17, also of Toronto, was thrown more than 30 feet through the air and received leg and hand cuts.

A "COLORFUL" COINCIDENCE

Members of the Canadian Peace Congress get around quite a bit in North and the Old Country and Europe and Korea and Moscow, but they were to learn last week that this is really a small world, after all. Immigration Minister Harris announced that their invited guest lecturer, Mrs. Monica Felton, prominent British novelist and town-planner, was being refused entry to Canada because she "simply doesn't meet our requirements for entry."

A congress deputation raised the typical outcries of the Reds and fellow-travellers, telling newspaperman Mrs. Felton, "in fact and never has been a Communist." It was only a few hours later that the Defence Department released a first-person story of the experiences of Lance Corporal Paul Dugal, the first Canadian released from a Chinese prisoner-of-war camp in North Korea and now recuperating in hospital in Tokyo.

Dugal was first to face before my liberation the authorities (Chinese Communists) decided to have a general cleanup. The Communist Monica Felton was expected to arrive. Dugal left the camp between Mrs. Felton's arrival but not before the prisoners had been given paper to fix up the walls and supplied with razor blades and tea-shirts.

Mr. Harris' decision and the Dugal statement produced an unexpected coincidence which left the protesting left-wingers flat-footed. The immigration department had grounds for refusing entry to the British woman, as in the past it has had good reasons for barring from Canada such others as Paul Robeson, noted American singer; Harry Pollitt, British Communist leader and member of Parliament, and John Campbell, leftwing British lecturer. Immigration officials have hinted also that Leonard's stormy visit of the Red Dean of Canterbury would be his last trip to this country.

Whether Mrs. Felton is a Communist or not is besides the point. In recent years in Britain she has become known as the out-and-out fellow traveller. It is not surprising that she was known to prisoners-of-war as a Communist because she had been in North Korea in 1951 as a guest sponsored by the pro-Red or "International Federation of Democratic Women." She returned to Britain with stories of "atrocities" by British and U.S. troops against the Communists.

This matter was taken so seriously, even in normally tolerant Britain, that it led to her dismissal from an important post in government housing, and she has received fewer reward for her activities, however, by being awarded the Stalin Peace prize that year. Mrs. Felton is obviously a British example of the same type of Canadians, who handed out the Canadian Peace Congress and shares with her the dubious distinction of being a Stalin Peace prize winner last year.

In respect ground of the long-standing Canadian tradition of free speech the Canadian government has permitted our own Reds and their friends the fullest latitude in pursuing their activities and commanies for Moscow. There is no rule or tradition which requires it to extend this democratic toleration to all comers from abroad.

M.P.'s AND CONTRACTS

There is little doubt that with the federal election almost certain to be held in mid-August there will be many repercussions from the Dewan-Lumam case heard on the hustings. Ontario voters will be keen to hear declarations and activities of almost all members of Parliament "are being scrutinised—by their political opponents."

In all parties, it is said, research work is being done on statutes relating to the relationship between M.P.'s and Government contracts, and in attempts to discover any relationship that might be questionable.

The Ottawa Journal expresses the view that the Saskatchewan case has drawn attention to "some things which are wrong with the Independence of Parliament Act. This law," it adds, "says roughly, in spirit if not in letter, that no member of Parliament may derive gain from any contract or other business company or organization, doing business with the Government."

The act was written many years ago when Government interests and Government business could be clearly defined. "Today the Government, with its crown companies, is the largest single purchaser in Canada of a multiplicity of goods and services. Under these conditions, says the Journal, "such a law is, to say the least, unrealistic."

It adds: "Actually, we venture to say, most members of Parliament today, and most members of the cabinet today, own the common stocks of companies which directly or indirectly, do business with the Government. Mr. St. Laurent, if he has savings, must own stock in certain companies. So must Mr. Drew, and Mr. Howe, and any number of leading men in Parliament. Technically, they are in violation of the Independence of Parliament Act.

"They shouldn't be; the Independence of Parliament Act should be revised and re-written to bring it in line with modern conditions—to make it sensible and realistic.

This is to be accepted as a reasonable argument but it is not cases such as those referred to by the Journal that are expected to produce fireworks in the forthcoming campaign. Arthur Blakely, Ottawa correspondent of the Montreal Gazette, purports to know of a number of cases which have been tracked down where parliamentarians have been too close to the line in their identity with companies getting Government contracts.

And he adds that they are not all Liberals, either. So it looks like the summer on the hustings might not be so dull after all.

JUST FOLKS

INTOLERANCE

Since childhood's happy point of view
No difference sees in creed or race
Or Catholic, Protestant or Jew,
Who makes a little child aware?

Of harsh intolerance to grow,
Distrain of any form of creed
Will children to each other show,

At seven or eight a child will play
With all with infinite delight,
And not one word unkind will say
In any playmate, black or white.

This troubled world has made it plain,
So long with cruel hatreds filled,
The brotherhood we seek to gain
Is ours—the grown-ups—task to build.

In Search of Epitaphs

(By William Chapman White in The New York Herald Tribune.)

Most human beings who collect things, whether it be stamps or orchids, like companionship. They form their societies and have their publications.

One group does neither. They go their solitary way. The season when they get out and go it is alone as hunting. They are the ancient and unorganized Order of Epitaph Fanciers. They are active in England yet round and can always be found in New England in the summer, particularly in Massachusetts and Rhode Island, where the hunting is always good.

What they seek are unique epitaphs or the unrecorded. Now and then, after weeks of searching, some new epitaph will turn up, almost illegible on a weathered stone, and they figure their time well spent.

The unusual epitaph is first of all a sample of happy phrasing. Some are in verse, but the best are sorts, perhaps on the theory that the Angel Gabriel will be passing that way and can't help but smile or laugh as he may blow the horn he has to keep mouth to blow. Up in New England, so they say, is:

"Here lies the body of Jonathan Pease sleeping beneath the flowers and trees.
Pease is not dead but only his pod.
Pease has shelled out and gone home to God."

In one English village stands a stone with the lines:

"Here lie I, Martin Elgibrod.
He' mercy on my soul, Lord God,
As I would do unto Him if He God.
And Ye were Martin Elgibrod."

An 1837 issue of an old magazine reported an epitaph taken from the grave of a gambler in some unknown place:

"Dice card is the road days he Shuffle through the game of Life.
He shall at others do.
Though be by honors tells not
Him trump is played
When the last trump is played
His tricks will count."

The unusual epitaph may sometimes be excellent biography, accurate, the more vivid for its brevity. Perhaps on a New England stone tells much about a gentleman named Hiram: "Lived and happy died happier." At Shutesbury, Mass., stands the marker to Granther Pratt whose main achievement in life was living to the age of 114. The epitaph reads: "He was remarkably cheerful in his disposition and universally in his habits. He swung a scythe 101 consecutive years and could ride a horse without assistance at the age of 110."

It is only proper that those who devote their lives to the sum up the departed's career in a few lines. What is surprising is the number of unhappy marriages which epitaphs reveal as they were words for achievements, worth recording on stone for all eternity. It is difficult to surpass the summation of one husband whose wife erected a stone over him with the line: "Here lies, as always, John Brown." Or the line that spoke in gist of an unhappy marriage, as examined by his surviving children: "Here lie James Brown and wife. Deborah, not speaking to each other, just as in life."

* * *

Near Cape Charles, Va., is the Custis graveyard are the lines: "Custis Custis sacred be he himself to get in the last word on his unhappy marriage." Pleasanton, Cal., has the epitaph age 71 and yet-lived but Seven months, so the mother says she has time be kept, a bachelor's house.

Still all that ethereal unhappiness around, it is pleasant to think that there is no shortage of epitaph that speaks of the happiness of marriage. Not all epitaphs of lines a were ever written.

On the West Indian island of Tobago, the city of Plymouth on the north shore was an important city during the 17th and in the 18th century. Many a young Englishman settled there and died young.

Today, Plymouth still looks out on the harbor, but there where there were a hundred houses only a few remain. Tobago, means anything up to two centuries ago, 10 remain. Of those that are gone are now 50.

Just off its one street is a stone with a long epitaph. The name is illegible, but the long story about the lover set there by the young woman he left behind is common. It reads: "Here lies Mrs. Betty ——, who died November 24, 1726. She was a mother without knowing it and a wife without getting her husband know it except by her kind indulgences to him."

Child Need Not Fear Operation

Parents often fail to realize how terrified most children are by surgery. Psychiatrists and surgeons are tracing more and more adolescent and adult emotional problems to the fear of the surgical treatment caused by an operation during childhood. Even a tonsillectomy or other minor surgery can leave painful emotional scars.

In an article, "Your Child Need Not Fear Surgery," in the current Better Homes and Gardens, Dr. Edward Weiss and other officials of the Grand Trunk Railway who were present were: Sir William Young, Mr. Smithers, Mr. Morse, the vice-president of the company, and Mr. McCulghan. Matters with reference to railway affairs affecting Belleville and district were discussed. The official left here for the east at 9.30 o'clock a.m.

Pedestrian Driving

(Edmonton Journal)

Pedestrians may complain that motorists are "picking on them," but there is justification for the Safety Motor Association's suggestion that many pedestrians need to improve their "driving" on city streets.

Neither the fault nor the responsibility rests with any one class when it comes to traffic safety. Motorists and those on foot alike are courteous, careful and alert, but many walkers do need to improve their habits and become more sensible of ways in which they can avoid being a traffic-bothwheeled and pedestrian.

Not very long ago, a lone constable of the old school could be observed at an intersection, trying to keep traffic moving and to keep it right on crossing the street. The constable was the traffic signal, and if and receiving little or no thanks for his pains but he had a job to do. Today, with reference to this single point, on the part of pedestrians, is that they must walk more quickly for the turn of the light.

The whole thing is, after all, a two-way proposition. More courtesy and consideration on both sides will go far to improve city traffic conditions. That is the "safety educational program" for pedestrians, as advocated by the A.M.A. branch, and motorists, and the safety campaigns should be put to pedestrians as well as motorists.

Stay With Child

6. Most important, one or both parents should stay with the child in the hour after the operation, to give him a feeling of security. If the operation is serious, let him cry and talk about it—get it off his mind. Praise but don't coddle him. He's been through a lot.

The doctor's job, While says, is to become a trusted friend and confidant before the operation, so that the child will go with him willingly to the operating room.

When radio was invented and now suggesting that with the tremendous vogue of television, reading will fall before it as a decline. How can people read and look at television?

The public library reports of various Canadian cities are now being issued, and they show the same percentage of increase in the number of books borrowed last year as in the years preceding. Books borrowed, both by adults and children, rises in relation to reference libraries, music scores borrowed from the music branches of the public libraries, every other service of these key institutions of our time, show the same vigorous growth. Nothing can affect the hunger of the public for the printed word.

The Cranes Fly North

(Regina Leader-Post)

Some day fairly soon, 21 large white birds with black-tipped wings and blaring voices, will be winging their stately way northward over the prairie, woods and lakes of Saskatchewan to their annual lunkmown breeding grounds in the North-west Territories.

Some of them may fly in a small group together. Others may mingle flights of their kindred with cousin, the sandhill crane. But these 21 whooping cranes are the last of their race.

The last of the whoopers had left their Winter home in the Aransas national wildlife refuge in Texas by April 14. Their route to the north takes them through Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, the Dakotas, and Saskatchewan. Where they nest, no man, is yet certain.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

ASPIRIN AND FEVER

In Little Lesson No. 14, The Medicine Cupboard, for which send 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope, I advised that you should need a dozen 5-grain tablets of acetylsalicylic acid. I explained it should be kept in the cupboard for fever attacks.

Dr. Brady

In my opinion, if ten grains of aspirin fail to give relief from ache or pain, it is unwise to take more. A single dose of five grains should be tried first, and only if this fails to give any relief in two hours, may the full ten grains be taken, with safety, I mean.

Uninformed or misinformed persons and even some physicians use the drug as ordinary deliquents do liquor, barbital, heroin or marijuana—as a panacea, a remedy for pain, ache, worry, fear, fatigue, insomnia and conscience, inferiority complex or the blues.

A brief newspaper item tells of the death of an infant by strangulation. The infant had an alleged "cold" and seemed feverish, so the mother gave him a tablet from a "baby aspirin" tablet, on which the baby choked to death.

Apart from the mistake of putting a tablet, pill, peanut, bean, whistle or any other object in the mouth of a young infant, the very idea that aspirin is a remedy for fever is reprehensible—it should be a crime. Who advises or approves of such use of aspirin is reprehensible.

Still a third mistake was implied if not mentioned in the item about the death of a baby, namely, the practice, which seems to be common among 9400 people who patronize Erick so Yankee 971 — instead of keeping a little glass of aspirin in the medicine cupboard and using it for any ache the family or neighborhood who happens to be off his feed. I remember now for the first time, I've explained that the baby's mother had dabbled with nursing.

Somewhere around this bevel there may be—I wouldn't bet on it, though—a clinical thermometer. The nice kind baby who protects me from maddening instructions and distractions so I can make the bowling green in time for the draw, was head nurse in the surgical pavilion when I first tamped baby and therefore may have had a thermometer when she quit professional nursing to take care of me and our children.

But at our house a reasonable fever accompanying an acute illness or indisposition is just an excuse that everything is taka. It indicates that the body is resisting normally. And it is usually quiet a feverish patient with a mallet as with aspirin, acetanilid or white pills killing or accelerating dope.

Use the physician's hands or ever in the hands of a patient under his or her physician's instructions the disinfectant, the clinical thermometer may be of some use. In the home it is good for nothing but making mischief, in my opinion.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

IDEAS AND ACTION

We can have ideas galore, and dreams to match them, but without action they might as well not exist at all. I came across an item in my newspaper recently, commenting upon inventions by William H. Pratt, vice-president in charge of engineering of the Carr Multiplier Corp. He said that regardless of all the wonderful inventions that continue to save men's time and energy, they would never replace man.

Mr. Petit said that the machine cannot originate action. Said he: "They can only do what they are told. Then isn't a machine in existence that can originate action. There's no need to fear machines taking over, for the human mind will always be needed to give the machine the problem, push button and read the answer."

Many of us can recall when many opposed many of our labor-saving machines. They said that unemployment would result. Counterfeiters, that increased employment and lessened arduous toil. There cannot be too many useful ideas introduced into the world. A thought, or a dream, can be put to action need never worry about a job. Jobs are praying for ideas.

A young man once called upon the late Thomas Edison for his famous publisher of the old New York Sun. After a brief visit, he did the young man said he wasn't sure, but that he had "some ideas." "Then you have ideas I have a job for you at once," said Mr. Edison.

Back of every useful machine and invention is one or more ideas. The sooner a new model created but what another science that can be put to work, even predict the future of the automobile, the airplane, the streamlined railroad train, the movies, or TV? Ideas that keep moving are ideas that keep men busy.

Ideas move the world. They write history. Now, if a concept will come forward with an idea that will forever abolish war, he will be wil have earned, and deserved, immortality!

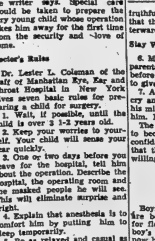
MARTYR TO TRUTH

There is a room in the British museum which contains some of the most inspiring documents in the world. There are seen a copy of the Magna Charta, in that same room are also the most ancient versions of the Bible.



Perhaps the most inspiring exhibit in that room, however, is a copy of the translation of the New Testament by William Tyndale. So bitter was the opposition, against this man four hundred years ago that he had to flee England and carry on his work in a foreign land. When retribution finally caught up to him, he was strangled to death and his body burned at the stake.

When the translators of the Bible were commissioned by King James to their mighty work, they availed themselves of every good translation which had previously been made. But their greatest reliance was on the translation of the New Testament by William Tyndale. Today we honor the sonorous and dignified language of the King James Version and should be grateful for such a little figure sequestered in some cold attic room in a foreign land leaning over a copy of the Greek New Testament and laboriously translating it by candelight.

For which "crime" was strangled to his body duly burned. Thus does the kingdom of God advance by the valor of its heroes, and even by the wickedness of its opponents.

Women's Auxiliary Votes To Purchase Obstetrical Table For Trenton Memorial Hospital

The first of two votes on a motion to purchase an $1185 obstetrical operating table for the Trenton Memorial Hospital was cast this week by the RCAF Women's Auxiliary at their regular monthly general meeting in the Air Marshal Bradner School auditorium.

The motion made by Mrs. A. L. Ashton read: "Moved that the RCAF Women's Auxiliary purchase a delivery table, costing approximately $1185.00, for the Trenton Memorial Hospital with the profits so approximating a sum agreed upon by a meeting in January 1953—from the "R.S. Quinte" Coronation Cruise variety show and with money from a separate W.A. fund."

Since the allotment of money for the hospital from the variety show profits did not cover the cost of the table, a statement was included in the motion that the balance of the cost of the table be paid for out of the regular W.A. account.

Following the making of the motion, the first of two monthly ballots by the general meeting took place. The two separate votes are necessary under the laws of the present W.A. constitution, therefore to complete the motion a second ballot will have to be held at the June meeting.

As soon as the variety show accounts are finalized, the Air Marshal Breadner School library will be allocated a sum of money equivalent to the show profit amount being used towards the purchase of the table.

In her final report, Mrs. W. F. M. Newson, variety show convener, thanked all concerned and suggested that the show's convener should be appointed with the election of officers in June to give her time to organize her committee and gather her talent together.

Special Vote of Thanks

Mrs. F. W. Sheffield, vice-president, and chairman of the meeting in the absence of Mrs. R. R. Johnston, moved a special vote of thanks to Mrs. Newson for her assistance and hard work as convener of the W.A. project.

Two hundred members listened to the financial statement read by the newly-elected treasurer, Mrs. D. J. Fisher. The Opportunity Shop report was read by Mrs. L. W. Schenck who called for more volunteers to assist in the shop.

Mrs. W. B. Walker, Social Welfare convener, reported that nearly $300 had been spent on welfare work in the month of April. The Trenton Memorial Hospital convener, Mrs. J. Mombourquette reported that 58 babies were born in the hospital the last month and that approximately one-third of the total were Air Force babies. Mrs. George Seaman of the Trenton Memorial Hospital Women's Auxiliary extended an invitation by letter for the membership to attend a Florence Nightingale Tea in the hospital, on May 13 from 2:30 to 5 p.m. Visitors will be taken on a conducted tour of the premises during that afternoon.

In the arts and crafts division, Mrs. W. Weiser reported that 140 exhibitors had submitted entry forms for the arts and crafts exhibition and bake sale to be held in the school auditorium, Saturday, June 6.

Dramatic group ticket sellers report that seats are selling fast for the two-night production in the school auditorium on Wednesday and Thursday, June 3 and 4. In this connection, Mrs. Weiser announced that a request is being made for a third-night performance of the two plays.

New Residents Called Upon

35 new residents were called upon and welcomed into the district in April by Mrs. R. P. Murray and her public relations committee.

Mrs. M. J. Smith, Well Baby Clinic convener, announced that the next immunization day for pre-school age children will be held in the school on June 5.

A nominating committee was elected to prepare a slate of officers for the 1953-54 election to be held on June 1. Mrs. C. A. Bohan, Mrs. R. C. Mair and Mrs. R. H. Sjotrom were elected to serve with three members to be pointed by the executive. Mrs. A. A. Kempster, Mrs. J. E. LaBrash and Mrs. R. R. Brown, convener of the entire committee.

The W.A. executive will play hostess to members of the auxiliary on May 22 in the school auditorium when a "Thank-you Tea" will be held as the final get-together for the 1952-53 season.

Sixteen tickets are still available for the opera "Lohengrin," being held on May 28 in the Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto. A special bus will leave Trenton at approximately 4 p.m. and return home after the evening performance by the Metropolitan Opera Co. of New York. Mrs. C. E. Maitland, 44B Ramsa Drive, reported that the auxiliary is making the arrangements and that tickets are available to anyone interested in attending the opera.

Mrs. A. L. Ashton, Trenton Centennial representative, asked for volunteers willing to billet in their homes Girl Guides and Boy Scouts from outlying districts. 500 Guides and 1000 Scouts are expected to be in town for their part in the celebrations on June 28.

Many Volunteer

Salvation Army representative, Lt. P. E. Gardner spoke on the Red Shield Appeal, being made on May 15. In the form of a one night blitz. Thirty-seven members volunteered to assist with canvassing the Middleton Park area.

A program of entertainment, entitled - "The Martha Godfrey Hour", sponsored by the only tea company in the world to sweat their tea bags, followed the business meeting. The 20-minute pantomime was produced by wives of personnel living in the Wartime Housing and Trenton-Quinte districts and featured such talented artists as Mrs. Ross Reid, the master of ceremonies; Mrs. J. Bays, the singer; Mrs. N. Wallace, Mrs. D. M. McLeish and Mrs. R. M. Taylor, the "Andrew Sisters"; and Mrs. Agnes Ward, a singer. Talent scouts were Mrs. A. L. Ashton, Mrs. J. E. Nelacher and Mrs. H. A. Barr. Sound was under the direction of Mrs. G. H. Avent.

Following a short movie, refreshments were served under the convenership of Mrs. W. Taylor.

Social Note

While on an extensive tour of Ontario, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. MacCallum, of Charlottetown, P.E.I. received a visit in their son and daughter-in-law in Middleton Park. Miss Kit MacCallum, Reg. N., of Moncton, N.B. was also the guest of Pfc/O and Mrs. J. E. MacCallum, of 18 Laird Drive. Following a week's stop-over, here, the party of three left by automobile for Ottawa, prior to their departure home.

HANDY PAYMENT

VANCOUVER (CP)—Motorists in Vancouver soon may be able to pay parking fines at city banks in a system similar to a method launched at Quebec. Police chief Walter Mulligan is investigating the feasibility of such a system here.

Motorists Warned Against Operating Unsafe Vehicles

Making sure that the early car is in first class mechanical condition is one of the first rules of safety on the highways, according to Chief of Police Walter Probert who points out that new amendments to the Highway Traffic Act provide stiff penalties for motorists operating unsafe vehicles.

"Motorists should pay particular attention to section 30 (a) of the act which reads: 'No person shall drive or operate or permit the driving or operation on a highway of a vehicle that is in such a dangerous or unsafe condition as to endanger the driver or operator or any occupant thereof, or any person upon the highway," the chief noted.

He said this section gives police officers the authority to require drivers to submit their vehicles and equipment to inspection and if the owner is not prepared to make adequate repairs, the act provides for pulling the vehicle off the road.

A summons follows when the driver of a vehicle being operated in a dangerous condition, while anyone who sells a defective vehicle and permits it to be driven on the highway, may also be summoned and fined.

"I would recommend too, that drivers learn and adhere to the proper method of making left hand turns," he added, "the safe and proper way of turning both left and right is clearly set out, and anyone who neglects these very reasonable precautions can expect to pay a fine.

"Another addition to the "Rules of the Road" is a subsection intended to stop "bumper chasing" or tail-gating", as transport drivers call it. It briefly states driver or operator of a motor vehicle shall not follow another vehicle more closely than is reasonable and prudent having due regard for the speed of such vehicle and the traffic upon and the conditions of the highway.

"What is 'reasonable and prudent' could be interpreted by different drivers differently, but police and others concerned with the safe movement of traffic regard one car-length for each ten miles-an-hour of speed as a proper minimum distance between moving vehicles. That is, at say 30 miles an hour, there should be three car lengths between you and the car ahead."

Congregation Bids Farewell To Missionary

A large congregation attended an interesting service held in the United Church, Cannifton, on Sunday evening when friends gathered from each appointment to bear Mr. Douglas Ross who is leaving this week for missionary work during the summer months in Labrador, under the auspices of the United Church Missionary Board.

The pastor, Rev. W. R. Merrick, in introducing the speaker, said he felt it was an honor to have with him in the pulpit a young man so capable a candidate for the Christian ministry and added that Cannifton circuit should be proud in having two such fine young men as Douglas Ross of Carmel and Richard Martin of Bethany, preparing themselves for the Christian ministry.

The speaker took as his theme "Keeping Our Light Burning" which was a challenging message to all who heard him. The choir, under the direction of Mrs. R. Farnham, the organist, rendered two appropriate anthems for the occasion. The pastor at the close of the service, wished the speaker "God Speed" on behalf of himself and the congregation, in his new field in Labrador.

Soviet Seeking To Wreck Trade Says Survey

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A Wall street survey, made public Tuesday, says the Soviet Union, aiming at world economic domination, is seeking to embezzle and wreck the U.S. economy.

This survey has been delivered by ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., chief American UN delegate, and recently was brought to the attention of high authorities of the Eisenhower administration and of the Senate foreign relations committee. It strongly urges "a drastic reorientation of the economic and social phases of our defence strategy" in the economic and social fields.

The report urges use of personnel with "a working knowledge of Marxism-Leninism-Stalinism" on the firing line against Soviet propaganda, contending that "the initiative should be seized and held" in this phase of the cold war.

The document was prepared by Robert S. Byfield and W. W. Cumberland, New York stock exchange representatives on the non-government observer group attached to the U.S. delegation.

The report says the Soviet drive is attempting to cut off the U.S. from raw materials and strategic items abroad, destroy markets for U.S. manufactured goods, cause Americans to lose control of assets through propaganda for nationalization, socialization, confiscatory taxation and the like.

The report recommends:

1. High-level formulation of basic policies of the economic and social phases of U.S. defence strategy.

2. Effective co-operation between the U.S. mission and higher authorities in the state department having jurisdiction over U.N. affairs.

Weddings

DEMOREST—LOVELESS

Stirling — On Saturday afternoon, April 18, Marjorie Ethel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Loveless, of Trenton, became the bride of Ralph Franklin Demorest, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Demorest of Stirling, at a ceremony in St. John's Rectory, Carrying Place. The rector of St. John's Anglican Church Rev. F. C. Beaney officiated at the double ring of spring flowers.

The bride wore a navy taffeta dress, with a corsage of red rosebuds and fern. Her costume was completed with a hat of red straw and matching accessories.

Mrs. Harold Scarlett attended her sister wearing a dress of navy taffeta trimmed with navy and white plaid. A corsage of red roses and red accessories completed her ensemble.

Mr. Harold Scarlett, of Trenton attended the bridegroom. Mrs. Harry Loveless, the bride's mother who gave her daughter in marriage wore a grey costume and a red rose corsage.

Upon their return from a short honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Demorest will reside in Stirling.

Quinte Tennis Club Plans June Tea

The May meeting of the Quinte Tennis and Skating Club, Ladies' Auxiliary, was held Tuesday afternoon in the club lounge with Mrs. F.C. Miller presiding.

Plans were completed for the garden tea to be held on the grounds of the club, corner of Queen and Dufferin, early in June.

During the latter afternoon of the tea, the winning ticket will be drawn on a beautiful cutwork tablecloth. This cloth will be displayed by different merchants during the coming weeks.

A rummage sale of good articles will be held in the armouries during an afternoon later this month.

Activities of the season were reviewed with satisfaction.

The grounds are now being prepared by the men's organization for the tennis players.

Canniffon-Corbyville W.I. Elects Officers

The Canniffon and Corbyville W.I. held its annual meeting in the town hall with 19 members and two visitors present.

The meeting was opened in the usual manner with the president, Mrs. R. Bleekman presiding. The roll call was answered by paying of dues. A report was given by the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. E. Winder, also the Community Centre Fund treasurer, Mrs. K. Ewing; they were confirmed by the auditors.

Mrs. Ila Calvert, the district director, gave an interesting report on the meeting held on April 4th, for the district annual, which is to be held on May 20 in Tweed. There were four delegates elected: Mrs. R. Philp, Mrs. H. Shorey, Mrs. M. Eves and Mrs. I. Calvert.

It was decided to send groceries to a needy family in the village. There was a reading by Mrs. R. Philp about the A.C.W.W. which is being held in Toronto in August; pins were presented to each member. The yearly reports were given by the standing committees. Mrs. Bleekman thanked everyone for the help she had received during her presidency.

Officers Elected

Mrs. T. Leslie, of Melrose, who organized the C. and C. Women's Institute, conducted the election of officers:

Mrs. H. Shorey, president; Mrs. D. Melbourne, first vice-president; Mrs. R. Philp, second vice-president; Mrs. Urch, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. K. Ewing, Community Centre Fund treasurer; directors, Mrs. G. Latchford, Mrs. H. Miller, Mrs. R. Philp; district director, Mrs. I. Calvert; pianist, Mrs. H. Boyd; assistant pianist, Mrs. M. Eves; auditors, Mrs. K. Pitman and Mrs. E. Empey.

Conveners of standing committees: Mrs. R. Bleekman, agriculture and Canadian industries; Mrs. F. Steekman, historical research and legislation; Mrs. Boyd, F. Moore, home economics and health; Mrs. K. Winder, citizenship and education; public relations and community activities, Mrs. R. Foote; cards and flowers, Mrs. K. Windsor, Mrs. J. Dafoe; sewing room, Mrs. E. Sharpe, Mrs. M. Eves, Mrs. A. Latchford; social, Mrs. E. Sharpe.

Mrs. Leslie conducted the installation of the new officers.

Presentations

Mrs. Bleekman presented Mrs. Shorey with the key to the town hall, and Mrs. Ewing presented on behalf of the Women's Institute, a pin to Mrs. Bleekman. Mrs. Shorey also gave her a lovely cup and saucer.

It was the third anniversary and Mrs. Ewing made a lovely angel food cake with three candles on it. The evening ended with the hostess, Mrs. Ruth Plumpton and her helpers serving bountiful refreshments. A social half hour was spent.

The Canniffon and Corbyville Women's Institute also held a meeting on "We Call It Human Nature". Mrs. Newson, from Toronto, gave an interesting talk on this subject, which was much enjoyed. There were members from Quinte Institute, Carmel Institute and Canniffon - Corbyville Institute. Tea and cookies were served afterwards.

St. George's Guild Holds May-Time Afternoon Tea

A garden-like effect of golden daffodils backgrounded by soft, pastel green tinted walls formed a charming picture yesterday afternoon at St. George's Chapel, Station Street, for the May Tea held under the auspices of St. George's Women's Guild.

Receiving at the door were Mrs. P. Welch and Mrs. G. Beare, whose smiling welcome was as bright as the lovely day outside.

The tea table was most attractive with lily white cloth adorned with pale green and yellow garlands, and centred with golden daffodils and jonquils in a crystal bowl, flanked with pale green tapers in silver holders. Presiding at the silver services were Mrs. Everett Smith and Mrs. Les Leeson; Mrs. H. Wright and Mrs. W. Cook.

Attractive Guest Tables

Those who served the many guests at the little guest tables, which were so prettily arranged with empire-lined linen cloths and centred with holders of daffodils and yellow candles, while fellows included Mesdames Dunning; Dermody, W. Colman, F. Askey, J. Beare, Gilroy, while others who replenished the often-depleted plates of dainty sandwiches and tiny cakes, were, Mrs. H. Dewey and Mrs. W. McCloud, and those who made the tea, Mrs. G. Guillver, Mrs. Button and Mrs. B. Bleekman.

The bonecocking table was also garlanded with intertwining ropes of pale green and yellow, and most alluring with the flowered cuff cakes decked in ruches of rose, yellow and green and topped with shredded cocoanut, cooking filled with nuts and raisins; orange marmalade; delicious pudding bananas with mounds of soft icing; cocoanut balls in yellow, blue and green; delicious smelling loaves of homemade bread and buns; lemon and taffy tarts; chocolate layer cakes, and sprinkled, and pumpkin, apple and lemon pies.

Nests of Candies

Here, too, were little nests of candies, creamy fudge, jelly beans, maple cream, and chocolate most tempting and tasty. In charge of these good things were Mrs. W. Pepper, Mrs. J. Rowbotham, Mrs. L. Armstrong, Mrs. W. Perry, Mrs. F. Markle and Mrs. G. Collings.

The fancy work table was the mecca for those needing dainty dollies, embroidered pillow cases, knit sweaters, flannel overalls, boys' shirts, lovely printed dresses all lace and embroidery-trimmed, rompers and pyjamas to seersucker, such pretty aprons, frocks, gilrs' white shoes and many, many in prints, all usable and several pretty enough for afternoon teas. Mrs. W. Colling and Mrs. R. Clegg were in charge of these, which soon found ready purchasers.

The dainty and attractive tea, bringing credit to its convenors and to all who assisted.

'Afternoon Workshop' Conducted At B.P.W. Clubs' Conference

Despite adverse weather, fellow members from ten surrounding centres joined the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club for a regional conference on Saturday last. The conference held at the Hotel Quinte was headed by Mrs. Margery Pewtress, Cobourg, provincial president. A valuable citizen of Cobourg for the past 20 years, Mrs. Pewtress takes an active part in various organizations and is at the present time chairman of the Northumberland West Tuberculosis and Health Association, she is secretary of the Industrial Division of the Chamber of Commerce, Director of the Cobourg Opera and Drama Guild. She is also general manager of a well known company which manufactures and distributes across Canada, soda fountain flavors.

Registration took place at 1.30 followed by a brief address of welcome by Miss Norma Arkles, local president. The group was then placed under the direction of Miss Harriet Bate, Lindsay.

Miss Bate, legal secretary, and assistant court reporter, is a lifelong resident of Lindsay. An elocutionist, she is interested in amateur dramatics, having taken part in many productions and also directed many plays. A charter member of the Lindsay club, she was chosen regional adviser of district No. 6, at last fall's provincial conference in Niagara Falls.

Miss Bate, conducted an afternoon "Workshop" subjects discussed included "the fundamental rights of human beings"; the civil and political rights women have obtained in the last century"; "Jury Service for Women" and "Equal Pay for Equal Work," as well as "the responsibilities of B & P members to their own clubs, their National and International Federations and their duties as good citizens."

Progress Made

A report on the progress being made on Business Women's week was given by Mrs. Simone McFadden, B. P. W. Co. convenor for Ontario. Mrs. McFadden announced that the dates would be May 11th to 17th rather than September as previously announced. She also stressed that since the Ontario clubs were leading the field in this undertaking, she hoped it would be sufficiently successful this year to become at the present a national scale next year.

In the evening a banquet was held with some 85 members present. Head table introductions were made by Miss Wallridge, vice-president of the local club. During the dinner music was provided by Mrs. Evelyn Warham. A sing-song led by Mrs. Dorothy Brown was enjoyed by all.

Musical Entertainment

Following the banquet the group was entertained by two Kingsway Music Festival award winners, Cara and Greg Butler. These outstanding young pianists, who are studying under Mona Bates of Toronto, had chosen the following selections for their program: (Solo Greg) Chopin's "La Polonaise", "Twentieth Prelude"; (solo Cara) "Prelude in C Sharp Minor" by Rachmaninoff; (duet) "Malaguena" by Lecuona and "Ballet from the Carnival of Animals" by Saint-Saens. The group's warm applause left no one in doubt that these young Belleville artists are slated for the concert field and they wished them well on their way to success.

The group was then introduced to the highlight of the evening, a report on "United Nations at Work." A number of colored slides of the U.N. building were shown with descriptive comments by Mrs. Margery Pewtress, followed by a four member panel discussion from the Ontario club.

Before the meeting was adjourned, thanks were extended to the dinner of the hostess committee to the guests as well as the special draw won by Miss M. Wilcox, of Bowmanville.

Members attending represented Napanee, Kingston, Peterborough, Lindsay, Campbellford, Brighton, Cobourg, Newmanville, Port Hope, Oshawa, as well as Belleville. Miss Jean Anderson, Perth, regional adviser of District No. 6, was a special guest.

St. Andrew's Choir Holds Bowling Party

Last evening the members of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church choir held a banquet party at the Bowl-O-Drome, with a good representation of members present.

Following an energetic game, the group met at the church parlors for a sing-song of old time favorites, and a social get-together.

The tea table was most attractively arranged with lace cloth, centred by a vase by yellow fresia in an inverted straw hat, flanked with white candles in crystal holders.

Refreshments brought a delightful evening to a fitting close.

Local Church Wins Banner

The annual conference of the Wesleyan Methodist Young People's Society was held May 1st to 3rd at Shawville, Quebec.

Those attending from Belleville were: Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Cummings, Mr. and Mrs. S. Elliott, Mrs. Letta Young, Miss Linda Shier, Mrs. B. Gleason, Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Elliott and the Rev. J. S. Spearman, minister of the local Wesleyan Church.

For the second consecutive year the Belleville W.Y.P.S. delegate brought back the "Banner" an annual award given the society gaining the most points.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Her Daughter's Married to a Baby

Any loyal, self-respecting wife wants to give her marriage every possible chance to succeed before calling it off, and I agree with that thing.

I also goo without saying that any mother wants to see her married son or daughter take such an attitude.

But I do not think this necessarily means that a woman should continue to live with a man who violently abuses her.

Take, for instance, the situation described in the following letter:

"My daughter is married to a baby. Not only is he a heavy drinker, but he actually, strikes her. Even though she is now pregnant with her third child, he picked her almost out of breath the other day because she couldn't help lift a heavy object.

"I'm a victim, too. I lived with us, but my husband had to tell our daughter to leave. It's my own house, as he could not tolerate any more of his drunkenness, vile language and coming home in a noisy state at all hours.

"In short words, my daughter and her two-and-a-half-year-old child and her unborn baby returned to her husband, and we hoped that, with his family together with their husband might change, especially because the oldest child seemed so happy to be with his daddy again. But today I saw the latest child with such fright in his eyes as to make anyone cry, because he had just seen his mother injured by his father.

"I still hope that things may work out, but if they should not, will you please tell me where my daughter can obtain expert advice if needed?"

This mother does not make it clear whether the kind of advice she feels her daughter may need is marital counselling, aimed at possibly improving the situation, or legal advice directed toward ending the marriage.

She might see a competent lawyer to whom she would take her problem.

I do not believe, however, that in this particular situation the wife should wait until circumstances become so intolerable that she is forced into some decisive step.

Naturally, both she and her mother earnestly hope to see a change for the better in the marriage, and so are reluctant to take any drastic action while they feel they can still hope. But for the young woman's own safety, especially in view of her pregnancy, she would be far better off away from this man right now, not only for her physical protection, but to remove her from the nervous and emotional strain she must now be suffering. And, finally, if there is any real hope at all of the man coming to his senses, it may well be that he would react faster if his wife were separated from him, than if she continued to submit to his sadistic behavior.

A legal separation might be the best solution at the moment, not only because under such an arrangement the husband would be directed to continue to support his wife and children, but also because, if some turn of events made the future appear more hopeful, the action could be voided at any time and the young woman could return to her husband.

If she does not wish to take so definite a step as this, then let her return with her children to parents' home for an indefinite stay, if that is possible, or, if that arrangement is not feasible, then the parents might help her find some nearby place to live.

There is no virtue in planting oneself in the shadow of an active volcano when there are plenty of other places where one could live in peace and safety.

May Dinner for Guests

Broiled Lamb Chops
Mashed New Potatoes
Fresh Green Peas
Shredded Cabbage, Green Pepper and Radish Salad
Spanish Cream with Sliced Strawberries
Homemade Lady Fingers Coffee

Note:

You are all so polite that you seldom offer any suggestions or criticism on the menus I usually give you at this time of the week.

I would like to preface every dinner menu with juice or fruit cocktail or soup, but so few households have help that courses to be removed and dishes to be washed are always, taken into account when these menus are made up. 'Nuff said on that subject—I know who does the impolite running. In spite of the training you have given your daughters and sons in waiting on table and cleaning up afterwards.

Broiled Lamb Chops

Lamb chops are always best broiled. If you do not have a broiling oven I will tell you how to pan broil them too. The fat on lamb chops must be well browned to be attractive as high heat is essential. Brush chops sparingly with cooking oil or melted butter, sprinkle very lightly with salt and pepper, place on rack of greased broiler rack and place 1 inch from electric broiler or 2 1-2 inches below flame if broiler is gas. Sear them on both sides until deep golden, then lower broiler; rack is best is not so intense to finish cooking, turning chops about 3 times in all. Cooking time cannot be given for thickness of chops varies. Allow 2 thin chops or 1 very thick chop per serving. For special occasions put paper-frill over end of bone on chop. These may be purchased in large delicatessen stores.

To pan broil lamb chops or lamb chops in a heavy sizzling-hot frying-pan, sear quickly on both sides, and then lower heat; cook on their fat edge so as to brown the whole portion of the fat, reduce heat, turn the chops frequently, and finish cooking at low temperature, adding salt and pepper during last few minutes.

Do not add water or cover pan but from time to time pour off the excess fat to prevent chops frying. If you have very thick chops (which are best for they are tender at center when finished) after searing them, slip a rack under them in the frying-pan and finish cooking in a moderately hot oven of 400 deg. Fahr. For a prefty effect and delightful flavor place a slice of orange on each chop after last turning.

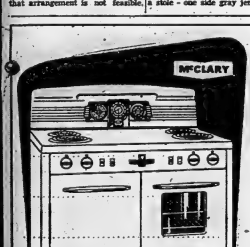
Quick Lamb Stew

One and one-half tablespoons gelatin, 1-3 cup cold milk, 3 egg yolks, 3 egg whites, 1-2 cup sugar (reducers could use 6 saccarin tablets instead of sugar), 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 1-3 cups scalded milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Soak the gelatin in the cold milk for 5 minutes. Beat the egg yolks with the sugar and salt until light, then stir the scalded milk into them. Cook in double boiler over hot water, stirring, until mixture coats spoon. Remove from heat and add gelatin; let hot mixture until dissolved. Stand in pan of cold water and stir until it begins to thicken. Beat the egg whites until stiff, then fold them into the slightly thickened mixture with the vanilla. Turn into mold dipped in cold water and chill until set. Pile may be molded in individual molds or steamed glasses.

Homemade Lady Fingers

In a mixing bowl whip 2 egg whites until very stiff then beat 2 egg yolks until thick, in another small bowl beat 2 egg yolks with 1-4 teaspoon lemon extract until thick and light, then add gradually into the beaten whites. Sift very 1-3 cup flour and 1-8 teaspoon salt, and lightly fold this in until barely mixed. Lady fingers are usually shaped with pastry bag and tube 1 inch wide by 1-2 inches long making finger slightly thick at both ends. But may be shaped by spreading mixture if you work carefully from a large spoon using knife to straighten sides of finger. Then sheet, bake on sheets of plain paper at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 12 minutes. They are sprinkled with powdered sugar just before baking. These are the lady fingers you would use for charlotte russe and other cream-gelatin dessert molds.

Fashion Flashes



The queen of flowers, the rose—or a reasonable fabric facsimile of same — brightens many Spring hats just now. Smart little straw sailors have a rose tucked under the brim; there are little hats with loose-hanging roses in back and on some hats we find part rose studded.

Takes two this year for a complete costume. Suits have their stoles, dresses have their coats and the skirt and sheb combo is gaining steadily. A nice three-part job consists of a gray wool jersey skirt, a rose silk surah blouse and a stole - one side gray jersey, the other silk.

Easy-to-carry, smart-to-look-at travel dress matches the occasion to give them importance, continue to be interest makers. Navy silk surah printed in open red squares makes a neat dress with piped tabs for the flat buttoned-back-waist closing. Sheet sleeves, and a kick pleat at the back of the slim skirt. The matching jacket uses red piping for the collar and notched revers, the bracelet-length turned-back, slashed cuffs, down the front and around the peplum, which is slashed in back.

A novelty that is youthful and different is the sleeveless coat. Worn with a black silk sheath dress is a straight-line, full-length sleeveless coat of black crepe and white silk surah in a heavy weave. A little club collar finishes the coat, which fastens with seven black buttons and is lined in yellow silk surah.

A good version of the costume suit is one made up of a full-length coat of faille, with matching faille skirt. Blouse and linin

Beauty

Glorifying The Eyes

Such countless poems have been written about alluring glances, starlit eyes, and a modest or bold gulling look, that there can be no doubt about the importance of the eyes, even from a purely aesthetic stand point. The eyes also can create an effect of beauty, which places them far above the other features of the face. So everything possible should be done to enhance them.

The items of the beauty kit can contribute. Beauticians stress the wisdom of using discreet eye makeup, and discreet it must be, if the results are to give emphasis and not impart a lithographic appearance. Lid shadows, cried down by the cle-hards as being just too much, have so improved in color and quality during the last decade that even the novice can apply them. Do you remember the old-time compacts that were applied with a paper point and had powder dust down on the rosy cheek? Well, your mama does. She played with them, gave them up as too messy.

Before applying the coloring, use an eye cream. These emollients are of lighter consistency than cold cream, and go on in a light film. Touch your fingertip in the creamy substance, place it in the centre of the upper lid, and sweep out to the far point of the eyebrow. Knowing just where to stop is important. One must use discrimination, and a magnifying mirror helps. Then pass the finger toward the inner corner of the eye. There should be a fade-away as the pigment is pressed upward.

Don't forget that a heavy application of eye shadow is fatal. Make-up must be subtle. The feminine face can be made no scenic with beauty aids that it no longer looks human. Cosmetics were designed to give vitality and freshness to the face. They do precisely that when used sparingly.

An intriguing idea, originating in Hollywood, is to tint the eyelashes the same color. We don't know about that. All right for movie lovelies. If a young woman has flair, wears clothes a step ahead of the fashions, she may be able to get away with it.

At counters where toiletries are on display, you will find a dozen of many tones. Blue heads the list, being flattering to both blondes and brunettes.

Dr. Genia Sakin Spends Life Helping Others

VANCOUVER (CP)—She is tall, blonde and shapely, and she spends her life transforming the badly injured by means of plastic surgery.

Dr. Genia Sakin, who flew last spent a holiday here, was born in Lithuania, studied in Berlin and lost her parents when the Russians moved into Lithuania.

Her slender fingers have worked for as long as 12-hours at a time on difficult operations, winning her the position of the only woman plastic surgeon attached to Allied armies during the Second World War.

After the war, she became a major in charge of surgery in the main American Military Hospital in Berlin. Later she went into private practice in New York, but in 1950 she went to Greece.

Becomes Legend

Dr. Sakin went to Greece "for a few months." She stayed two years, and became a legend in that country where she is known as the "blonde witch."

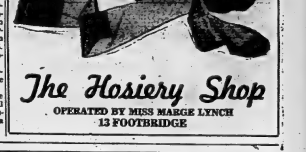
In her treasured bag are bundles of newspaper clippings; stacks of letters from the mis-shapen and worst casualties remade into normal human beings; and commendations from Field Marshal Count Frederika of Greece, Field Marshal Papagos, Gen. James van Fleet (then chief of the U.S. military mission there) and others.

But most impressive are the pictures she carries with her on the "before and after" style.

Dr. Sakin went to Greece at the request of the Greek Medical Care Corp., of New York. Eventually, she moved back to America when her dollars ran out.

But not before she had completed 700 operations on persons who couldn't afford to consult a doctor or on, war casualties.

With her when she returned to America was a little leather suitcase with a note scribbled in:



"Thank you for all you have done for our soldiers in the most unselfish way" and signed by General Frederika. King Paul gave her a medal.

Her reasons for taking up the job of plastic surgery are:

"I am an artist. My hobby is sculpture, in German word for plastic surgery means 'sculpture of the living' and that's what I love to do."

Bata Shoe Company Will Open Handsome New Store With Special Ceremonies

No Expense Spared For New Equipment

At 10 o'clock tomorrow morning the doors of the modern Bata Shoe Store at 233 Front St. will be officially declared open. The opening marks an important milestone in the history of the Bata Shoe Company in Canada.

Civic officials and high ranking company officers will take part in the opening ceremonies. These include Mayor A. McLean Hall; Warden Jack Kincaid of Hastings County; Dr. C. K. Herz, vice-president Bata Shoe Company; Alex Havrlant, manager of retail, and Wilfred Parry, director of personnel.

Among the interesting features to be seen on opening day will be a world-famous sports trophy in charge of two members of a world's champion professional hockey club.

First Time in Belleville

The Stanley Cup, emblematic of world hockey supremacy, has been brought here for display in its first appearance in Belleville. The famous trophy, originally purchased for $50, is now insured for several thousand dollars.

With the trophy will be Maurice "Rocket" Richard, dynamic right-wing star of the world champion Montreal Canadiens, holder of the world's goal-scoring record, and Kenny Mosdell, brilliant centre of the team.

The two stars with the Stanley Cup, will be at the store at 10.30 o'clock tomorrow morning and again from four to six o'clock in the afternoon.

The new store has been undergoing complete remodelling, embodying the most modern design in combination with up-to-date equipment. The result is a store on the main street of which Belleville citizens can be justly proud. No expense or effort has been spared to make shopping as convenient and pleasant as possible.

Handsome Windows

The front of the store is in vitralite which is most striking and modernistic. Over the top is a large striking sign spelling out the well-known word Bata. The large airy windows show off the merchandise and make selection easy. They are actually showcases that extend right back into the store itself.

Upon entering the store one is struck by the restful and harmonious color scheme that has been instituted. There are displays that provide for easy selection and that show to full advantage the range of footwear.

To the left is an extremely attractive hosiery bar filled with an excellent selection of lovely hosiery. Further in the store in a lovely feminine setting is located the women's department, recessed lights show off the shoes in the show case that line both walls; comfortable chairs make all feel as though they were in their own living room. This is a store that has been designed for customers' shopping comfort.

Special Section for Men

Another section devoted to the male species makes a most masculine appearance, where men can shop in relative privacy.

The Kiddies' Korner at the back of the store is bound to be a hit with the tiny tots. No longer will there be the problem of getting the children in to try on shoes; a playground has been provided where the children can ride a rocking horse and be entertained. The children's murals add to the general attractiveness of this department. Lovely little settees have been made to make fitting easy and fun. It is to be expected that the Kiddies' Korner in the Bata Shoe Store will become popular with the youngest set.

Full Line of Footwear

With the store departmentalized it is obvious that the Bata Shoe Store is carrying a full selection and range of footwear for every member of the family from Mom and Dad right down to Junior.

That Bata is concerned with family budget is shown in the popular price range which will fit into every budget and it is apparent that although the prices have been kept low the quality has not been sacrificed. Although specializing in Canadian footwear there are a few imported lines available from overseas Bata factories . . . these are bound to make a hit with everyone. In addition to leather shoes, the store also carries complete ranges of rubber footwear, slippers and a good selection of women's hosiery and men's socks.

The Bata Shoe Store is destined to be a busy shopping centre from today on.

Opening Days of New Bata Shoe Store Will Feature Gifts For Customers

Hosiery, Roses, Cigarets Included in Choice

The Bata Shoe Company, to celebrate the gala opening of the new store is offering special gifts for customers. Fine nylon hosiery and roses for women, cigarets and socks for men. Children will receive toys and candy.

During the first few days of the opening each customer will receive, with every two pairs of nylons purchased, an additional pair at no extra charge. Thus, the ladies will add three pairs of hosiery of their particular choice to their supply. This special offer may be convenient now, a few days before Mother's Day.

Much effort and detail went into the particular job of dressing the Bata windows. Largest in display space, than any other shoe store between Toronto and Montreal.

In the window on the left as one walks into the store a colored map of Canada provides the backdrop for interesting models of Bata's newest merchandise. Bata retail outlets are designated by tiny lighted bulbs while a larger bulb flashing off and on pin points the newest addition to the chain here in Belleville. Two aerial pictures depicting the heart of the city, approximately encircle the huge drawing, under a wide banner carrying the message: "Bata Serves Belleville."

The window on the right presents a historical display centred around the city of Belleville and the county of Hastings. Bata artists copied Hastings and Belleville costumes from archives in the city hall. Crests of all the provinces of Canada link the shields that appear across the back of the gaily decorated window.

Gifts for Men Also

For the men the counter-part to the women's nylons will be gift socks . . . and again it's an opening feature for a limited time only. With every two pairs of men's socks purchased a customer will receive — at absolutely no extra charge — an additional pair of fine socks.

Now back to the ladies again. Every lady visiting the store will receive a rose. For the men it will mean cigarets or cigars. These gifts are made available to all visitors to the store with the compliments of the Bata Shoe Company.

The kiddies will have a choice of gifts ranging from balloons, toys, paper hats, novelties and of course that means that large numbers of youngsters will be on hand on the opening days. These gifts for the youngsters are available to them when accompanied by their parents.

All signs point to a gala opening of the fine new Bata Shoe Store. The addition of the shower of gifts for early customers will be an incentive for a family shopping tour of the new store.

Company Officers Will Visit Store On Opening Day

The staff of the new Bata store will be augmented on opening day by several out of town managers and company officers.

Following is the list of the store personnel as noted above:

Store manager, Henry Knibb; assistant manager, Donald Rowley; sales ladies, Miss G. Bellis, A. MacDonald, Mrs. Lillian Middleton, Miss Colleen Bennett, Miss G. Vanhelgen, Miss B. Mitts, Miss Shirley Sherrad; salesmen—J. Isaacson, D. Pavlakis, J. Fiscaldi, W. Sarmen, G. Weber, K. Cryer of Oshawa, G. Thring; visiting managers assisting—J. Miller, Guelph; J. Clay, Kitchener; personnel from head office — A. Haviland, retail manager; Ray Hill, property manager; W. J. Parry, personnel manager; L. Bruchmann, advertising and display manager.

Children rarely complain of discomfort when their shoes are outgrown even though harm is being done to their feet. For the same reason, it is not safe to rely on a child's opinion when buying new shoes.

Some Hints On Shoe Styles For Women

Many fashion-conscious women fail to realize that there is a style of shoe becoming to each particular type of foot . . . let the Bata experts help you find the shoes most flattering to your foot!

If your feet are plump . . . .

Wear . . . low vamp pumps, simple styles, slimming instep.

Avoid . . . open sandals, too many ornaments, thick straps.

If your feet are thin . . . .

Wear . . . interesting trimmings, ankle straps, dramatic shoes.

Avoid . . . straight long lines.

If your feet are wide . . . .

Wear . . . d'orsay lines, wall toe lasts, diagonal lasts.

Avoid . . . bulky shoes, wellies.

If your feet are long . . . .

Wear . . . open toes or open backs, cut out designs, wall-toes, front ornaments, "broken" lines.

Avoid . . . an all-over "bulky" look extremely low-cut shoes.

If your feet are short . . . .

Wear . . . diagonal lines, closed toes, if you wish to add length.

Avoid . . . extension soles, heavy heels.

Bata Name Assurance of Good Footwear

Throughout the world, in America, Europe, Africa, Asia and Australia, the name of Bata has become synonymous with all the finest in footwear and Canadians have come to know and appreciate the quality shoes which bear the famous "Bata Guarantee" trademark.

The Bata Shoe Company in Canada has built an enviable reputation and wearers of Bata footwear have come to regard the name as a guide to better footwear values for the entire family. It is indeed an important milestone in the history of this company when the imposing family footwear centre opens its doors at 233 Front St. People of Belleville and district will find a new experience in shopping for the best and the very latest in footwear styles.

Special Prizes Being Offered

In conjunction with opening day ceremonies at the new Bata Shoe Store, the company is conducting a "Bata Quiz Contest." First prize is $50, second is $20 and third prize is $10. Also being offered on the prize list is a group of consolation awards and one pair of nylons. Entry blanks will be available at the store.

During noon hour tomorrow, 2 planes will circle above the city, finally dropping a replica of the store key. The prize to be finder in this case will be one pair of shoes according to the winner's choice.

Proper Fitting Children's Shoes Important

Many foot ills are caused to children by unsuitable or ill-fitting footwear, especially shoes, which are incorrectly fitted. If not corrected in time, disorders which seem trifling can become painful and a serious handicap later in life. Make sure your children grow up with good feet!

A recent survey shows about four out of five children wearing shoes too short or too tight for them. A check-up every two months is necessary to assure proper length and fit. It is false economy to repair shoes, which are already outgrown. Also, it is dangerous to put one child's shoes on another child's foot.

Correct Fitting

How can your child's shoes be well fitted? Because proper shoe-fitting requires expert knowledge, skill and takes time, you are advised to avoid busy store times. Children's shoes should be long enough to allow for growth and free toe movement. Wide enough that they will not cramp the feet when the child stands. It is especially important to avoid pressure on little toes, but if the shoes are too roomy, bad creases will form and the shoes will be uncomfortable and unsightly.

Snug at heel and instep, shoes should have no gaping, leaving an opening of ¼ inch at the top of the lacing. They should grip the foot lightly but firmly at the heel and instep so that shoes are held on the foot and prevented from slipping.

Some Hints

Lace-up shoes or boots are best for general wear, though other styles such as sandals, light, indoor shoes, slippers or running shoes are good for a change under suitable conditions. Select comfort before appearance. Tight shoes and stockings can be almost as harmful as ill-fitting shoes. They, too, should fit properly — loosely with ample room for toes.

Women Being Encouraged To Be Engineers

TORONTO (CP)—Women are being encouraged to go in for engineering—a profession long regarded as a field for men only.

At least a dozen women engineers are registered in Ontario alone and executives of the Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario, representing 11,000 members, are pleased about it.

Thomas M. Maitland, executive director, said if women can help alleviate the shortage of engineers they will be only too welcome in the association.

"Subscribing Yeast"

Several women have contributed much to industry, among them is Elizabeth MacGill, consultant in aeronautical engineering. More women should take engineering at university, she said, because "I'm sure many do not realize just how interesting a field it really is."

She added that in her 25 years as an engineer she has always been treated as an equal by her male colleagues.

Kathleen Hill, 25, of Kirkland Lake, has a different view. "I have found that most employers are prejudiced against women engineers and this makes it difficult for us to find jobs in a strictly engineering capacity."

Miss Hill is in charge of a laboratory at a flow meter company in Toronto. She was graduated in 1948 from the University of Toronto and during her summer holidays worked in Haileybury with "a sawaying company and with the federal bureau of mines."

Marion Carrie, 24, is a junior engineer in the illuminating department of the Ontario hydro electric power commission. A 1950 graduate from the University of Toronto, Miss Carrie hopes to specialize in designing lighting schemes, particularly in residential areas.

Mrs. Edna McLean, who was graduated from the University of British Columbia in 1944, works at Canadian Westinghouse Company in Hamilton. Working in the appliance-electronics division, she said: "Anyone who says engineering is strictly for men is either out of date or completely biased."

Women's Institute

MOIRA W.I.

The Moira W.I. held its monthly meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Reeds Hollow, with an attendance of 17 adults and seven children.

The president, Mrs. K. Thompson, opened the meeting in the usual way.

Some business was discussed and it was decided to hold a bee at the cemetery the first of June, also a social tea was made to give pleas to the past presidents, Mrs. G. Thompson, and to the secretary, Mrs. Nelson Welsh, who have devoted so much of their time to making the W.I. a success.

The meeting was then turned over to the convener, Mrs. Geo. Ewaldt. This meeting being on "Citizenship and Education." Mrs. Hently gave a paper on "Modern Education," comparing it with the old-fashioned education. Mrs. Nelson Welsh gave a paper on "Old Fashioned Education." This was interesting to all and brought quite a discussion with each one voicing her opinion.

A solo by Mrs. Don Robert, "The Maple Leaf Forever." The topic was given by Mrs. W. Collins also on past and present education.

A cookie exhibit was held. The prize going to Mrs. W. Collins. A vote of thanks was given the hostess. Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

Fashion Flashes

Ever so smart, and rich with detail, are the broadtail-processed lamb jackets seen this spring. Over a suit, with a slim dress of wool, or a wool skirt and pretty blouse, these jackets add up to a pretty costume idea. A boxy cut-away has a roll lapped front, flat back and buttoned, shaped cuff. Braided front works down into pockets that accent the hem curve.

Dainty flower trimming marks the prettiest of the spring hats, such as the ,tiny peaked pillbox entirely decked with little blue, pink and white rosebuds. A sprinkling of small rhinestoneer sparks the flower part of the complexion pink, cobwebby veil.

Straight and narrow lines mark the very newest of the new ensembles. That old favorite, kasha cloth, is used for a column-straight coat with short, cuffed sleeves, and a design of tucks on either side, worn over a beige silk crepe dress pleated to red and black. The dress has a pleated skirt and a soft, bow-tied neckline.

Filipino Millionaire Weds Finnish 'Miss Universe'

By GLEN CLEMENTS

TOKYO (AP)—The bride's eyes were left and groom's right as bride groom had a shiner.

She is Armi Kuusela of Finland proclaimed the most beautiful woman in the world when crowned Miss Universe last year.

He is Virgilio Hilario of the Philippines, possessor of plenty of pesos and a black eye he got in a fight the other night.

They were married in a little Tokyo church Monday night and only three people went to their wedding.

They say wanted it that way because Virgilio was a little shy about that shiner.

"She's wonderful!" the 25-year-old millionaire Filipino beamed at his swank hotel suite today during a brief honeymoon in this land of cherry blossoms.

The happy bride beamed, too. She had a message from her mother in Finland wishing her happiness.

Wednesday they part. She is flying to Honolulu. He is going to Manila on business.

Then he will hurry to the Hawaiian Islands to rejoin her. From there they will tour the United States and Europe before going to the Philippines to live.

Whirlwind Courtship

"It was a whirlwind courtship. They met in March at a dance in Tokyo, the cosmopolitan capital of the Philippines. "Miss Universe" had gone to the islands for the International Trade Exposition.

He had eyes only for her after that. They danced and dined in the tinkling capital until April 26.

That was the day the Finnish beauty left for Tokyo.

Virgilio came along, too, in another plane.

Armi, 18, said she was too young for romance.

But Virgilio said she had planned to go back to Finland to tell her parents of their planned wedding—on her birthday Aug. 27.

"But we just couldn't wait," said Virgilio.

Friday, Virgilio gave her a three-carat diamond engagement ring.

Armi wore a blue, nylon lace gown and carried a bouquet of roses when they were married in St. Ignatius Roman Catholic Church.

Now, says Virgilio, Armi's public career is over . . .

"She's going to lead a plain, quiet life in the Philippines."

Private Secretary to Queen Man Behind the Coronation

By ROBERT P.S. JONES

LONDON (CP)—You can't run a modern Coronation without an army of people behind the scenes.

The backroom boy No. 1—the man at the Queen's elbow who helps decide all the knotty little points of protocol—is Sir Alan Lascelles, her private secretary.

Lascelles is a member of the 26-man Coronation committee, but he's strictly behind the scenes. The procession, guests, order of service, decorations are in the hands of the earl marshal, the Duke of Norfolk; Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, the archbishop of Canterbury, and the minister of public works, David Eccles.

Sir Alan is the go-between for the committee and the Queen—the man who advises her on any of her personal problems connected with the ceremony.

King George VI appointed Lascelles his private secretary in 1943. One of the Queen's first acts was to ask him to carry on. Previously he had been assistant private secretary to King George V, King Edward VIII and King George VI.

As the Queen's political adviser, Lascelles plays a special role behind friend Prime Minister Churchill of each cabinet meeting and, interprets the country's political scene to the Queen.

If the Queen wants to know what to say in a major speech, Lascelles—credited with "ghost writing" most of King George's best wartime speeches—helps her out. He briefs her before she has an audience with an ambassador or foreign envoy.

Acting as the ears and eyes of a monarch has given him acute perception and a yearning for a quiet and contemplative life.

Lascelles, 54, started off with a few years at Marlborough College followed by a spell at Oxford. He fought as an infantry major in the First World War, and then went to Beasley as private secretary to the governor, Lord Lloyd. In India he met and married the beautiful daughter of Viscount Chelmsford, the viceroy.

A distant relative of the Royal Family, Lascelles started his career as royal adviser in 1936, when he spent nine years globetrotting with the Duke of Windsor—then Prince of Wales.

From 1931 until 1935 he was private secretary to Lord Bessborough, governor-general of Canada. He was called back into the royal household when George V decided he wanted an expert in Commonwealth affairs at hand.

During the royal tour in 1939 Lascelles kept a special watch on "Tommy" and used to chaff him about his unruly black hair—delighted him in the Royal train travelling from Canada to Washington.

Easy to Marry in Russia But Tough to Get Divorce

MOSCOW. (AP)—It's easy to get married in the Soviet Union but tough to get a divorce.

To marry, two persons just need to walk into a registration bureau known as "zags," answer a few questions about their health, preference marriage and children, and say. They produce their passports and if these are in order, the clerk signs a certificate, collects a small fee and the wedding is over.

If the couple wants a church ceremony afterward, there is nothing to forbid it. There are still many church weddings, particularly in the villages. The woman usually takes the husband's name, but she can keep her own if she wants to.

But getting unhitched — that's something else again. It's tougher here than in some states in the United States.

Before Russia passed its present divorce law in July, 1944, husband and wife could end their marriage simply by registering and paying a small fee, a little like the present marriage ceremony, but in reverse.

Leaders Alarmed

But the growing number of divorces alarmed Communist leaders. Under the stiffened law—and more recent stern interpretations of it by the Supreme Court—the government discouraged divorces and the easy breaking-up of families. The trend now is reversed.

Today a couple wishing to go separate ways must appear before a court and give valid reasons why the request should be granted. The lower court, following the policy of the moment, tries to bring the couples together. If it cannot, it passes the case to a higher court, or procedure takes many months, as authorities explore every avenue to try to make the marriage stick, especially if children are involved. If the higher court gives permission for separation, the applicant must have a statement of intentions published in a local newspaper, pay a stiff fee and wait a period of time before the decree is final.

Urges Big Families

The point is that for the last decade the Soviet Union has been encouraging marriage and placing strong emphasis on a happy family life. It points to the loss of 7,000,000 citizens in the Second World War and urges big families. The birth rate in recent years has been high and the population, according to official reports, is going up at a rate of about 3,000,000 a year.

The Soviet Supreme Court has even put more teeth in the 1944 divorce law by a decision instructing the lower courts that they "must use their own initiative find out the real motives for the divorce," demand necessary proof from the parties and take necessary measure to reconcile them."

The court ruled that divorces will be granted now only when grounds are serious and well-founded, when conciliation has failed or when the continuance of the marriage would contradict the principles of Communist morality."

Mother of Four Includes Children In Suicide

When William Holmes of Toronto, a CNR tractor driver, returned home from work in early hours of the morning, he found his wife and four children dead from asphyxiation. A note left behind by his wife revealed she was giving him a chance to get rid of debt. Police said the mother bathed all the children before putting them to bed. Then she apparently decided to turn on the gas, as all jets on new domestic stove were found opened. The couple, married in 1943, seen above, were reported to have been very happy. — Central Press Canadian.

Streak Mosaic, Virus Wheat Disease, Spread by Specific Type of Mite Scientists Fmd

LETHBRIDGE (CP)—Another triumph has been scored by Canada's agricultural scientists with the discovery that streak mosaic, a virus wheat disease, is spread by a specific type of mite.

Dr. John T. Sylvkuis, plant pathologist at the Dominion science service laboratories here, identified the insect as the virus carrier while working last year in southern Alberta wheat fields. It has seldom been found in Western Canada.

The disease with its microscopic living organisms break down lifegiving chlorophyll in a plant, gradually transforming it into stunted yellow straw. The first sign is a faint yellowish-green stripe or mottling on young green leaves.

Dangerous Blight

The streaks become more distinctly yellow to white in color and often the entire leaf dies. Sterility, poor filling of heads with resultant losses in yield and quality make the virus a dangerous blight for grain growers.

The known story of streak mosaic in southern Alberta started last summer shortly after Dr. Slykhuis arrived here from South Dakota State College at Brookings. It is possible it went undetected in previous years.

The virus did serious damage in Kansas four years ago, ranking as the state's most serious wheat disease. It has occurred in the U.S. winter wheat belt with varying severity each year since. However, what is thought to have been streak mosaic was reported in the winter wheat belt 20 years ago.

While in Brookings, Dr. Slykhuis discovered a new virus in winter wheat which was labelled "striate mosaic." A week after his arrival here he found streak mosaic in both winter and spring wheat crops. Several fields were plowed

Boy Guidon of Charlottetown. They dammed a stream to get the water and mounted a combined pump-and-beater on a trailer.

They also built their own can-time before the mite-carried disease was identified as streak mosaic.

Last October, Dr. Slykhuis, a native of Carlyle, Sask., and a graduate of the Universities of Saskatchewan and Toronto, found a mite carried the blight.

Identified as Mites

He had been studying thrips as one of the many possible carriers but found plants sheltered by screens too fine for thrips to get through still contacted the disease. Examination of one of these plants showed tiny, pale creatures with four legs. The laboratory soon identified them as mites, distinct from insects which have six legs.

Putting the finger on the mite didn't solve all the problems. There roughly are 300 kinds. Dr. H. H. Keifer, entomologist at Sacramento, Calif., narrowed the search down to the eriophyidae family of four-legged mites. Most have eight legs.

This was further broken down to the eceria genus and the tulipae species, so called because of some dubious relationship to tulip diseases.

The cells was tabbed the carrier after tests in the laboratory here. The experiments seemed to show the mites also transmit a disease which causes leaf discoloration similar to streak mosaic but which actually isn't the same thing.

Dr. Slykhuis says the virus can be disastrous if most of a farmer's crop is in winter wheat. He recommends winter wheat be planted in mid-September and spring wheat sown early as possible. Barley and oats can be infected but not seriously. Rye is exceptionally resistant.

The laboratory now is working to develop grain types hardy enough to resist the mite and its virus. There may be no need for this if planting time changes prove successful.

191st Canadian Infantry Workshop Now on Way Back to Petawawa

By BILL BOSS

IN KOREA (CP)—"The boys who keep the show on the road," the men of the 191st Canadian Infantry Workshop, have been relieved by the 23rd Canadian Infantry Workshop and are en route back to Petawawa, Ont., their old home.

All members belong to the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers, the technicians who service the army's tanks, trucks, jeeps, guns and other weapons, the stoves, compasses, binoculars and almost everything else.

As a unit, it has been here longer than most others in the brigade—two years. Others have been rotated after a year here. However, that's not as bad as it sounds. The workshop has been going steadily on a man-for-man basis.

The workshop has had four commanding officers in Korea—Major Ed Hallam of Ottawa, who brought it over; H. C. Lane of Kingston, J. M. McLaughlin of Ottawa and Amherst, N.S., and Don Campbell of Springhill, N.S.

Campbell is now returning to Ottawa with the unit. He now is at headquarters, 1st Commonwealth division, as second-in-command of all electrical and mechanical engineers in the division.

Capt. A. L. Macdonell of Vancouver is commanding en route to Petawawa, where Maj. H. H. E. Kerb of Ottawa takes over.

The workshop's 187 technicians turned out a terrific volume of work.

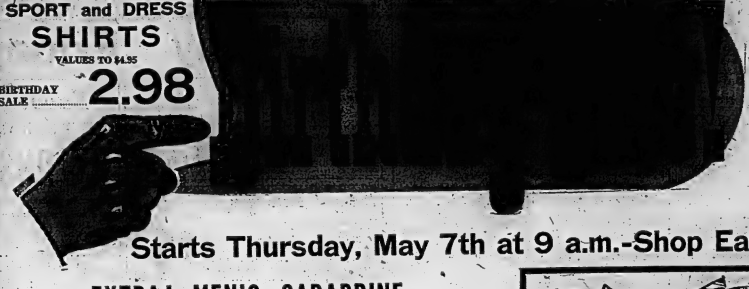
They handled any job not requiring more than 30 hours' work to complete. They changed engines, installed transmissions and the like for anything from a jeep to a tank. Jobs requiring more work went back to United States Army base workshops.

They also had to estimate the cost of repairs needed on major items returned. Jeep jobs, for instance, costing less than $1,000 entitled Canada to free new equipment replacements. Jobs costing more meant Canada had to buy the replacing equipment at full value.

A typical month here saw 191 complete major repairs on 130 wheeled vehicles, seven tracked vehicles, 23 generators, 149 instruments, 98 small arms, three 25-pounder field guns, 82 stoves and 119 miscellaneous other items.

The workshop is on paddy and barley fields bulldozed and pounded by traffic into standings for shops and tents. But the bulldozing destroyed the drainage system worked out by hundreds of years of terrace farming, and during rains the area is a quagmire.

Barbed-wire fences controlled by three penitentiary-like watchtowers surround the shop. Two soldiers man each searchlight-equipped tower nightly to discourage thieves.



As technicians and able scroungers, workshop members rigged up creature comforts for themselves. They built their own eight-head showers, operated by Craftsman blocks in the brigade, while another, under WOI. George Maguire of Ottawa went over all the weapons.

Brig. M. P. Bogert, introducing his successor as brigade commander, Brig. Jean Allard, to the unit when Allard arrived to assume command of the brigade, said: "I am very fond of this unit. It has done such fine work, and maintained such a wonderful atmosphere. I have never had to worry about administration or discipline here. They've kept the show on the road."

Anglican Diocese Of Niagara In Sound Condition

HAMILTON (CP)—Members of the Church of England are contributing more to the church and by so doing they have eliminated financial appeals for church construction and extension work, Rt. Rev. W. E. Bagnall told the 79th synod of the Anglican diocese of Niagara Tuesday.

He said there is a true sense of stewardship in the church and this accounted for the tremendous improvement of Anglican contributions.

The synod meeting at Christ Church Cathedral approved a recommendation to use over-payments of the apportionment to missionary work for construction and extension work.

The bishop stressed the need for church accommodation in various districts. He mentioned the Church road district of St. Catharines between Geneva and Niagara streets and the whole area between Oakville and Hamilton.

France Pledges Full Support To Indo-China

SAIGON, Indo-China (Reuters)—France Tuesday made a pledge not to abandon any of the associated states of Indo-China in the face of Communist Vietminh aggression.

Jean Letourneau, French minister to the associated states of Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia, said: "France will pursue her military efforts in Indo-China and increase them if necessary. The main strongholds of Indo-China will be defended."

He said France would step up efforts to defend Laos against Vietminh forces forging through its territory toward the Thailand border.

Letourneau added that the United States is increasing and speeding up aid to Indo-China, as a result of his recent talks with State Secretary, John Foster Dulles in Paris.

Two Killed In Car Crash Near St. Mary's

ST. MARY'S (CP)—A man and his wife were killed and five others sent to hospital Tuesday in the result of an accident at an intersection on No. 7 Highway, eight miles west of here.

Dead are Sydney Adamson, 4, and his wife, believed to be about the same age. Injured are Mrs. Howard Switzer and her 17-year-old daughter, Joyce, both of St. Mary's, and Lander's daughter, Albert Heranier, 22, and her two children, Patricia, 3, and seven-month-old Richard.

Adamson died when pulled from the wreckage of the car which he was driving. Mrs. Adamson died in hospital here.

SUGGESTED

A Korean armistice, offers to settle other Eastern problems, moves to reunite Germany, discussions of an Austrian peace treaty—those were the steps the West should take one by one.

Mr. Pearson replied Canada has not been asked to help the French in Indo-China and he has no reason to believe there will be. Neither is Indo-China becomes a member of the United Nations.

The government felt it would be unwise to take the initiative in trying to form a "Pacific pact along the lines of NATO because the United States thinks such a move would be premature.

He was not inclined to agree either with Mr. Coldwell's view that the West is showing too much caution in dealing with Russia at this time. The official Canadian view was that "we should be very careful indeed."

Three Make Light

Mr. Pearson threw little new light on developments or on the government's attitude. He said it is too early to tell whether truce talks at Panmunjon will be successful, but he did express the hope and the feeling that the United Nations' American negotiators wouldn't break off negotiations there without a decision first being given to Canada and other UN powers with troops in Korea to say what they think of such a step.

As for NATO, the recent meeting in Paris had decided it would be folly for the West to drop its guard at this time.

He said that while Russia may be softening her military approach, she unfortunately may be increasing efforts to break the West economically. Russian moves making new trade approaches, tempting to countries which must rely on trade to survive.

The United States had a special responsibility in seeing that Western co-operation is strengthened economically as well as politically and he felt the U. S. has been living up to this responsibility.

Will Discuss Question

The whole question of trade among Western powers would be one that Prime Minister St. Laurent would discuss in his visit to Washington this week.

Mr. Pearson confirmed reports that Canada's share of NATO's buildup of airfields, fuel lines and three years will be $52,000,000.

Gordon Grafton (PC—Peel) Ibis was all for a cautious approach.

Certainly the West should test every Soviet overture, but it should not make sure that "they don't buy us at one end of the market and sell us at the other."

Mr. Graydon said he is concerned that the Russians may step up aggression in the trade field during a lull in the military field. The time had come for NATO, for instance, to give more emphasis to non-military aspects of western strength.

UNFIT FOR MURDER TRIAL

VANCOUVER (CP)—An assize court jury Tuesday found Earl Haworth, 42-year-old fisherman, mentally unfit to stand trial for murder in connection with the death last Jan. 2 of Peter Albertson. The jury followed the recommendation of Dr. Robert Whiteman, psychiatrist at Vancouver General Hospital Dr. R. G. Richmond, resident physician at Oakalla prison and Dr. Ian Kerr, private psychiatrist.

Canadian Gunners Credited With Another Great Victory Over Attacking Chinese Reds

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—Cool analysis, now that the fog of battle has lifted, credits Canadian gunners with another great victory over Chinese troops attacking in strength.

The enemy's attempt, in two-battalion strength, to seize vital United Nations territory was frustrated last Saturday night. Today, debating what has become this war theatre's classic question:

Did the Chinese come in through their own barrage or behind it?

Some witnesses, among them Lieut. Laurie Cole of Winnipeg and Aylmer, Que., signals subaltern of the Royal Canadian Regiment's 3rd battalion, assert that the Chinese shone in before their bombardment began.

In everything except the build-up, the combined battle re-called the first last Oct. 23 for a spur on Little Gibraltar when the 1st battalion of the RCR and the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery combined to forge victory.

Saturday's battle, however, was won by relative greenhorns in Korea—the 21st field regiment of the Royal Cahadian Artillery and the 3rd RCRs. They had been in the line only 13 days.

Chinese Objective

The major Chinese objective was a hamhone-like ridge 300 feet high held by a company under Capt. M. J. Mullin of Charlottetown, P. E. I. Their specific objective was a position held by a platoon under 2nd Lieut. Edgar Hollyer of Toronto. The position was the "knuckle" on the hamhone.

The 76-foot bombardment accompanying the attack was the heaviest Canadians in the Korean war had experienced. Mullin said: "I have never experienced shell fire such as this."

A diversionary probe was launched toward the 3rd battalion of the Princess Patricias and the 1st Royal Fusiliers of the British forces. But although this area was heavily mortared and shelled, battle never was joined.

However, the Chinese patrol considered reconnaissance for the second phase of the major attack that was beaten off—penetrated 1½ miles from the Canadians' main line.

Two Packets

Two factors contributed to the enemy defeat:

1. The enemy's intended silent attack was foiled when a Canadian raiding party bumped into his assembly area;

2. Hollyer's presence of mind in calling artillery fire on to his own position when the enemy overran, causing the gunners to box in the battlefield and prevent enemy reinforcements from moving in.

The lieutenant leading the Canadian raiding party, missing, believed wounded and a prisoner, demanded help when Chinese rolled around in clusters on all sides of the raiding party.

Killed in Action

(Baston was reported in an army casualty list Tuesday as killed in action.)

Cpl. J. C. McNeil of Reserve Mine, N.S., assumed command of the first patrol when its officer was wounded and beat a co-ordinated withdrawal through a mine field and uphill back toward the RCR's main positions, Baston covering the withdrawal.

But the Chinese assembly area on the valley floor and the hill-side offered a tailor-made ambush. Baston was killed. Most of his patrol is missing.

Regained Top

Stragglers from both parties ultimately regained the top.

Actually, the engagement was considered only a large-scale ambush until then—when Brig. Jean Victor Allard, 38th brigade commander, returned from a dinner engagement in Seoul with Lt.-Gen. Maxwell Taylor, 8th army commander.

Allard told The Canadian Press: "I got hot feet about 10:30. I had an uneasy feeling and cut the evening short."

Allard appraised the situation quasi: "This is the battle."

Sure enough, minutes later Hollyer radioed that he was under attack.

Position Overrun

His position was overrun before the defenders were aware of it.

That was when the main Chinese force came in and gave rise to the post-battle question: Did they come in through their own artillery fire?

Cote said:

"When a runner named Diehl came to the command post and said the Chinese were over the wall and in the trenches, I shot outside . . . Diehl led and minutes later was killed.

"In the communication trench between two hen-gun pits we saw them. There were Chinese in the trench with me and more along the parapet. There were more up on top and in the centre of the position, throwing grenades into the trenches, while a party worked towards me throwing grenades into weapon pits.

"Then the bombardment started and forced me to lie in the trench. I presume the Chinese also took shelter though some crawled along the parapet in the shelling.

"One was killed and fell on top of me, offending me that much more cover. That must have been when Hollyer called artillery on to his position."

(In Tuesday's casualty list, Pte. Frank Alfred Diehl of Stratford, Ont., was listed as killed in action.)

Allard, meanwhile, ordered the 3rd battalion of the Royal 22e Regiment into a blocking position and signalled for almost the exact same fire concentrations the RCRs later found they needed.

Campbell said Baston and the missing leader of the first raiding party, Lieut. Edgar Hollyer of Communists wanted a silent attack with complete surprise and didn't get it."

The battalion commander lauded Hollyer for his coolness in calling down artillery fire on his position but the Toronto officer dismissed his part by saying simply:

"I knew my men were in their bunkers and were sure of it so there during the shelling—so with those 40-and-one up there throwing grenades at us, what else was there to do?"

The first Chinese who swarmed up from behind the position carried only screw-disc pouches fastening over with grenades. They accomplished complete surprise while the Canadians were covering the front and flanks. The following waves had automatic rifles.

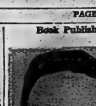
After 15 minutes of artillery treatment, Hollyer and the line lifted forward so he could inspect the positions. He said:

"I saw the forward communication trenches almost filled with bodies of dead and wounded Chinese. The trenches were full of meaningless, unidentifiable uniforms.

"Other Chinese soldiers were picking them up and rolling over the parapet and down to the wire at the bottom. I assume that stretcher-bearers waited there for certainly the bodies weren't there later."

The position was pulverized by the 21st Gunner's survey indicated it was held only by him and Cpl. Ronald Brayshaw of Halifax, a medical assistant, and Pte. V. E. Colyer, Meldrum Creek, B.C., his signaller.

DIPLOMACY RAFFED



LONDON (Reuters)— Rene Massigli, French ambassador to Britain, complains that diplomacy has been replaced by "loudspeaker negotiation." He told a banquet Tuesday night: "Diplomacy is no longer secret; it is perhaps no longer diplomacy. In any case, it is by no means certain the world has gained anything by the change."

Film-Goers In Russia Need Laughs

MOSCOW (AP)—Grigory Alexandrov, Russian film director and producer, today called for more Soviet comedies and musicals.

"One should not be afraid to laugh at phenomena which merit caustic irony or unconstrained laughter," he said. "If we laugh at anything, it means that we have risen above what is laughable and that the object of laughter no longer holds any terrors for us."

Alexandrov said the Russian film-goer is waiting for comedies devoted to questions of life and to witty musical comedies, elegant in form, which for some reason has not appeared on the screen for a decade.

Book Published

Leon Edel of New York, a scholarly newspaper man who was educated and worked in Canada, has just published "Henry James: The Untried Years, 1843-1870," the first volume of what is to be a comprehensive biography of the novelist. Mr. Edel was born in Pittsburgh, was educated in Yorkton, Sask., and McGill University. He began newspaper work in Montreal, worked for The Canadian Press and later on the now-defunct New York newspaper PM. 1954.

$5,828,000,000 Foreign Aid Funds as Defence Against Reds Asked by Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration asked Congress Tues., for $5,828,000,000 in new foreign aid funds as a necessary defence against "the Soviet threat."

President Eisenhower made the main plea in a special message to the lawmakers. The detailed presentation was made by a parade of cabinet members, backed by Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, in testimony to a joint session of the Senate foreign relations and House of Representatives foreign affairs committees.

Long-Term Security

"The basic purpose of this program is simply the long-term security of the United States living in the shadow of the Soviet threat," the presidential message said.

He noted that the bulk of the money, approximately $5,250,000,000—is set up for military weapons and direct support "to the defence efforts of our friends and allies." He called that objective "a measure of the peril in which free nations continue to live."

The blunt, sober truth is that we cannot afford to relax our defences until we have seen clear, unmistakable evidence of genuinely peaceful purpose on the part of the Soviet Union," Eisenhower said.

The sum is $1,772,000,000 less than President Truman recommended in his farewell budget for the same period, the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Build Up NATO Allies

In breaking down the cost of the program Secretary Dulles today disclosed most of the funds will continue to go to build up North Atlantic Treaty allies.

But he said the new administration also would step up military and economic help to Communist-threatened Indo-China and Formosa, and provide money for weapons for Japan's internal security and defence.

About $400,000,000 is set aside for Indo-China. That is to help the French thwart increasing Communist pressure in the southeast Asia nation.

"We must materially strengthen the effectiveness of Chinese forces on Formosa. Defence measures in Formosa are closely dependent on economic stability, and it is also important that we assist directly in improving economic conditions.

"If Formosa can be made militarily strong and economically healthy it may exercise a powerful attraction upon the enslaved peoples of Asia."

Critical Situation

"We should not disguise from ourselves the fact that the international situation is critical," he said. "For example, all of southeast Asia is today in great peril and if Indo-China should be lost, there would be a chain reaction throughout the Far East and south Asia."

Dulles contended many countries which in the past were friendly toward the United States "are being subjected to neutralist pressure, the centre of power has not shifted from Washington to Moscow."

Nor, he said, in the meantime, world there are non-Communist elements stand part of either the Communist or the Communist Apeal upon a platform of appeasement of Soviet communism, or upon a benevolent neutrality toward Soviet communism," he said.

Apparently anticipating congressional demands for bigger cuts in foreign aid spending, Dulles maintained there is no "water" in the Eisenhower program which can be squeezed out. Any further cuts, he said, would mean "greater risks" but he believes are acceptable at the present time.

Senate Passes Bill to Establish State Ownership

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate ended its longest debate in 15 years Tuesday by passing the Eisenhower-backed bill to establish state ownership of the oil riches lying under coastal waters. The roll call vote was 56 to 35.

Before approving the bitterly-fought legislation, the Senate rejected a dozen last-ditch amendments aimed at cancelling or limiting what the opposition called a gigantic "giveaway" of federal property worth billions.

The bill now goes to the House of Representatives which passed its own version of the legislation five weeks ago. A conference committee may have to be appointed to iron out differences in the measures.

Administration leaders contended the vote was a "just and equitable" recognition of 150-year-old claims the states have made to valuable submerged lands lying off their coastlines.

But senators who fought the bill through 27 days of acrimonious debate said the battle would be carried on in the courts and into the election campaign of Daniel New York newspaper PM. 1954.

TRUMAN READY

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—Harry Truman and Mrs. Truman arrived home Tuesday night after a month's vacation in Hawaii and the former president said he's all ready to go to work again. "All I did was rest and get plenty of sun," he said. "Everything's ok now. I'm ready to go back to work."

20,000 BAPTISMES

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The chief of United States Army chaplains said Tuesday there have been 20,000 baptisms among prisoners of war being held in South Korean camps. Maj.-Gen. Ivan L. Bennett said some 30,000 enemy prisoners have enrolled in bible study courses and 642 have told United Nations representatives they want to study for the ministry or priesthood.

Diefenbaker Says Curbs on Trade Are Unwelcome

OTTAWA (CP)—John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) told Prime Minister St. Laurent Tues., that he should make clear to Washington that recent United States curbs on Canadian trade are "irksome to the Canadian people" and not in keeping with the principle of the North Atlantic partnership.

Mr. Diefenbaker said in the Commons that if the prime minister would take up the matter in Washington—he leaves for a three-day trip to the U. S. capital Wednesday—he would have full Canadian support.

Mr. St. Laurent interjected that the U. S. secretary of state in Washington Monday had made strong representations about American curtailment on imports of Canadian dairy products and possible tariff action against Canadian minerals.

Mr. Diefenbaker said U. S. curbs could have a detrimental effect on Canada and on the Free world. If Canada did not have markets, development of her natural resources would be restricted.

Mr. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, said he hopes that in Washington Mr. St. Laurent will be explicit about U. S. "barriers against trade and violations of (trade) agreements."

Mr. Coldwell said he believes the future welfare of every country in the world depends on U. S policy in trade and commerce.

ORE CARRIER LAUNCHED

DETROIT (AP)—To the whistling and tooting of other vessels, the new ore carrier William Clay Ford was launched Tuesday. Mrs. Martha Firestone Ford, wife of the late Henry Ford's grandson whose name is borne by the new boat, did the christening.

Passes Exam With Flying Colors

Felicity Bennett, 23, of Kingston, Ont., recently became Canada's fourth qualified woman flying instructor. She had passed her examinations exactly two years from the day she first flew solo. She also has a new job, that of assistant flying instructor at the Kingston Flying Club. — Central Press Canadian.

Will Confer Degrees

KINGSTON (CP) — Principal W. A. Mackintosh of Queen's University announced Tuesday that Queen's will confer honorary doctor of laws degrees on two Canadian-born scientists at the university's applied science convocation May 18.

Receiving the degrees will be Dr. R. K. Richford of Sarnia, research adviser of the Imperial Oil Company and president of the Ontario research council; and Norman F. Tisdale of Pittsburgh, sales manager and chief engineer of Molybdenum Corporation of America.

Born at Brantford, Dr. Stratford was graduated from the Ontario Agricultural College in 1905. Mr. Tisdale is a native of Brockville, graduating from Queen's in 1918.

Little Benny's Note Book

Mr. and Mrs. Uppers invited us to dinner at their house out of revendge for having dinner at our house, and on the way there ma said Now Benny, please dont sit through the whole meel like a cat without a tung, like you did when the Uppers dined with us, I dont want them to think you're a spetchless ortan, she said.

Yes mam, do you think they'll have chickin fuel because we did? I said, and ma said, I'm sure I cant say.

Being what they had all rite, and after a while I thawt, G, maybe it's time for me to say soothething.

Which I did, saying, If every body always ate at each others houses, I bet the butchers wouldn't sell anything but chickins.

Sh'y, Benny, Mrs. Uppers is speeking, ma said.

Which she wasn't but she quick started to, and after a while I said, Puds Simkins's unkle choked on a chickin bone at their house. His unkle Ralph, I said, and pop said, Never mind, we dont care to hear the rest.

That's all there is to it, I said, and after another while I said, Chickin shmunicks are funny looking things called gizzards. They look like they are made out of rubber, and chickins can eat anything with them without chewing it first, so I guess that's why chickins can give other people the indigestion and never get it themselfs, I said.

Now that will do, Benny, let the older people carry on the conversation, ma said.

Yes mam, I said, thinking, Oh well, I did my duty, from now on I'm going to just eat.

Which I did.

Junior Jumble

News of Interest to Hastings 4-H and Junior Farmer Clubs by J. Allen Francis

Hastings Delegates Attend Conference

Twenty-one Junior Farmer Delegates from Hastings attended the annual Junior Farmer Conference, at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, April 28th to April 30th. Approximately 400 delegates registered for the complete conference.

The conference started on a note of inspiration and challenge with the Junior Farmers' undenominational church service in Memorial Hall on the Sunday evening. In his address entitled, "The Unchanging God" Mac Logan, Oxford County, spoke first of the great changes ever in our own short lifetime. But God remains the same, yesterday, today, and forever. He is the God of all the generations."

Nearly all of the 750 Junior Farmers in attendance remained for the fireside hour which followed.

Eleanor Saracuse, past president, introduced guests from Scotland, United States, Australia, and Alberta.

In welcoming the delegates to the college, Monday morning, Dr. J. D. MacLachlan, president of the O.A.C. told of the courses and opportunities offered young people at the college.

Day of Opportunity

In his presidential address, David Pelletierio urged that young people "look to the past as a heritage, on the present as a day of opportunity, and at the future as our responsibility. Whether we succeed or fail depends on you and me. This is a challenge to Junior Farmers everywhere. If you accept this challenge and 'work' with the knowledge and experience you have gained, the result will be success."

Dr. Norman H. High, Director of the Diploma Course, O.A.C., in his address asked three questions concerning yesterday, today, and to-morrow: (1) What is this heritage? (2) What kind of day is this in which we live? (3) What are we going to do about the problems of to-morrow? After discussing these three points, Dr. High concluded with, "The great problem facing the world is improving in the exchange of ideas, which will bring about better understanding among the peoples of the world."

The Junior Farmers of Ontario desire that the world of tomorrow shall be one in which sympatLetic understanding shall prevail and all people shall live in peace with no fear of war or oppression. This became quite evident during the panel discussion on "Understanding One Another" held on Monday afternoon. The question, "What is the barrier to understanding one another" evoked many answers. Though individuals have so much in common and have the same basic needs, there are many differences and prejudices that separate them.

Pleased at Progress

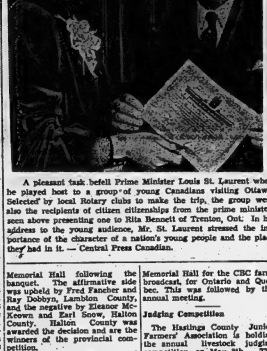
Mr. C. D. Graham, deputy minister of agriculture, was the guest speaker for the banquet Monday evening. Mr. Graham said that he was happy to have been the one to move the motion in 1944 that the Junior Farmers' Association of Ontario be set up. He was pleased to see that the Junior Farmers had taken those tools given them and used them. "You have set them to work and this is what you have accomplished."

"Resolved that rural depopulation threatens the prosperity and welfare of Ontario" was the topic of the debate held in Memorial Hall following the banquet. The affirmative side was upheld by Fred Faucher and Ray Dobbyn, Lambton County, and the negative by Eleanor McKeown and Earl Soow, Halton County. Halton County was awarded the decision and are the winners of the provincial competition.

Tuesday morning the boys and girls held separate sessions. In a brief business meeting the girls heard reports on Junior Institute activities. "Know Your Fabrics" is a new project which has been suggested for the girls study. A panel discussion on this topic brought out many interesting points about new fabrics on the market. The boys were divided into three groups to visit the Arkell farm, where the herd sire testing and swine research stations are located, and the agricultural engineering and field husbandry departments at the college.

The new executive elected the following officers: Don Middleton, president; Carl Boynton, vice-president; and T. R. Hilliard, secretary-treasurer. Director of Zone 2, Ross Pierson of Prince Edward County.

Immediately after lunch, all the Juniors assembled in War Memorial Hall for the CBC farm broadcast, for Ontario and Quebec. This was followed by the annual meeting.



Judging Competition

The Hastings County Junior Farmers' Association is holding a beef cattle, sheep, swine and horses.

JORDAN PREMIER QUITS

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Premier Tewfic Abul Huda resigned Tuesday and young King Hussein called on Dr. Fawzi El-Mulki, Jordan's ambassador to Britain, to head a new government. Huda, regarded as a reactionary by opposition parties pressing for constitutional reforms, headed the government during the reign of the mentally ill King Talal, father of 18-year-old Hussein who was enthroned last Saturday.

Canadian Youth Visits Ottawa

A pleasant task befell Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent when he played host to a group of young Canadians visiting Ottawa. Selected by local Rotary clubs to make the trip, the group were also the recipients of citizen citizenships from the prime minister, seen above presenting one to Rita Bennett of Trenton, Ont. In his address to the young audience, Mr. St. Laurent stressed the importance of the character of a nation's young people and the place they had in it. — Central Press Canadian.

Nationalists Open Fight to Strip Queen of Title

EDINBURGH (AP)—Scottish nationalists today opened a legal fight to strip Queen Elizabeth of the "II" in her title.

As far as Scotland is concerned, they insist, the Queen is Elizabeth I because the first Elizabeth reigned only over England.

The Scottish Covenant Association—a non-political body that wants limited home rule—petitioned the Court of Sessions, Scotland's highest court to ban throughout Scotland all references to the Queen as "Elizabeth II."

The use of this title, they warned, may "give rise to disturbances, breaches of the peace, and violence."

Earlier John Clyde, appearing for the government, argued that a court of law could not challenge the Queen's title.

Lord Guthrie, president of the court, adjourned the hearing until next Tuesday.

ASSAULT CASE REMAND

KITCHENER (CP) — Henry Paepcke and his wife of Elmira were remanded Tuesday until June 1 on a charge of assault arising out of the death of their three-year-old daughter last Jan. 27. Paepcke and his wife Sheila were arrested and charged with murder after police found their daughter, Leslie, dead. They were acquitted of the murder charge in March and the assault charge was laid then.

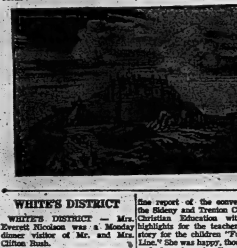
The CROWN CAVALCADE — The PREDECESSORS of ELIZABETH II

No. 11: Edward II. Ruled England 1307-1327



Typical headdresses of Edward II's era

Edtgy or Edward II. Stirling Castle. The threatened loss of this last stronghold on the border shamed Edward II into renewing the war with the Scots—with disastrous results.

Born: 1284 at Carnarvon Castle in Wales, fourth son of Edward I by his first wife, Eleanor of Castile. Edward II measured up to his father, who was one of the ablest of early English kings, in only one way — physically. He paid little attention to the arts of statecraft in which his father had his schooled, surrounded himself with court favorites, and led an indolent, dissolute life. He abandoned the war his father waged with Scotland and the Scots grew strong. When Edward II finally resumed it, his army met overwhelming defeat at Bannockburn —as told in many a Scottish lay — and the Scots remained free. A plan to bring the two countries together by marrying Edward II to Queen Margaret of Scotland when both were young was ended by Margaret's death and Edward made the mistake of marrying Isabella of France and then neglecting her. She went to France with her younger son, Edward, in 1326, ostensibly to do homage to boy's grandfather, Philip the Fair. Actually she formed an alliance with her lover, Roger Mortimer, a disgruntled English noblemen, to overthrow Edward. Edward's followers deserted him and he was forced to abdicate. He was imprisoned, then killed.

HALLOWAY

Community Honors Departing Neighbors

HOLLOWAY — A number of friends and neighbors recently gathered in the church basement to honor Mrs. George Rose, Mr. and Mrs. Don Rose, and Frances, before they leave to make their new home in Belleville.

The Rose family have lived at Holloway for a number of years and all are sorry to have them move from the community.

Rev. H. Giffin was chairman for the evening. In his brief address he voiced his appreciation to the family for the help they have given in the church and community.

During the evening, a couple of pictures were shown, and little Miss Christine Workman favored with a solo. Mrs. Grant also sang a solo, and Mr. Grant played a selection on the violin, accompanied by Mrs. Grant at the piano.

Mr. Giffin then called on Mrs. Embury Hough to read the address, after which Mrs. George Rose and Frances were each presented with wrist watches and Mr. and Mrs. Don Rose with a lovely coffee table and Chinese teaplates from the surrounding community including the mail routes.

The Institute then presented Mrs. Don Rose with a lovely cup and saucer and Mrs. George Rose with a nice brooch. On behalf of the W.M.S. and W.A. of Holloway Church, they each were also presented with a nice cup and saucer while Frances received a Testament from his Sunday School class.

Each one expressed his appreciation for the gifts and Mrs. Don Rose also spoke for Frances.

All joined in singing, "Blest Be the Tie that Binds."

Refreshments were served, bringing the evening to a close, with good wishes to the Rose family for the best of everything in their new home.

Documents Tabled Show Govt. Received Storm Signals About Status of Lumam

OTTAWA (CP)—A month before Harvey Lumam was injured in a car accident, the government began getting storm signals about the financial status of his construction firm in Regina, documents tabled Monday in the House of Commons indicated.

They also showed that Mr. Lumam says the government itself is mainly to blame for this financial situation by tying him up for months through delays in delivering equipment for an Indian hospital he was building at Fort Qu'Appelle, Sask.

Works Minister Fournier told the Commons April 6 that until Mr. Lumam was injured Jan. 8, 1952, his department "never had received from anyone a claim against the contractor. Monday's documents showed that on Jan. 5, 1953, Gustave Brault, chief architect in Mr. Fournier's department, wrote Mr. Lumam saying that his plumbing sub-contractors, Trail Plumbing and Heating Ltd., had complained of receiving no payments for their work and saying that they should be paid $9,234.

Cancelled in 1952

A month earlier, the citizenship department's Indian affairs branch had started to get similar claims from sub-contractors on Lumam contracts which subsequently were cancelled in April 1952. These, however, were outside Mr. Fournier's department and outside the battle which has raged in the Commons concerning the responsibility of the government towards sub-contractors whom John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) says are owed $230,000 by Mr. Lumam.

Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) asked that the tabled documents be sent to the public accounts committee for study. Mr. Fournier said he has no objection.

The documents are the latest episode in a clash that has already led indirectly to the resignation of Austin Dewar as Liberal member of Parliament for the riding of Qu'Appelle. He said he exchanged cheques with Mr. Lumam but denied that he made any profit out of the contractor or the government. The clash originated over Mr. Diefenbaker's claims that the government should do something for the sub-contractors left holding the bag when the Lumam firm folded up on three government contracts with the public works department.

Settled With Work

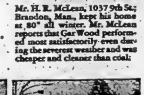
The information tabled showed that the Lumam firm since 1948 has carried out one $8,000 contract for the health department and two $10,000 contracts for the agriculture department, apparently to their satisfaction.

The Indian affairs branch, however, cancelled four contracts in April, 1952, for failure to meet time schedules and to do satisfactory work. The original contracts for schools and houses on Saskatchewan reserves totalled $173,000 and Mr. Lumam was paid $141,000 on these. Outstanding claims by subcontractors against him total $83,000. The Indian branch estimated it would cost $38,000 to complete the work.

It was on those contracts that the first storm signals started coming. On Dec. 6, 1951, a lumber company said it was owing $9,800 but this was eventually cleared up. Nine days later a plumbing and heating firm wrote that the Lumam company owed them $13,500.

Only Three Not Completed

The contracts with the public works department were originally eight in number. All but three—worth $680,000—the hospital at Fort Qu'Appelle and public buildings there and at Regina—were completed.



On Jan. 30 the department was informed that Mr. Lumam had been in a car accident that would keep him in hospital for some months. On Feb. 20, the department told him it was constantly getting claims from sub-contractors and that no more payments would go forward to him until the claimants were satisfied.

Six days later Mr. Lumam wrote to say that he had had to shut down on the three projects because of his injury, his lack of finances and his inability to arrange for credit. The chief reason for his financial state, he said, was delay in finishing the hospital and "this was largely due to the failure of the Indian health services" to supply equipment. This delay had eventually reached eight months.

SERVE CANADA

Trained to strike hard at any threats to our freedom... soldiers like those of the airborne infantry are helping to guard Canada, ready to drop into action wherever danger threatens. The young man who joins the Army and has completed his Infantry training may then volunteer to start training for the proud wings of Canada's "Soldiers of the Sky."

AND YOURSELF

How does a man choose a job? He examines the pay; the working conditions; the opportunities for advancement; the financial security. From every one of these aspects an Army career is excellent. And more — no monotony of being stuck for years in one place; pension plans after 20 years service; medical and dental care whenever needed — without regard for cost or time. Opportunities for training and advancement in the Army today are truly outstanding. For the bright young man who is interested in his future — as well as Canada's — the Canadian Army Active Force has much to offer.

IN THE ARMY

Soldiering is a man's life! There are challenges and dangers. Overseas duty carries with it the excitement of new places and strange customs in distant lands. But wherever you go, in the Army, you know you can rely on your comrades, trained fighting men who share with you the action of military life. If you think an Army career is for you, enquire about the opportunities for service with the Infantry — the most important men in the Canadian Army.

You are eligible to join the Army if you are 17 to 40 years of age and able to meet Army test requirements. Applications should bring birth certificates or other proof of age when reporting for interview.

Yankees Give Cleveland Worst Beating Of Season With 11-1 Defeat

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

MEMBERS OF A CUP!

Don Miggy El Reddeno, that erudite scrivener and o' here, is not such a bad guy after all. Since the cessation of hockey hostilities and the success of Bruce talks (he asked for 'em), there has been nothing but a friendly air between his department and this one.

And it looks at the moment, what with senior baseball gone up the well-known flue, that the peace treaty will extend until the hockey war bugles usher in another season of puck-chasing. And it will be another season. As they say in Brooklyn: "This is next year."

Talking with Miggs is always an experience. You always learn something and the hotter Intense you are the more you learn.

In conversation with Don Mig yesterday the subject of the visit of the Stanley Cup to Belleville in connection with the Bata Shoe Company came up.

Forthwith Mig dug deeply into a rich store of stories and came up with these with regard to the battered, tarnished Stanley gewgaw-ware.

It seems the boys in the know has had its eye and fiscus been fastened around and set fixed a life of summer seats adorning mantels in clubs and wherever they park such famous baubles during the off season.

Way back in 1906 when the Ottawa team won the-cup, the boys were boys and duly celebrated the occasion in a hotel followed the victory. The party was a grand one and brought out all the versatility for which that team was famous.

It appears there were a number of football players on the team and nothing to do but get in a spot of indoor grid practice and a night of it playing the prize celebrated the Stanley Cup. It was carried, "plunged," hocked, drop-kicked and tossed during the workout.

Finally, Alfie Smith, well-known quarterback of those halcyon days, let go with a drop-kick that would have made the Big Train envious. The cup sailed downstairs and out into the night.

Came another series of kicks, then the boys pulled up in amazement. As the "ball" soared through the air they gazed with dismay as it described a beautiful parabola before dropping into the Rideau Canal with a solid "plunk."

Efforts to retrieve the cup were in vain, and the bewildered heathen reclined in the icy waters of the canal until the following spring.

On another occasion when a Montreal team won the cup and naturally the game was celebrating, the cup was the cynosure of all eyes. But as the party wore on the silverware was forgotten.

Enter some pranksters, headed, it was believed at the time, by the famous Sprague Cleghorn, and away crowd, they purloined the porter and made away with it.

On their way downtown they ran into a street fight, and stopped the car to witness the sidewalk brawl. Finally they got out to get a closer view and on their return—you guessed it—the cup was gone.

The late Frank Calder, then president of the National Hockey League, tore his hair and swore dire vengeance on the culprits. The city was combed both ways but nary a sign of the bauble.

Long afterwards when the fire, firefire and fireworks had ceased somewhere a downtown pawnbroke notified National Hockey League officials that he had a piece of silverware that answered the description of the Stanley Cup. It was. Somebody had hocked it.

BASEBALL — SOFTBALL

Al Kelleher, who entered a Belleville team in the Belleville Girls' Softball League "AA" section. The team for the moment will be known as the "Bobcats", and is open to reserve players. Practice will be held at the Alemite Field Thursday night starting 6.30.

The "Ole Clucker" Herby Henn, whose efforts to call a practice of his Northern Electric Lights have been short-circuited of late, makes another attempt to get the boys together. He has called a team workout for the Alemite Field tonight, starting 6.30. All players are requested to be on hand.

'Blimey' They Didn't Even Stop for Tea

LONDON (Reuters)—Middlesex and Northamptonshire ended their match Tuesday in an exact tie—only the 16th tie in first class cricket during the 35-years since the First World War.

With two wickets to fall, Northamptonshire required only two runs to win and the drama heightened when the last man came in with the scores even. Ken Fielding survived the three last balls of the over and everything was in Northamptonshire's favor when Desmond Barrick, who had brought his side to the brink of victory with an 80, prepared to face the next from Bell Edrich.

Barrick played defensively throughout a maiden over, leaving Fielding to face Jack Young, slow left arm bowler, again. Young ended the tension by clean bowling him on the first delivery.

Somerset 179 and 180, Worcestershire 361 for eight declared and nine for two, Worcestershire won by eight wickets.

Gloucestershire 297 and 230 for four declared, Oxford University 190 and 82. Gloucestershire won by 274 runs.

Surrey 363 for four declared, Cambridge University 86 and 230. Surrey won by an innings and 65 runs.

Hampshire, 194 and 263 for nine declared, Essex 152 and 133. Hampshire won by 172 runs.

Kent 228 and 127, Warwickshire 198 and 178. Kent won by 81 runs.

Middlesex 86 and 312, Northamptonshire 162 and 226. Match tied.

Put Squeeze on Tribe's Lemon In Fourth With Eight Runs; Red Sox Take Over 3rd Place

By Ben Pellegar
Associated Press Sports Writer

The world champion New York Yankees are back in their accustomed spot at the top of the American league after drawing first blood against the No. 1 contender, Cleveland Indians.

In their first meeting of the young season, the Yankees handed the Indians their worst beating of the season Tuesday night 11-1.

Bob Lemon, Cleveland's best, duelled Whitey Ford on even terms for three innings before the roof fell in.

Thirteen Yankees went to bat in the fourth. Seven of them singled, two walked, one got hit and eight scored.

The Indians, who went into the game in a percentage tie with the Yankees, opened by pulling to a big 1½ games—the Yanks have dropped and gone to three games —and with onrushing Boston Red Sox only a half game back in third place.

Boston took over third by whipping Chicago White Sox 5-1 while Philadelphia Athletics bowed to Virgil Trucks and Detroit Tigers 3-1 in other night games in the American League. The Athletics, who had been third, slipped to fourth.

Tigers Stunted

Washington blasted Detroit 14-4 in the only day game.

Rain washed out the entire National League program, then brought on the first major league postponements this season because of weather in all but two of them in the National League.

Bob Porterfield of the Senators slammed his first major league home run with the bases loaded, the blow one of the big factors in the Senators got 15 other hits off Bill Wight, Al Aber and Tiger hurlers. Porterfield, himself, gave up 14, about his usual quota for two innings.

Mel Parnell of the Red Sox won his fourth straight without a loss, the best record in either league, as he mastered five Chicago hits. The White Sox scored only in the ninth when Jim Rivera singled home Nellie Fox, who had tripled.

Vic Wertz of the Browns took over the home run lead in the American League as he hit his fifth of the year with one man on base. The two runs were all Trucks needed to post his third victory against one loss as he bested pesky Harry Byrd.

Trucks, who struck out six, now is within two games of equalling his total 1953 victories. Last year, despite being a control and accuracy hitter, he won only five games and lost 18. He came to the Browns during the winter in a deal with Detroit.

Remember When

By The Canadian Press

Hank Greenberg in his last game with Detroit Tigers before induction into the U.S. Army 12 years ago today gave the fans something to remember by hitting two home runs against the Yankees. Greenberg returned to the line-up later and repeated the trick against Chicago Cubs in the second 1945 World Series game. Detroit won that series by four games to three.

'Nearula' Named Favorite For Epsom Derby

LONDON (AP) — W. Humble's Nearula was made a firm 11 to 4 favorite for the Epsom Derby at an odds call-over by bookmakers Tuesday.

Aureole, owned by Queen Elizabeth, and Premonition, entered by Brig. W. F. Wyatt, are the 100 to 9 second choices.

Nearula easily won the one-mile Two Thousand Guineas, first of the season's classic races for three-year-olds, at Newmarket last Wednesday. Aureole was a fast-closing fifth and showed promise of running well over a longer route. The Derby is run at a mile and a half. The 178th running of the Derby will be June 6.

Dutchies Rated 8-5 Favorites To Win Tonight

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—Take it from the fans: Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen are going to wind up the Allan Cup final tonight. The fans are 8 to 5 that they do.

The Dutchmen, leading the best-of-seven Canadian senior hockey final 3-1, need victory in only one more game over Penticton Vs 6'ers give Kitchener its first senior title since 1918.

Coach Bob Rafferty has an open mind on the subject.

The Dutchies seemed assured of victory after taking the first two games, but they had the wind knocked out of them in the third. Bobby Gillson, submitter for Owen Sound Greys and Ontario Hockey Association senior A series, was taken on by the Vs to replace the injured Ivan McClelland and the Owen Sounder responded in a one man victory wheel the Vs won 3-1.

The Dutchmen protested to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, claiming it was unfair to be forced to compete with a goal keeper from their own league. An airmail vote was to be taken by the CAHA, but the outcome has not been announced as yet.

Bill Durnan, Penticton coach, had little to say about the outcome, but his team appeared grimly determined and reasonably confident it can win at least one more game. Kitchener took the fourth game Monday night.

No major line-up changes are expected tonight. Kitchener's left-winger Maurice Leveque, out with an injured shoulder at the start of the series, will play with a special harness.

Another sell-out crowd is assured. Tickets which went on sale at 2 p.m. Monday were sold in less than two hours. The series appears to be the most successful financially in years, with 28,816 admissions recorded in the first four games.

'Dancer's' Jockey Says Bump 'No Accident'

NEW YORK (AP)—Eric Guerin, who rode Native Dancer in the Kentucky Derby, said Tuesday it was "no accident" when his mount was bumped on the first turn in the turf classic last Saturday.

Native Dancer, who finished second to Dark Star, was hit on the first turn by Money Broker, ridden by Al Popara.

The Journal-American, in a front page story by racing writer Pat Lynch, quoted Guerin as saying: "I could see what was in that boy's mind. I didn't look like an accident to me. I could see it coming and he hit me. What was I supposed to do?"

Guerin has been criticized for not making his bid with the Dancer sooner. It was the horse's first defeat after 11 straight victories.

MONTREAL (CP)—Lloyd Lawrence, stylish Negro boxer with a fighting light, not only remains Toronto's final hope today in the Canadian amateur boxing championships but he's the only fighter who has scored a full-count knockout in 28 bouts reaching the finals.

Lawrence polished off Ralph Hosie, Port Arthur, Ont., in a 135-pound class semi-final Tuesday night, but only after a battle. Steadily wearing down the Alberta boy, Lawrence threw a powerful right to the head that floored Hosie for an eight count in the second of three fast-fighting rounds to the same place stretched Hosie's cot for the 10-count at 2:13.

Four other bouts—three of them Tuesday night—have ended in technical knockouts.

Lawrence tonight meets Phil Cleary of Winnipeg, who had power and stamina in slugging his way to a decision over Gary Williams of Montreal.

Cleary is one of three Winnipeg fighters going into tonight's finals in which 10 champions will be declared in the various weight divisions.

Mountainous Jimmy Saunders, national heavyweight champion from Winnipeg, made good use of his 210 pounds in winning a split decision over Calvin Brown, Korean veteran and navy man from Montreal. Brown scored the ring at only 178 pounds. His cracking but rabbit-punching was a thrilling match with Big Jim. Saunders goes into the final against Lee Dominion of Regina, who hasn't yet appeared because of byes.

Pete Kawulia, 125-pounder from Winnipeg, sent Cale Kerwin of Ottawa to the canvas for an eight count in the third round and took the decision. Tonight he meets Fernand Paradis of Montreal, who won an unpopular decision over Eddie Beattie of Hamilton. Each fighter scored a knockdown.

Des Archer of Vancouver had two more ring savvy and straight punching for Laurie Webb of Winnipeg, winning his 147-pound semi-final by a technical knockout. In tonight's final Archer meets Danny Saunders, Hamilton Negro, who had Roman Morarach of Montreal in distress all through the third round.

Archer's teammate, Gerry Boucher, won easily over Montreal's Raymond Gregoire in the 119-pound class. His opponent in the final is 154%, Italy, outpointed Gerry Pat Supple, Montreal, who

St. Boniface Canadiens Are 'Hot' But Flyers' Hap Emms Is Burned Up

WINNIPEG (CP)—St. Boniface Canadiens were hot Monday as they beat Barrie Flyers 7-4 to take their win in Senior Hockey Cup starts, but it was coach Hap Emms of the Flyers who was burned up.

After three straight Barrie victories, the unpredictable Canadiens really clicked and far outplayed the Flyers for the first time.

Emms made more noise after the game, however, than any free scoring western game. He yelped with horror at the refereeing, saying it he would be had ever seen or said the ice surface was a pool of water and called the Winnipeg Amateur athletes a bara.

Fly In Ersatzen

Wm. kee or drive tonight, the Canadiens will display final leaves Winnipeg and if necessary will finish in Brandon. The Wheat City was promised the sixth game of the best-of-seven series if the locals could a circus playing into Winnipeg will make it necessary to play the seventh game in Brandon.

The odds-makers have pulled a reverse on the fifth game. Barrie took the first three games 6-4, 4-3 and 7-5, they would quote odds only on the Flyers to win. Odds captured the series last night. Tuesday Barrie could play up 5 to 2 odds that the Flyers will win the fifth, but the odds were posted on the series outcome.

Barrie was not over-confident Monday but just soundly outplayed. Speedy little Tony Poeta gave little room for the scatterers and wasn't off the bench during the third period. He suffered a severe bone injury Friday and may not be back tonight.

Hot he banned the workouts by both teams Tuesday. The visitors took the rink in the afternoon followed by the Habs in the evening, but little was accomplished as outside temperatures climbed close to the 80 mark.

The Canadiens received a vote of encouragement from Frank Selke, manager of Montreal Canadiens, before Monday's game, saying the Hab farm club to "go out and win." Coach Dick Irvin of the Canadiens, after watching it, finished the action, remarked that the club has lots of weight but isn't using it.

Selke added that if St. Boniface loses it must start building for 1954 in the hopes of a win in Memorial Cup back to the west.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — Persons close to the explosive New York Giants situation will not be greatly surprised at anything that might happen soon, up to and including a trade which would send captain-shortstop Alvin Dark to another National League club. The feeling between Dark and his manager, Leo Durocher, is mutual. The stumbling Polo Grounders' plainly need new pitching blood, and they could get a top hand from St. Louis Cardinals, possibly Gerald Staley, plus another player or two, if it were decided that Dark had outlived his usefulness under Coogan's bluff.

One of the treats of the spring literary season will be the effort of the racing experts the last few days to explain Native Dancer's defeat in the Kentucky Derby without taking a swipe at the animal's rider, Eric Guerin. It has required a delicate balance. No one has wanted to be put in the position of second-guessing the little jockey, but at the same time there has been an indistinct note of wonder at what he was doing during that long run to the first turn, where the Dancer got caught in a revolving door. Nobody seems to be in thought of it, but we imagine some vivid quotes could have been obtained from those who threw their thousands on the machine and backed Native Vanderbilt gray down to a 7-10 favorite.

It is a pleasure to report that Rogers Hornsby is not complaining the plight of his Cincinnati Redlegs to distress him too greatly. He has some good talent in his line-up, but they are as slow as Philadelphia Athletics and their pitching is a scandal. "I'm not minding a meal," said the Rajah. "I'm too old to do the playing for them. All I can do is put their names down on the line-up." Numbers of oldtimers with whom we have talked lately Hornsby would have been a cinch to hit more than .400 every year with the super-rocket ball being banged over the laundries this season.

Shoots Record Golf Score

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Jimmy McHale, now preparing for the British amateur golf championship next month, established a new mark of 63 for the Philadelphia Country Club's Spring Mill course Tuesday.

McHale bettered the previous top competitive course mark of 63 set by Monty Platt. The competitive course record was a 6 shot job by Charles Heather in the 1939 U.S. Open championship.

McHale had two eagles and seven birdies in his round.

'Sugar' Ray Back In Boxing Picture

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, retired middleweight champion, said today he would go back into the ring if the crown left the United States.

"I'm not planning to go back to boxing, you understand," Robinson told a reporter, "but I would if my friends wanted me to and especially if the crown left the country."

But he denied reports he is planning a ring comeback.

"I'm doing enough fighting here on the stage," he said. Robinson is now playing a night club entertainer. He is appearing in a Philadelphia Athletics and their pitching is a scandal. "I'm not minding a meal," said the Rajah. "I'm too old to do the playing for them. All I can do is put their names down on the line-up." Irish Soccer Team on Tour

LIVERPOOL, England (CP)—Northern Ireland's soccering soccer team left Tuesday night on a seven-game exhibition series in Canada and the United States.

The 17-player squad, led by such players as Danny Blanchflower of Barnsley and Billy Scott of Manchester United, open their tour May 15 at New York against another British touring team, Liverpool. The other games will be played in Canada.

This is the first trans-Atlantic tour by an international side from the British Isles, though Belfast Celtic made a North American visit before quitting the soccer scene over a domestic issue two years ago.

The Irish eleven has had a good season, having held England and Scotland to a draw but losing to Wales.

The tourists open their Canadian tour May 30 at Toronto. Other dates are Winnipeg May 31; Moose Red Sox, scattered five Chicago hits in winning his fourth game without a loss 5-1, the best record in either league.

Baseball Moguls Bemoan Drop In Attendance

NEW YORK (AP)—Major league magnates have been bemoaning the drop in attendance this season, and they've good reason.

Whether due to the weather, poor weather or a combination of both, the big league ball fan just isn't showing up as often as he used to.

An Associated Press survey disclosed today that attendance at major league parks is 34 per cent under last season's total in 17 comparable number of home dates for each club.

Paid admissions for 1953, including Tuesday night's games, totalled 1,178,964. Last year it was 1,802,729. That's a drop of 623,765.

Sport in Brief

WATERLOO (CP) — Weston Dukes Tuesday night won the Ontario Hockey Association Junior B championship, defeating Waterloo Siskins 5-1 to take a special two-game, total-point series 8-4.

Their original best-of-seven final ended in a 3-3 deadlock, with one game tied. The special series was ordered to decide the winner.

The first game of the home-and-home, total-points special series, played Saturday in Weston, ended in a 2-2 tie.

Turk Brodo, former goalie with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, directed the Dukes to the title in his first year as a coach.

EDMONTON (CP)—Bill Hamilton of Toronto, secretary of the Royal Canadian Golf Association, added two more Tuesday to his course of his western tour to publicize the National Golf Day. National Golf Day will be held this year May 23, when Sunday golfers all across Canada and in the United States will pay $1 for the right to compete against the simultaneous playing of U.S. open champion Julius Boros at Pittsburgh.

BROOKLYN (AP)—Italy's Italo Scorchichi Tuesday night scored an split decision bout over Gerry Drewyer, British Empire welterweight champion from South Africa, in a 10-round match at the Ridgewood Grove Arena.

HELSINKI (AP)—Finland won the final two singles matches Tuesday to defeat Ireland 4-1 in the first round of the European zone Davis Cup tennis competition. Pentti Virtanen defeated Jackson 6-2, 6-4, 3-6, 4-6, 7-5. Sakkari Sulo topped Joe Hackett, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

VIRGINIA WATER, England (AP)—Charles Ward shot a five-under-par 67 Tuesday to take the lead after the first round of the 90-hole 2,000-guinea Dunlop golf tournament. Ward's round was shot on the 6,300-yard east course at Westerncliffe club. Bobby Locke of South Africa shot a more impressive 69 on the difficult 6,880-yard west course.

Trade Rumors Pop Up In Major Leagues

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Trade rumors were popping up again Tuesday as the major league managers started their 154-game roster-cut assignment to meet the 25-player limit by midnight of May 14.

The most persistent of the rumors has the world champion New York Yankees seeking to arrest a crippling pitcher jinx with Detroit Tigers. Specifically, the Yankees are reported to have offered outfielder Irv Noren for Art Houtteman.

Negotiations between the two clubs actually began in Florida last March. They were reported resumed during the Yankees' recent two-day visit to Detroit. The Yankees also are interested in veteran infielder Johnny Pesky for utility purposes.

Brooklyn Dodgers are seeking a left-handed hitting outfielder. When Cincinnati was in Brooklyn, Dodger manager Charlie Dressen had Rogers Hornsby, Reds' batting coach, closeted for an hour trying to pry Gus Bell loose from Cincinnati. Hornsby turned down the offer because it consisted of a couple of Dodger farmhands plus a third-rate pitcher.

Barnaby, in dire need of starting pitchers, also conferred with Leo Durocher, manager of New York Giants, when the Bedlegs were at the Polo Grounds. It could not be learned what, if any, were discussed.

The Giants, off to a start almost as miserable as the one in 1951 when they dropped 23 straight in April, may make a major deal before the trade deadline on June 14. Durocher is unhappy about his infield and his catching situation.

Politicians Whip Reporters 23-3

OTTAWA (CP)—Take it from a belchered bunch of reporters, many former athletes have been elected to Parliament.

The athletes turned politicians Tuesday night committed their annual atrocities against the Parliamentary Press Gallery in a reputed softball match that drew more than 2,000 fans to Parliament Hill and brought more than $200 for Everyson flood relief.

The score: 23-3. And it was just about that bad.

What former athletes like Liberal Conacher, Toronto Trinity's External Affairs Minister Pearson, Resources Minister Winters, George Hees (PC — Toronto Broadview) and Tom Goode (L — Burnaby-Richmond), didn't do with their bats, the reporters did with their errors.

Conacher got two home runs, one on an infield hit that was so badly muffed that three other runners scored ahead of him. The other four members were limited to one homer apiece.

But young John Cote, a pitching ringer for the House of Commons staff, struck Conacher out twice while Hees popped up gracefully caught shots of the greatest athlete of his generation flat on his stomach after a lusty swing.

George Cruickshank (L — Fraser Valley) was general superintendent of proceedings, bedecked in a flowing golden cape and a rocket hat befitting his stature as mock mayor of Parliament Hill. And, at many years, interviewer of visiting firemen.

Cruickshank introduced Rev. Dan McIvor, Liberal member for Fort William.

Your insurance policies should "Match Up"

To prevent "holes" or expensive overlaps in your insurance coverage, your policies should all be written by one agent (us, we hope, naturally.)

The reason is, policies can be made to supplement each other wisely and economically. Often, several policies can be combined in one at considerable saving.

And an overall knowledge of your insurance coverage, may reveal to us that you are omitting some important protection that you should have.

Carry matched insurance—not "patched" insurance.

Mr. Mac Akey and family have purchased a home in Point Anne.

Softball Entry Deadline May 8

The Belleville and District Softball League executive met last night for a half hour to decide the final starting date for team applications.

With most of the entries received, the deadline has been set for May 8. Bill Scrymgeour, secretary of the league announced the schedule should be ready for publication around the middle of this month.

Movie Column

BY BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Why does 3-D give some people headaches? Which system will win out—3-D or wide-screen? Is 3-D possible without glasses?

Movie goers and film workers themselves want to learn the answers to these and other questions concerning new dimensional pictures. I sought some background on these issues from Cliff Stine, veteran cameraman.

Q. Why do some people get headaches from watching 3-D?

A: There can be many reasons. The two films in the projector may not be lined up correctly. There may be been improper adjustment by the cameraman or the projectionist. Or—he, viewer may not be able to focus his eyes at the point where the two lenses are converging.

Q: Are people who wear glasses normally more prone to headaches from 3-D?

A: Not if their glasses correct their eyes to normal vision.

Q: Can 3-D be perfected so it won't cause headaches?

At Yes, we can eventually reach that stage—if the cameraman and projectionist adhere to the proper formulas.

Q: Which system do you think will triumph?

A: I think most pictures will be in wide-screen. It gives more scope to the screen and is excellent for outdoor scenes. I believe the novelty of 3-D will wear off in a year or so. Its main asset is that it adds somewhat to reality.

Q: What is the main problem of filming 3-D?

A: To keep the action focussed at the line of convergence—that is, the line where the two camera lenses (simulating your eyes) converge. If that line is not maintained, eyestrain results. Also, if the actor gestures over the line, his hand will appear to be in the audience.

Sorry to report that Mr. Russell Volick is a patient in the Kingston hospital, D.V.H. ward, seriously ill. Mrs. Volick is staying in Kingston with Mr and Mrs. Jack Fraser.

Mr. Morris Volick and Mr. Guy Fraser were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clarke Fraser, in Kingston Sunday and called on their father in the hospital.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is according to the stars.

FRIDAY, MAY 8, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Be cautious, patience and no extravagance. Good day for government officials, others in authority.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Your Venus aspects especial care in personal matters. Day can be productive of gains if you heed wise advice.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Splendid opportunities if careful how you approach responsibilities and what and how you say things. Have tact.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer)—Your Moon (indifferent aspect) urges extra kindliness, understanding on your part. Thus with favorable Sun aspects you can accomplish much good.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—No clouds in your outlook. A day for action and accomplishment, attaining fresh benefits in your position, in domestic interests.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Stable, practical activities, everything useful and within reason under benefic rays. This day advances everything good.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Heed advice to Taurus. Trades, improving methods and quality of output top favored. You can achieve much.

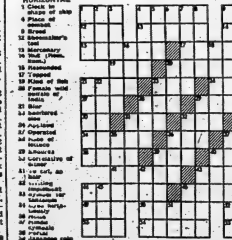
October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Grand period to catch up with matters you had to put aside for other urgencies. Finish tasks undone but don't neglect to launch new projects.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Strive against time-wasting repetition, arguments, useless small talk. Work toward efficiency minus callous or different attitude.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Getting excited, over-zealous, fretting, and mistrusting are temptations. Avoid them and other hindrances. Boom away promptly!

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Heed Capricorn today, and note: Prayer not only gains spiritual and even material objectives, but it builds greater faith and courage.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—You can do many things well but often lack proper confidence in your ability. This day bids you step forward briskly, but cautiously nonetheless.



YOU BORN TODAY: It is important for you who possess so many talents to keep developing them daily, not occasionally. And choose companions who appreciate better things. Build character with daily prayer, trust in God. You can achieve the unusual, if you won't waste time. Birthdate of: Ex-Pres. Harry S. Truman; Henry J. Kaiser, industrialist.

HEY KIDS—HERE'S A LAXATIVE THAT'S PLEASANT TO TAKE!

And, Mother, Children's Own Tablets are wonderful chewable laxatives for children, between 2 and 12, they chew as candy, and they're so pleasant to take, they ask for them by name! $328,000 By-Law For New School Is Approved

PICTON — A by-law to provide for the borrowing on debentures of the sum of $328,000 for the erection of a new public school here, was approved by town council last night. An additional thousand dollars was voted for purchase of additional land. The school will be one of twelve rooms and located on the site of the former Collegiate, which burned. A new Collegiate is in the process of being erected.

Council authorized the town clerk and mayor to enter into an agreement with the county for the paving of a connecting link on Johnson Street.

Chairman of the police committee, Judge W. B. Lane, urged council to have parking spaces on Main street painted so that traffic regulations could be better enforced.

After July 1st, taxpayers will not be permitted to empty sewage into the storm sewer system but must connect to the laterals.

Council made plans to repair Pitt street as far as Bridge and the RCSA camp will be diverted at Union street, the scene of many traffic jams and accidents.

Councillor Realtt McKibbon was granted two months' leave of absence while overseas.

Building permits for five new houses, a garage and a suite of offices were granted.

A by-law is to be prepared enforcing legislation to impose taxes on all dishwashing sinks in public eating places in order to guard against the blocking of sewerage laterals.

Harold McLoughlin was named as deputy town clerk.

Holstein Club Holds Euchre

Picton — Prince Edward County Holstein Breeders' Club sponsored a very successful social evening and dance at Allisonville hall. Feature was a draw for a purebred Holstein heifer calf from the W. Walker farm here. The lucky ticket, drawn by Fieldman Gerry Nelson, was held by Wesley Cronsbingham of Rear Hall. Club president Lewis Wright welcomed the large crowd and thanked those who supported the venture.

There were 24 tables of euchre in play with prizes going to Mrs. P. H. Robinson, Milford, and Jack Anderson, Demorestville. Prize for the oldest couple dancing went to Mr. and Mrs. Jake Wannamaker, Demorestville. Round and square dancing was enjoyed to music by Hugo Diggins and his orchestra.

Retires After 38 Years of Toil and Trade Unionism

Seen above with his wife, John Mitchell, 70-year-old district director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), wound up 38 years of toil and trade unionism as the guest of honor at a testimonial dinner held in Toronto. On hand for the occasion were 500 warm friends and old timers of the labor movement to honor a man who had played a great part in building the Canadian district of the steelworkers from an organization of 5,000 to 50,000 strong in little more than a decade. Beginning his career in the coal pits of Lanarkshire, Scotland, at the tender age of 12, Mr. Mitchell, through hard work, advanced gradually into the ranks of labor executive. Nor did his interests stop there. On coming to Canada, where he now lives at Islington, Ont., he was successful in serving three years as a councillor in Hamilton and for seven years he was president of the Ontario CCF.—Central Press Canadian

Church Survival Threatened By Lack of Candidates

LUCAN, Ont. (CP)—The report of a fact-finding survey conducted throughout the Middlesex presbytery of the United Church of Canada and given to a Presbytery meeting here Tuesday said that survival of the church is threatened by lack of candidates for the ministry.

During the last decade only 18 candidates for the ministry were obtained from Middlesex presbytery, the report said.

Pastoral transfers and appointments endorsed and approved by the presbytery, included: Rev. Gordon Hume, Sidcrtie, Ont., to Westminster West; Rev. R. L. McConnell, Melbourne, to Charing Cross; Rev. T. Wilkinson, Belmont, to Thorndale; Rev. G. G. Howse, Alvinston, to Belmont.

House Completes Debate on Vast Natural Resources

OTTAWA (CP) —The House of Commons Tuesday completed a debate on Canada's vast natural resources by defeating a Progressive Conservative motion urging immediate consideration of a national policy.

The debate developed into arguments a long ago spokesmen for three parties as to the merits of free enterprise and state control. CCF and Liberal spokesmen accused Social Crediters of trying to play it both ways at once.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader launched the discussion Monday night by moving an amendment to the government's motion to go into committee to study estimates.

The motion asked consideration of a national policy under a free enterprise system in collaboration with the provinces to promote and develop resources, to protect and conserve them and to expand their use for industrial production.

Supported by CCF

In the vote, the Liberals received the support of the CCF and J. L. Gibson, (Lod-Comox-Alberni) in defeating the move. The Social Crediters voted with the Progressive Conservatives although Monday night they voted with the CCF to remove "free enterprise" from the opposition motion.

The CCF sub-amendment was defeated 118 to 17 in Monday night's vote and the main Progressive Conservative motion was defeated 123 to 62.

John Diefenbaker (PC —Lake Centre) and M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, injected Canadian - U.S. trade into the discussion. Both said Prime Minister St. Laurent should speak plainly about U.S. restrictions on Canadian trade when he goes to Washington on Thursday.

John Blackmore (SC — Lethbridge said Canada should solve her trade problems by working them out with the Commonwealth.

Body Recovered

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP)—The body of Leo Murray, 25, one of two miners buried at the 4,900-foot level of the Wright Hargreaves gold mine by a rockblast 10 days ago, was recovered Tuesday night.

J. N. Henry, the mine's personnel officer, disclosed that the body had been found. No details were given and it was not known when Mr. Murray had been crushed to death or suffocated.

Mine workers are still seeking the body of Leon Wojechowski, 39, working with Murray when they were trapped.

5 DROWNED IN RIVER

EDMONTON (CP)—A father and his four sons were drowned in the Smoky river at Watino, Alta., about 160 miles northwest of here, Monday night when their car went out of control. Dead are: William Cummings, 53, of Watino; and his sons, William James, 9; Charles Edgar, 8; Donald George, 7; and David John, 14 months.

Canadians Suffer 43 Casualties In Recent Action

OTTAWA (CP) — Two Korean casualty lists Tuesday showed that Canadian troops suffered at least 43 casualties in the heavy fighting May 2 when Chinese Communists stormed their sector.

The two lists included one officer and 14 men killed in action, 21 men wounded and one officer and six men missing, believed prisoners-of-war.

The two lists reported 35 casualties in the 3rd battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, which dispatches from Korea say bore the brunt of the attack. These included 13 killed, 15 wounded, and seven missing, believed captured.

In addition, four members of the 3rd battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry were reported wounded, and four members of the Royal Canadian Artillery —two from the 81st Field Regiment and two with Lord Strathcona's Horse — also were wounded.

Tuesday's lists were the heaviest since those following the "Little Gibraltar" action last Oct. 22. In one list issued on Oct. 28 following that action 66 casualties were reported.

News dispatches have said the action occurred when 750 to 1,000 Chinese made a "whirlwind" assault on Canadian positions late Saturday night and early Sunday.

The action was said to be accompanied by the heaviest Red bombardment of Canadian troops in the Korean war. It was made on 2 1-2 hours inside Allied lines on the western sector of the Korean front and the Reds were driven back by the Canadians only after intense hand-to-hand combat."

Tuesday's lists brought to 1,363 total casualties so far suffered by Canadian troops in Korea, including 265 dead, 993 wounded, 27 injured, 17 missing and 16 captured. The navy has reported three dead and three injured in action and the air force has reported one missing.

Takes Over Command

KINGSTON (CP)—Maj. Andrew Alexander Chisholm took over Tuesday as area ordnance officer at army's eastern Ontario area headquarters here.

A native of Galt, he had been second-in-command of the depot as a captain and was promoted to the rank of major with his new appointment.

Prior to the Second World War, he played three seasons with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

Some Newspapers Protest Brief Sent to Govt.

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Pierre Gauthier (L—Portneuf), acting chairman of the House of Commons broadcasting committee, and R. R. Knight (CF—Saskatoon) tabled in the committee Tues., a number of protests from weekly newspapers concerning a brief recently presented the committee by the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association.

The brief had urged that the CBC confine its activities to regulating broadcasting in Canada and possibly to granting a few educational programs.

The Red Deer, Alta., Advocate and the Durham, Ont., Chronicle informed the committee they do not subscribe to the CWNA brief.

REDS UNVEIL PLAN TO BREAK DEADLOCK

The Communist invaders of Laos, tiny kingdom in northern Indo-China, have sent a strong column rushing southward in a twin threat to the city of Paksane, on the border of Thailand, and the administrative capital, Vientiane. The new threat developed just as the defences of the royal capital of Luang Prabang appeared strong enough to hold off Communist armies nine miles away. Capture of Paksane would menace Thailand, cut the kingdom of Laos in two, isolate Vientiane and Luang Prabang and lay open the unprotected southern half of Laos and neighboring Cambodia to invasion by the Reds, who have announced intention of joining Laos and Cambodia into a Communist Viet Minh state. — Central Press Canadian.

Claxton Clears Mines Dept. Of Breach of Security In Publishing Airfields Maps

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence minister Claxton today cleared the mines department of any breach of security in publishing a map showing emergency RCAF airstrips in Quebec but regretted that the purpose of the strips has been made public in a newspaper.

He said in the Commons that an Western powers—he doubted that Russia did it—publish maps showing the locations of military bases. The thing they try to keep secret is the purpose of certain fields and the fact that they fit into a system.

Article in Gazette

Questions were provoked by an article in the Montreal Gazette saying any person can buy the key "to a secret $7,000,000 RCAF secret—the construction of seven emergency jet fighter airstrips in Quebec." This could be done by purchasing charts issued by the mines department.

(The airstrips are part of the air defence program.)

Mr. Claxton said the maps were cleared with the mines department.

He told Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC (PC—Nanaimo) that he would not try to restrict distribution of the maps because they fitted into a general international civil aviation agreement governing such matters for Western countries.

Not Secret

"You can't keep airstrips secret and no effort is made to do so," he told Conservative Gordon Graydon. "All a right to know where they are.

"But what we do try to keep secret is the purpose of the airstrips and the fact they are part of a system. Obviously their locations are well known."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synoptic: Heat spring weather prevails over most of Ontario today. Except for occasional light rain during the night and morning cloudiness near Windsor and north of Lake Superior most of Ontario has under clear to partly warm dry air. This morning's charts indicate a continuation of this weather pattern over the province today and Friday.

SUSPECTS ARRESTED

Held at Windsor are Thomas Teron, 17; John Burton, 19, and Kenneth St. Pierre, 18, all of Windsor.

RECORD NUMBER

GUELPH, (CP) — The Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario announced here today it had a record number of branches enrolled throughout the province. Thirty-five added throughout 1952 brought the total to 1,503.

Woman With Three Personalities Made Life Miserable for Family

By RENNIE TAYLOR

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A pretty brunette who turned into a devil with irrepressible urges in front of her doctor and later into a bright agreeable, conscientious girl, was described today as psychiatrically cured.

This girl now has three different personalities, Dr. Harvey M. Wilbur said, she is married and has a small child, but she denies her husband and child whenever she turns into anything except the sky, young Mrs. Thigpen says they first indicated attention two years ago for terrific headaches.

The unusual case" was reported to the American Psychiatric Association in a medical paper, "Studies in color movies, by Dr. Corbett H. Thigpen and Dr. Hervey M. Cleckley of Augusta, Ga.

The case is not obscure. About 100 such instances of multiple personalities in single individuals have been reported. But Dr. Thigpen's presentation was medically interesting because of the provocative personal relationships involved.

The young woman identified only as Eve White, an alert, attractive suddenly about a year ago. She said she had been hearing voices. She asked if she might be going insane. A queer look spread over her face and in a couple of seconds she changed into a coquettish character who winked and said "Hi doc."

Dr. Thigpen named the personality involved in this change Eve Black. Eve Black goes to parties, drinks too much sometimes, and occasionally turns back into Eve White and seems horrified at finding herself in the middle of carousing.

Eight months after Eve Black's dramatic appearance in the office she erased out with a third personality, Jane, apparently a more level-headed one than a blend of the other two.

Eve Black went out with men casually, got a job as a night club entertainer, and had some rather expensive clothes. The third personality, called Jane, took the clothes back to the stores. Later Eve Black bought more clothes and then altered all Jane's so she couldn't take them back.

Now Eve and Jane don't recognize Eve White's husband or child as their own. Eve Black says she never was married.

The patient left her husband when she realized that he knew something wrong and said she was going to stay away until she was well.

Jane is aware of the two Eves but hasn't all of their knowledge and their memories, Dr. Thigpen said.

Eve White knows only hazily about Eve Black and Jane, and has a feeling that she is fading out of the picture.

There is no sign of mental abnormality in Eve White or in Jane, but Eve Black's brain waves show slight indication of a pattern that sometimes is associated with schizophrenia, a common form of insanity.

Jane is slowly becoming the dominant personality, Dr. Thigpen said. He is hopes that the two Eves will fade out entirely.

FEAR MISSING BOYS MAY BE TRAPPED IN CAR

Left Home Friday, Not Seen Since

TORONTO (CP)—Three boys with seven cents among them set out for a candy store last Friday noon and haven't returned since.

Police who think Henry Quigley, 10, and his brothers Howard, 7, and Paul 5, may have climbed into a railway boxcar and could be starving in the locked car on a country siding, have put out a Canada-wide alarm.

Their missing persons bulletin turned a routine case for Toronto's east end No. 4 police station into a crusade.

Police with flashlights poked Wednesday night into every one of the hundreds of cubbyholes in Toronto's nearly-completed subway without finding any trace of the boys. Watchmen who patrol the subway nightly were asked to be on the lookout.

May Be Held

One theory is that someone is holding the boys captive.

Their mother, Mrs. Veronica Quigley, holds the view that some person took a liking to the lads and decided to keep them for himself. She said she was while her husband accompanies police on searches through the city and suburbs.

Henry, the eldest, has always liked to play at being a business man, she said. When he was given a toy telephone last Christmas he liked to pretend to make long-distance calls at his desk.

There was nothing adventurous about Henry, Mrs. Quigley said. He was timid. She was positive because there was nowhere else in his neighborhood for him to play.

Howard was a nervous boy. He loved his younger brother Paul dearly and liked to look after him.

Paul, a shy five-year-old, was hardly the sort of lad to run away just for the sake of adventure.

The mother said she suspects by now they will all be pretty hungry.

Drew, PC Leader, Says First Move if Party Elected Will Be To Regain Overseas Markets

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—George Drew, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, said Wednesday night his party's first move, if elected this year, would be to try to regain overseas markets for farm products.

He addressed the annual meeting of the Western Ontario Progressive Conservative Association which re-elected Exeter lawyer Elmer Reid president for the fourth term.

Mr. Drew said that for nearly four years the Conservative opposition has been trying to persuade the government to press for overseas markets. The Liberals' reply had been that it was nonsense to worry, yet the traditional United Kingdom market had slipped away.

"Our very first move will be within days, certainly within weeks —after taking office will be to open negotiations with Britain and the other members of the Commonwealth to reopen those markets."

Agricultural markets and taxes are among the "practical issues" of the day, he said.

"I doubt if there is a single Canadian who doesn't know he or she is overtaxed."

John Diefenbaker, member for Lake Centre in Saskatchewan, accused the government of waste and extravagance. He said the government spent $25,000 to put Liberal signs on Radisson, Que., for a federal building in Montreal.

"Naval officers in Halifax wanted a road constructed to their paign."

Million Dollar Fire Levels Windsor Paint, Varnish Plant

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—An early-morning explosion and fire today destroyed the main building of the Standard Paint and Varnish Company in downtown Windsor. Firemen estimated damage at $1,000,000.

Adjoining buildings which housed 10,000 gallons of oils and volatile paint ingredients were threatened for a time.

Two men, night watchmen at the plant, were injured in the blast. Hospital officials said they suffered burns and severe shock.

They are James Bennett, 57, and Edward Walsh were knocked unconscious by the explosion as they ran from the building.

The explosion and fire levelled the 50-year-old building within minutes of the blast shortly after 2:30 a. m.

Firemen made no effort to save the main building and concentrated on keeping the fire from spreading to adjoining buildings filled with oils and paint. Hours after the first explosion, the fire was still out of control.

Cause is Puzzle

The explosion, heard over most of the city, caused residents in other sections of Windsor to think the blast which sent sheet flames shooting hundreds of feet in the air.

The entire Windsor fire department was called to fight the fire. They were hampered by intense heat generated by burning oils.

Witnesses said the explosion shattered windows over a four-block area. No persons were reported injured by the first glass. Witnesses said the whole of the main building was a mass of flames within seconds of the blast. Several smaller explosions followed the first blast.

Cause of the explosion is not known.

Minister Will Visit District

CHATHAM (CP) — Highways minister George Doucett will visit the Kent-Essex district to discuss grievances concerning the proposed new highway between Windsor and Toronto.

Mr. Doucett said Wednesday that Twinhis the next few weeks he will meet with the Southwestern Ontario Highways Association composed of farmers from areas along the proposed route of the highway.

The farmers have complained over scale of settlement for land purchases, damages and severance.

Woman Convicted Of Drowning Foster Child

DES ARC, Ark. (AP)—Linda Epperson Head, 33-year-old mother of two other children, was convicted Wednesday of the drowning of her foster daughter in a rain barrel, and sentenced to prison for 21 years.

Her husband, James Walter Head, 37, was found guilty of blame for the brutal killing, has been committed to the state hospital for the insane.

The bruised and lacerated body of five-year-old Mary Wells was found Dec. 30 in a homemade rain barrel behind Head's tenant house shack. An autopsy showed she was drowned.

Mrs. Head testified her husband beat the child to make her mind bad, holding her down, emptied her down in the barrel with a sledge hammer.

Steel Company Tosses Ball Back To CIO Director

HAMILTON (CP)—The Steel Company of Canada, currently engaged in wage negotiations with its employees, today tossed the ball back to C. H. Millard, National director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL).

The company for the company said it does not contemplate any general increase in the price of its products unless there is a further increase in the price of materials such as an increase in basic wages.

The spokesman, who declined to be named, was commenting on a statement made in Toronto Tuesday by Mr. Millard. The only reason why we have had no offer from the Steel Company of Canada is that they are waiting for United States concerns to announce price increases," the spokesman said.

The spokesman said that "with new U.S. steel prices declared, another inflationary upward wage-price spiral at this time would be disadvantage all Canadians, including the steelworkers themselves."

The union and Canadian company are negotiating over increases under a provision of the two-year contract signed in 1952. The U.S. pact is under the 1952 contract is 21.5½ an hour.

DEFENCE PLANTS TO OPERATE AFTER DEMAND EASES

Will Use Lines to Meet Commitments to NATO

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's mushroom-growth defence production facilities for the Korean action and the cold war are likely to be kept operating when the immediate demand for arms slackens.

The government is studying the possibility of keeping some production lines operating and using the goods to meet Canada's mutual aid commitments to NATO Allies, Production Minister Howe told the Commons Wednesday.

This, he said, would both keep a nucleus of Canadian industry alive now that the rearmament program is levelling off, and make a contribution to Western Europe's defences.

The minister's statement was made as he came under the annual fire from the opposition on his departmental estimates on their way through the House.

The opposition was directed mainly on the basis of the defence spending committee's report and the Commons this week after a long investigation. Majority and minority reports of the committee split sharply on the efficiency of government defence spending.

Opposition speakers contended the committee had been castrated in what it could look. They also renewed attacks on the way the defence production department —which does much buying for defence—handled the money.

Trade, wheat and foreign affairs also came under the eye of the Commons. Wednesday and pushed through major subjects with a prorogation coming up—the last before a general election now expected in August.

Training Plane Missing With 10 Men Aboard

LONDON (AP)—An RAF Valetta training plane, with 10 servicemen aboard, disappeared today after it became down in the Atlantic off England's southwest tip, the air ministry said today.

The plane took off this afternoon from Hullavington, in southwest England, on a routine training flight, the air ministry announced.

A large force of search planes is scouring the Atlantic off Land End, and all shipping in the area has been warned.

CAR THIEVES SLEEPY

WELLAND (CP)—Five tired juveniles ranging in age from 11 to 14 years were taken to Port Dover early today after they were discovered in possession of a stolen car by provincial police. The boys were parked on a country road, three of them asleep.

Agree To Demand Stubborn POW Stay In Korea

Allies Ask Time to Study New Communist Proposal

By ROBERT E. TUCKMAN

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Communists today unveiled a new compromise plan to break the Korean truce deadlock and the Allies immediately asked time for top-echelon study.

The eight-point proposal accepts one limited Allied demand—that 48,500 Communist prisoners who refuse to go home be left in Korea after an armistice rather than send to a neutral country.

It offers other concessions.

Even though the Reds made it clear the Allies must accept all or nothing, this appeared to be the first major break since the truce talks reopened April 26 in an effort to agree on exchange of sick and wounded prisoners.

The Allies said:

"This is an important proposal . . . that merits careful and considerable thought.

"Our major decisions must be made by the governments themselves."

The next meeting is scheduled for Saturday morning.

Harrison gave no clue as to official UN reaction. He said any comment he might make would be premature.

Two Concessions

The Red plan contains two concessions to Allied demands:

1. A five-country neutral repatriation commission to take custody—in Korea—of Reds who refuse to go home. The Reds suggested Sweden, Switzerland, Poland, India and Czechoslovakia.

Three Different Fire Brigades Turn Up at Blaze

CLINTON (CP)—Firemen in this neighborhood are too conscientious as far as the Goderich township fire chief is concerned.

Councillors objected to paying fees to three different fire brigades that turned up at a fire recently at James Cox's farm.

The Clinton brigade sent in a bill for $100 for two hours work. The Goderich brigade charged $50. The third fire crew from Bayfield didn't charge—it works on an annual retainer.

Councillors offered to pay the Clinton brigade $75 and call it the one called.

The fire is 35 miles northwest of Stratford.

Body Recovered At 4,900-Foot Level in Mine

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP)—The body of Leon Wojcechowski, 38, one of two men trapped by a rockburst at the Wright-Hargreaves gold mine April 27, was found today by a recovery squad working at the 4,900-foot level.

Wojcechowski and Leo Murray, 25, were buried under some 50 feet of rubble between the 4,800 and 4,900 levels. Murray's body was found Tuesday about 29 feet away from Wojcechowski.

Doctors said the men were killed instantly by the rockburst. Rescuers dug for 60 hours in an effort to free the men before giving up to their dead.

Officer Says Reds Obtaining Right Information

SEOUL (AP)—A U. S. division staff officer today expressed the opinion that Communist spies are obtaining information on Allied troop movements in Korea "either in Washington or Japan."

"One night on the front the Reds broadcast across no-man's-land that our outfit was going to be pulled out of the line," the officer said. "We didn't even have the word at division yet. In fact, it was several days before we got the word.

"They must have got the dope either in Washington or Japan."

The Communists, since the war was stabilized along a definite line, frequently broadcast to United Nations troops. It is not uncommon for the Reds to identify units, even down to company size level.

Canada's Coronation Squadron Slips Anchor and Heads for Naval Review

HALIFAX (CP) — Pennants flying, pipes shrilling, Canada's Coronation squadron slipped anchorage at 0th tide today and made its first stop on the way to join the Commonwealth naval review off Spithead, England, June 15.

It was the biggest concentration of naval strength in Canada's history—12 tonnage and firepower goes, though many times during the Second World War there were more warships berthed in the sheltering reaches of this old North Atlantic seaport.

The largest single Canadian flotilla ever to sail under the Canadian ensign, the 17,700-ton carrier Magnificent, the 8,000-ton destroyers Quebec and Ontario, and the 2,650-ton destroyer Sioux, which served in the Korean war as early as July, 1950.

The 1,900-ton frigates Swansea and Antigonish, the smallest ships to take part in the Spithead review, put their sailing date has been delayed by 24 hours to take aboard university naval cadets.

It'll be more than simply spit and polish for the 2,000 sailors aboard the Canadian ships.

The Magnificent, her flightdeck jostled with Sea Fury fighters and anti-submarine Avengers—the 30th carrier air group—steamed past a cheering waterfront crowd in tactical exercises off the coast with RCAF planes.

At the same time, the cruisers were to play up with each other in their first drills together since they became two of the navy's heavy hitters.

Before the flotilla reaches Portsmouth, it will call at St. John also on Royal Navy planes in strike formation and later, before the review by the Queen in the yacht Surprise, hold drills off the south coast of England.

Heading the line-astern procession will be the small harbor craft the Quebec, flagship of Rear Admiral Roger Bidwell, flag officer Canada Coast and commander of the Coronation squadron.

City and District News

AB. DON CORNELL COMING HOME ON FURLOUGH

Abel Seaman Donald Cornell, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Cornell, 71 South John Street, will arrive home this week-end from Halifax for a well-deserved furlough. Cornell has been in the navy service in the Royal Canadian Navy and was a member of the crew of the cruiser HMCS "Ontario" when it was on a record South American cruise.

He was transferred to the east coast, where he is engaged in in fitting out a new Canadian Man o' War.

CARP POPULATION BEING DEPLETED

Fishermen are said to be reaping some kind of a harvest from the carp population in the Bay of Quinte.

Gilly Goyer, well-known commercial fisherman of the district said yesterday that an afternoon haul netted 1,000 pounds of fish.

Working with Clarence MacDonald in the Whitney Marsh near Ashcroffs, Goyer pulled in fish some of which weighed forty pounds. The weights tapered down to ten pounds. The most unlikely price, he said, is eleven cents.

JEWELLER RECEIVES WIDE ACCLAIM FOR CRAFTSMANSHIP

The handsome replica of British's Royal Crown, made by Paul Mercier, Front Street jeweller has attracted wide attention.

The Crown is now on display in Montreal. Mr. Mercier has had several requests from various organizations who want to display it. Included in these are St. Michael's cub pack; Shrine Club ladies' auxiliary; Kinsmen Boys' Band executive and others.

Mr. Mercier has received letters of congratulation on the beauty and craftsmanship of the Crown.

PAUL MERCIER ACQUIRES NEW SITE FOR JEWELRY STORE

Paul Mercier, Front Street jeweller, has acquired a former store formerly occupied by the Rochon Company, butchers on Front Street. Mr. Mercier expects to occupy the new premises within a month.

Veterans Hold District Meeting At Tweed

The annual convention of District F in Ontario of the Canadian Legion was held in Tweed on Sunday. More than 300 delegates from the 23 branches which comprise the district were on hand to take part in the discussion of Legion activities. Many years of veterans' welfare were thoroughly discussed and several resolutions calling for improved assistance by the Department of Veterans Affairs for needy veterans were approved by the group.

A splendid dinner by the Legionnaires was held and a wreath deposited on the Tweed cenotaph. The massed colors of all the Legion branches provided a striking background for the memorial service.

The election of officers for the coming year was held. Comrade Jack Burnett, present District Commander, was returned for another term in that office. Comrade J. Lovell, present commander of the Canadian Legion in Belleville, was elected first vice-district commander.

An invitation by the Belleville branch to hold the next district convention in Belleville was accepted by the group.

Mr. Roscoe Robson, M. P. P., was at the meeting and in speaking to the group referred to the very commendable services performed by the Canadian Legion not only for the veterans but for the welfare of Canada itself.

Field Marshal Freed

ALLMENDINGEN, Germany (AP)—Field Marshal Erich von Manstein was freed today from a British war crimes sentence and was given a tumultuous ovation from hundreds of Germans.

The 66-year-old field marshal served eight years of a 12-year term for atrocities committed by German troops under his command in Russia.

BIG UNION

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Membership in the Swedish Confederation of Trade Unions increased by about 26,000 during 1952 to a total of 1,338,926. Largest single union is the metal-workers' union, numbering 233,379, followed by the building workers, 119,678.

CNR Bowlers Enjoy Banquet, Receive Prizes

Canadian National Railway keglers had reluctant farewell to another highly successful season last night when they gorged themselves with a turkey banquet dinner and saw champions and others given trophies and prizes, at the annual banquet held in Kiwanis Centre.

That 66-year-old youngster Harry Robinson, president for the past two years, was in the chair and formally presented the J. D. McAllister Trophy to the league champion Stores team through Sam Halbert.

Other prizes were presented to the various teams which finished the season in the following order. The runner-up was the Conlines team who finished one point behind the Storesquad. Then came Socos, Wreckers, Rural Shop, Bell Switchboard and Despatchers.

The various captains, Lionel Train, Despatchers; Doug McLaughlin, Wreckers; Buck Rogers, Yard; Gerry Scott, Conlines; Don Leckie, Locos; Louis Kline, Prop Shop; Ray Nolan, Stores, and George McKillop, Boilermakers collected their team prizes and gave brief complimentary addresses. Mr. Train and Al. McCullough also spoke briefly.

President Robinson summed up his address with a few words. "It has been a great season and hope you enjoyed it as much as I did."

Individual prizes presented by secretary Cy Young went to G. Bellis, high average, 232; Sam Halbert, high triple 890, and A. Taylor, high single, 407.

Mr. Halbert, in special tribute to the ladies of the CNRAA Ladies' Auxiliary for the splendid repast. Mrs. F. B. Cross made gracious appreciative response.

Al Meagher spoke briefly on the Recreation Field saying that some $13,000 have been spent on it. Efforts of the association are being recognized from coast to coast, he said. "We have a good field now and the future looks good. The CNRAA softball team has been invited to play two exhibition games in Montreal May 30 and the other in London.

Handsome New Bata Company Shoe Store Officially Opened By Mayor, Warden, Officials

Colorful asset to the Front Street business section, the Bata Shoe Company of Canada's handsome new store was officially opened this morning.

Civic municipal dignitaries with high ranking company officials were present at the opening ceremonies as a crowd-packed entrance looked on.

Mayor A. McLean Haig cut a wide scarlet ribbon shortly after ten o'clock and declared the new store officially open. He was assisted by Warden Jack Kincaid, of Hastings county.

"It is a pleasure for me, on behalf of the citizens of Belleville and the city council to congratulate Dr. C. E. Herr on this handsome addition to the business section of this city," Mayor Haig said. "We all know the great contribution the Bata Shoe Company has made to not only this city and province but to the Dominion as well."

"I am delighted to see that the Bata Company decided to locate this fine store and this fine group another link in the great chain of improvement in the business section of Belleville.

"I now declare this store to be officially open."

Warden Adds Tribute

Warden Kincaid said he was thrilled to be present at the opening "We in Hastings county are proud of the Bata Shoe Company for after all it' is a part of the county."

Prior to the opening Mr. Wilfred Parry, director of the personnel of the company, extended a cordial welcome to the large crowd, that awaited the opening. "This is the happiest opening the Bata Shoe Company has ever had," he said, "and this is due to the fact that we are home. It is most important that the first store should be located among our own people to serve all our friends in this district."

Included among company officials were Dr. Herr, vice-president of the Bata Company of Canada; Mr. Antony Cekuta, director of research for the Bata Bata chain; Mr. Parry, Alex Haviland, retail manager; Gordon Thring, manager import and export; Ray Hill, property manager; Joe Placidi, retail division, and Arthur Duncan, public relations officer.

The male members of the staff were handsomely garbed in blue blazers with gold Bata crests and grey flannels while the lady members were trim in dresses of purple and green tied and yellow roses were pinned on the lapels of the special guests as they entered the store.

Famous Canadiens on Hand

Centre of attraction outside the handsome interior of the store were the famous members of the Montreal Canadiens world championship hockey club, Maurice "The Rocket" Richard, and Kenneth Mosdell. The players were introduced to the crowd by Mr. Parry, and they received a tremendous ovation.

Reverberating explosions echoed in the morning air as huge firecrackers were set off at rear of the building. Explosions from the sky freckled against the blue as hidden aerial bombs detonated.

The handsomely-dressed windows attracted a lot of attention. Maps of Ontario and the city of Belleville twinkled as tiny lights flashed on and off denoting the location of Bata Stores. Belleville's latest addition was marked with a large light.

Replicas of the coats-of-arms of the county of Hastings and the city of Belleville were hung in prominent positions.

The crowd poured into the store in a steady stream from ten o'clock 'on and many complimentary remarks were heard on the beauty of the interior and the display of goods.

Tastefully Decorated

The store with its 100-foot depth and twenty-six foot width is roomy, airy and tastefully decorated in soft eye-pleasing colors.

Indirect fluorescent lighting softens a soft glow on walls done in Marshall pink that blends perfectly with the shades of the ceiling.

Mirrored alcoves are inserted in the walls in series of threes. The pretty coloring of the decor and the soft lighting make a flattering against a background of colorful shades brings out well achieved proper intervals.

The interior is carefully laid out with the accent on customer comfort and easy accessibility, to merchandise.

The men's department is located to the right as one enters the store. Milady's choice of footwear is exclusively on the left, while at rear of the spacious interior is a special children's department.

The management had an eye for children's comfort. A low rack for children's shoes complete with toys is available where tiny tots may while away time while mother is shopping.

Comfortable chairs are tastefully decorated in chartreuse green and solid grey.

The decorative and distinguished is the handsome front of the new store. It is finished in glistening white panelling with the deep red of the stone and the "Bata" done in standard script effecting in colorful design the solidity of the store while the lower sign is neon-lighted. An outstanding street sign overhangs the pavement.

Spacious Windows

The back of the outside display been forgotten. Spacious windows angle inward from Front down angle inward from Front to a depth of twenty-five feet to the store entrance. Ample space is provided for elaborate merchandise displays.

A colorful feature of the interior is pictures of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh. They are handsomely framed and flanked with the letters "E.R." in gold. They are laced high on the left wall of the store.

The Belleville store, according to company officials, is the 6413 of the far-flung Bata chain of retail outlets in Canada. Its design, they say will be the trend architecturally and otherwise for all stores of the future.

Mr. Harry Kalbo, manager of the store, comes here with a wealth of experience. He was manager of one of the larger Bata stores in England for seventeen years before coming to Canada two or three years ago.

The windows of the new store presented a masterpiece of the window-dressers art this morning. The gleaming silver of athletic trophies added to the colorful display of merchandise that attracted plenty of attention. The famous Canadian cup, emblematic of world hockey supremacy, occupied a place of honor in the south window. Nearby stood the "Belleville Athlete of the Year" trophy won for the first time by Vernon Goyer.

Dachshund Is Foster Mother To Two Wolf Pups

Things have finally worked out to a satisfactory conclusion for a female dachshund belonging to Newton Kincaid, of Madoc, brother of the Hastings County Warden. Several weeks ago the dachshund gave birth to a litter but things didn't work out to her satisfaction and the pups were lost from the hopeful mother. Fate came to the rescue the other day in the form of two five-day-old timber wolves captured by a settler in the Coe Hill area.

An unidentified farmer discovered a female wolf on his property recently, nursing three pups. He and his 11-year-old son went after her with an axe and managed to get two of the pups into their home. For the next two or three evenings, mother wolf spent the night hours lowing at the farmer's back door.

At last, the two pups were bundled up and taken to Madoc where they were given to Ray Burris, owner of a sports' shop in the town. Mr. Burris has been feeding the animals with a bottle, but this proved unsuccessful. On Wednesday Mr. Kincaid brought the dachshund into Mr. Burris' store and showed her the newly-acquired family. Apparently, for the first few feedings the foster mother was a trifle reluctant. The sports' shop owner said she had to be held down while the meals were in progress.

However, she finally became reconciled to the fact she was to feed the strangers and now according to Mr. Burris, she won't let anyone near her new family. A spokesman for the department of lands and forests said the policy of keeping and raising wild animals is none too flexible. In the case of timber wolves, the official pointed out, they are extremely vicious when full grown. Describing them as a menace, he said, in all his experience he had never heard of a really tame wolf. Enlarging upon his remarks, he stated, in the instances he has known about, the owners have always regretted keeping the animals.

Mr. Burris said he should like to keep the little wolves and raise them if it is possible. In the meantime, however, the pups are enjoying a weekly swim among resentful ducks.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices turned downward in a weekend advance in forenoon stock market trading today.

Base metals led the losses while industrials and western oils also slipped. Golds were mixed.

Volume for the first hour totalled 861,000 shares.

Uraniums weakened. New Brunswick base metals were mixed.

Industrials turned lower on losses in foods, manufacturing companies, banks and papers but utilities rose.

Higher priced base metals had a wide list of losses. Most other issues also slipped.

Western oils attracted little interest and prices slipped.

Junior gold producers were firm but holding companies weakened. Seniors were unchanged.

Youth Suffers Fractured Skull In Collision

Thrown from his motorcycle when it collided with a motor car at a Dundas street intersection, George McFarland, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stan McFarland, R. R. 7, Belleville, last night suffered a fractured skull, broken ankle and cut knee. His condition today was reported as "critical."

McFarland, who was trying out a motorbike owned by a local used car dealer, was westbound on Dundas Street when a car driven by Gladyse Lumb, 37 Isobel Street, emerged from Ann Street and turned left. The bike slammed into the rear fender of the car, throwing the rider to the ground. The bike continued on and was stopped by a school fence.

Dairy Cattle Sell at Lowest Prices in Years

Believed due in some respects to the unsettled cheese market, dairy cattle are now selling at prices the cheapest in years, according to the weekly crop report issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

In contrast, however, to the comparatively low prices for cattle, there is a heavy demand for young pigs with prices ranging up to $14 for weanling pigs.

The crop report that all cheese factories in Prince Edward County are now operating. Some young stock have been out on grass in Northumberland but in Hastings and Prince Edward cattle for the most part are being still stable-fed.

Due to the frequent rains there was little progress in seeding during the past week. Farmers report conditions satisfactory for germination and good and hopeless in wet areas.

Prince Edward County reports prospects of a heavy load of blossoms on most cherry and apple orchards.

Miss E. W. Bamber Describes Girl Guide Work in S. Africa

More than 450 Girl Guides from Northumberland, Lennox-Addington, Hastings, Kingston and other outside district centres were present at Queen Alexandra School, Wednesday night, to hear Miss E. W. Bamber, camp advisor of Girl Guides for the Transvaal of South Africa, now on a tour of Canada. Miss Bamber will return to South Africa late in August.

The general Guiding in South Africa was much the same as it is in Canada, Miss Bamber said, at least in principle. Because of language difficulties, it was necessary to have two groups, one of Whites, one of Blacks. One of the most enlightening features of the Guide movement in her native land, she said, was the fact that the women of the Blacks were showing exceptional interest in Guide work.

"Because of the climate," she explained, "we can't camp in our country the year 'round. We have no permanent camps, as you have here, no permanent buildings at all. We live in under canvas. This has its advantages. The country, being what it is, we can spend a great deal of our time in the open.

While South Africa is not a wealthy country, the Guides take advantage of the municipal swimming pools which almost every city in South has, in all, she said, there were more than 11,000 Girl Guides in South Africa, with another 9,000 Brownies, although girls in this age group among the Blacks are called Sunbeams.

Most of the groups were formed at schools and mission stations, she concluded.

Miss Bamber was introduced by Miss Margaret Polter, camp advisor for Ontario, who is accompanying her on her trip which is sponsored by the World Bureau and Girl Guides Association.

Other speakers were Mary Ellen Long, of Stirling, who described her first Guide camp last year at Moira Lake and Eleanor Clarke, Belleville, who gave her impressions of the national camp held last year at Ottawa.

Mrs. R. D. Arnott, commissioner for Hastings, was chairman of the meeting.

Stolen Clothing From Clothes Lines Found

Last winter's clothes line thefts in the East Hill district which resulted in the disappearance of feminine undergarments were partially solved yesterday.

They were solved, that is, to the extent that most of the loot was recovered but the culprit responsible for the thefts is still unknown.

While playing in the attic of their father's garage, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Robertson, 184 Wellington Street, came across a pile of feminine clothing. They carried their find in to their mother with the result that in due course police were notified.

Police blame the clothes line thefts on some transient who is believed to have used the attic of the Robertson garage as sleeping quarters. When the transient moved on he left the clothes line loot behind.

So last night residents in the area who had missed articles from clothes lines called around to the Robertson home to identify their property.

Memorial Park Cannot be Used For Sports Field

Boys in the Station Street district will be denied the use of Memorial Park on which to play baseball, if the parks board officials have their say.

Parks superintendent Nicholson says there was an extensive program of pavilification carried out on several Park lots this year and has asked the co-operation of young people in the district in not using the grounds as a playing field. Last evening police checked on the park and found a ballgame in progress. The boys were told that if the police they would have to play elsewhere.

CASH TAKEN FROM INSURANCE OFFICE

An unstated amount of cash was taken last night from the Great West Life Insurance Co. office, 219 Front St. Employees found the office door insecure when they reported for work this morning and a check revealed the petty cash box had been raided. Police said the latch on the door had been sprung.

Jarka Novak, Batawa, Wins Singing Scholarship in Contest at Albert

An 18-year-old Belleville Collegiate girl, Jarka Novak of Batawa, last night won the singing scholarship in the girls' section at the third annual R.P.H.S.Q.S.A. singing contest held in the Albert College Chapel. Winner of the $100 music scholarship among the four boy contestants was 17-year-old James Laughlin of St. Catharines, a student of Albert College. Professor J. P. Halg, associate professor of music at the Ontario College of Education in Toronto, picked the winners.

There were four girls competing for the scholarship and four boys, representing the four senior schools in the city, Belleville Collegiate and Vocational Institute, St. Michael's Academy, St. Michael's High School and Albert College. All contestants were semi-finalists winners at competitions held in the four schools earlier.

Exceptional Student

Miss Novak, a senior at B.C.I.V.S., is described by Principal G. E. Currie as an "exceptionally fine all-round student," plans to attend the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto after graduation this year. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frosco Novak of Batawa. Her father is a foreman in the Bata factory.

Mr. Laughlin is a third-year student at Albert College. His father, George Laughlin, was the former physical training director at Belleville Collegiate prior to moving to St. Catharines and entering the accountancy business.

Other contestants were: June Bowerman, a student of Belleville Collegiate; Pauline Laporte, St. Michael's Academy; Elaine Dick, Albert College; Gary Walker, B.C.I.V.S.; Bernard St. Michael's High School and Gordon Babbitt, B.C.I.V.S.

Each contestant sang two songs; Mr. Laughlin's choice including the extremely difficult aria "Vesti La Jubba," the piece of music made famous by the late Enrico Caruso. Professor Halg, commenting upon Mr. Laughlin's presentation said he was "pleasantly surprised so difficult a piece had been so ably handled."

Besides presenting the contestants, Miss Carolyn Forhan and Robert Burke, last year's winners rendered solos for the audience appreciation. Worthy of comment was the music sung by the Albert College choir shortly before intermission. Under the direction of J. H. MacKay, school music director, the choir sang three selections, the last of which, the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," from the motion picture, "Stars and Stripes Forever," was presented in a manner which was nothing less than magnificent.

The S. F. B. E. S. S. A. chorus also gave an excellent performance in three selections.

The efforts of two of the girl contestants, must not go unmentioned. June Bowerman received generous applause for her two selections and it must have been a difficult task for Professor Halg to make his choice. Soprano person in the audience felt Miss Bowerman had given a prize-winning performance. Pauline Laporte also delivered her choice of songs with a depth of feeling and sincerity often missing in vocalists today. However, Mr. Laughlin was the popular choice of the entire audience as well as the adjudicator among the contestants.

Altogether the eight contestants, the 1952 winners and the two choral groups supplied those attending with an extremely entertaining evening.

The Rev. A. E. MacKenzie, B.A., principal of Albert College and the president of the local chapter of the S. F. B. E. S. S. A., Mr. Sills-Ilitoe extended a welcome to the audience.

STRIKES HEAD ON PAVEMENT

While running to catch the Trenton Bus at the four corners late yesterday afternoon, Jack Kelly 78, a resident of the Hastings County Home, fell striking his head on the pavement, opening a deep cut in his skull.

He was taken to the Belleville General Hospital, given emergency treatment and admitted. Dr. Van Blaricom, the attending physician, said the man was suffering from cuts and bruises.

CORBIN BOWLERS WIND UP SEASON

The Corbin Mixed Bowling League wound up a successful season at the Bowlerama the other day. The final standing was Fasterns, 3884; Utah Plates 3699; Levers 3673; Paddocks, 3283

Cup winners were Carmel Miller, Charlie Kellar; Jim Burt, Clayton Kellar, Sheila Power and Cecil Moore.

"Jumbo" Graham won the high single prize with a 287 and also the high triple with a 750.

IN THE PARISH MAGAZINES

This year, when so many Canadian writers will be in Britain for the Coronation, we would like to see one of them struck by the material for a good feature story in the parish magazines of the Old Country. They appear to be a peculiarly British—or Church of England—institution, and are obviously newsworthy.

All we know about them is that from time to time the pertinent views expressed in one or another will merit the attention of Fleet Street and via Reuters, the Associated Press or Canadian Press services in London are finally passed along to us.

It might be the vicar of Twiddley-by-the-Thames confessing to his parishioners that he, too, occasionally invests a shilling in the football pools, or the vicar of Twickenham taking a dim view of most things except the village pub which he recognizes as so thoroughly British that one might as well inveigh against the Crown itself. Some times the parish magazine carries a sharp rebuke which warrants attention farther afield. Or, perhaps, a gentle admonition worthy of quoting because of its timeliness and the language in which it is couched.

In any event the infrequent excerpts which come our way are never dull and the latest we have seen, relayed by Reuters, is one of downright good humor. The vicar of Ilfracombe in Devon has set out a code of commandments for his flock in the parish magazine. They include a few which we are sure every minister we know will heartily endorse:

"Thou shalt follow the sidesmen on to the seat pointed out to thee and go on to the farthest and thereof, not making thyself a nuisance by stepping the corns of thy feet by having latecomers squeeze by thee.

"Thou shalt harken diligently unto the words of thy minister and not divert thy attention by planning thy dinner, deriving a way by which thou mayest avat thy business rival, and especially not distort thy countenance and give forth sonorous sounds by failing into a deep sleep.

"Thou shalt not unduly stare at thy wrist watch during the service, giving the impression that thy mind is on thy dinner, early afternoon golf or cinema, or the charabanc of trip that thou art taking.

"Thou shalt not interrupt the benediction by putting on thy gloves and coat before the close of the service that then mayest be able to make a getaway before the vicar hath any time to speak to thee."

The above is just a sample of the tid-bits that are quoted from time to time from the parish magazines. Others even more engaging and human in their appeal will probably be remembered by some readers. So it would be pleasing, we think, to see some Canadian writer abroad this summer tell us more about the parish magazines.

GEOGRAPHIC MYSTERY SOLVED

In the "lost-and-found" department there is room for an amazing miscellany of things mislaid, lost track of, or just simply forgotten, but it appears that Canada has set something of a new record. Canadian surveyors have re-discovered a 200-mile-long river, lost almost a century in the Arctic.

In 1858, a French Oblate missionary, Father Petitot, found a new river which drains an almost unexplored section of country between Great Bear Lake and the Arctic coast. This unchannelled lake, in the treeless Tundra is no prospect of gold in the area and even barren-lands' Indians seldom venture into it.

In 1865 Father Petitot published an account of his explorations in the area in the bulletin of the Geographical Society of Paris. He claimed to have visited three rivers flowing northward and had found their headwaters in the high lands just north of Great Bear Lake. He recognized two of the rivers as identical with ones which had been previously described. The third he named, La Ronciere, after an admiral of the French navy.

Father Petitot did not claim to have followed the river to its mouth. The heavy fog constantly overhanging the land made this impossible, he reported. He did, however, conjecture its probable course and the place where it presumably entered the Arctic Ocean.

Thereafter the river remained unchallenged until 1889, when a naturalist of the American Museum of Natural History found a large river emptying into Darnley Bay on the Arctic. It was not on any map. On the other hand he could find no trace of the mouth of the La Ronciere, as it had been placed on Petitot's maps. Furthermore, he estimated this river to be larger than the Mackenzie, nearly short one draining from a large lake only a few miles inland. He named it the Hornaday, after the director of the New York Zoological Society.

It was not until RCAF topographical survey photographs were studied recently that the mystery of the missing La Ronciere began to clear up. As a result, F. Mac-Kay and J. R. Fraser of the Canadian Department of Mines and Technical Surveys carried out the exploration journey which was to prove that the La Ronciere, long lost, and the Hornaday, long well-known in the northland, were one and the same river.

Father Petitot had incorrectly estimated the direction in presuming a course for the La Ronciere would take to the Arctic. The naturalist, at its mouth on the Arctic, incorrectly estimated the extent it flowed from the south.

JUST FOLKS

ABOUT CHILDREN

"Children should be seen, not heard."
That of notions most absurd
Heads the list.
Left their sayings cute without,
What would parents brag about?

Still each busy little tongue
Fills a home
What would mothers of their young
Have to tell?

Who would give the gads we meet
Witty sayings to repeat?

Shush–that mercy, noisy boy!
And what then?
What would grandfolks have to enjoy
Most,
To pen?

"Children should be seen, not heard."
Dull the days if that occurred.

MAY 13, 1953

Workers at the Dominion Parasitic Laboratory on East Moodie Drive, Trenton, are engaged during the past few weeks in the annual task of breeding parasites, chief among them being the principal foe of the corn borer, which will be liberated in a large number in corn fields of the central section within the next month. Last year the work of control in the badly infested corn belts of the central section met with considerable success, and farmers all through the district were loud in their praise of the splendid work done in protecting the corn. This year special emphasis will be placed on the study of the control of forest insects of a number of varieties. Ravages of the cedar beetle are becoming all through this section, which caused some alarm a few years ago, have been partly checked as a result of work at the laboratory here. In time, if the advice of the laboratory is followed, it is hoped that the menace will be effectively controlled.

The tulip beds of Dr. Emma Cannon on Pinnacle St. are now in full bloom and the flowers are admired daily by many citizens. The gardens of the colors is decidedly beautiful.

This week sees the end of their nets at Point Traverse, Prince Edward County, Morley Reid-ston and Charlie Hudgins, fishermen, landed a sturgeon which weighed 70 pounds. A good price was obtained for the fish.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In a cigar store yesterday, I was astonished to overhear the following conversation. The customer said:

"A packet of cigarettes, please."

"What kind?" enquired the young lady.

"Why it doesn't matter. Any kind," said the customer.

The young lady, born and raised in the tradition of advertising was completely at sea for a minute. She turned and faced the racks of cigarettes and fumbled helplessly while he made up her mind. Finally she selected a well known popular brand and handed them to the amused customer.

"They're all the same to you, are they?" I asked the customer.

"Aren't they to you?" he retorted. "I can't tell one from the other. I notice that when anybody offers someone else a cigarette, they always accept it, and seem to enjoy it. I've long ceased being choosey in this life. One good motor car is as good as another, one good hat, one good kind of soap – they're all good."

Both the young girl behind the counter and I were deeply shocked by the heresy being uttered by this cheery stranger. He was installing all the very tools of advertising, of business, of our way of life, loud, vociferous, clamorous, suppliant.

"Then you don't believe in advertising?" I suggested.

"I sure do. I am in the advertising business myself. It's dangerous man." All advertising does is prove that one thing is as good as another. If it were not so, there would be no need for advertising. Everybody would know that one thing was better than others. I sometimes think that I serve useful purpose in forcing the smokers of this town to make good; but the chief function of advertising is to attempt to sell one good thing in competition with another good thing."

He was just tearing the cellophane off his newly bought packet. I offered him, one of mine from my case. He smilingly accepted; I held my lighter for him. He took a pull and nearly choked his hat off.

"Hand rolled," I explained. "From some tobacco my uncle grows at the back end of his vegetable garden."

People or Food

(Oshawa Times-Gazette)

Britain's greatest problem is feeding its 50 million people. The solution is an effort to export more of its people, or earn dollars to import foodstuffs.

Man With a Garden

(From the New York Times "Years Together")

The man whose fortune or misfortune it is to possess a garden will be easy to recognize for the next several Monday mornings. He has only to observe that the recent heavy rains have made the ground soft and workable, and to continue his way busy bringing order out of the chaos left by winter. He will be easy to recognize because his usual erect carriage lists slightly, and there is a clear, if muddy path where he stumps into the chair behind his desk. There is another unmistakable sign to identify the man with a garden. Several times on the way to of his hands there will be a bandage—the badge of a man whose hands have not yet hardened, and whose first harvest is a bumper crop of blisters.

Not to Be Done

It would not do to tell the hysterate gardener that he should resume the work interrupted by winter in a gradual manner. There is much work to be done, he insists, and this work must be done in two weeks—before the summer arrives." It will not do to remind such a gentleman farmer that summer for many days of many days of daylight saving time in which he may expect to be put to advantage.

For he prides to make the garden look double this year from the standpoint of production. Early planting, he declares, would bring this about. With a good start the garden, he argues, will be able will stand off the ravages of insects, weeds and the midsummer drought. He will escape the worst of the heavy rainfalls of the past few years. In these times, there is even the possibility of two crops of some items, provided the planting of the first is done early enough. Besides the garden will be finished before the winter, and will take much work to prepare it for planting.

The Real Cover

The ground, he has discovered, is not soft if it is fertile. Those recent rains have packed the earth even harder than it was before. It is the fertilizer that is the real cover. Fertilizer is what this garden is worked by a human machine wielding a spade or fork. Fertilizer is what this machine works harder at 4 p. m. than at 10 a. m. for some reason. There is an unusually large crop of rocks this year. Whether they were left there by the gremlins who use the garden for a playground in winter or are pushed up from some subterranean depth that was thought well covered by topsoil and loam is not important. What is important is that they were not there last summer, and must be removed one by painful one, lest they make cultivation of young and tender plant difficult or impossible. Estimates of the size of this collection of rocks is hard to make, but it must be remembered that these estimates are highly subjective, arrived at after long hours of sitting and contemplating them, and with the effective remedies provided by long dormant and now prideatly remaining muscles.

If questioned, the man with a garden will admit that he has had some help in his endeavors. But, he insists, while attractively priced at what the owner says is the latest thing for gardening, this helper is for the most part an advisor. There is the advice that the larger rocks be put aside in the fall enough of them will be garnered to make a small rock garden in one corner of the yard.

Just what may be the relation between the busy skipper breakfast of toast and coffee or cereal pap and coffee, or a roll and coffee, or cake and coffee, or a doughnut and coffee, or a waffle and coffee, or coffee and coffee, and the peptic ulcer complex, or so-called "nervous indigestion," or the dependence misnamed "mucous colitis," or, as a lot of outfits express it, the need for a stimulant, I do not know, but I believe it is widely misunderstood.

Do not infer that I disapprove the use of coffee by adults. On the contrary I approve coffee for the ideal stimulant and restorative for any adult who is tired, fagged out, weary or depressed. When one feels the need of a stimulant or a lift he should not take that will cheer but not inebriate. Whether the main or heavy food meal of the day is called dinner or supper

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

WHICH IS YOUR MAIN MEAL?

Some eager beaver whose name I do not recollect made the front page recently as the result of a specialist who urges people with ulcer or other digestive tract disorders to make breakfast the main meal of the day and eat three or four very light meals for the rest of the day.

Dr. Brady

My dollar-a-year adviser in the field of chemistry has had ulcer for years and he learned by experience long ago that he gets along with a minimum of trouble by eating a hearty breakfast of soup and salad, meat and vegetables, bread and butter 'n' every thing except dessert, and three or four light meals the rest of the 24 hours.

Just what may be the relation between the hearty breakfast and the dependence misnamed "mucous colitis," or, as a lot of outfits express it, the need for a stimulant, I do not know, but I believe it is widely misunderstood.

Do not infer that I disapprove the use of coffee by adults. On the contrary I approve coffee for the ideal stimulant and restorative for any adult who is tired, fagged out, weary or depressed. When one feels the need of a stimulant or a lift he should not take that will cheer but not inebriate. Whether the main or heavy food meal of the day is called dinner or supper is a matter of personal preference.

Some people prefer to have it at mid-day or after the day's work is done, and it is a question of custom or habit.

In countries where the main meal is taken at mid-day the midday siesta is customary too — a rest of hours or sometimes and rest for two hours after feeding. This custom has considerable merit when climate or season is very hot and humid.

Contrary to a popular notion, a dose or nap after eating favors digestion and a bedtime lunch, snack or full meal favors restful sleep. Only excesses in eating drinking or smoking cause insomnia, or nightmares after a "late supper."

Offhand it may seem paradoxical that one who regularly eats two or 2½ meals a day accumulates superfluous fat while another who regularly eats four meals-a day does not. It is simply a question of total calories in the day's food.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Malreatment

Daughter, 14, has a bad scar on her upper lip as the result of cauterization of a dog bite last July. Is it permissible for a surgeon to believe you have a bookish about such blemishes . . . (M. E.)

Ans—Scientific cosmetic (plastic) surgery may make the mutilation less conspicuous, but no remedy I can suggest will help. It is regrettable that a doctor in the 20th century reverts to the 19th century methods. Proper treatment by antitoxin would have been protection against any conceivable infection and this scar would time left little or no scar. It would be ideal in such cases to consult a surgeon in cosmetic or plastic surgeon from first to last.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BE ALL OF A PIECE

We ought to so formulate and plan our lives as always to remain all of a piece—never changing the main objective, but forever seeking to improve our lot and station in life. Consistency is a fine virtue, as far as we are able, a ballast life.

It's our variety of interests that do more than anything else to give us a balanced character. Failing into ruts not only slows our speed in getting things accomplished, but it damages our initiative, which attempts leads to degeneration and inertia. A well-rounded life gives to us vision and a hope for better things ahead.

You can't very easily pick a career with one way out and ordered his life that he is at once tolerant, just and understanding. He has judgment and is not irritated by petty criticism and unfair accusations. William James, the famous psychologist, in commenting on what makes a life significant, said: "The first thing to learn in intercourse with others is non-interference with their own individuality. Being keenly provided those ways do not assume to injure the other's violence with ours. No one has insight into all the ideals."

The Golden Rule was widely acclaimed because of his all-around ability as an athlete. Many judged him the greatest of all time. He led in all that he attempted. Albert Schweitzer has been called by Life Magazine "the greatest man in the world today." To be great and respected to pay any attention to such a compliment, but it is interesting to note that a physician, theologian, musician, author, philosopher and teacher. Yet some thirty years ago he gave up all these brilliant achievements to devote his whole energy to the people in Africa. And he is happy. The New York Times referred to him as a man "of infinite virtue."

To be all of a piece is to have compact character. Selfless and genuine. An inspiration to all who may come in contact with us. Certainly an ideal worth striving for!

Open Season On Crooners?

(Montreal Daily Star)

Bob singer Johnny Ray, a United Press dispatch from Manchester states, has been married to his ex-semi-conclusive actress Dorothy Dandridge, double equivalent of bobby-soxers. The incident prompts questions.

How did the police know that this celebrated crooner was semi-conscious?

We have heard him sing more than once, and we think here, with impression that, if not semi-conscious, he was not fully self conscious. He was certainly sweating.

Secondly, it seems to us no great harm would be done by declaring the open season on police to crooners, and withdraw the protection which the police put the game laws. They would have to be a little quicker and more on a safer, if less spectacular career. Perhaps it's the excitement that makes them so dangerous.

A DIP FOR THE LOSERS

(Manchester Guardian)

New ideas for Coronation celebrations are being eagerly sought after. And why not? The spirit of Lincolnshire, though it is applicable only to those areas which have a river are not to be inappropriate size.

It is in the form of a tug-of-war across the river Well and by many Well and by many communities. Twelve men from the adjoining village of Market Deeping and the county will be picked until all the twelve of one team on the other have been truly doused in the water of the river.

It all began when a notice was posted on the door of the Inn Gate with the assertion that the village could beat any rural village. Such challenges do not go without acceptance even in twentieth-century England. And it was not long before another notice gave the information that the challenge had been taken up by Spaldington and true, of strong physique."

Exit Steam Roller

(Winnipeg Tribune)

The last of the city's steam rollers are to be auctioned off. Since 1906 these splendid clanking machines have been hurtling and puffing on Winnipeg streets, flattening out their jobs as levelers. Now they are to be sold and replaced by streamlined rubber tired machines by internal combustion engines.

Immigrant Success

(London Free Press)

There is a useful moral in the story of Stefan Hajdu, penniless immigrant and former clerk in a Hungarian bank, who, in five years has turned a run-down farm near Blyth into a $25,000 estate. Starting with $1,000 and saving he paid $2,000 down on the place in 1948 and worked it with his pioneer job. He did more than one job at a time, and by 1951 he was able to buy two cows, two pigs and a few chickens. Then he added a wing to the small house. He cleared four acres of brush. A neighbor helped him and then he hired him a hand for a year and a half. Hajdu worked hard and was not afraid to kindly, generous neighbors who loaned him gifts of money and food enabled them to last over the first winter. Today Hajdu and his family is securely and happily established on the farm and a part of the community. The Stefan Hajdu success story is an example of neighborliness at its best, of hungary Canadians and faith and hard work at the part of courageous immigrants.

Finnish Bath

(Montreal Gazette)

One of the outstanding Finnish traits is the universal love of physical culture, which go together, and their chief expression is the sauna bath. This is the Finnish steam bath, the simple principle of which consists in the opening of the bodily pores and thorough cleansing through perspiration. In the extreme heat of swirling steam created by water thrown on rocks heated by fire or a drenching with cold water or snow, or even a plunge. It sounds, and is a bit rugged, but the benefits to the skin and the general feeling which follow a sauna amply make up for any rigors involved.

Many Finns have settled in Northern Ontario, and the sauna is one of the Finnish woodland workers in going into a new lumber camp is to build their sauna. As a result of their example, Northern Ontario is perhaps a pioneer in the matter of personal cleanliness in all the lumbering industry. No one with a fishing or hunting camp or lodge feels it complete without a sauna, and the facility is in use almost nightly, to the bodily benefit of all concerned.

INEXHAUSTIBLE RESOURCES

Leaders of national thought are constantly reminding us over radio, T.V., and through the press, that the resources of our country are not inexhaustible.

They are quite right and wrong. They are right in their rebuke of sinful extravagance; they are right in their warning that failure to conserve has brought us to the point where we have begun to borrow from the country even tapped the possibilities of our national wealth and resources. As long as America has natural resources she is a great nation, provided, of course, that we have a free government and that our people have the will to work. All this calamity howling about our being near financial bankruptcy or being in danger of it is just so much shrieking and wailing and weeping.

But the illimitable resources of our nation reside in the hearts of the people. Sometimes as we They are quite right and wrong. are not inexhaustible. read our newspapers and listen to radio broadcasts and now prevailing, we wonder if the nation is not indeed bankrupt. And be sure that no matter how much material wealth our nation has or how will, if we have nothing more, go the way of the Babylonian and previous civilizations about which the historian Toynbee has written so much.

The resources of our nation are inexhaustible if some one or some group will first find moral character and earnestness on the part of the people.

Last 'Promenade Home' Of Season Held; Dancers Complete Successful Year

Sergeant Happy Day's clear, ringing voice throwed the rules of dancing feet and reached into every corner of the RCAF Station Social Centre, recently, as square dancers from in and around Middleton Park did their last "promenade home" for the 1952-53 season.

The lively cry of "Honor Your Partner" has been echoing through the halls of Air Marshal Breadner School since the inception of square dancing classes by the Arts and Crafts branch of the RCAF Women's Auxiliary. The Social Centre gathering was the climax to seven months of learning how to chain; swing, balance, promenade, do-si-do, circle, reel, honor your partner, and alamande left or right.

Thirty couples have benefited from Sgt. Day's instruction since November. His duties as a member of the No. 6 Repair Depot Salvage Section kept him away from home a great deal, but every Monday evening that Sgt. Day was in town he could be heard "swinging" his students round and round. One half of the students were beginners, who didn't realize until last fall that a square dance is performed for the position four couples take along the side of the primary square ten feet square. They have progressed from stage to stage and along with oldtimers are leading the way, in and around Middleton Park, to a revival of the once popular Canadian pastime. They want classes next year and hope to double the membership. Sgt. Day, their able teacher, has agreed to instruct next year if the Arts and Crafts program is repeated.

Music for the classes was provided by a record player. Some of the discs were cut from tape recordings which Sgt. Day made with the aid of a band of musicians who played pieces, not obtainable from record dealers, to add to his collection.

Two years ago Sgt. Day travelled for two weeks on a tour of Ontario with Tex. Mosser and His Islanders, the well known radio band. He has been calling for square dancing enthusiasts for the past twenty years and prior to the war was official caller for a Scottish Club in the east.

Happy Day's nickname suits him well for there is always a smile on his ruddy-complexioned face. To look at his short, robust figure one would think that he could not dance a step, but he is exceptionally light on his feet and can outlast the most stalwart of fans.

Seven of his sixteen years' service in the Air Force have been spent in Trenton, where he lives in Middleton Park with his wife and family. The directory lists him as F. J. Day, 3 Lewis Drive, a relatively unknown title to his friends. When not busy square dancing he spends his spare time at a second hobby of raising Pekingese dogs.

Mrs. Day is another Arts and Crafts Classes enthusiast, belonging to the Quilting Class under Mrs. W. L. Horridge.

Mrs. R. G. Stewart, assistant to Sgt. Day, presented him with a small gift on behalf of the class at the final get-together, in summing up the winter's activities, Mrs. Stewart stated that square dancing was one class where the pupils had an enjoyable time and a lot of fun with their lessons. A demonstration of barn dancing was given by Mrs. J. E. Neilsacher and Sgt. Day to round out the evening's activities.

Model Airplane Flying Club

In and around Middleton Park, model aeroplane builders have been busy in their basements, barrack blocks, hobby shops and kitchens putting the last coat of dope on their sleek and efficient-powered model planes.

Centre of activity is the No. 6 Repair Depot Model Air Plane Club, whose members gather over the week-end and during the long summer evenings to fly their control line and free flight aircraft.

F/L D. O. Blamey, pilot by Air Force trade and co-ordinator of model activities reports that any service personnel interested in joining the group are welcome. "An area near No. 6 Repair Depot sports' field has been chosen as the flying site. Plans are underway for competitions and a demonstration on Air Force Day.

Ten models have been readied for take-off by members. Included in the group is a jet-powered speed model made by LAC Salais. F/L Blamey has reconditioned a model which he made seventeen years ago. Also, he is a radio control fan and hopes to fly his latest endeavour as soon as weather permits.

Scouts Will Go to Ottawa Jamboree

Three RCAF Trenton Boy Scouts will go to the annual Scout Jamboree being held at the Connaught Rifle Ranges, Ottawa, in July.

The three boys all qualify under regulations which require that a Scout shall have passed his fourteenth birthday, have obtained his First Class Badge and be able to pass the medical examination.

To gain experience in camping and woodcraft Billy Barg, Keith Hilsett, Ronnie Holrick and Robert Herbertson will leave Saturday morning at 8 a.m. on an overnight camping trip to Buck Lake. The Scouts will be accompanied by Assistant Scout Master W. McGregor and S/L A. M. Sharp.

Having passed his tenderfoot badge, Peter Hawtery was invested as a Boy Scout recently by Scout Master A. Davies when the 1st. Trenton RCAF Troop held an outdoor meeting.

On the same occasion, John Dever was awarded his Second Class Badge.

Skilled When Canucks Resisted Red Attack

Among latest victims of Korean war is Gnr. C. Weir, of Windsor, Ont., who was killed when Canadian troops fought off a whirlwind Chinese Communist attack that raged for 2½ hours inside Allied lines. From 750 to 1,000 Reds were driven off only after intense hand-to-hand combat in the trenches. The third battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment and Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry bore the brunt of the Red assault in which seven Canadians were killed and 19 wounded.—Canadian Press.

PICTON

Athletic Assoc. Prepares For Coming Season

PICTON.—Picton Athletic Association held its annual meeting, Tuesday night when Norman Mallett was re-elected president, Phil Dodds, vice-president and Creighton Lockyer as secretary-treasurer. Directors are representatives of the Service clubs.

The association, which was responsible for the erection of the floodlights for softball in 1943, and later erected the bleachers, has been charged with their maintenance and care.

This year, the association will be entirely responsible for the upkeep and operation of the grounds at the site of the former collegiate, including cost of power, bulb replacement, grounds care, mowing and general operation. In return, teams, both ladies' and men's will pay a set fee per game, this just sufficient to cover costs and provide for depreciation. With a stronger softball league organized, it is expected there will be larger crowds and greater financial returns. Provision will be made for games by juvenile teams. The men's league will operate on Monday and Friday nights, the girls on Thursdays with Saturday nights open for exhibition games.

Prevent Serious Fire

Early discovery prevented a serious fire at the CNR station in the village of Bloomfield, Thursday night. The roof is believed to have been ignited from sparks from a train which had passed earlier. Workers in the station were unaware of the outbreak and it was three hours hundred yards away by Morris Pike who gave the alarm. The Bloomfield fire truck was on the scene in three minutes and soon had the blaze extinguished. A hole was burned in the roof but damage will be only around $100.

NEW VARIETY

PRESTON (CP)—A new variety of iris, "Okoe", developed several years ago by Thomas Hilling of Preston, has just been recognized recently. The flower, a cross between the onco-cyclus hybrid, escaped public attention until L. Bolingbroke, Toronto florist and student and Irish expert, visited Mr. Kummer's garden.

WAR ON MOSQUITOES

LONDON (CP)—London township and city council have formed an alliance to declare war on mosquitoes. Township council has appointed Councillor Frank Fellner and George Nace as a committee to discuss strategy with any anti-mosquito committee established by city council.

Jack Hartwick Re-elected President Tuberculosis Assoc.

PICTON — The annual dinner meeting of the Prince Edward County Tuberculosis Association was held at the Royalite Hotel on Tuesday, May 5th, with the president, Jack Hartwick presiding.

The association was pleased to have as its guests Dr. S. A. Holling and Mr. Alex. Russell from the division of Tuberculosis Prevention, Department of Health for Ontario; Dr. Irene Hopkins, Director of Ongwanada Sanatorium in Kingston; Morris Whitney, M.L.A., and a very good representation from Clubs and Associations in the county who are interested in this work.

After welcoming the guests, Mr. Hartwick drew a comparative picture of the work done throughout the province and that done in Prince Edward County and asked the co-operation of all present in bringing our efforts, both in rehabilitation work and in the Christmas Seal Campaign, up to a standard by which we may be proud.

The minutes of the last two meetings were read and approved and the financial report, given by the treasurer, J. deB. Arnaud, was read and approved.

A report given by Mr. Hartwick on the new arrangements for holding the clinics under Dr. Brearley at the Health Unit in Picton. With the setting up of the association in this new arrangement, it has been made possible for a taken payment to be made to the Ongwanada Sanatorium to assist them in their work and to show our honesty of purpose. Dr. Hopkins received the cheque for $200 on behalf of the Sanatorium with thanks to the Prince Edward Association.

The nominating committee brought in their report and the following officers were elected for 1953:

President, Jack Hartwick; Vice-Presidents, Thomas Walker; Secretary, Miss Dorothy Learie; Treasurer, J. deB. Arnaud; Executive Council Members, Gordon Campbell, Mrs. J Hedges, Sr., Morris Whitney, M.L.A. introduced Dr. Holling, remarking that he was no stranger to the County, having at one time practised in Consecon shortly after his graduation in Medicine.

Dr. Holling spoke of TB Prevention as a problem little understood by the average layman, and in order to keep an educated public we must first have an educated Association membership. Great strides have been made in the past fifty years and the falling death rate from TB may give the idea that this disease has been beaten, but this is not so. The seriousness of the problem may be evaluated by nothing the spread of infection in countries of under developing and being treated in sanatoria. Increased industrialization and increased immigration from countries with a higher TB rate both tend to keep the incidences of active TB at too high a level. Then, there is the danger of re-activation in arrested cases through insufficient interest in their re-habilitation in the community.

Because the death rate has lessened some people feel that it is not necessary to continue the control program but this is not so. We must maintain our present prevention and control program and expand them constantly.

No one group can do this alone, it takes the combined efforts of your Health Unit, your Local Sanatorium, your doctors and your voluntary workers in the local TB Association.

There are seven steps which every community should take:

(1) Make sure that case finding facilities are available, free and easily accessible. No case should be untaken which will develop case findings.

(2) Mass surveys; (3) Pre-employment X-rays; (4) Assisting the MOH in organizing X-ray for food handlers; (5) The social and human side. The patient leaves his or her employment, friends and family while being cured—a little interest taken in the patient by members of the association can make it easier and more pleasant during this time. Visit the sanatorium, send the local papers, cards, etc. (6) Re-habilitation. The patient may not be able to return to the same type of employment held previously. Try to help him find suitable employment; (7) Educating the public. Properly done this work will show extremely gratifying results and the Christmas Seal returns will multiply accordingly.

"Re-evaluate what you are doing not only in relation to your own community" said Dr Holling "but also in relation to other communities and then act accordingly."

Warden Clinton Green thanked Dr. Holling for his very interesting and informative talk.

Dr. Bruce Hopkins

Mr. Hartwick introduced Dr. Hopkins and that lady received the meeting as the representative of the Ongwanada Sanatorium and the Kingston Health Centres. She said that any district is foolish to have a sanatorium but the sanatorium cannot function without the assistance of the voluntary contributions of the Christmas Seal Campaign and that they need help in re-habilitation both in and out of the sanatorium.

The County Association should have a project of its own and give the sanatorium what assistance it can. Making use of the Government Grant, Prince of Wales Hospital automatically relieves the Association of expense and certain responsibilities and therefore we can employ our efforts in connection with rehabilitation.

The Sanatorium re-educates patients for new jobs or to improve their methods of doing every day tasks. For this they must have teachers. The Association must find and pay the entire cost of this, therefore they must have voluntary contributions to do their part.

Mr. Russell spoke of the good work that Mr. Hartwick has done and extended an invitation to all members of the association to visit Ongwanada Sanatorium at any time and see for themselves what is being done there.

Can Visit Patients

Mrs. J. Whiteley raised the question that some people were hesitant to visit patients in the sanatorium because of danger of infection. Dr. Hopkins replied that this is an unjustified phobia. They do exclude children under 12 years of age from visiting because they are hard to control and often insist on touching things and kissing their parents, but apart from that there is very little danger of anyone picking up infection by visiting a patient. Asked the meaning of the Indian word Ongwanada, Dr. Hopkins replied that it means "Our Home."

Mr. Hartwick introduced Alex. Russell, who had helped Dr. P. A. Scott organize the first mass chest x-ray survey taken in this county. Mr. Russell said that he would be at any time delighted to give what assistance he could to the association to help them carry out any objective set.

The meeting was then shown a most interesting and instructive film entitled "Unsuspected," which told the story of a family when the time it was discovered that the mother had TB until her return home from the Sanatorium again, healthy and happy.

Reeve J. Clemlson thanked the association on behalf of the guests for a very interesting and enlightening evening.

It was moved by Mr. Arnaud and seconded by Mr. Campbell that a vote of thanks for his excellent work in the past be tendered to H. R. MacDonald, one of the first chairmen of the Prince Edward County TB Association, and an expression of regret on his leaving this community.

Weddings

HURLBUT—MOFFAT

On Saturday, May 2 at 3:30 o'clock at St. Joseph's rectory, Hamilton, Anne Marilyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Turnbull Moffat, of Hamilton, became the bride of Robert St. Clair Hurlbut, Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. St. Clair Hurlbut, of Belleville. The Rev. J. A. Ruth conducted the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and attended by her sister, Miss Sheila G. Moffat.

The groomsman was Mr. Donald F. Poocock, of Galt.

The bride was charming in a full-skirted gown of antique ivory taffeta, simply styled with the molded bodice coming to a point at the waistline. Her short veil was caught by a cluster of lilies-of-the-valley and her bouquet was of the same flowers, arranged with gardenias.

Her attendant was in palest pink spun taffeta, fashioned like the bride's gown, and her flowers were sweetpeas in variegated shades.

For the reception, which was held in the Officers' Mess of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders at the Armouries, the bride's mother wore a gown of deep violet crepe with large picture hat of green ivy leaves, faced with peach and trimmed with violets; her accessories being green, and her corsage orchids. Mrs. Hurlbut, the bridegroom's mother, was in dusky rose chiffon with matching hat and gloves and corsage of white orchids.

For travelling, the bride wore a smart costume in egg shell shade and British tan with Java lizard accessories. On return from their wedding trip to Washington, the bride and bridegroom will live at 100 Sheppard Avenue, Willowdale.

St. Michael's P.T.A. Hears of Camp Work

On Monday, St. Michael's and Holy Rosary Parent - Teacher Association held its monthly meeting. All classrooms were open and parents and teachers met to discuss common problems.

Later the group moved to the Auditorium for the general meeting. Rev. J. J. Buckley led the opening prayer.

Mrs. Gallagher, who was delegate to the Catholic Education Conference held in Toronto at Easter, gave her report. She referred to the chief speakers, Professor E. Gilson, of the Pontifical Institute of Mediaeval Studies, St. Michael's College, and His Excellency Bishop Dignan, of Sault Ste. Marie. The latter stressed that there must be mutual feeling and understanding between parents and teachers if the child is to benefit from their associations.

Guest Speaker

The guest speaker of the evening, Rev. Brother Camillus, F.S.C., was introduced by Rev. J. J. Buckley, Brother Camillus is director of De La Salle Camp, Jackson's Point, and is most enthusiastic about his work.

At the conclusion of his talk he showed a film taken last summer at camp. This was of especial interest to the audience as many parents saw their own sons enjoying camp life and receiving valuable training.

Mr. H. Brown moved a hearty vote of thanks to the speaker.

Refreshments were then served by the social committee under the convenership of Mrs. R. J. Rashotte, assisted by mothers of Grades VII and VIII.

BCIVS H-S Assoc. Elects 1953-4 Officers

The annual meeting of the BCIVS Home and School Associations was held in the boys' gymnasium on Monday, with past president, Mrs. R. J. Varcoe, presiding. Mrs. Varcoe announced that annual SPERSOSA social scholarship contests were held at Albert College, and the Belleville Hospital Auxiliary Open House is to be held next week. She hoped that as many of the association as possible would attend.

Guest Speaker

The Hiche and School was honored to have as their guest speaker at their annual meeting, Leo Marcus, a former student of BCIVS and presently attending Queen's University. Mr. Marcus described his trip to Israel and delighted his audience by telling many interesting incidents which occurred during his year-long visit to the Holy Land.

"Israel is the only true democracy in the Near East and is surrounded by semi-dictatorships," said Mr. Marcus. Since the surrender of the British mandate in 1948 the Jewish people have had great success in developing their country. The population has trebled in the last five years," said Mr. Marcus and added: "Imagine the adjustment problems involved if we in Canada had to deal with such a problem." Mr. Marcus described (as many as 75 different languages in the country) have been overcome by means of the cooperation and enthusiasm of the Jewish peoples.

Degrassa Film

Following his talk Mr. Marcus showed a most interesting colour film which outlined a co-operative Jewish settlement at Degrassa. The speaker was introduced by Mr. Leslie Reid of the collegiate staff and an appreciation was tendered by Mr. Atwell.

Mr. Mountney presided over the business meeting that followed. He commended Mrs. Varcoe for assuming the leadership of the Association for the second year. Reports from the various convenors revealed the extent and scope of the work done by the Association during the school year.

During its term of office the 1952 - 53 executive held nine executive meetings and eight regular meetings. Since the position of program convenor was not filled, the programs were prepared by the executive as a whole. This precedent has been a most successful one in that the meetings have been characterized by their variety. The total paid up membership this year numbered 205, which is a slight increase over last year.

In order to meet the requests of the Home and School a committee from the executive performed last year to choose, direct and coordinate efforts of the room mothers. Their efforts resulted in $175.04 being raised.

1953-54 Executive

Mrs. Morden installed the executive for 1953-54, which is as follows:

President, Mrs. R. O'Connor; vice-president, Mrs. J. C. Gander; Mr. K. Atwell; treasurer, Mr. P. Allcorn; recording secretary, Miss M. Gibson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. R. Williams; executive members, Mr. W. Slade, Mrs. W. A. Campbell, Mrs. W. H. Judge, Mr. J. Musgrove, Mrs. R. D. Arnott, Mrs. C. Smith, Mrs. F. Goldie.

ROYAL STATUE

LONDON (CP)—As part of its Coronation display an Oxford street department store will erect an equestrian statue of the Queen, standing 14 feet high and weighing four tons. It will show the Queen in the uniform of colonel-in-chief of the Grenadier Guards.

Variety Show Presented By Christ Church AYPA In Parish Hall Much Enjoyed

There was melody and mirth at the "Variety and How" show staged by the Anglican Young People's Association of Christ Church in the Parish Hall on Wednesday evening.

The program opened with two lively choruses "A.Y.P.A. Advance" and "Sarsaponde" and was followed by a gypsy monologue by Fred Page about "Women". "The Fatal Necklace" was a melodramatic satire with a cast which included Phyllis Beggs, Bill Deck, Ruggles Constant, Joanne Atkinson and Elda Ketcheson. Gerry Starling did a female impersonation with the song "I Can't Say No". "Side by Side" starred Joanne Atkinson and Ronna Fordyce in a duet with a chorus by background. A skit called "Peanuts" featured Orlena Shunk and Al Gardiner in a comedy routine.

A novel stage curtain of feed bags sewn together with the name of the show applqued in flowered chintz made a striking effect for the presentation. The second part of the program was staged as a western with a backdrop curtain of cactus and a prairie horizon and the assembled company joined singing "Twilight on the Prairie". The tempo picked up considerably in this part and really came into action with the appearance of that experienced performer, Rev. Everett Smith singing "The Old Town Hall".

Lively Square Dance

A lively square dance with Bruce Sills playing the violin and Fred Page calling off was one of the best numbers of the evening. Shirley Shaw, dressed in burlap gave an amusing rendition of "Doing What Comes Naturally". A guitar duet with Don Gammon and Jim Ryan pleased the audiences and Fred Page's "Life Get Tee-Jus" was well done. Betty Bates with the chorus in the background sang two numbers, "Wagon Wheels" and "Perfect Day", and Dorothy Stewart played an accordion solo "Sharpshooter's Patrol". The singing of "Taps" by the ensemble with the lights fading out closed an evening of good entertainment.

The accompanist for all the numbers was Mary E. Bell, and the others who helped stage the production were, business managers, Gord. Legate and Jean Greene; music director, J. Wheeler; production, Al Gardiner; director of skits, Gerry Stirling; costume and make-up, Phyllis Beggs and Elda Ketcheson; dance Betty Bates, Shirley Smale, Al Gardiner, Gerry Staring; stage crew, Doug McCuliness; publicity, Joanne Atkinson; refreshments, Frances Mitchell and Audrey Bey; lighting and sound, Harold Morgan.

The performance is to be repeated Thursday night.

CLUB THANKED

GUELPH (CP)—The Guelph Red Chevron Club has received a letter from Winston Churchill, signed by his secretary P. G. Oates, thanking the club for their "generous contribution" towards the flood-relief fund.

Theatre Guild Presents Three One-Act Plays

The Belleville Theatre Guild rounding out a busy and successful season, which has included the presentation of three three-act plays, with an evening of one-act plays. Enacted by the Workshop Players, a group including many quite inexperienced actors, these presentations suffered little, if at all, by comparison with the Guild's major efforts. An invitation affair, for Guild members and their friends, the plays were presented in Queen Victoria School Auditorium, to a full house.

Curtain - raiser was "The Twelve Pound Look" by Sir James M. Barrie. In this gentle satire of high-life and matrimonial mix-ups in a Mayfair home, Betty Sadler scored the most notable success. Her pert and witty performance of Kate, the first Mrs. Sims, was ably supported by Thomas Lewis as the placidly beautiful Lady Sims, Cameron Tanner as the very stuffy Sir Harry and John Lascombe as the inevitable butler. Directors John Ryan and Ed. Day were quite successful in achieving the necessary polish and pace for this drawing-room comedy.

Family Comedy

Second offering was a rowdy family comedy by Stanley Houghton, "The Dear Departed." Quite believable characterizations by Pat Hoss and Douglas Black, as the too-presumptive heirs and Eve Benger and Carson Elliott as their rivals turned this rather hackneyed little effort into a very pleasant half hour. Eve Robbins was a vivid embodiment of Maud Hay Brule was his usual uproarious self as the grandfather whose death notice had been grossly exaggerated. Muriel Brule and Vera Thompson directed "The Dear Departed."

Piece de resistance was a very fine performance of J. B. Priestley's "Rose and Crown." Typical Priestley atmosphere, full of ghastly overtones and suspense was well created by set and lighting. Bill Kellett as the truculent Mr. Stone, Helen Sulman as the acidulous Mrs. Reid, Bob Dickens, the bitter young Percy Randle and Joy Womacott, his wistful bride, were joined by Betty Sardis, last make-up job of the evening, as battered old Ma Peck, (like a lovlad Harry Tully and Mac Rice, a very good version. Equally fine characterizations were achieved by all, and the drama was brought to safe and chilling conclusion. Miriam Bishop and Miss McPhee share the credit for this Very fine production.

Fine Costuming

George Kelly's "Poor Aubrey," last of the evening's diversitements was scarcely worthy of inclusion with other plays. A long-drawnout and verbiose slap-stick affair, it's successful production was too much for a quite considerable talents of the cast. Costuming was excellent, and made up, particularly that of Horace Ward-Whate, the braggart Aubrey, and Mrs. Wishart Mrs. Fisher, his mother-in-law was very well done. Florence Vanover and Nicki Thomas as the reunited friends were vivid and effective, but their material was not worthy of their efforts. Sadie Rose and Jack Hall completed "Poor Aubrey."

The evening's presentations were, by and large, a happy success, and might well be repeated for the general public.

Club Activities

ELDORADO-UNION MISSION Band

The meeting of the Eldorado and Union Mission Band was held at the home of Joy ana Jimmy Cotten.

"May Is Here", was read by Wilmer McAmmond. Beverley Hurley offered to be the press recorder for the remainder of the year. A talk was given by Mrs. G. Blackburn on how hidden villages had changed. "Cloppy Was a Christian Donkey", by Mrs. Reg. Peate; "Peace", by Gordon Hurley; "Mother's Day", by Joanne Chidley. Two songs were rendered by four of the members, "Twenty Times a Day", by Beverley Hurley; "A Happy Family", by Joy Cotten; "Turtle Talk" by Reburn Robinson.

The study book was read by Mrs. Cecil Blackburn.

The worship service was taken by Carol Bailey with scripture being read by Melvin Blackburn.

"The First Sunday School" was read by Marlene Blackburn.

Poems on flowers were read by Eugene Whyte, Patsy Blakely, Joyce Robinson and Beverley Hurley.

Games were directed by Marlene Blackburn.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

RAVE DISADVANTAGES

ST. MARY'S (CP)—Small cars have their disadvantages. The wife of a motorist complained to police that boys were bouncing his little car and said they were lifting it bodily. The motorist said that the boys even placed it in front of other vehicles.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By HEATHER FAIRFAX

How Shall He Ask on a Very Special Date?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm a junior in high school, and there is a freshman girl I like very much and going to take on our first date next Saturday night. Although I've dated plenty of other girls, I am so anxious to make a good impression on this one that I guess I am a little scared.

Many's the time I've left around a simplified recipe with a large caption "Mother's Day Cake Children Can Make" at the top in bold letters, then taken off for downtown, so my eager conspirators could make a wreck of the kitchen in their own awkward fashion.

The most foolproof cake batter I know is

Fifty Cake With Topping

This is good for any emergency many be mixed and baked and out of the oven in one hour flat (see below).

For a special Mother's Day cake follow directions for brown sugar and walnut topping, but leave a 2-inch wide strip unsugared across the middle. With a pointed knife imprint the batter, which is fairly thick, to print out the word 'mother.' Carefully fill them letter marks with brown sugar, then further outline each letter with walnut quarters on top of the sugar.

In a large bowl put all together 1-4 cup of shortening, 1 cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, 1-3 teaspoon salt, 1 1-2 cups sifted flour, 1-3 teaspoons baking powder and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Now beat with strong rotary or electric beater until batter is perfectly smooth. It takes at least 2 minutes. (I tried putting the bowl under the electric beater for one spoon as the shortcut, and let it beat while I was adding the ingredients. It worked perfectly. Nothing can spoil this batter.) Pour into pan about 8x12 inches, which has been buttered and paper-lined. Sprinkle top with 1-3 to 1-2 cup brown sugar and then, with 1-3 to 1-2 cup finely chopped walnuts or sea nuts shown for putting name on it. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr., about 40 minutes.

Variation—Instead of sugar and walnuts sprinkle over the batter 1-2 cup each grated sweet chocolate and chopped almonds.

When the sugar (or the chocolate) melts it seeps into the batter a little and is delicious.

I'll tell you a cake not to make —that is, if you make a habit of walking off and forgetting all about the stuff in the oven, just because unexpected company turns up. That's exactly what I did last Sunday afternoon. I made a special 3-layer spice cake because I thought this coloma needed a cake-lift treatment. I carefully kept notes on every little different spice I added, arranged the 3 layer pans in the oven ever so handily, adjusted the temperature control, and at that point a "pop-bop" sounded on our knocker. We took the visitors into the living-room, I served tea, and the guests left in about an hour. When I went back to the kitchen things smelled queer and there was pretty foggy. Pete and I met at the oven door to find the layers flat. There were, all three of them, a dark shade of brown-black, nearly smoking away. And I was exp ecting more guests for dinner! What a mess. There was something sadistic in the flourishing way Pete flung them into the garbage pail.

Daunted but determined, I made the Fifty Cake. I've told you about above. It was baked and cooled (the oven is hot, Pete (the angel) said he didn't like spice cake anyway, and that the fifty cake was the shortest yet. The kind of talk that keeps guy mothers from getting geyser.

Now I'm going to bake a good one. Could you please tell me what to write to him, because I don't his family or any of his friends to write about? In fact, I hardly even know him.

M. G.

Dear M. G.:

The only kind of letters that would be appropriate for you to write to a young man you hardly know would be very impersonal ones in which you merely chat about things you are doing and the good times you are having.But it would be foolish to write any letters at all until you have first received a letter from him, so that you can be sure he really wants to hear from you and was not merely making polite conversation when he asked you to write.

Boys overseas like to hear about what is going on back home, and what other young people are doing so confine yourself to telling him about the things you do and see and hear that you think might interest him. Don't assume that just because he asked you to write to him it means he thinks of you as an intimate friend, because if you do you may find yourself embarrassed later on.

Putting together a suit is easy, with either a boxy jacket or one of classic cut, and a number of skirts. A good choice is a beautifully tailored, fitted jacket of white tweed, doeskin or flannel, teamed up with a slim skirt in gray or navy-either plain or accordion-pleated.

Oh Happy Mother's Day

By Mary Moore

Mother's Day and Mother's Birthday, present an unique problem to mothers as well as to their eager and adoring children.

For the children's ambition, often outruns their knowledge.

How does a tactful mother serve the way for her eager young ones to make a festive cake?

Some of you lucky gals have husbands who can cook and bake and who love to do it too, and who can, of course include the children in in the festive cake-making.

This is the time I've left around a simplified recipe with a large caption "Mother's Day Cake Children Can Make" at the top in bold letters, then taken off for downtown, so my eager conspirators could make a wreck of the kitchen in their own awkward fashion.

GOOD MANNERS

By CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Saying . . . a Good Time to Flout Good Manners!

Springtime . . . planting-time . . . a good time to paint good manners. Yes, an inspiring time to plant the seeds of a fine new crop of good manners. Then happily and proudly watch the Manners-Garden grow. A very wise and inspiring poet, John Drinkwater, expresses this spirit of adding whatever grace we can to the world in this bright-new season:

"The Spring's behaviour here is spent
To make the world magnificent!"

How to Address An Envelope

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

. A says that when one is addressing an envelope, it is good form (1) to write the name of the city and the name of the state on one line, and (2) also to abbreviate the name of the state. B insists that the name of the city should be written on a separate line from the name of the state, and that the name of the state should not be abbreviated. We have a rather hefty bet on . . . please tell us who is right. — We Two

I hope you are B. . . for B is absolutely right! The name of the city and the name of the state should not be written on the same line. . . . particularly now, when Zone Number is written after the name of the city. Also the name of the state should not be abbreviated, even when the name is a long one. (It takes only a second or two to write out the name of the state. . . about the same time it takes to make the period after the abbreviation.)

Today even business and professional envelopes are correctly addressed with as few abbreviations as possible. . . . this is generally insisted on by the heads of companies.

An envelope. . . social, business, professional. . . . is correctly addressed:

Mrs. George Iark
123 Fourth Street
Haven 2
Massachusetts

Gracious Invitation-in-Dance

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The other evening at a dance, a boy asked me to dance by saying, "Shall we try this?" I just didn't like this "invitation" . . . somehow it made me uncomfortable. Was this a correct thing for him to say?

Sallie T.

He wouldn't like this either! It is certainly a graceless form of invitation-to-dance. . . suggests hesitation, uncertainty as to the outcome of the dance. "Will you dance with" is the idea. . . not forceful. "Will you try to dance this?"

Asking For the Return of Her First, Husband's Name

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I was married most happily for eighteen years. I had two children, who still live with me. My husband died. Three years afterward, I married a man whom I thought I could love and who promised to be good to my children. It hasn't turned out this way, and I have been most unhappy. Now I am planning to apply for a divorce, and would like to ask for the return of my first husband's name. Would you approve of this, Mrs. Beeckman?

M.G.

Yes, I definitely would approve of this. It is natural for you to want to do this, sensible and practical as well, since it also is the name of your children.

Beauty

Foundations For Fashion

Elderly ladies will tell you that when the wasp waist rages—you have supposed to be sure to gain it with both hands, it was so slim and slender—there was a saying, "A woman, like a horse, should be well harnessed. It is as true today as it was then, though the changes in corsetry have been many. For women have such perfect lines and normal weight that corsets appeared to be improved by a little restraint amidships.

There are so many models from which to select that a woman becomes confused. She is not qualified to make a selection. The wise step is to seek the services of a trained corsetiere, who will decide whether your type calls for standard girdle and brassiere or an all-in-one garment.

Sports activities call for the free-dom given by pants girdles. A sturdy brassiere made of cotton or rayon can be teamed with the pants or formal evening wear is his girdle to good advantage.

The suggested foundation for an all-in-one garment, or corsetiere. Good bosom uplift and sleek unbroken lines are the virtues of this model.

Not the least of corsetry's contribution to health is the part it plays in creating good posture. Well-being as well as good looks suffer when the shoulders are thrust forward, the chest does not hold in an erect position. Muscles, tissues and internal organs cannot assume their natural positions.

There are eight essentials to correct posture, which assure graceful carriage when walking, sitting or standing.

How they are; keep them in mind if you would have a svelte and wear your clothes beautifully:

Head balanced; chin on the level; chest high; shoulders held in an easy pose; abdomen flat as a pancake; lower back flat; legs straight; feet parallel. Once the abdomen is well supported posture is set. Let "standing tall" be your beauty slogan.

A well-fitted brassiere plays a part. A too loose garment, with lack of support, may lead the wearer to assume a drooping pose or bunch her shoulders. When the brassiere is too tight, there is a restriction of breathing. Also it causes the tissues of the breasts to weaken.

Be figure wise. Select your foundations with care.

Canadians Can Have Couture Fashion Show if They Wish

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—If Canadians in London for the Coronation want a couture fashion show just for them, it can be arranged.

Jo Mattli, member of London's "top eleven," has organized a special fashion show for a party of 40 Americans, headed by the tokyo of San Francisco—and he would be delighted to do the same for Canadians and other Commonwealth visitors.

To his usual summer collection, Mattli has added about 20 special dresses for debutantes and visitors who want that "something special" for formal and informal social occasions during the Coronation season.

Recently, Mattli launched a series of evening dresses for debutante dances at the all-time low of 59 and 79 guineas. These are above ankle length in the simple lines that lend young personalities a sophistication in keeping with their youth.

Such dresses include a white lace design in princess lines, the bateau neckline finished by tiny cap sleeves, the lace pattern picked out in mother-of-pearl and bugle beads. Equally enchanting are dresses in jade green organza and guipure lace, two in fantasy tulle and mauve tulle and one in cinnamon chiffon.

Latecomers Welcome

Despite heavy Coronation orders, London's "top eleven" are laying out the red carpet for last-minute customers. From mouth - wheel designers as Norman Hartnell, Hardy Amies and Victor Stiebel, salons are ready to go to town on gowns required at short notice. They are preparing to cope with orders given by those who feel safer buying British designs for wear at social functions here.

Lilian Hyder, secretary of a society formed by the "top eleven," figures couture buying is also a good investment. "One learns so much about one's good and bad points," she said, "when fitted by a couturier." She added that learning what your best line and color are is a help when buying ready-made clothes. She now makes "far fewer mistakes" than before.

One royal lady who sticks to the lines that suit her is the Duchess of Kent. She favors styles by Victor Stiebel and keeps right in the fashion forefront without deviating.

Among smart women who will wear Coronation clothes designed by Mattli is Mrs. Peter Thorycroft, wife of the president of the board of trade. The dress she will wear in the abbey is a copy of Mattli's parchmened satin ball gown, slightly Edwardian in style. A wonderful piece of parchment and silver brocade, nearly 100 years old and taken from the court dress of Mrs. Thorycroft's grandmother, will form the train of Mattli's design.

The PREDECESSORS of ELIZABETH II

No. 14: Henry IV. Ruled England 1399-1413

Coronation of Henry IV in Westminster Abbey, Tuesday, Oct. 13, 1399

Seal of Henry IV.

He was the subject of a Shakespearean play.

Henry and his second wife, Joan of Navarre, from the effigies on their tombs. Henry, who died in Westminster Abbey, was buried there, but at Canterbury.

Born: 1367, son of John of Gaunt, Duke of Lancaster. He became the first of the Lancaster kings upon deposing his cousin, Richard II. Henry's early manhood was spent in knightly tours through the continent, part of the time in forced banishment from the kingdom. Upon news of Richard's departure for a state visit to Ireland, Henry returned to England on pretext of securing his patrimony. He forced Richard's surrender and abdication, and was duly accepted as king by parliament. Henry is called the first English monarch chosen by "popular election." However, he wasn't much of an improvement on Richard.

Let's Have A Heart

For housekeepers who are having trouble keeping within the family budget, the home economists of the Canada Section, Canadian Department of Agriculture suggest that they serve heart, one of the least expensive organ meats.

There are certain things to look for when buying a heart. It should have a plump, well-rounded appearance with thin flesh and a smooth, shiny finish. Hearts vary in size depending on the type and age of the animal. Beef heart is the largest weighing from three to four pounds. Veal heart, the next in size weighs three quarters of one pound and pork heart weighs from one-half to three-quarters of a pound.

Good Buy

A beef heart is a good buy for a large family as it will serve from six to eight people. It may be roasted or braised in water. If it is to be roasted it is usually stuffed with a bread dressing. Have the butcher leave the fat on the outside of the heart as it will give more flavor to the meat and the drippings can be used for basting.

These are the directions for roasting beef heart. Wash the heart, remove cords and dry thoroughly. Fill the cavity with one and one-half to two cups of well-seasoned stuffing and fasten the opening with skewers. Then place on a rack in a roasting pan and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for about three hours or until tender. The heart should be turned and basted often and when it is done, the gravy may be made in the same roasting pan.

Veal and pork hearts may also be stuffed and roasted. To make them more juicy and add to their flavor, they may be topped with pieces of bacon before being put in the oven to roast. The oven temperature is the same as for beef heart, 350 degrees F., and the hearts will take from one and one-half to two hours to cook.

Beef heart braised with vegetables makes a tasty dinner dish. Prepare the heart as for roasting using a bread stuffing. Take some of the meat from inside the cavity of the heart, mince and add to the stuffing. It is best to pan fry the minced heart about five minutes before adding it to the stuffing. Brown the stuffed heart in a small amount of fat on top of the stove in the pan in which it is to be braised. Add vegetables such as water to almost cover the roast, together with one quarter cup each of diced onion and carrot, and season with salt and pepper. Cover the pan and cook the heart either in a moderate oven 350 degrees F, or on top of the stove for about three hours, or until tender.

Veal and pork hearts may be stuffed and braised in the same way as beef heart. They will take one and one-half to two hours braising in a moderate oven 350 degrees F., or on top of the stove, to become tender.

Young Couple Community Honors

LATTA — On Friday night a shower was held at Plainfield Hall in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John McFarland, who were recently married.

Miss Marilyn Meeks read the address which contained an interesting analysis of the word "marriage" each letter having a particular meaning. "M" should stand for mutual love and understanding; 'a' for affection through all the years of sunshine and showers; 'r' for respect for the rights and ideas of the other; 'r' of course means responsibility for home and family; 'i' is for ideals which both should strive for in their new home; 's' is for the assurance that each has the confidence of the other; 'g' is for gracious living to keep alive all the little niceties of life; and 'e' is for endurance and if all other letters are kept, marriage will endure.

Gifts Presented

Regret was also expressed at losing Betty from the community where she had always taken part in its many activities and congratulations expressed to John, with a cordial welcome to the community whenever he could visit there and to make tangible its good wishes, these gifts were presented. The address was signed on behalf of the community friends by Mrs. Clarence Hall, Mrs. Wilbert Elliott, Mrs. Horace Palmer and Mrs. Clarence Marshall.

Betty and John graciously expressed their appreciation for the lovely tri-light lamp, percolator and towels, and also for the good wishes conveyed, and invited those present to visit them in their new home at Kingston.

Following the presentation, the Reverend E. J. Kraeg called the gathering together and a short program was presented: a duet by Misses Beverley Elliott and Shirley Kerr; a reading by Mrs. Ben Clarke; duet by Mrs. Wayne Gow and Ruth Wilder, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Don Vance; tap dancing by Miss Barbara Ann Matila, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Harry Harrison; solo by Mr. W. Chumbley; duet by Misses Betty and Marilyn Dickson; tap dancing by Mr. Joe Mattle and daughter, Barbara Ann, and duet by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wilder accompanied with guitar music.

Communists Prove "True to Form" on May Day

During the past few years Communists have celebrated May Day in Europe and Asia with parades and demonstrations. This year was no exception. In Tokyo, dominating the parade were signs and banners printed in Japanese and English inviting the "U.S. to go home." Although the marchers clashed with steel-helmeted police in downtown Tokyo, it was only a minor flurry, and the disorders of last year were not repeated. — Central Press Canadian.

In Berlin the supposedly "weaker sex" is seen marching in the May Day demonstration with guns slung over their shoulders. For over seven hours, Communist youths, workers, "people police" units marched past the grandstand, where Pravd F. Yudin, the new Soviet policy man in East Berlin, was seated, while armed Communist police troopers barred the way to the stand. Simultaneously with the Communist rally, the people of Free Berlin staged a mass demonstration. — Central Press Canadian.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was smoking to himself peaceful in his private chair and looking glad to be home, and ma said, it nice to possible to get up a bridge game this evening William.

It nice, at that, pop said, and ma said, The Hewses mite come over, or we mite go there.

All roads lead to bridge, pop said, and ma said, Of course, I know that as a general rule you bitterly resent playing more than once a week, and it's true that you've already played this week.

That's rite, and I managed to stay awake till midnite, it was quite a victory of mind over yawning, pop said, and ma said, What I mean is, William, you would be quite justified if you just firmly put your foot down and said you dont care to play. Under the circumstances I'd understand your attitude, she said.

It doesn't matter, one way or the other, pop said. Whatever you say, William, and pop said, It's up to you my dear.

Oh, as far as I'm concerned, I've got letters to write and my bank ballents to unravel, ma said, I wouldn't play bridge tonite if the king's wild horses tried to drag me, she said, and pop said, Well then, horse blanket to blazes, for Pete sake, what was the idea of suggesting a game?

William, you're the most contrary man that ever breethed, ma said. As a rule I can't get you into a bridge game for love or argument, and just this once when I try to please you by giving you a golden chance to relax, you wont cooperate, she said.

Not being quite the end of the subject.

Skyway Marks New Era in Communications

The Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal towers of Bell Telephone's microwave radio relay system are shown above. This modern communications "skyway" goes into operation on May 14 when it begins carrying network television programs for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Top of the Toronto tower on the roof of a downtown Bell building (left) is 322½ feet above street level, making it one of the city's highest structures. The Ottawa tower (centre) is on the roof of Bell's building in the capital, a few blocks from Parliament Hill. The Montreal tower is on a high point on Mount Royal, its peak almost 800 feet above the level of the uptown shopping area.

The microwave system is designed to transmit telephone conversations as well as TV programs, and initially 30 circuits between Toronto and Montreal, 12 between Toronto and Ottawa and 12 between Montreal and Ottawa will be provided. The system has a capacity of 12 one-way TV channels or thousands of telephone circuits, and can be extended north and west from Toronto and east from Montreal to meet future telephone and TV requirements. It is the first microwave system in Canada capable of transmitting both telephone calls and television programs.

An extension to Buffalo provides a link with the United States TV network. The 427-mile radio relay chain has one microwave relay station between Buffalo and Toronto, eight between Toronto and Ottawa, and three between Ottawa and Montreal. They are located at Fonthill, Burlington, Bethany, Hastings, Stirling, Enterprise, Westport, Smiths Falls, Stanley Corners, Leonard, Manville and Rigaud.

Four Ontarians To Share In $750,000 Estate

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (CP) — Four Ontario residents will share some $750,000 of the estate of the late Mrs. Alma D. Skinner, widow of a Detroit automobile company executive.

Mrs. Skinner, widow of Frederick G. Skinner who was associated with the Olds motor works, died Jan. 8. Probate of her will Wednesday disclosed she had left bequests totalling more than $1,000,000 to 52 individuals and a number of charities.

The largest bequest, about $375,000, goes to Mrs. Micale Nelson, of St. Thomas, Ont., described as a distant relative of the Skinners.

Another $375,000 is to be divided among other relatives: Harold H. Leather, of Hamilton, Ont.; E. Russel Leather of Burlington, Ont.; Mabel Leather Wright of Ancaster, Ont.; Frances Skinner of San Antonio, Tex.; and Helen Skinner Harmon of Colorado Springs, Colo.

PLENTY OF TROUT

TORONTO (CP)—More than 1,000,000 speckled trout have been put in Ontario streams this spring. The department of lands and forests said Wednesday that the fish were spawned last year and were wintered in bass ponds after bass were distributed. Another 2,000,000 trout will be stocked in Ontario streams and lakes within the next two months, officials said.

Gaming House Raided

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Sheriff Arthur Britt said Wednesday he raided a private house in suburban Kenmore and found telephones and papers he said were used in book-making. A man identified as John Kohan, about 45, was charged with bookmaking.

DEFENCE PLANTS AGREE TO

The Commons voted unanimously to give Prime Minister St. Laurent, going to Washington today, a mandate to tell the United States administration of Canada's objections to U. S. trade barriers.

It was a rare expression of unanimity, particularly because the vote came on a Progressive Conservative motion which technically called for a vote of non-confidence in the government as an amendment to a government supply motion. But Prime Minister St. Laurent accepted it, with a slight change.

With the Commons pushing for prorogation—perhaps by Saturday—the usually long foreign affairs debate on External Affairs Minister Pearson's annual estimates was curtailed. CCF speakers settled for a few pot shots at Canada's program of assistance to underdeveloped countries.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, faced the government with doing "pitifully little" to help underdeveloped countries in the technical assistance program of the United Nations.

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) complained of a disparity between Canada's contributions to direct defence and to technical aid.

Mr. Pearson replied Canada has been doing her fair share in technical aid—as divided between the nations—but that direct defence must come first. Technical aid would be of little help to Canada if defence weakness opened the way to aggression.

Government policy on wheat prices came under fire from the opposition, but the Commons' Liberal majority knocked down a CCF non-confidence motion embodying a demand for an immediate announcement of a $1.55-a-bushel initial payment on 1953 wheat.

Last year, it was $1.40 for No. 1 northern basis Fort William, and Trade Minister Howe recently announced that at least that much would be paid this year.

But he said earlier—and repeated Wednesday—that the price announcement will have to wait until after the July 15 deadline for ratification of signatures to the international wheat agreement. He said there might be some difficulty about ratification.

The agreement would boost the ceiling price for IWA wheat to $2.05 if buried from the $1.80 of the previous pact.

The $1.55-a-bushel motion, moved by Hazen Argue (CCF—Assiniboia), was supported by all opposition parties and by one western Liberal—John S. Sinnott from Springfield in Manitoba.

It was the second time in this session—and only the second time in Prime Minister St. Laurent's administration—that a Liberal member had kicked over the traces on a non-confidence motion that theoretically could topple the government.

Mr. Howe also said to the Assiniboia member—who has been urging that farmers be paid storage charges on wheat they have to keep on their farms—that he thinks those holding wheat after Aug. 1 will be "rewarded" in in final 1953 price. This was regardless of the initial price.

The minister was suggesting that the final price for wheat marketed in the 1953 crop year which starts Aug. 1 would be higher than that for the current crop year ending July 31.

4. The neutral commission shall permit nations to which prisoners belong to send representatives to talk to the prisoners, "so as to eliminate their apprehensions and inform them of all matters relating to their return . . ." A four-month limit was set on such talks.

5. A total of four or six months rather than nine for those prisoners to hear Red explanations and perhaps decide to go home. At the end of that time, the future of those remaining would be decided by a political conference of warring countries, as the Reds have demanded.

Should the Allies accept the Red proposal, they would drop their previous nomination of Pakistan as a single neutral custodian. They first proposed Switzerland and Sweden. The Reds turned down both, but included them in the five-country commission proposed today.

If the five-member commission plan were adopted, India would play a key role. Poland and Czechoslovakia were nominated by the Communists to a separate neutralist-state armistice supervisory commission and Sweden and Switzerland were the Allied choices to the same commission.

The Communist offer on the time for processing prisoners provided that those wishing to go home would be sent back within two months and disposition of the others would be settled in four months.

The Communists clung to their demand to send representatives to the unwilling prisoners to make "explanations" and "eliminate apprehensions" about returns.

North Korean Gen. Nam Il also reserved a right to go back to the Communists' earlier proposal if the Allies do not accept the new one. This called for sending bally PoWs to a neutral state.

Despite the reservation and some provisions, the new plan appeared at first reading to approach the Allied views more closely than previous communist proposals.

The Communist plan provided:

1. Within two months after a truce, both sides will exchange prisoners willing to go home.

2. The creation of a neutral repatriation commission made up of the four countries on the armistice supervisory commission for India.

3. Prisoners unwilling to go home shall be released from military control at "the original places of detention and be handed over to the neutral nations repatriation commission" for safekeeping.

5. During those four months, the neutral commission shall facilitate the "speedy return to their father-

A Moment Long To Be Remembered

A scene probably visualized many times while he was a prisoner of Reds somewhere in Korea, is an actuality here as W. G. Pollard greets his small daughter on his arrival at the Lyneham RAF station at Wiltshire, Eng. Joined Order to Be Teacher, Becomes Chief of Boiler Room

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Sister Mary Gertrude joined the order of the Holy Names of Jesus and Mary almost 40 years ago with the object of becoming a school teacher.

Now she is boss of the boiler room at St. Mary's Academy.

Since the day she left her job in a Montreal insurance office to join the order she has had a unique career in mechanics and construction. In 1933 she was awarded a fourth-class stationary engineer's certificate.

Pen Reluctant

She once applied to write for third-class papers with the intention of eventually winning a second-class certificate. However, the Ontario labor department returned her application diplomatically explained that since the examination test used the masculine gender, she was not eligible for such certification.

Being bilingual, one of her first assignments was that of interpreting for the bursar who was supervising construction of the order's mother house in Montreal and who spoke only French.

Became Interested

She became interested in the work and was later named to supervise construction of St. Mary's here. She travelled to Windsor every three weeks during the construction.

When the academy opened in 1928 she was appointed director of maintenance.

She said she decided to study engineering because her work brought her into contact with various mechanical problems about which she felt she should have a better understanding.

As director of maintenance she also supervises one of the city's largest house cleaning jobs.

The five-storey building covers 5½ acres and has 27 teachers and 600 students. The boiler room over which she is boss has three tower-boilers of 250 horsepower each.

Briefs From Britain

MALDON, England (CP)—A plan to train boys from the London area for farm work is helping offset the loss of workers drifting from Essex farms. Since 1949 the farm labor force in Essex has dropped by more than 2,000.

WORCESTER PARK, England (CP)—Mrs. S. J. Squire makes full use of her samoyed dog pet. By combing the dog's thick coat she obtains white wool which is spinned into knitting for gloves and sweaters.

LONDON (CP)—Officials reported success of a new system of open interest for juvenile offenders in London, Hull and Smethwick. Delinquents on probation meet report at special centres for work and physical training in their spare time.

HAVERGATE ISLAND, England (CP)—Pumps are clearing flood waters from this Suffolk island in time for the nesting season of Britain's rarest bird, the avocet. It was made a reserve for the brilliantly-plumaged birds when they appeared in 1947 after a century's absence.

DARTMOUTH, England (CP)—Girls from nearby schools now are bolstering the Royal Naval College choir here. Since entry age to the college was raised to 16, two years ago, the choir had lost nearly half its male members.

GLASGOW (CP) — A prisoner working as a bricklayer on a city building site is the first put to work in a trial scheme, whereby good-conduct men nearing the end of their sentences are being given a job.

LONDON (CP)—Guests invited to the joint Coronation ball and 40th birthday of the Maple Leaf Club of the Canadian Women's Club here June 11 include Prime Minister St. Laurent and his wife, and two former governors-general and their wives—the Earl of Athlone and Princess Alice, and Earl and Countess Alexander.

LONDON (CP)—Purser-steward Joe Devereaux of Trans-Canada Air Lines handed the lord mayor's fund £102 and £25 contributed by fellow crew members on the Montreal-London run for flood relief. Devereaux said the money was contributed "because we were grieved at what we saw as we flew over England."

WARE, England (CP)—Residents of this Hertfordshire town are trying to discover the rules for the centuries-old fun-to-im race, to be revived in Coronation celebrations. Some townsfolk say the competitors used to visit all the pubs in town, but now there are 48.

DEEPING GATE, England (CP) —As a Coronation feature 12 men of this Lincolnshire village will stage a tug-of-war over by River Welland with a team from Market Deeping. The contest will continue until all members of one or the other team have been immersed.

Nervous, Rundown, Food Caused Gas, Indigestion

Had Poor Appetite, Always Tired, Limbs, Back Sore, Painful. Tells How She Got Fast Relief by Taking Syrup.

MRS. KEYA LUCAS

"After the good results I got by taking Syrniova Herbal Compound I will recommend this medicine to any one suffering as I did," said Mrs. Keya Lucas, 1108 York St., London, Ont.(in a recent report.

"I felt terribly rundown and had lost my appetite. Gas and pains in my stomach and when I ate I did not digest awful sour pains, heartburn and indigestion. I would get weak, dizzy spells and belch up hot, sour liquids. My limbs, back and joints ached and I was nervous, bloated feeling. Constipation was a daily worry to me and I suffered from sore painful back and kidneys. I would get bad headaches and was always tired and run down. I felt old.

"A friend told me to try Syrniova and since I've been taking this grand medicine I feel like a new girl. I have gained in weight, my stomach distress and gas pains are gone, I sleep fine now, I am free of constipation and enjoy my meals. I also take it at night, as my nerves are calmed down, so now I can do my work without getting so awfully tired as I did before."

Many thousands of men and women like Mrs. Lucas have told how they found relief from similar suffering by taking Syrniova Herbal Compound. This may be just the Pure Herbal Medicine help you, too! A few days' trial convinces you.

Syrniova is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan the Druggist.

Dr. Berry Will Address Residents On Sewage Plant

TRENTON (Special) — The new Medical Officer of Health, Dr. R. W. Dow, presided last night at the first Board of Health meeting since the passing of Dr. K. A. McQuade.

Robert LaMorre was elected chairman of the board with members F. J. Aziz and Charlie Stevenson.

The meeting heard that Provincial Sanitary Engineer Dr. A. E. Berry, of Toronto, would be here on May 26 to address the ratepayers' meeting regarding the adoption of a sewage disposal plank. The board last night reviewed the plans of the proposed system. It was felt that proper sewage facilities are essential to the good health of the town and the sooner disposal into the river is stopped the better off the people as a whole will be. Ratepayers go to the polls to decide on the issue May 25.

Council Donates $2,000

Town council voted to provide $2,000 to the Centennial committee for the celebration beginning June 28 and ending July 5. Another $1,000 has been collected from merchants and townspeople.

Given Contract

Albert Defoest was given the contract to construct a culvert on Water Street in North Trenton, at a cost of $4,175. The Ontario Electrical Construction Co. of Toronto has received the contract to install lighting on the town bridge at a price of $1,685.

CAMPBELLFORD

Recreational Advantages Topic at Rotary Club

CAMPBELLFORD — Stan Wadlow, recreational director for East York, was the guest speaker at the Rotary Club luncheon this week.

He said that the definition of the work recreation implies mental refreshment as provided by a multitude of interests, or activities, depending on the age, occupations, or habits of the individual. For the most part, recreation presupposes play, though it also includes hobbies or some mental relaxation from work. It is essential to the health structure of the individual that he have relaxation whether it be reading, playing games, watching games or making a hobby of some interest phase of life.

The speaker said that Sir Winston Churchill provided an outstanding example of a man, who though carrying the weight of the nations' business at a most crucial period, still made time for his recreations, painting and bricklaying.

Mr. Wadlow told that during the war, he had trained recruits in both the navy and the air forces to employ their leisure hours in sports and recreations generally. He had learned the broad benefits of a well-spent leisure in the armed services and upon his return to his own community as recreational director of East York, had carried the principles into civilian life until literally thousands of people, both young and old, had been affected.

Recreational Aids

In seven years the East York community has built an arena, a swimming pool and has organized a Rod and Gun club, Tap and Ballet classes and adult recreation of all sorts. He said that enough can not be said for the influence of community activities in discouraging juvenile delinquency in general and building good citizenship among all classes.

In addition to Mr. Wadlow's speech, a film, "The Better Story" was presented by Mr. Thomas B. Sheridan, of Toronto.

Mr. E.E. Darling and several pupils of the High School were guests at the club.

First Parley Between Governors And Federal Govt. Real Success

By JOHN TRACY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP) — President Eisenhower opened a new era in federal-state relations this week with the first conference between the United States government and the governors of the states in 30 years.

The conclave—somewhat akin to an informal Dunlop—provincial conference in Canada—amounted to a series of secret briefings chiefly on foreign policy for the governors of 46 states and five territories.

Results of the two-day meeting, which also touched on finances and taxes, were not announced but the emphasis was heavy on federal-state co-operation.

Eisenhower told the governors the last time such a meeting was held was shortly after President Franklin D. Roosevelt's inauguration in 1933 when the country was in the depths of an economic crisis.

Eisenhower made the first move towards increased U.S. - state co-operation March 30 when he asked Congress for a commission to study the problem. The commission, on which congress has not yet acted, would study the question of federal grants-to-aid to the states and the problem of finance and federal-state relations.

Actually, the Americans are approaching problems which Canada has already tackled with various Dominion - provincial conferences on fields of taxation and classification of Dominion and provincial governing powers.

Eisenhower told the conferees this week that his administration is "deadly serious about this business of trying to find a logical division between the proper functions and responsibilities of the state and federal government."

He expressed hope that his projected commission "will be able to straighten out our complicated tax system, checking up on those functions where the federal government has gotten into them too deeply."

PINNED UNDER CAR, DIES

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Claude Noonon died Wednesday night shortly after being pinned under a car which went out of control and crashed into a ditch. The woman, covered by about six inches of mud and water, was pulled free of the vehicle by two ambulance drivers who crawled under while spectators held it a few feet off the ground.

NEW CPR LINER ARRIVES

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Australia, the former French liner De Grasse, arrived Wednesday night from Liverpool on her maiden voyage under CPS colors. The 19,000-ton liner, purchased from the French line to replace the Empress of Canada, destroyed in a fire Jan. 25 at Liverpool, sailed April 28 with about 530 passengers, most of them British immigrants bound for Ontario and the western provinces.

MARMORA

Marmora — Second Lieut. William Koskl, of the C.A.S.C., son of Mr. and Mrs. Arvi Koskl, of Deloro, sails on Saturday for Germany to be attached for four months to the 37th. Brigade there. He is a student at Queen's and recently obtained his B.A. degree. Upon his return next September he will commence his final term. His wife and young son, Rickey, are on a two weeks' visit to his parents at Deloro.

Mrs. John Simmons and Miss Goldie Jones, of Campbellford, visited relatives here on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Jackson and daughter, Brenda, are spending the week in Toronto.

MADOC

Junior Farmers' Second Banquet Most Successful

Madoc — The auditorium of Trinity United, beautifully decorated with spring flowers and plants, was the scene of Madoc Junior Farmers' second annual banquet.

The ladies of the church served a bountiful turkey dinner to 210 juniors, their parents and friends.

Toasts were proposed to Her Majesty the Queen, the Women's Institute by Donna Rollins, and responded to by Mrs. R. B. Bestty, president of District Women's Institutes; to the Federation of Agriculture by Arnold Sager, responded to by Mr. Harold Vardy, president of County Federation.

Miss Roberta Sager introduced the guests at the head table and asked for two minutes' silence in memory of Miss Eileen Nese, late home economist.

Greetings

Chairman Don McKinnon called on several of the guests for greetings. George Wallis, M.P., spoke of the great opportunities of Canada and the challenge to Juniors to seek out and meet these opportunities of the greatest country under the sun.

Mr. Roscoe Robeson, M.L.A., spoke of the heritage and the training offered by the Department of Agriculture and urged that every rural Junior be brought in to get the training by Agriculture Representatives.

Mr. Jack Kincaid, warden, welcomed the gathering to Madoc, as reeve of the village.

Mr. Earl Sager, Reeve of Madoc township, congratulated Madoc Juniors on their success over the past year and gave an account of the accomplishments of the Junior Farmers and 4-H Clubs in the district.

Mr. A. G. Dalrymple, Agricultural Representative, and Robert Burkitt, County Junior Farmers' president, spoke briefly.

Guest Speaker

Ross Mosscroft introduced the speaker, Mr. Gordon Bennet, Department of Extension, in 4-H club work. Mr. Bennet challenged the Juniors to take over the farms. The farm acreage has decreased 40 per cent one-third acre per person in the last ten years and the population has increased.

He challenged parents to instil a belief in farming in their sons. "We must all be salesmen—sell ourselves on our job, and our piece of residence, that others may also believe in farming." Our job consists of good soil, to produce good, food, best variety and cleanest seed; grown crop with the help of weather; and a good livestock program; continuity of the first three using good common sense and careful thinking.

"We must create a desire to be better than those who farmed before by satisfied with your job; look for opportunities; search for knowledge; develop co-operative spirit in communities; maintain a high standard of living—and Canada will see to it that it will be as good, or as bad as you and I make it."

Mr. Bennet concluded with: "Try, without bragging. Love without squealing."

Be our own best exhibitor."

During the evening the Junior Farmers were entertained by Miss Anne Nicol, who sang "God Bless Our Queen" and "The Galway Piper". Ralph Sevan, of Thurlow club, led in a rousing singsong.

Door prizes: donated by Tufts and Kelly, were won by Mrs. J. A. Thompson, of Queensboro; by Naylor's Garage, by Mrs. Baines, Madoc; by Hollis's Garage, won by Mrs. Arthur Park, Cooper. They were presented by Wesley Hulls.

Isobel Burnside moved a vote of thanks to those who helped make the evening a success. The vote was seconded by Glen Franks.

WOOLER

Wooler — Mrs. A. G. Austin spent Tuesday evening attending the installation of officers of the Eastern Star at Warkworth.

Sorry to report Noble Crosby is back in the Belleville hospital.

On Friday morning in the United church there was a rehearsal of the school children taking part in the musical festival held in Tuesday next week, under the leadership of Mrs. Baker, of Stirling.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Wessels have moved in with Mrs. R. Wessels while their new home is being built.

Wooler public school pupils motored to Toronto on Thursday by chartered bus to visit the Mercury.

Mrs. Vera Teal has been ill for two weeks but has returned to her school at Bethel.

The high school dance held in Wooler town hall on Friday evening was a grand success, with the Arnold Whaley's orchestra in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Radcliffe spent Sunday at Gordon Radcliff's, near Trenton.

Miss Verna Brooks, of Belleville, spent a few days with Mrs. A. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Foull and family have moved to their new home recently purchased from Mr. H. Wessels.

Mrs. Dawson, of Trenton, and Mrs. Rutledge and daughter Sheiher, of Belleville, spent Thursday evening with Mrs. Easterly.

Messrs. G. Austin and Carl Austin joined the fishing party at Frankford to go north, fishing for the first few days in May.

Mr. Herman Anderson and Mr. Leo MacAuley spent a couple of days at Weslemkoon Lake.

On Sunday, Mrs. B. Yanklelin entertained at a dinner party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Wessels, who have sold their home; the guests were: Mrs. M. Burrell, Mrs. E. Wessels, Mrs. S. C. Ferrill, Mrs. C. Herrington, Mrs. A. Smith, Mrs. D. Jenners, Mr. and Mrs. H. Maybee and Mr. P. Whaley.

Mr. Percy Dunn, of Oshawa, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Putnam and Brian, of Trenton, spent Sunday at Mr. Ray Putnam's.

Rev. J. Fletcher motored to Colborne on Sunday evening for a special service.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Putnam and Janis spent Sunday at Thomasburg, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Horne.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Keller, of Brantford, Mr. and Mrs. Sharpe and Mrs. H. Galnsforth spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Hubble.

Miss Cox, of Montreal, is visiting at the home of Mrs. Robt. Walker, while Mr. Wilker, who is much improved, is still in the Trenton Hospital.

The Afternoon Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. Dan Jeffers, with Mrs. S. McMaster in the chair.

A three-act play entitled, "His Name was Aunt Nellie," from Roslin, was held in the town hall last Wednesday evening, sponsored by the Young People of the United Chapital.

Miss Jean Crews, of Peterborough, spent the week-end at home with her mother, Mrs. G. Crews.

Minden Band

The May meeting of the Wooler Mission Band was held on Sunday morning in the church parlors with the leaders, Mrs. Fletcher and Mrs. J. Putnam in charge. Joan Palmer led the business session and Allan Fletcher gave the treasurer's report. Mrs. Fletcher showed a film, "Happy Times Around Home." The children then enjoyed a quiet game which closed the meeting.

A Gift From the Heart for Mother's Day

Trade, Defence and Seaway Among Problems St. Laurent Will Discuss With Eisenhower

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP)—Restrictive United States trade practices, joint defence and the St. Lawrence seaway were among the major problems Prime Minister St. Laurent planned to discuss with President Eisenhower during a two-day state visit starting today.

The first meeting of the prime minister and his chief adviser, External Affairs Minister Pearson, were due here by RCAF plane this morning.

It was St. Laurent's first state visit since Eisenhower became president 107 days ago.

From the airport St. Laurent and Pearson were to hurry to the White House for a 2½-hour conference with Eisenhower. Talks between the president and the prime minister will continue Friday.

It will be St. Laurent's first conference with the president since he met the U.S. leader when he was commander of North Atlantic armies in 1951.

At that time the atmosphere was congenial. Canadian officials expect that that atmosphere will continue to prevail, but Canada is seriously concerned with U.S. trade restrictions and the threat of these curbs on the health and welfare of the North Atlantic community.

Comes As Friend

St. Laurent comes armed with a strong weapon—a resolution passed by the U.S. Congress urging that the Canadian government express indignant objection to the U.S. action in shutting out Canadian dairy exports, and threatens to extend into exports of feed grains, metals and other commodities.

Deepest concern in Canada is felt over the Simpson bill, now under study by a Congress committee, which would tend to encourage the raising of protective rates which appears to be creeping over the U.S.

Avoid Sound Tariffs

This bill, sponsored by Representative Richard Simpson (Rep. Pa.), would boost American tariffs whenever local industry proved to be threatened by imports. It would cut the presidential powers to undertake new tariff negotiations and virtually shatter the spirit of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade on which many of the Canadian U.S. tariff parts are founded.

Also on St. Laurent's mind was what approach joint Canada-U.S. defence should take in view of international developments such as the Russian "peace" offensive.

Canada has a terrific stake in the American market. Her exports to the U.S. last year amounted to $2,300,000,000—more than half of her total exports of $4,300,770,000 in all countries.

Feel More Heartened

On the subject of the seaway, Canadian officials here now feel more heartened about the future of the project with the recent declaration of the president that he is in favour of the seaway's construction and indications that the U. S. federal power commission may, within a few weeks, hand down a decision designating the American authority to co-operate with Ontario in construction of the power aspect of the multi-million dollar undertaking.

However, even that decision may mean a further delay. Opponents of the seaway and power project can appeal a government decision to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Shoots Three Persons to Death Commits Suicide

LATINA, Italy (CP)—Mario Costanzo, 30, went berserk in the sacristy of a Roman Catholic church Wednesday night and shot to death three persons including the pastor before taking his own life.

Costanzo killed Onofrio Fusco, a merchant, and then shot Rev. Antonio Gaspano, pastor of Spigno Saturnia Church, and Miss Vincentina Zanfrillo, 26. He then shot himself, falling dead near the body of the woman.

Police said the shootings were the result of Costanzo's jealousy over Miss Zanfrillo, to whom he was engaged.

DIESEL AUTOS

OSLO, Norway (CP)—Because of the high gasoline tax in Norway, new motor-cars powered with diesel engines attracted attention at the gasoline-less show here. Experts said the oil-using diesels would save large amounts for taxi-drivers and others travelling many miles each year.

UNIQUE FIND

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (CP)—What is supposed to be a high-seat-pole from the Viking era was unearthed at Vale north of Stockholm. The post, which has a finely-carved dragon's head, is believed to date from the eighth century.

Canadians Captured by Nazis In Second World War Want $1-a-Day Allowance for Time

OTTAWA (CP) — Some 7,000 Canadians captured by the Germans during the Second World War are trying to persuade the government they are entitled to a $1-a-day allowance for their time in prisoner-of-war camps.

A delegation from the National Council of Canadian Prisoners of War met five cabinet ministers recently and was told its submission will be put before the entire cabinet.

The council was formed after Canadian soldiers imprisoned by the Japanese were awarded $1 a day for their time in prison stockades. Canadians captured by the Germans also can collect the same amount, but only if they can prove maltreatment at the hands of the Gestapo or SS (elite guard).

The council urges Canadians captured by the Germans were maltreated because the Nazis deliberately broke the Geneva Convention. It says the Canadian prisoners would not have suffered as it had not been for Red Cross parcels.

The council says all German PoW camps were under Gestapo control and that there was continuous maltreatment of Canadians. For instance, the diet provided for only 1,500 calories a man daily, less, the council contends, than prisoners of the Japanese received.

Situation Similar

The council says the situation of Canadians captured by the Germans was similar to that of Canadians captured by the Japanese. Both were supposed maltreatment. The council says that though Canadian prisoners of the Germans were not handled so harshly, they were still maltreated and should be entitled to the same allowance.

The council says it had no intention of asking for an allowance originally because most prisoners of the Germans were not handled so harshly, they were still maltreated and should be entitled to the same allowance.

The council says it had no intention of asking for an allowance originally because most prisoners of the Germans were not handled so harshly, they were still maltreated and should be entitled to the same allowance.

The council says that though a former prisoner of the Germans can claim under the duty grant if he proves maltreatment, how can the government distinguish between a man who still shows effects of maltreatment today and a man who has recovered? Both were equally maltreated in the first place.

The council also notes it is not trying to get the Canadian taxpayer to foot the bill. It estimates about $7,000,000 was realized by the government through seizure of German property in Canada when war broke out. It wants the allowance to come from this enemy alien property before money is paid out to Canadians whose property in Germany was seized.

Six Are Killed, 26 Injured By Violent Quake

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—The government announced today that six persons were killed and 26 others were injured in the violent earthquake that shook the country Wednesday. Thousands of families were made homeless.

The death toll was lower than had been feared. Unofficial reports Wednesday night said at least 17 had died.

Government officials estimated final property damage would exceed 400,000,000 pesos ($32,000,000).

The worst hit by the quake were the cities of Concepcion, Chillan, Talcahuahano and Los Angeles. Railway communications were disrupted in some localities and many communities were without electricity and water.

100-Acre Fire Under Control

NORTH BAY (CP)—A 100-acre bush fire which threatened Highway 11 near Marten river, 38 miles north of here, is under control today, Frank Miller, forest protection supervisor, said here.

Miller said two choppers were unharmed at Clear Lake although the fire burned around their cabin.

Some 60 men are battling the fire, first spotted Wednesday. Its cause has not been determined. It is being fought chain and acre-and-a-half sections, fed by dry undergrowth and dead vegetation.

Because of prevailing warm weather and light winds fire bosses in this area moved into the "high" category for the first time since the fire season opened April 1.

Sizable Units of Red-Led Vietminh Forces Withdrawn; May Mean End of Invasion

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—Sizable Communist-led Vietminh units were reported withdrawing today from the heart of Laos after overrunning more than one-third of the Indo-Chinese kingdom. The move may—or may not—mean an end of the 25-day Red invasion of the peaceful little French associated state at the back door of Thailand and Burma.

French spokesmen cautiously declined to estimate the scope of the withdrawal but said the number of rebel troops involved was impressive. The Vietminh units were pulling out of areas around the royal residence city of Luangprabang, the French-fortified Plaine des Jarres and Xiengkhoang to the south.

Two reasons were advanced here for the Communist pullback:

They also had lost their race to overrun Laos before the seasonal monsoon rains. These are now beginning.

Whether or not the enemy movement northward develops into a general withdrawal, the threat to Laos had lessened and possibly even ended for the present.

Seems Still Encircled

French Army spokesmen, however, did not exclude the possibility that the Vietminh may yet stage a do-or-die assault on Luangprabang, 275 miles southwest of Hanoi, on the Mekong river's tributary Plaine des Jarres.

Some rebel forces still were encamped around the residence town of King Sisavang Vong and its plain, 70 miles to the west. Thus far, however, they have steered clear of an attack on the virtually French-Laotian patrols, penetrating as much as 15 miles into areas where the rebels supposedly were concentrated, returned without firing a shot.

Appear Stalled

The Vietminh also appeared to be stalled in the area south of Pieoghoung, 90 miles south of Luangprabang. Advance units of the rebel forces still active stabbed two days ago to within 35 miles of Laos' Mekong river border with Thailand.

The Vietminh drive brought speedy reaction from the Thai government. Reports received here said Bangkok had ordered a force forcing police posts along the northern border and increasing the nation's Mekong river patrols.

The Thai government also has been moving some 30,000 to 60,000 Indo-Chinese refugees from its northern borders and relocating them deep in west and northwest Thailand. Many of these refugees are Vietminh sympathizers. Most of them fled into Thailand from Laos and French Cochin-China during the war of the Indo-China government after the Japanese surrender.

The French and Laotian defenders rushed in big American aircraft in their supply problem. Six U. S. C-119 Flying Boxcars, the first of a promised 12, were flown to Laos to assist in Indo-China under an increased American aid program. They took off from Hanoi with war cargoes for Laos. The big cargo planes have been rushed to France for the emergency.

Traffic Delayed

PORT COLBORNE (CP)—Heavy fog delayed ship traffic along the Welland canal for 6½ hours this morning. Pregeor Lemieux said it was slow when they did start moving shortly after 9 a. m. Two vessels, the coal carrier George S. Clell were delayed five hours.

Male Students Get Soaked On Raiding Party

NEW YORK (AP)—Male students at Columbia University went on a rampage Wednesday night, screaming orchids women's dormitories for a shower of panties—and about all they got was rain in the face.

A sudden, heavy downpour, plus a corps of unamused cops, finally dampened the spirit of mischief and sent some 200 rambunctious college gentlemen back to their rooms like wet chickens in a thunderstorm.

But 25 policemen stayed on guard around the women's building from the night, just in case.

The melee, during which several students tried in vain to crash police cordons into the girls' dorms, was a revival of last year's custom of collecting "panty raids" that hit many campuses.

The new outburst began just before midnight when about 300 students swarmed around the dormitory of Barnard College, Columbia's undergraduate school for women. They yelled, "throw down your panties."

Within minutes, the mob had swelled to 800, with 1,200 spectators. The boys surged on to the other girls' dorm, Johnson Hall, baying at the windows like blood hounds.

The girls' lights went on, and the windows flew up, with heads in curlers popping out all over the place. A few panties, garter belts and brassieres fluttered down amid wild scramblings below for the souvenirs.

Then the rains came.

Still Responsible For Completing New Post Office

OTTAWA (CP)—An Ontario contractor stopped work May 1.on a $146,100 post office for Southampton, Ont., but the public works department indicated Wednesday he still is responsible for completing the building.

The information was tabled in the House of Commons for John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) who first raised the question during debate on the Harvey Lumas Construction Co., of Regina. Mr. Diefenbaker claimed the Lumas company went into receivership last February, leaving a number of subcontractors with claims of about $250,000 against the company.

Later, Mr. Diefenbaker asked a series of questions about the Southampton post office. He said the replies would show the need for a "real shakeup" to protect the government and individuals who deal with it.

The public works department said the Southampton contract was awarded to John D. Trumbley of Kingsville, Ont., has not paid all sub-contractors for material supplied, and that four notified the department without proof of their claims that Mr. Trumbley owes them $6,979.

The department listed the claims as: Cresswell Pomeroy Ltd., Montreal, $2,431; Robert McKay, Southampton, $331; Dominion Corporation Ltd., London, Ont., $430; and Hobbs Hardware, Ltd., London, $2,884.

The department said Mr. Trumbley still is in charge of work to complete the building.

Pricing Services Subject of Talk By President

MONTREAL (CP)—Reasonable managerial freedom in pricing services must be given railways, president W. A. Mather of the Canadian Pacific Railway said Wednesday.

Addressing shareholders at the company's 72nd annual general meeting, Mr. Mather said "the serious problems confronting the railways is that of meeting truck and other competition while they themselves remain bound by a pattern of rates designed at a time when competition was a relatively unimportant factor."

The present freight-rate structure has evolved from one originally designed to serve a very different economy, he said. Railways then were the only effective means of overland transportation. Opening new land areas and developing the commerce of a young nation were important. The u n d e r standable dominant consideration was that products of the farm, the forest and the mine should move to the market place at minimum rates.

The value - of - service principle was applied. Relatively low rates were placed on bulky and raw commodities; higher rates for high-valued and processed commodities, but not so high as to prevent or discourage their movement.

Today, he said, railways no longer are the exclusive means of transportation for high-value traffic, once relied upon to offset "marginal" operations for haulage of primary commodities.

The transport industry "has an important place in the economy" but it "is not required by law to carry all types of traffic, to publish scales of rates, enjoys the privilege of using the highways at low cost and is relatively free from regulation."

175,000 Cigarets Stolen From Parked Truck

Close to 175,000 cigarettes, valued at $3,500, were stolen from a transport truck here last night while the driver was attending a movie.

William F. Allen, Ottawa, driver for Tingley Transport Company of that city, reported to police that 17 cases of cigarettes destined for delivery to wholesalers in the Belleville area, were taken from his transport while it was parked on Station St. The Regent service station lot on Dundas St. West. Allen said he left his truck just about eight o'clock and found the cigarettes missing when he returned shortly after midnight.

Police said the lock on the transport door had been sawed through and the cigarettes apparently removed from the truck over a low fence. They said a truck would be required to carry away the cigarette cases.

The cases were said to have contained 8,028 boxes, containing 20 and 25 cigarettes each.

Port of Wonsan Heavily Bombed By U.S. Ships

SEOUL (AP)—The battleship New Jersey and the cruiser Brunswick steamed into Wonsan harbor on Korea's east coast today and bombarded the battered Communist port and communications hub for the second time in three days.

The two warships and an escorting destroyer opened up a few hours after dive bombers from the carriers Princeton and Valley Forge heavily damaged an important Red rail repair depot in northeastern Korea, only 180 miles from Siberia.

Secretary Says U.S. Must Promote Foreign Trade

WASHINGTON (AP)—Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks said Tuesday the United States must promote the greatest amount of foreign trade possible without damaging U.S. industry.

The best way to do this, he told the House of Representatives ways and means committee, is to approve President Eisenhower's request for a one-year extension of the present Reciprocal Trade Act, while a commission yet to be established studies the many problems involved.

The present act, under which the President may negotiate tariff agreements to improve international trade, is due to expire June 12.

Weeks joined the parade of administration witnesses opposing a bill by Representative Richard Simpson (Rep. Pa.) which would extend the trade act but would impose stringent new restrictions designed to protect all domestic industries.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS
KNOWN THE WORLD OVER

They May Have Set a Precedent in Canada

Scientists have determined that one out of 88 births will produce twins and about one-quarter of these will be identical. They have yet to determine the outcome of identical twins marrying identical twins. This is the fate that befell Lila, second from left, and Lola Chamberlain, who recently married Abe, left, and Henry Neudorf, in Saskatoon, Sask. Following a double wedding ceremony, the two young couples honeymooned to Niagara Falls, Ont., and from there travelled to King City, Ont., where they visited an uncle. This may be the first time this event has taken place in Canada, as there is no record of it ever happening before. — Central Press Canadian.

O. Bertrand's home on Wednesday evening.

A pot luck supper which was held in the Sunday School rooms under the auspices of the Women's Institute on Thursday evening was well attended and thoroughly enjoyed.

Friends were pleased to learn that Mrs. E. Chambers was able to return home from Kingston Hospital on Sunday and all trust that she may have better health in the future.

Friends and neighbors assembled in the Sunday School room on Saturday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Reid and family, who are leaving the community. A varied program of music was enjoyed and they were presented with a tri-light lamp and magazine rack and the two boys with a pen and pencil set.

Thanks for the gifts were voiced and a social time enjoyed. Refreshments were served.

A goodly number attended the music festival in the school house on Monday evening and each number given was heartily applauded.

A welcome is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Elliott and daughter, who have moved to the village, where Mr. Elliott is engaged as cheese maker for the ensuing year.

Miss Eva Cliffin is spending some time in Toronto.

STRUCK BY TRAIN

Sturgeon Falls (CP) — Gerald Roberge, 44, was struck by an eastbound passenger train a mile east of here Tuesday night. He suffered undetermined head injuries.

Police said Roberge, who is believed to have come from Quebec, was found beside the tracks after the engineer of a westbound freight train reported seeing an object near the right of way.

Sturgeon Falls is 30 miles west of North Bay.

Prince Charles Will Not See Mother Crowned

LONDON (CP)—It seemed just about definite today that Prince Charles will not be present in Westminster Abbey for the Coronation ceremony June 2.

Earlier reports had suggested that the popular little Prince, who often appears in public, might witness part of his mother's Coronation. Today a Buckingham Palace spokesman, though declining to make an official announcement, says it seems unlikely he will be there.

A souvenir Coronation program, approved by the Queen, shows no provision for Charles in any of the coaches.

Charles will be five in November. Princess Margaret was six when she attended the Coronation of the late King George VI in 1937.

SIGN OF SUMMER

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Delmar Bence dug up the earliest mushroom he's encountered in 60 years of mushroom hunting. The mushroom he's picked early in May was in his garden.

Canadians Small Fish Eaters Says Minister

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Each Canadian ate an average of 1,500 pounds of food last year, but only 14 pounds of this was fish, Fisheries Minister Sinclair said Tuesday night.

The fishing industry is faced with market resistance, but if Canadians would eat one more pound of fish each a year, the problem would be solved, he added.

Mr. Sinclair spoke at a banquet arranged by the Chamber of Commerce to mark the 25th anniversary of the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Company in Peterborough, the town's second largest industry.

Mr. Sinclair said the federal department will co-operate with Ontario this summer in an attempt to eradicate the sea lamprey, a parasite which has reduced the lake trout catch.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was drinking my milk this morning and wishing it was melted strawberry ice cream, and I said, Hay, ma, G. pop, I had a funny dreem last nite.

You wont have nutch a funny one if you're late for school, as you better stop dawdling as if time grew on trees, ma said, and I said, Yes mam, the ferst part of the dreem I was walking through a big field full of mixed daisies and broken glass, and all of a sudden there was a fierce earthquake and the ground came apart in 2 halfs, and I started to fall between them, and it was the longest hole I ever fell into, even in a dreem.

Goodness, if you call that funny, you must have peculiar tastes, it was a nitemare, ma said, and I said, That wasn't nearly the end of it.

Remember what your mother told you about being late for school, pop said, and I said, Yes sir, all kinds of wild animals and snakes and even sharks stuck their heads out at me while I was falling passed, but I fell too fast for them, so the best they could do was bite holes out of my clothes, and prilly soon there was so many holes in my clothes the wind blew through them sounding like it does when it blows through the trees in winjer.

Yes goda, you must of been a wreck when you woke up, pop said, and I said, No sir, that's the funniest part of it, I woke up laffing, because all the time I was falling I realized I was falling the opposite direction from school.

Well you're going in the rite direction this morning, sterling practically immeesitly, ma said.

Which, I did, proving the difrence between real life and dreems.

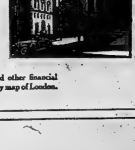
THE ROYAL BANK OF CANADA IN LONDON



The eyes of the world will be on London in June. Thousands of Canadians will be there for the Coronation. And they will find in the heart of the Commonwealth two little pieces of Canada.

Through the years our two London branches have become popular "rendezvous" for Canadians visiting the Old Country. Here you can cash or purchase travellers cheques, exchange money, leave valuables for safekeeping, arrange to have mail forwarded or held and make use of other services provided by Canada's largest bank. So if you are off to London this Coronation year, make a note of these handy Royal Bank offices, where you can do all your banking business in a familiar, friendly atmosphere.

TWO BRANCHES IN LONDON

Our main London office (right) is at 6 Lothbury, in the heart of the financial district, opposite Tivoli corner and the northern side of the Bank of England. Our West End Branch (left) is situated at 2 Cockspur St., just off Trafalgar Square, a step from Canada House and the Office of the High Commissioner.

Before you leave for England, call at any of our branches for travellers cheques and other financial arrangements for your trip. Ask for a free copy of our Coronation folder containing a handy map of London.

Benefits of Vitamin E In Treating Heart Disease Outlined by Dr. W. Shute

The treatment of the medical profession has used to treat coronary thrombosis for the past 20 years has apparently been designed to kill as many patients as possible, Dr. Wilfrid Shute of the Vitamin E Society of Canada, declared before a large audience at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Sunday School room Wednesday night.

Dr. Shute, along with his brother, Dr. Evan Shute, rose to international prominence some eight years ago in their London, Ontario, clinic when they announced that their administering of Vitamin E had been highly successful in the treatment of heart disease.

"If you want to kill a coronary thrombosis patient," Dr. Shute said, "put him to bed. But put him to an exercise, give him Vitamin E and his chances of recovery are greatly enhanced."

Describing the difficulty of any new "wonder cure" being accepted by the medical profession and public, Dr. Shute stated that at last count, 126 newspapers in the United States looked upon the Vitamin E treatment favorably while a few refused to accept it.

Long Time Lag

"It took 14 years from the discovery of penicillin before it was used medically," the speaker declared, "and 30 years from that of insulin to be accepted. Because in the past there has been such a lag between discovery and exercise use of a discovery, medical science the Vitamin E Society has taken the means of public meetings and pamphlets to bring this message to the public."

Declaring that his goal was to prove that Vitamin E was the most potent, and only, drug treatment for heart disease, Dr. Shute remarked that he knew of three leading Ontario heart specialists who, suffering from cardiac conditions themselves, regularly used Vitamin E while refusing to recommend it to their patients suffering from the same malady.

Digitalis, a widely used drug in heart disease, was a potent and selectively poisonous certain parts of the heart, he said. Other drugs did nothing to aid the heart.

"Coronary thrombosis," he continued, "killed more than half the men in Canada over 40 who died last year. Yet in 1900, there was no coronary thrombosis. Shovelling snow or pushing cars will not get you thrombosis, although two-thirds of the attacks occur after such exercise."

Dr. Shute explained that a group of nine different animals had been deprived of Vitamin E in their diets and all had developed heart trouble. Coronary thrombosis had increased by seven per cent between 1900 and 1951, he said.

Aids in Recovery

He briefly outlined the cases of several persons, some of whom were actually on their deathbed, who with the aid of Vitamin E had been able to return to work and otherwise lead a normal life.

Vitamin E, he said, had also proved effective in phlebitis (inflammation of a vein) and other vascular troubles. In addition, it had been used with success in saving gangrenous limbs that would otherwise have had to be amputated. It had also worked wonders in the cases of severe burns.

"I believe," Dr. Shute concluded, "that 50 years from now there will be no necessity for a person to suffer from coronary thrombosis. I also believe that any doubting doctor who says Vitamin E does not work had better start using it or time will pass him by."

The speaker illustrated his speech with a series of slides describing actual case histories. A question and answer period followed his address.

C. E. Muir, Toronto, executive secretary of the Vitamin E Society of Canada, told the audience that the society had been formed by patients who had been helped by Vitamin E and now had a membership of 2,500.

"It is a response such as to-night that helps us to get the message across," he said. "We believe Vitamin E to be one of the greatest discoveries in medical history. Our work has just nicely begun."

Mr. Muir was introduced by the Rev. J. G. Hornsby, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

MADOC

Madoc I.O.O.F. No. 179 and the members of Madoc Oakdale Rebekah Lodge attended their annual church service on Sunday morning at St. John's Anglican Church, Madoc. The rector, Rev. T. Harvey Good, was in charge of the service and delivered a worthwhile message to members and the large congregation that attended. Special music was rendered by the choir under the leadership of organist, Miss Ida Robertson.

The annual field day of Madoc Public School was held on Monday. With only a fair attendance which was regrettable, the parents are not more interested in the events pertaining to the work of the school. However the events were keenly contested by the pupils, and the following results were the successful cup winners: Junior girl, D. Scouten; Senior girl, Maria Langeland; Junior boy, Robert Taylor; Senior boy, Jack Addison.

Several of the pupils were successful in carrying off some of the minor prizes as well as prizes of ribbon badges red, blue and white.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tuffs and family, spent a few days in Montreal and St. John's, Quebec, where they visited their son, Cadet Douglas Tuffs.

Mrs. Lorne Blakely, Billie and Bob; Mrs. A. Lucas and Linda, spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. B. Tanner.

Mrs. Percy Whytock has returned home after spending some time in Toronto.

Miss Jenale Aylesworth has returned to her home in Wellington Prince Edward, after spending the winter in Madoc.

Rev. Gordon Brett, Mrs. Brett and children, of McDonald's Corners, spent a few days with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brett.

Cuba Will Not Ship Refined Sugar to Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Cuba has decided not to ship refined sugar to Canada for the remainder of 1953, Trade Minister Howe announced today in the Commons.

The restriction extends a one-month bar on Cuban refined exports that followed consultations with Canadian authorities concerned about the effect of imports from that country on the Canadian sugar industry.

Mr. Howe and members of a Canadian trade delegation to Latin America discussed the matter with Cuban authorities last spring.

Five Persons Lose Lives In Sea Collision

HARWICH, England (AP)—Five persons lost their lives Wednesday in a North Sea collision that sliced in the bow off the British steamer Duke of York. Four bodies remained unidentified today.

Twelve passengers were injured, but approximately 350 passengers and crew members were rescued from the 4,194-ton British ship after the collision with the 7,607-ton American freighter Haiti Victory 40 miles east of this port city.

Workers cut their way into the mangled hull of the Duke of York after tugs nudged the ship into a berth. The workers removed the bodies of two women and a man. A spokesman for British railways, owner of the ship, said the body of another woman was discovered pinned in the wreckage.

Police found the passports of three American women in the wreckage of the ship.

The only victim identified thus far is Mrs. Argo Ansdell, 54, an Englishwoman who died in a hospital Wednesday night.

The British railways said 427 passengers and 72 crew members were aboard the Duke of York—a total of 499. Reports made up the bulk of the passenger list but there also were many Americans and Europeans among them.

A tug towed the Duke of York first into Harwich harbor just before midnight, more than 19 hours after the collision. The Haiti Victory, with only a gash in her bow, had brought most of the ferry's survivors here hours earlier.

Test Postponed

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Unfavorable weather has caused a 24-hour postponement of an atomic blast scheduled for this morning at the Nevada proving ground.

The atomic energy commission announced Wednesday night atmospheric conditions were such that desired data could not be obtained. It was the first weather-caused postponement of the spring series.

The blast, eighth of the series, is now set for about 8:30 a. m. PDT (11:30 a. m. EDT) Friday, weather permitting.

Pennies of Canadian School Children Have Bought $20,000 Worth of Clothing for Korea

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SEOUL (CP)—The pennies of Canadian schoolchildren have bought $20,000 worth of textiles for refugees in Korea.

Sister Bjarnesen of Toronto, an auxiliary national commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross, said that the cloth will be used in a self-help program in Korean schools.

The pupils will be taught to sew them into clothes for other needy Korean children.

The money was raised by the Canadian Junior Red Cross and is a gift from its national service fund. Textiles have been bought in Japan, where a Korean woman teacher spent three months learning self-help methods.

She now is back in Korea and the program has been launched in Pusan.

The main purpose of his trip, he said, was the semi-annual Rikonchai visit usually made to workers in the field here by an officer from Toronto headquarters.

"We like to see if there is anything new we can provide," he said.

"Our chief operation is in Japan, where we have 16 girls divided between the hospital and convalescent centres in Kure, and the Maple Leaf Club in Tokyo. We have one in Korea.

"I find that it is extremely difficult for us to do more for the soldiers than we are doing now. Already we have a more-extended service than we had during the Second World War when our girls were only at the general hospitals."

While in the brigade area Bjarnesan visited the two Freedom Villages at Munsan, the one for UN troops, the other for the ROKs, as an official observer.

His liaison officer during his three-day visit with the brigade was Capt. David Harrison of Halifax.

Premier Malenkov Model Schoolboy Says Woman

By HARRY GELBER

COLOGNE (Reuters) — Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov was "almost a model schoolboy" in his early teens but rarely joined other youngsters in their games, his former teacher recalls.

Belgian-born Mrs. Remmy Giesen, 56, described in detail the early years of Russia's new premier in his hometown of Orenburg in the southern Urals. She was interned there with her German husband during the First World War and taught French to the Russian children.

Georgi's father, a railroad engineer deprived of his job by the Czarist government for revolutionary activity, wanted his son to learn French, she said.

"One day, I went along to the Malenkov house where Georgi was born in 1902," Mrs. Giesen said. "As far as I can see from the pictures, the son looks very much like his father who was a quiet, polite man.

"The mother was a very pretty, vivacious and intelligent Russian lady of the world. She was a teacher at the local school and was very pleasant and friendly.

"Young Georgi himself was a very intelligent little boy. He was much better in class than his companions and was terribly interested in every kind of knowledge and science."

Mrs. Giesen, a quiet, grey-haired woman who disclaims any political leanings, told the story in her ramshackle little home at Wesel, ing near here where she has lived since her return from Russia in 1918.

Young Georgi, she said, stood at the top of her class and was something of an apple-polisher.

"He learned things too quickly and had a wonderful memory," she said. "He was especially interested in technical things. He always had a lot of mechanical toys and I hear that he later went on to the technical college in Moscow.

She said there was "a terrible atmosphere of bitterness" in the Malenkov home because of the way Georgi's father had been treated by the Czarist government.

"I am not surprised Georgi grew up to be a revolutionary."

Labor Gains 60 Country Seats In Elections

LONDON (AP)—Labor party leaders Wednesday night claimed the party has gained more than 60 country seats so far in local elections.

The elections—biggest in four years—began Tuesday in county districts. Voting in London's 28 boroughs and in 361 other towns starts today.

Labor, seeking to increase gains in last year's local polls when more than 600 Conservatives were unseated, said the party has gained 62 seats, mainly in Scotland, and lost 28. Spokesmen claimed this includes control of eight country district councils.

Conservative party headquarters claimed the party was all square with 49 gains and 49 losses. The results from the non-party independents appeared high. Official totals won't be announced for several days.

Nearly 5,679 candidates are fighting for the 3,451 seats at stake in provincial cities, where one-third of the councillors retire every year. Most of the campaigns were fought on local issues.

In London's first municipal elections in four years, 2,729 candidates—including a record 631 women—are scrambling for the 1,336 seats in the 28 borough councils.

Labor now controls 17 of the London borough councils and Conservatives the remaining 17.

Chinese Stage Savage Assault On Canadians

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP) — Grenade-throwing Chinese staged a savage assault on Canadian positions at night and then at dawn looked on without firing as the Canadians brought their wounded to safety.

That was the pattern of unprecedented Chinese behavior last week-end when two battalions of the Reds assaulted the lines of the Royal Canadian Regiment's 3rd battalion, inflicting at least 61 casualties.

The Chinese swamped over the Canadian area with apron-like pouches of grenades and tossed them into the ranks of the Canadians. But there were several confirmed instances of Chinese medical orderlies dressing the wounds of Canadian soldiers and giving them water.

Credited With Victory

Analysis of the battle credited gunners of the 81st Field Regiment of the Royal Canadian Artillery with a victory over the Chinese troops.

The Red attempt to seize vital territory was beaten off by the gunners and troops of the RCRs, all of them in the line only 13 days.

The attack was the strongest the Canadians had been called on to repulse since the Chinese attacked Little Gibraltar spur last Oct. 23 and inflicted 66 casualties.

Its objective was a platoon position on a 300-foot ridge held by a company of the Royal Capt. M. J. Mullin of Charlottetown. The Chinese laid down the heaviest barrage the Canadians have experienced in Korea in an attempt to dislodge the platoon under Lieut. Edgar Hollyer of Toronto.

Failed Attempt

A Canadian raiding party led by Lieut. Gerard Balfour Meynell, an Acadia University graduate who joined the army from Brooklyn, N.Y., foiled the Chinese attempt to make their attack a surprise.

Lieut. Meynell, who is missing in action and believed killed, called for help by radio when he ran into the Reds poised for the attack. A relief patrol under Lieut. Doug Banton of Ottawa covered the withdrawal of Meynell's party, under the command of Cpl. J. C. McNeil of Reserve Mines, N.S., after Meynell was struck.

The McNeil patrol withdrew through a minefield and uphill toward the RCR's main position but Banton's patrol was ambushed and most of its members are missing. Banton has been reported killed in action.

Sullivan's action in calling down shellfire on his own position while his men crouched in bunkers is credited as one of the two main factors contributing to the enemy defeat. The other was the fact Meynell's patrol spoiled the intended surprise.

MUST SELL FREEDOM

KITCHENER (CP) — Canadians must sell freedom to their countrymen to compete with communism and socialism, Tom Lawson of London, Ont., president of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, said Wednesday. He told a regional conference of district chambers that to get the emphasis "off the material to the spiritual, we must rededicate ourselves to God."

NAMED TO WELFARE POST

KINGSTON (CP) — Edgar W. Clowes has been appointed district welfare supervisor for Frontenac, Leeds and Grenville. W. Hare Minister Goodfellow announced Wednesday. He will supervise administration of statutes relating to allowances for mothers, blind and disabled persons and old age assistance.

After a number of eye-catching manoeuvres, the Mounties' Musical Riders do a sudden gallop towards each other in what appears certain head-on crash but which actually turns into this striking circle of men and horses. Famed RCMP Musical Ride To be Given at Tournament After Coronation of Queen

The RCMP musical ride will be performed at the Royal Tournament in London after the Coronation June 2. The horses and men have been trained and gone overseas. Harold Morrison, Canadian Press staff writer, in this story tells something of the history of the ride.

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The famed RCMP musical ride, to be performed at the Royal Tournament in London after the Coronation of the Queen, has a history almost as old as Canada.

It was in the days of gun-toting outlaws, cattle rustlers and wild, untouring Indians that the unique precision drill of men and horses was born. It was started by the Northwest Mounted Police, a tough, pioneering police force that helped bring law and order to the unruly West.

Inspector William Dick of Lethbridge, Alta., who helped revive the ride after the Second World War, recalls an old diary which tells part of the story.

Two Rides Ordered

"There's an item in this diary which tells of an order issued in December, 1874, to a Sergeant-Major Belcher, instructing him to prepare two musical rides, one with lances and the other with swords," says Inspector Dick.

That order, seven years after Confederation, was issued at a remote Prairie settlement, "Pile of Bones Creek," now the thriving city of Regina.

Since then the fame of the "musical ride" has spread far and wide. Now the ride will be presented for the first time overseas before a reigning monarch. The Royal Tournament will be held June 15-19.

King George and Queen Elizabeth saw it in Regina during the 1939 royal tour. A miniature ride was held for Queen Elizabeth when she visited Canada in 1951 with the Duke of Edinburgh.

The spectacle of prancing black horses with colorful RCMP riders in the saddle performing intricate patterns of movement has survived through two world wars.

"The odd thing about that order at Pile of Bones Creek," says Inspector Dick, "is that it asked for a musical ride performed with swords as well as with lances. Swords are unusual. I've never heard of it since."

The RCMP still perform the charge—two rows of 16 horses abreast. The horses and riders with lances pointed ahead and slightly downward, race down the parade ground at full gallop. It's a thrilling sight, with the horses' rides glistening with sweat and steel-shod hoofs pounding the earth.

Somebered red - and - white pennants fly from the lances, a link with mediaeval gladiators who wrapped white cloth around their lances when they fought and sometimes got them bloody.

Music lovers, the 32 horses like all kinds of music, including rhumbas, for trots and waltzes. They'll trot, gallop and even do a side-step to them all with a fine sense of timing. This timing is the key to the beauty of the equestrian show.

At a preview of the ride here as horses and riders trained at RCMP barracks at Rockcliffe the animals went around the arena, heads held high, bodies groomed to perfection. Not a horse was out of step.

Quit Pulling!

The horses seem to have a certain air of disrespect as the top Mounties Commissioner L. H. Nicholson (right), passes through the Musical Ride ranks to give his stamp of approval. The Musical Ride — to be performed at the Royal Tournament in London after the Coronation June 2 — is steeped in traditions of the RCMP and not a flaw must be seen anywhere. With the Commissioner is Assistant Commissioner D. L. McGibbon of Regina who will head the contingent overseas. — (CP Photo.)

Nerves of Steel

The horses performing in the RCMP Musical Ride — to be presented at the Royal Tournament in London later the Coronation June 2 — don't frighten easily. A four-engine aircraft skims overhead but they don't budge an inch. Flags, bunting and tin cans have been used to train the horses not to bolt when big crowds act up. — (CP Photo.)

Problem of Alcoholism Address At 44th Convention of W. C. T. U.

Approximately 200 gathered on Tuesday evening in Bridge Street United Church Sunday School, assembly room for the 44th annual W.C.T.U. county convention of Hastings, Lennox-Addington and Prince Edward. The meeting took the form of a banquet supper which was both bountiful and delicious.

The invocation was given by the Reverend Keith Daniel, minister of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, after which the assembly was most cordially welcomed by the county president of the W.C.T.U., Mrs. A. T. Fleming, who gave a brief, but comprehensive review of the growth of the Women's Christian Temperance Union; how it was the outgrowth of a crusade of 3,000,000 women from 94 countries whose aim was the abolition of the liquor traffic; the betterment of homes, the grounding of faith and hope in God; the forming of Christian character in the young by building day by day, by words and deeds with God's guidance.

Other greetings were brought by Alderman Charles Hyde, who acted in place of his worship, Mayor Malcolm Haig, who was unable to be present; by Mrs. Fred Wilson, vice-president of the Belleville section of the W.M.S. and by Mrs. J. M. Wood, provincial officer of the W.C.T.U.

Mrs. Wood stating that there was a great need for women who have caught the vision seen in the W.T.C.U. motto, that, "The Golden Rule of Christ will bring in the Golden Age of Man." When this is achieved there will no longer be hungry children; man would be the builders of nations instead of the destroyers, and there would be no more warped lives.

The speaker of the evening, the Reverend F. W. T. Brailey, of Toronto, director of the Board of Christian Social Council and chairman of the Marriage Guidance Council of the United Church, was introduced by the Reverend Duncan McTavish, pastor of the Church, who smilingly remarked that if the dry weather Mr. Brailey had brought with him, was a sample of his work, it was indicative of a good future for the W.C.T.U.

Greatest Scourge

Mr. Brailey prefaced his remarks by quoting from professor Arnold Toynbee, who declared that, "Drunkenness has succeeded war as the greatest scourge of war time." A statement of such severity from so able and authoritative an historian of our time, should provoke all thoughtful people to study the facts and trends of intemperance.

Drunkenness is not modern evil, but had its birth thousands of years ago, the first mention being found in the early chapters of the Old Testament, when Noah became drunken on the juice of the grape. Since then it has beset humanity and been familiar to all people of every clime and culture. In the New Testament many are the injunctions to Christians as to their responsibility to the weaker members of society, in the matter of intemperance.

Mr. Brailey mentioned several heads in connection with the fight against this 'adder' of the people. In the time of Jeremiah, about 600 B. C., people took a solemn vow of total abstinence, (Jeremiah 35:6) while in modern times the threat of this wrecker of lives was met by temperance societies being formed by the people, the signing of total abstinence pledges in 1800. By an educational process, a public opinion was formed, and groups organized, one of which was the "Order of Good Templars" in 1851, and World's Women's Christian Temperance Union in 1883, the anniversary of which will be celebrated this June in Vancouver.

Prohibition

By the petition of the people, local option areas were formed until the electorate could see the value of national prohibition. People were better off; there were larger bank accounts, and less criminality. In Scotland, Miss Ravidie wrote in the Labor party manifesto, as one of its objectives, "The prohibition of the liquor traffic, 1888. The British Labor Party was added at each session from 1906 to declare its adherence to this goal, showing that the leaders of these councils knew how great was the poverty and misery caused by the liquor traffic among the common people; hence their plea for prohibition as a solution.

In the United States, Abraham Lincoln said that the next great task that confronted the people was the liberation of the human race from the bondage of liquor. In Canada also there was a revolt against drunkenness the local option began to prove the value of temperance over intemperance. After this legislation had been in force for three years, a vote was taken in September of 1919 with the result that 777,537 votes were cast for O. T. A. and 302,297 against it, a majority of 467,295 for O. T. A.

Increased Production

This O. T. A. had accomplished increased production of goods, 70 per cent said; 78 per cent said it had increased regularity at work after pay day; 74 per cent said the workers' capacity for work was increased; and 83 per cent reported better homes, better food and clothing in the workers' families. Sir William Hearst said: "The act has been instrumental in adding greatly to the comfort and happiness of thousands of our people."

In Toronto the convictions for drunkenness in 1914 were 303 per 10,000 of the population, and in 1918 they were reduced to 70 per 10,000 the population.

"Drunkenness in our time is no longer a concern of temperance societies and church people, governments in many countries are grappling with the problem as never before. Health authorities on this continent have declared alcoholism is "Health Problem No. 4".

Disruptive Disease

Dr. Gordon Bell, director of Shadowbrook Health Foundation and consultant to the Ontario Department of Penal Reform says, "there isn't another disease more disruptive than alcohol in a community," and the director of the Ontario Research Foundation, that "We may safely assume that the number of alcoholics is sufficiently great to constitute a serious health problem. An alcoholic is by this research group considered to be a compulsive drinker whose consumption of alcohol affects his own health, of his family, his business or society, generally. It is a problem not only for the politicians, but for the physicians, parchiatrists, social workers and educators as well as parents."

Moral Decline

Mr. Brailey also mentioned the moral let-down and debauchery in the community. At the 12th General Council of the United Church, 1946, it was stated "that in view of the widespread wreckage of humanity caused by the use of beverage alcohol, it is a moral issue and thus calls upon each and every member of our Community to face the fact and the issues involved." Women now patronize liquor premises to imbibe or purchase beer, wine and cocktails; the field of entertainment is now invaded by cocktail bars; beer rooms advertise television as an added inducement, and on this system of forced sale, patrons learn to booze, and in 1950 this became worse and sank to low moral level; there risque songs were used. Things became so bad that one place in Toronto had its licence suspended in 1951, and another in 1952. Judge Robb said "the licence holders... have been warned repeatedly against improper entertainment. Acting upon numerous complaints received by the Board, our inspectors have reported that the entertainment (is offensive to all decent morals..."

Teen-Age Drinking

Drunkenness among teen-agers was on the increase because of the irresponsibility of the racketeers who exploit human gullibility and human weakness for monetary gain. In the home also, drinking was on the increase as evidenced by the crowded liquor stores, as well as bootlegging of wine and beer in the private home.

Drunken drivers are the cause of the increasing death toll on the highways. Dr. Joselyn Rogers says that 45 to 50 per cent of motor accidents are involved with drinking drivers. In 1953 1,010 people were killed.

Christians now recognize responsibility for the blight of others and with the Apostle Paul that "it is good neither to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor any thing whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is hurt, or is made weak," and that one should "Take heed lest by any means this liberty of yours become a stumbling block to them that are weak."

Study the Facts

Mr. Brailey closed his thought-provoking address with the invitation to study the facts in the community; keep the political representatives informed of what drunkenness is doing, and enlist the young people with their enthusiasm to serve in the interests of temperance, and to "Rescue the perishing, duty demands it; strength for thy labor the Lord will provide."

Mrs. D. Thompson, on behalf of the courtesy committee tendered appreciative thanks to the various members for their assistance and presence in the meeting, after which Mr. Clayton Burrs, Temperance Federation representative, on behalf of the W.C.T.U. expressed appreciation to Mr. Brailey for his fine and revealing address.

Special musical numbers, a piano selection by Mr. S. Alec Gordon; a vocal solo by Mr. Irwin, of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church choir, and two lovely selections, "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings, O Lord of Hosts", and "Four Leaf Clover" by Mrs. W. J. Burgoyne, of Bridge Street choir, were much appreciated.

Life Story Of Henry Ford Being Recorded

DETROIT (AP)—The life story of Henry Ford and the 50-year history of the industrial empire he founded is being recorded at Greenfield Village, Dearborn.

The late automotive magnate's former home, which he built in 1915 at a cost of more than $1,000,000, has been converted into the Ford Motor Company archives.

It has a complete library, with conference, reference and exhibit rooms, research offices and other facilities for the study of the last 50 years of United States history in which Ford had so vital a part.

The shelves of the archives eventually will house more than 5,000,000 letters, personal and company papers, 25,000 photographs and tape recordings of the voices of many persons closely associated with Ford and the early years of his company.

RAWDON

RAWDON — Mount Pleasant Sunbeam Mission Band convened at the church on Sunday morning. Miss Merle Simpson gave her report and twenty-five members answered roll call. The leader, Mrs Ruth Lloa, gave the study chapter based on the theme, Grandfather's Village.

Miss Iva Scott was in charge of the worship service.

Miss Lola McConnell read the Bible lesson found in Matthew 28. The offering was gathered by Gail Scott and Kenneth McConnell and Mr. Cyrus Sharp dedicated it.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Kane, River Valley community, in Sidney township, was filled to capacity for the special certain prayer meeting in connection with St. Paul's centennial.

Early in the evening Rev. A. E. Baker baptized Dorothy Marlene and David Edwin, young children of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Brant, Shannonville, and grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Calrence Sova of River Valley community.

Elder Walter Elliott, presided over the cottage service and Elder Edwin Warren read the Bible lesson.

Rev. W. S. Irwin gave the special devotional message and Mr. Elliott closed with "Blessing of the Hunter Mission." Mrs. D. Leury read a selection.

Miss Dorothy Warren sang, "Who Is The Stranger" and Mrs. Jack Smith rendered, "The Stranger of Galilee."

Refreshments were served and a social hour of friendship enjoyed.

The first quarter programs for the centennial year have been issued. There will be two special services in May.

On Sunday, May 4th., at St. Paul's, Rev. George Telford, M.A., B.D., D.D., president of the Bay of Quinte Conference, will be guest speaker and at 3:30 noon the historic 1853 corner stone will be unveiled. Your insurance policies should "Match Up"

To prevent "holes" or expensive overlaps in your insurance coverage, your policies should all be written by one agent (us, we hope, naturally.)

The reason is, policies can be made to supplement each other wisely and economically. Often, several policies can be combined in one at considerable saving.

And an over-all knowledge of your insurance coverage, may reveal to us that you are omitting some important protection that you should have.

Carry matched insurance—not "patched" insurance.

Weed of The Week
Yellow Rocket

TORONTO — Man-made aircraft are consistently breaking the sound barrier these days, thereby establishing hitherto unknown records but despite this progress man has yet a lot to learn from Mother Nature when it comes to speed.

This is especially true as far as the rapidity with which noxious weeds can be distributed across the farm lands of Ontario.

Designers of aircraft might well have taken a leaf from the book of Yellow Rocket for here is a weed that spreads as if jet propelled.

A few years ago it was considered a "mere nuisance" but farmers are now realizing that it plays a real part in lowered production and, as a result, a lower return per acre.

Known variously as winter cress or St. Barbara's Herb, the weed usually appears as an impurity in grass or clover seed. First warning of the unwelcome visitor is usually towards the end of May.

Chemical control is not practical in a clover field, but on road sides or waste places 24D at 6 or more ounces of acid per acre will control Yellow Rocket in late May or early June," says C. H. Kingsbury, of the Crops, Seeds and Weeds Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. "When clover is in the mature, early cutting is the most effective method of stopping the spread of seed. Yellow Rocket cut in the first week of June and cured for hay or ensilage doesn't get a chance to go to seed. If only a few plants are present, hand pulling hot only removes the rocket, but reduces the weed line."

"Good drainage, thorough fall and spring cultivation, will rapidly clean up Yellow Rocket. If permitted to go to seed however, mature seeds are dropped by the end of July and in September a second wave of Yellow Rocket seedlings are present to plague the unhappy farmer."

Prime Minister Will Speak from London

STRANGE HOBBY!

A man's success from the job is his hobby. While we, personally, can't boast of one we know of a lot of Joes, especially those classified as Benedicts, who specialize in sidelines during the off-work hours.

And many and varied are these gimmicks that occupy a man's time that come under the hobby classification.

We know staid business men who shed officialdom's clothes for those of a woodworking mechanic in the comparative secrecy of the basement.

Others daily with junior's electric trains. Some like yachting, others fishing. A stern-browed banker or lawyer is a new man, hunting or trap-shooting. Others have a green thumb and develop dahlias or roses.

We know one business tycoon who collects stamps and butterflies. Another amasses newspaper headlines, and yet another has a marvellous collection of paper match covers. A few prefer blondes.

But the strangest hobby we have run across is that of Harry Robinson, 64-year-old railroader, former boxing champion, referee, promoter and versatile athlete.

Harry's hobby is watching professional boxing bouts. In person, that is, not from the comfort of his rocking chair, looking at a television screen.

The grey-thatched Britisher (Harry hails from Yorkshire, mind, the home of cricketers, cotton and pudding), has spent many thousands of dollars travelling to see major championship bouts of the past two decades. In fact Harry has seen seven major titles change hands during his pursuit of his hobby.

We talked at length with this grand ex-athlete and sportsman at the annual banquet of the C.N.R. bowling league last night.

Harry is the president of this fine organization and after his official duties were over he "warmed up" to his favorite subject, boxing.

Announce a championship bout, and Harry "downs tools", grabs himself a railway ticket and he is on his way before the Missus can back the kitchen door.

Harry's boxing junkets took him far afield. He saw Jimmy McLarnin lose to Barney Ross, and when Rocky Graziano knocked out Tony Zale, Harry had a ringside seat. He was there when the late Marcel Cerdan, French champion, knocked out Zale for the lightweight title. He saw Frenchy Belanger win the Canadian title from Kenkin Genaro and six weeks later he saw Frankie regain it.

Harry was in the ninth row back when Joe Louis was the heavyweight title from Jimmy Braddock. And the Robinson cheers rang out a little while later when the Welshman Tommy Farr carried the Dark Bomber to the fifteen-round limit before saying "uncle" with the decision against.

Harry was there when Joe Louis kayoed Max Schmeling in the first round and he also witnessed the Billy Conn-Louis fight when Conn had the Bomber beaten only to drop his guard in the thirteenth round and go down before the Louis' lethal attack.

Born at Otley, Lancashire, 64 years ago, Harry came to Canada in 1910. Boxing came naturally to him and after getting in the first licks "over 'ome" Harry followed his favorite sport here. Gleitzmeyer will probably remember Harry's fights with George Carson, Harry (Sticks) Sajlkar, Theo Maraskas and Ernie Edmonds.

He fought Harry Mason of the Belleville Rolling Mills, in the armouries for the Eastern Ontario lightweight championship. Then he lost to Stelkar a few years later in, of all places, the city hall.

After that defeat Harry, took up promoting. He staged shows for the Canadian Legion in the armouries and brought in many outstanding Ontario champions. He had Fred Perry and "Beans" Langman under his wing and matched them with fighters from the Playfair Brown stable in Toronto. Perry won three bouts and Langman two under Harry's tutelage.

Harry was versatile, to say the least. He took up refereeing and was rated as one of the best in this neck of the woods.

He played soccer for the city team and the Grand Trunks back in 1914 in a centre-half capacity. He stood between the goal posts for the CNR Mooring Hockey League, and was a member of the CNR basketball team.

Now Harry with his trusty television set, he had one of the first to be installed in Belleville, spends Wednesday and Friday evenings watching the fight.

He has two sons. Doug who followed the paternal pattern and became a fighter, winning the school boy championship here. He later fought in the navy. He lives in Montreal. The other son, Sidney, is a railroad engineer, working out of Hamilton.

Harry has been associated with the railroad for the past forty years. He is highly respected, is held high in the esteem of his fellow workers and sportsmen in general. It was a distinct pleasure to talk with this grand sportsman, gentleman and all-round fellow.

JUNIOR WORKOUT!

The Regent junior baseballers will stage a practice till tonight at the Exhibition Grounds starting at 6.15. Coach "Red" Carson announced last night. "Red", with co-coach Dick Pitzpatrick is well pleased with the way the youngsters have been turning out, some thirty or more appearing for each workout. Some surprising talent has been uncovered and both coaches are optimistic over the showing made thus far.

JUNIOR SOFTBALL

The Glen Ivy junior softball team will hold a practice at the Alemite Field tomorrow night starting at six o'clock. All players are requested to turn out.

'Bo' Holloman, Browns Pitcher Blanks Philadelphia A's 5-0; Tops Shutout With Two Hits

By BEN PRIEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bobo Holloman of St. Louis Browns pitched a no-hitter in his first major league start Wednesday night. The big test now will be whether he can survive it.

Holloman, a fun-loving Georgian nicknamed after the last Browns hurler to pitch a no-hitter, jumped from low man in the bullpen to pitching glory in nine hitless innings against Philadelphia Athletics. He faced 31 men. Five of them walked and one reached first on Holloman's own error. St. Louis won 5-0.

The big 27-year-old righthander now will have to skip the jinx that befell the last pitcher who pooped his major league starting with a hitless performance.

Other Bobo Lost

In 1892 Charley Jones broke in with Cincinnati with a no-hitter against Pittsburgh, although Pittsburgh scored a run. Jones was only one other major league game and was out of the big leagues in 1894.

Bobo Newsom was the last Brownie hurler to pitch a no-hitter and he lost the game. After nine hitless innings with the A's in 1934 he gave up a safety in the 10th and got beaten 2-1.

Holloman drove in three of the St. Louis runs with a pair of singles.

In other major league activity Wednesday, Detroit defeated Washington 6-2 and Chicago whipped Boston 6-2 in the American League. Brooklyn whipped St. Louis 5-3 and New York overcame Chicago 8-3 in National League games.

Cleveland and Boston were scheduled in the American League while rain had washed out New National League games. Philadelphia was leading Cincinnati 2-0 when the game was postponed after 3½ innings. Milwaukee and Pittsburgh were tied 1-1 after three innings when the weather intervened.

Billy Pierce of the White Sox won his fourth game of the year as he sat down the Red Sox on six hits. A pinch-hit home run by Del Wilber with a runner on base cost him a shutout.

Ned Garver won his second straight for Detroit after three early season setbacks, scattering 10 Washington hits and driving in two of the Tigers' eight runs on a homer in the eighth inning.

Rhubarb in Brooklyn

Brooklyn, where "rhubarb" was first applied to a baseball argument, had its share. Ex-St. Louis finished the game under protest after a sixth inning set-to during which Cardinal catcher Eddie Stanky and catcher Del Rice were chased from the park for arguing with umpire Jocko Conlan.

Conlan had waved Jackie Robinson home from third base after a collision with Cardinal shortstop Solly Hemus. Hemus sprawled head first in the baseline, diving for a drive off the bat of Gus Zernial. Robinson, running from second, collided with him and fell. Conlan ruled Hemus had obstructed the base runner.

Ewell Blackwell set a Dodger lifetime record for home runs as he hit his 16th four-bagger. Duke Snider also hit a homer. Rookie Ray Jablonski hit two for the Cards who got only five hits off Carl Erskine.

The Giants battered six Chicago pitchers for 15 hits as they handed the Cubs their seventh straight loss. The victory moved the Giants up to sixth place and pushed the Cubs down to seventh.

His Century For Middlesex

LONDON (Reuters)—Jack Robertson of Middlesex hit a fine 115 runs off Cambridge University bowling in less than four hours Wednesday, with the help of some poor Cambridge fielding.

Denis Compton took a 56 towards the Middlesex total of 334 in eight declared. Cambridge managed 14 runs for no wickets before stumps were drawn.

In the only country championship match starting Wednesday Gloucestershire wicket-keeper A.E. Wilson caught six Hampshire batsmen to equal the county record. Wilson, 40, is having his benefit season. Hampshire totalled 220 runs; Gloucestershire replied with 64 for no wickets.

Australian tourists 286 for five vs. Yorkshire.

MCC 150, Surrey 125 for five.

Oxford University 193, Lancashire 27 for no wicket.

Middlesex 334 for eight declared, Cambridge University 14 for no wicket.

Hampshire 290, Gloucestershire 64 for no wicket.

Dudley Presents Allan Cup

KITCHENER (CP)—George Dudley, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, presented the Allan Cup to team captain Clare Martin of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in a series ice ceremony after the Dutchmen defeated Penticton Vs 5-0 Wednesday night for the senior Canadian title.

Dudley drew a loud chorus of boos when first introduced, probably as a result of his announcement that the AHA had turned down a Dutchmen protest against Penticton using Bobby Gillson, Owen Sound goalkeeper.

Kitchener coach Bob Rafferty said he wanted to make one thing clear. Bobby Gillson isn't the best goalie in Canada. We have him right here. Keith Woodall always came through when the chips were down."

After the presentation ceremony the fans began to form up for a victory parade which started at the auditorium and wound up at the city hall.

The players were carried in open cars and thousands followed.

Both teams were guests of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at a private party after the game.

Rafferty said after the game: "I feel like a great weight has been lifted off my shoulders. Those boys really came through for me, every one of them."

In the silent Penticton dressing room coach Bill Cave remained his usual calm self.

"They had the script all written for them before we ever got here," he said.

"They have a fine team, they're better than ours but what can you do against referees like that. They kept us off balance all games. It was a good game but they got the breaks."

'Biggest Thrill' Says Holloman

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Husky Alva "Bobo" Holloman, who twirled a no-hitter here Wednesday night in his first major league start, said "this is the biggest thrill of my life."

"Were you nervous, Bobo?"

"Just in the ninth," he replied. "That was the toughest one."

Holloman said he was throwing change ups and curves, mixing his fast ball in with them in the ninth inning.

The last man he faced was Eddie Robinson.

On the first pitch Robinson swung and missed. He fouled off the next two pitches and then flied to Vic Wertz in right field to end the game.

Holloman said he threw Robinson a curve on the last pitch.

"He pulled my curve ball foul and I gave him another one."

Flashy fielding plays assisted Holloman earn his no-hitter.

Insurance Plan Gets Under Way

HAMILTON (CP)—Applications went out Wednesday to the more than 2,000 teams in the Ontario Amateur Softball Association, as the OASA group insurance scheme got under way.

Every coach, player or official signing a certificate and paying $1 will be eligible for participation in the group plan if all players on each team sign. The largest sports group plan ever underwritten, it will cover more than 35,800 players in amateur softball in Canada, up to $100.

Kitchener Dutchmen Win Allan Cup; Barrie Flyers, Dominion Champions

Triumph Over Penticton V's In Fifth Game of Hot Series; West Bitter Over Officials

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—The use of Gilmer, last an alternate with Allan Cup, Canada's trophy, symbolizing Canadian senior amateur hockey supremacy, back in the Kitchener after an absence of 35 years.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen Wednesday night won the cup by defeating Penticton, B.C., V's 5-2 and taking the best-of-seven finals 4-1. The last Kitchener hold the famed trophy was in 1918.

It was a hard-fought victory for the 1953 champions. The Dutchmen finished in third place in their Ontario Hockey Association section, a series and swept aside Stratford Indians in five games in the series semi-finals. It took them six games to win the OHA title from Owen Sound Greys, last year's cup winners.

Stretch Drive Hard

The stretch drive was the hardest. The Dutchmen had to face the seven-game limit to down Sudbury Wolves in the All-Ontario series and Sentho Falls Bidcans for the Eastern Canada title.

Penticton had first crack at the Allan Cup finals after only two years' in organized hockey. Plagued with injuries, the V's lost the first two games 5-3 and 5-4.

Then they suffered the heaviest blow. Their regular goalie, Ivan MacClelland, was declared out of the series with an injured hand. Coach Bill Cowley of the Canadian Senior Amateur Hockey Association for permission to use Bobbie Gillson of Owen Sound Mercurys, who was granted 36hl Gillson brought some life into the V's in the fifth game when he held back the Dutchmen to give the V's a 3-2 victory, their only one of the series.

The Dutchmen filed a formal protest with the CAHA over the use of Gilmer, but as already set, among the hockey executive confirmed the original decision. Kitchener-Waterloo won the sixth game in the fourth game Monday night and whipped the western representatives 7-2.

George Dudley, CAHA secretary-manager, presented the cup to Kitchener's captain Clare Martin. Although the ceremony has been formed a victory parade and second yet at the city hall. The players were paraded in open cars and a procession of hockey fans followed on foot. Dudley said: "Whether the final series successful financially ever held. A total of 38,674 fans jammed Kitchener's arena to watch the six games.

The officiating of Vic Lindgren and Frank Udvari, both of Winnipeg, was a sore spot with Canada throughout the series.

Coach Cowley, Doug Verity, Maurice Leveque line gave Kitchener trouble. Senior leaguer scored three of the five goals, leveque two and the two big ones in the first period.

Verity scored the first goal and combined with Leveque for the other shoulder frozen, due to an overzealous fan.

The winners' third goal came on Jack McKenzie. Charlie Brooker scored the fourth goal and Leveque scored his second and the final of the night at 19:34.

Tigers Whip Panthers 5-1

WATERLOO (CP) — Waterloo Tigers and Kitchener Panthers, Intercounty Baseball League first league teams, met Wednesday night in the first game of the best-of-seven series for the Mill Schmidt Trophy and the Tigers won the first game of the season 5-1. The first game was a tie.

Kitchener was held scoreless by Joe Yonuruk and George Yorke, two hefty righthanders, until the ninth inning.

Sport in Brief

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes announced Wednesday the signing of Tony (Tippy) Moscon, from the University of Georgia, to a Big Four football contract. Moscon is described as a smart pass-catcher and punt-return man. He was assistant coach to Wally Butts at Georgia last season.

ST. THOMAS (CP)—The Pinafore Park grounds will be renamed Jimmie Field in honor of the late Robert D. Emslie, former dean of National Baseball League umpires. City council Tuesday night approved the move and mayor T. W. Curnah Wednesday headed a committee to confer with the baseball association on a date for the ceremony.

LONDON, Ky. (AP)—James Tillman Murphy, former major league baseball player, died Wednesday after suffering a heart attack. Murphy, 71, had been in ill health for some time. He started his baseball career with a team at Louisville and went from there to New York Giants. He played with that club in 1903 and 1905 when he joined Cleveland Indians.

Will Train In Western Site

GUELPH (CP)—New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, who have held their training camp in Guelph for the last two years, are planning to shift to a western site next fall, probably Saskatoon or Vancouver.

This was made known Wednesday in a letter from Rangers' manager Frank Boucher to Howard Radford, manager of Guelph Memorial Gardens. Boucher said the matter had already been worked out and only the approval of Gen. John Reed Kilpatrick, head of Madison Square Garden, to make it official.

Boucher was reported dissatisfied with the small attendance for Rangers' exhibition games here last fall.

May Lose Ace Pitcher

GUELPH (CP)—Guelph Maple Leafs of the Intercounty Senior Baseball League may have to get along without the services of pitcher Jackie Bowes this season.

Cleveland Indians, who paid Bowes a bonus to turn professional in 1951, have advised the Maple Leafs they won't permit him to go on the voluntarily retired list.

Bowes ran up a 7-3 record with the Maple Leafs in 1951.

Babe Ruth, then pitching for Boston Red Sox, outlasted the great Walter Johnson in a pitcher's duel that lasted 20 years ago today. Ruth, who later won fame as the home-run slugger of New York Yankees, held Washington to two hits while his team-mates nicked Johnson for four and Boston won 1-0.

Defeat St. Boniface Habs 6-1 In Hot Fight-Spattered Game; Eleven Players Mix in Brawl

WINNIPEG (CP)—A superior crew of Barrie Flyers captured the Memorial Cup Wednesday night as they pasted St. Boniface Canadiens 6-1 in a hot, fight-spattered hockey game.

The fifth and final game of the best-of-seven Canadian junior final mixed up with a heat wave, short-tempered players and fans and a visit from the stork.

Barrie' showed top form in the first three games, downing the Canadiens 6-4, 6-3 and 7-5. Flyer coach Hap Emms, however, had been complaining when he stepped off the train and didn't stop until he walked into the Canadiens' dressing room after the game to say all was forgiven.

St. Boniface hosted western hopes Monday when they played inspired hockey to down the surprised Flyers 7-4 in the fourth game.

Robertson Got Two

Emms claimed his team was more inundated than beaten as a western heat wave sapped the ice in the Winnipeg Amphitheatre to bike-racing rink. Emms said the refereeing in the fourth game was the worst he had ever seen and called the Wednesday stink a beau.

Jim Robertson led the Flyers Wednesday with two goals and Doug Mohns, Ralph Willis, Ory Tessier and Don Cherry accounted for others. Leo Kouyk scored the single goal for St. Boniface.

What the hockey lacked in excitement was made up by flying fists in the crowd and on the ice. The squabble began when Barrie's Skip Teal skated to the St. Boniface bench in the second period and, in answer to a verbal raspberry, invited any player to come down and fight. Billy Short complied and both received penalties including a major to Short for leaving the bench.

Later in the period Ory Tessier and Gary Elaine mixed it near the St. Boniface net and before the officials halted the battle, 11 players from both teams including goalie Hal Dahlke were involved and four major penalties were handed out.

Although the temperature in the rink climbed to 75 degrees during the game and some water appeared in the third period, the ice surface was not soft. Both teams were short a player as Ory Tessier of Barrie and Bob Jacqs of Canadiens sat it out with injuries.

Coach Bryan Hextall of the Canadiens, who gave Barrie credit as the better team over the game, was not entirely a loser. Hextall's wife presented him with a baby boy during the day.

Harry Lumley, president of the Manitoba Amateur Hockey League, presented the Memorial Cup to goalie Hal McKinney of the Flyers in a centre-ice ceremony after the game.

Riley Clobbers Dave Gallardo

WASHINGTON (AP)—Charlie Riley clobbered Dave Gallardo to bloody defeat in a bruising featherweight brawl Wednesday night. Referee Ray Bowen stopped the fight at 1:07 of the seventh round after Riley nearly knocked Gallardo out of the ring.

Riley, of St. Louis, weighed in at 132 pounds, a 4-5 favorite from Los Angeles, weighed 129½.

Up to the seventh, it was a pretty even fight, with Riley a shade ahead.

Royals Whip Toronto 4-1 Behind Lehman

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Lefty Ken Lehman's service with the American Army in Korea apparently has not hurt his pitching prowess.

He proved this Wednesday night as Toronto, stopping the Maple Leafs cold with a sharp two-hitter and leading Montreal Royals to a 4-1 International Baseball League victory over their arch rivals.

The win was the third in as many starts for the left-hander with Brooklyn Dodgers of the National League and St. Paul Saints of the American Association last year. Lehman struck out seven men and allowed only four walks on balls.

First baseman Rocky Nelson gave Lehman a hand with a basher loaded double in the ninth that brought home three runs.

Stubby Overmire, also a lefty, opposed the young Leafs, allowing six safeties. Toronto's only run came when lead-off man Mike Goliat slammed a round-tripper in the second inning.

Rochester Red Wings moved into first place with a 9-4 victory over Ottawa Athletics in a game marred by seven errors, six by Ottawa. Montreal and Toronto are second and third, respectively. Only percentage points separate the three clubs.

Bobby Tiefenauer, a right-hander who took over in the fourth from rookie Floyd Medlen, was credited with the victory. Lefty Don Gold, the other Ottawa hurler, suffered the loss.

Catcher Chicky Wolf won their last six games from Baltimore 13-3 1953, resumed the string with a 7-3 victory over the Orioles. Jack Crisford, last of three Syracuse hurlers to see action, was the loser.

The tall-end Springfield Cubs made their third victory of the season a good one as they scored eight times in the third inning and went on to whack Houston Buffaloes 10-0. Young Don Elston subdued Buffalo with a fine four-hitter.

Moore, Maxim Signed for Bout

OGDEN, Utah (AP)—Champion Archie Moore will meet challenger Joey Maxim in a light heavyweight fight in Ogden June 24, co-promoters Ed Fabulich announced Wednesday.

Warden said the last obstacle was cleared when arrangements were made to provide equipment to televise the fight over a country-wide hookup.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — The new owners of St. Louis Cardinals, who like everybody and are very public-relations conscious for a reason which escapes us, threw a delightful luncheon at one of our better restaurants. Not even the club president delivered a speech, which you can't make a much better start than that.

When we finally caught up with Eddie Stanky, who survived the big shuffle and continues to manage the beaming Red Birds, he was grappling with a question. He had been asked if he thought Brooklyn was going to "run away and hide" from the rest of the National league.

"Do you mean," he asked incredulously, "if I think they'll win by 15 or 20 games? The answer is that I certainly do not. I still think it's going to be a horse race. I mean between Brooklyn and us and the Phillies and the Giants. I'm not underestimating the Giants, no matter how they've been looking up to now."

Which team did he feel had benefitted most from one of the weirdest springs since rain was invented?

"There's no question in my mind —the Phillies have," Stanky said. "All those days off have permitted Steve O'Neill to keep every hook with Simmons and Roberts. He won't be able to do that later on. On the other hand, I haven't yet been able to establish any real rotation with my pitching staff.

"Take Ike Blitzer. I want to use him, but it's rained for all of nine times he was due to work, so that means he has to wait until his next turn. Why don't I let him pitch on odd days? It's not that simple. The next day is Gerry Staley's turn. He's my best and I've got to go with him. And after that come Joe Presko and Vinegar Bend Mizell and Harvey Haddix. They're all going too good to miss a turn. So if the rain helps Steve, but it hurts us."

If one of the big four, say the Giants, should drop out of contention, which of the other clubs did he think might climb into the fight?

"Milwaukee, without any doubt," said the unbonnett pilot. "They're improved 100 per cent over last year. I never saw one of them that the ones they already had are Perradis of Montreal in the 125-pound class, beating Perradis to the punch and knocking him down.

Freddie Deegan of Halifax gave Merle Saunders of Montreal, a rugged, strong fighter, too much leeway in the first round but came back with smarter boxing and damaging uppercuts to take the 135-pound title.

Vancouver's Des Archer had the best left jab of any boxer on the card and did this was the deciding factor in his 147-pound fight with Danny Saunders of Hamilton.

Saunders Wins Dominion Heavy Title As Ten New Champions Are Crowned

By W. E. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Big Jim Saunders of Winnipeg, only 1952 champion to return to the Canadian amateur boxing tournament this year, breezed through to his third national heavyweight title Wednesday night with a 12-knot finish that produced six out-of-town winners and four from Montreal.

Three of the new champions are from Winnipeg. A n e s g h boring battler from St. Boniface, Man., was eliminated earlier. Two Halifax fighters won championship medals. A third, now fighting out of Vancouver, lost in a final by a Vancouver boy. Des Archer, came through winners.

Three of the four Montreal winners fought against fellow-townsmen in the finals. The seven local finalists were all that were left of 34 Montrealers in the starting entry list of 52 three nights ago.

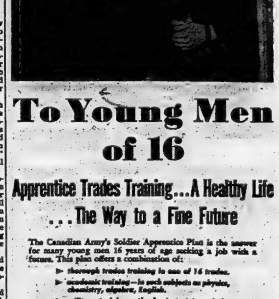
Big High Dudgeon

Saunders' win over Lee Dominion of Regina, last bout on the card, was a technical knockout at 2:37 of the third round. There wasn't even a knockdown in any of the nine other bouts although a couple of the boys were in wobbly shape when their corners called them out.

Gerry Boucher, little 113-pounder of Vancouver and formerly of Halifax, stormed about the ring in high dudgeon when the decision went against him. When he climbed down he shook his fist at the crowd, made a move toward one of the judges, then headed for a spectator in the first ringside row and was pulled back by his handlers before he stalked out of the gym.

A roar of approval for the best fight of the night turned into a concert of boos when Paul Chyzy of Winnipeg was given the decision over Lloyd Lawrence of Toronto in the 156-pound class.

Elmer Gelzins of Hamilton dumped his hand when he landed a hard right on Trent Ketcheson of Halifax in the first round. Both of little use thereafter, lost the decision in the 165-pound bout and was sent to hospital in the same hand x-rayed.



The heavyweight final was a considered affair from the start. Dominion gave away plenty to Saunders, weighing 177 to Big Jim's 194, but elected the heavyweight class for the tournament instead of the 178-pound division.

The lighter man followed the backpedalling Dominion, thumping him with right and lefts to the body. In the final round a couple of hefty rights sent Dominion to his knees for an eight count. A hooking right and a jolting left brought the end, referee Leo Fisher halting the bout.

Turning Pro

Before the fight, Saunders said this was his last amateur appearance as he was turning pro. He previously won the heavyweight title in 1949 and 1952.

Little Pete Kawula of Winnipeg hammered out a win over Fernand be'w.

Apprentice Trades Training... A Healthy Life ... The Way to a Fine Future

The Canadian Army's Soldier Apprentice Plan is the answer for many young men 16 years of age seeking a job with a future. This plan offers a combination of:

- thorough trades training in one of 14 trades.
- academic training—in such subjects as physics, chemistry, algebra, English.
- military training—the basic training of the Soldier.

Soldier Apprentices live in separate wings under the supervision of selected military and civilian teachers. A carefully balanced programme of study, play and work helps to bring out the best in young people. Learning and living with other young Canadians of their own age stimulates healthy and happy comradeship, as well as intense pride in their squadron and units.

Soldier Apprentices are eligible for all Army benefits, pensions and the 30 days annual leave. They receive half pay while 16 but upon reaching their 17th birthday they receive full pay with extra group pay as they qualify.

The young man who is interested in the happy, healthy and purposeful life of the Soldier Apprentice should investigate immediately.

The coupon below will bring you full details without any obligation.

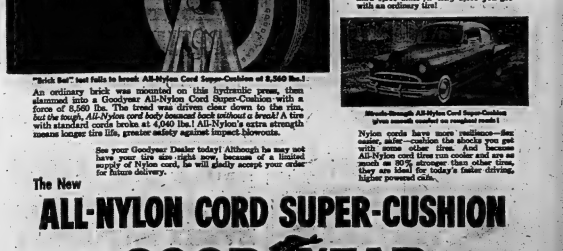
NOW—A NYLON CORD TIRE

for only a few dollars more than a standard tire!

NYLON CORDS MEAN UP TO 80% MORE STRENGTH!

Up to now, only Goodyear has made an All-Nylon cord tire, and it has been available only in Goodyear's highest priced lines.



But now Goodyear brings you the miracle strength; amazing safety of an All-Nylon cord tire . . . for only a few dollars more than a standard tire.

All-Nylon cords mean greater sidewall strength—longer tire life—greater freedom from blowout worries. And Goodyear puts this new strength, new safety, well within your reach!

NEW TREAD RUBBER; TOOL UP TO 21% MORE MILEAGE!

This new All-Nylon Cord Super-Cushion tire features a newly developed tread rubber that actually gives you as much as 21% more mileage than old style tread rubber!

Think what this means to you! Now, you'll get as much as an extra 4,000 miles for every 5,000 miles you used to get—and all at a price just a few dollars more than you pay for standard tires!

Tests prove new tread rubber gives up to 21% more mileage!

Both tires above—an All-Nylon Cord Super-Cushion (left) and an ordinary tire—were driven the same distance. But, the All-Nylon Cord Super-Cushion tread lost less thousandths of inches of tire material driving left! This new Super-Cushion actually gives you as much as an extra 1,000 miles for every 5,000 you get with an ordinary tire!

Nylon cords have more resilience—flex easier, safer—cushion the shocks you get with other tires. And best of all, these All-Nylon cord tires run cooler and are as much as 80% stronger than other tires. Come in and see today's faster driving, higher powered cars.

Senate Holds Up Govt. Measure Covering Pensions

OTTAWA (CP) — The Senate, jealous guardian of its rights, Wednesday held up a government measure covering pensions for some 130,000 federal civil servants.

Senate leaders made clear they favor the new pension deal, but the question posed by a number of lawyer-senators is: Is the Senate right up of the Senate to control its own employees being infringed upon?

The debate came on a 45-page bill revising the federal superannuation act and making an additional 60,000 civil servants—now classed as "temporaries"—eligible for pensions on retirement. It also provides that the government may also add, 12 per cent to the contributions civil servants now make to their superannuation accounts.

Senator John T. Haig, Progressive Conservative leader, said he understood the measure did not interfere with Senate control of its employees. If a Senate employee reached the lawful retirement age, there was nothing to stop the Senate retaining him next day.

Senator Salter Hayden (L.—Ontario) chairman of the committee which considered the bulky bill, said that no pensions purposes the bill did say when a man must retire. But he did not think that a serious infringement. The Senate and Commons would still have power to refuse the man.

SET DAVIS CUP TIE DATE

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Lawn Tennis Association announced Wednesday night that the North American Davis Cup tie between Mexico and Canada will be held at the Mount Royal Tennis Club here July 17, 18, and 19.

An official of the association said Mexico agreed to play here after Canada declined an invitation. Mexico had the option of deciding where the tie would be held.

The official said the association will hold some sort of trial to give younger Canadian players a chance. However, Lorne Main of Toronto, last formerly of Montreal, and Montrealers Brendan Mackie and Henri Rochon appear the likely candidates to make this year's squad. All were members of the 1952 team.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Susan Hayward has returned from a business and pleasure tour of Europe and is ready to play her heart's desire, a wicked woman.

The actress, whose temperament matches her flashing hair, is back to start work in "The Story of Demetrius." The picture sets something of a record.

It appears to be the first time that a picture and its sequel were made in quick succession. Its predecessor, "The Robe," just wound up shooting, and the studio will save thousands by again using the sets and costumes.

Miss Hayward plays the sultry wife of Roman Emperor Caligula in the film. The empress' pastimes include murder and adultery.

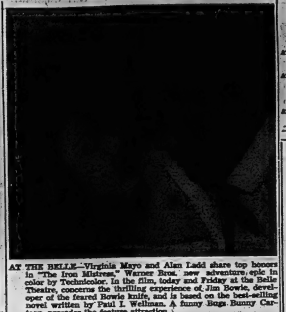
"I've been wanting to play a wicked woman for a long time," she said. "I'm fed up with playing so many good girls. They're not much fun."

The actress toured France, Spain and Italy for two months with her husband, Jess Barker. The trip had a two-fold purpose.

"In the first place, I blanever been to Europe," she said. "So it was a wonderful experience. But it was also a business trip. I made appearances and did interviews wherever I went. The foreign market is very important to the picture business, you know."

Among her impressions:

Italians, both male and female, were the most beautiful among the nationalities she saw. That includes the French.



"The Italian cars are also the best, but they're not for us," she added. "They're designed to go 100 m.p.h., and where can you go that fast here?"

The Barkers found the accommodations excellent, except when they stopped in the smaller towns of France. The actress was much impressed with the hospitality of Spain.

The only discordant notes were occasional "go home, Americans" signs in France. "But they represent the opinions of a small minority."

GIANT TAPESTRY

EDINBURGH (CP)—Work on the world's biggest tapestry for the new Coventry Cathedral will start here shortly. Measuring 40 feet by 60, with "Christ the Redeemer" as the central figure, it will take more than two years to complete.

AT THE BELLE—Virginia Mayo and Alan Ladd share top honors in "The Iron Mistress," Warner Bros. new adventure epic in color by Technicolor. In the film, today and Friday at the Belle Theatre, concerns the thrilling experience of Jim Bowie, developer of the feared Bowie knife, and is based on the best-selling novel written by Paul I. Wellman. A funny Bugs Bunny Cartoon, precedes the feature attraction.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

BY SAM GORDON
The Bridgeman

The rules of bridge some stubborn babes accept with much begrudgment. They fail to see, those tough gazabos, it helps use better judgment.

When a player makes a wrong bid that turns out well you will find defenders of such tactics. However, only those who lack sound ability will insist that rule adds up less profitable.

There was the deal you see here:

NORTH
♠K 7
♥K Q 10 6
♦9 8 4 3
♣10 5 3

WEST — EAST
♠9 8 7 — ♠None
♥A 10 9 5 3 — ♥J 8 7 6 5 4 2
♦A J 9 5 — ♦K Q J 10 7
♣7 6 4 2 — ♣K Q

SOUTH
♠A Q J 10 6 5 4 3 2
♥K 2
♦K 2
♣None

The players bid it like this:

South	West	North	East
2 C	Pass	2 H	Pass
4 S	Dbl.	All pass

West cashed heart ace and led club ace. South ruffed, pulled trumps, ditched diamonds on dummy hearts, and made two extra. Fooled by the fake two club opening, west moers now at rubs.

Correct rule opening by south would have been four spades. It might have induced west to try five clubs and grand slam in clubs can be made easily. So why did the phony bring a better result?

Do not get the impression that I favor such fake bids. On the contrary, they are a losing method in most cases. But in the hands of an artistic and apparent weak opponents it may show a profit.

An opening four spade bid might invite the other side to make some long sett defense that might even produce a slam. To offset this, south might be pushed into six spades for a big loss.

To a knowing defender, the fourth opening had all the signs of a phony. And the jump to four spades was confirmation of its false nature. Bullock would have told the defenders this.

Who is most capable of timing such a ruse? Only those with a knowledge of rules. They know best when rules may be broken.

JONQUIERE IN JAHA

MONTREAL (CP)—The Junior Amateur Hockey Association announced Wednesday that Jonquiere in the Lake St. John district, has been admitted to membership. It will be sponsored by Loisirs de Jonquiere, a sports organization. Approval for the Jonquiere entry was given by Canadiens and Royals of Montreal and the Reds of Trois-Rivieres.

COTTON LEADS TOURNEY

VIRGINIA WATER, England (AP)—Henry Cotton, captain of the British Ryder Cup team and at 46 still Britain's "golfing senator," shot a brilliant seven-underpar 65 Wednesday to take the lead in the 36-hole, 2,000-guinea Dunlop golf tournament. Cotton, with an aggregate of 137, leads Jimmy Adams another Briton, by one shot.

40 SPIRITUALISTS ARRESTED

VIENNA (Reuters) — Reports reaching here from Brno, Czechoslovakia, said today about 40 spiritualists have been arrested there for meeting without police permission. Authorities feared the group had set up an underground resistance movement against the regime under the guise of spiritualism, the reports said.

CAPTURE VESSEL

HONG KONG (Reuters) — The Chinese Nationalist central news agency reported today that Nationalist gunboats captured a Chinese Communist cargo vessel off the Fukien coast 200 miles northeast of here May 2. They also sank a Chinese Communist motor boat and damaged two others, the agency claimed.

Septuplets Born To Portuguese Woman Report

LISBON (Reuters)—The Portuguese news agency ANI reported here today that Maria Augusta, 25-year-old girl had given birth to septuplets in Lisbon, Portuguese Guinea.

All seven babies were born dead and the girl died the next day, the agency said.

Guinea is a part at the mouth of the Gobo river in Portuguese Guinea, which lies on the west-coast of Africa between Senegal and French Guinea.

(Similar multiple birth stories from remote parts of the world have proved to be either frauds or the result of exaggeration and misunderstanding).

Anticipate No Trouble

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Council of Churches said Wednesday its missionaries are having no trouble in India despite a recent government threat to bar foreign missionaries unless they stop evangelical teachings.

E. A. Bennett, president of the council's department of overseas missions, said no Canadian missionaries have been subject to mistance to India and that "no trouble is anticipated in the future."

He was commenting on a recent statement by Dr. S. N. Kazir, India's home minister, who warned foreign believers to end their evangelical work in the country and to confine their activities to social uplifting.

$60,000 Fire Loss

TORONTO (CP)—Fire that swept through the locker and pro shop of Thorncliffe golf club here on Wednesday night destroyed an estimated $60,000 worth of equipment. Between 300 and 400 sets of clubs were lost, along with other equipment, officials said.

Club pro Joe Noble lost all his equipment. Bill Richardson and Morty Charles, assistant pros who lived over the shop, were driven out of their quarters by the flames.

APPLEBY, England (CP)—The Workers and Technicians Federation of Women's Institutes will ask manufacturers to make wider bedsheets. Delegates agreed that too-small covers cause quarrels that may lead to divorce.

The Duke of Edinburgh is seen in the cockpit of a Harvard trainer after undergoing a final flight test a few hours before he was presented with his Royal Air Force pilot's wings by Air Chief Marshal Sir William Dickson, at a private ceremony at Buckingham Palace, London. Going solo for 20 minutes, Prince Philip flew over Windsor Castle and elsewhere and then brought craft in for a perfect landing. He now plans to learn how to operate multi-engined aircraft. — Central Press Canadian.

Answers Red Insults With Bombs

Commander of the U.S. Fifth Air Force in Korea, Lieut.-Gen. Glenn Barcus has become a living challenge to Red claims as the result of recent bombing attack on North Korean capital of Pyongyang. Piloting an F-86 Sabre jet, the 3-year-old leader announced his presence to the Communists by radio after his flight of 48 jets had dropped 48 tons of bombs on the pulped capital. "These little attacks against your military are part of our response to your insulting propaganda lies over the Pyongyang radio. In the future, every time you make derogatory remarks about the Fifth Air Force you can expect our answer with bombs on your city. The attack will be of ever increasing severity." Although well above the age of combat fliers, the graying general, seen above, has been flying F-86 Sabres last spring. — Central Press Canadian.

Synod Alarmed Over Seven-Day Week in Industry

HAMILTON (CP)—Delegates to the annual synod of the Anglican diocese of Niagara said Wednesday they are alarmed at the increasing number of industries operating on a seven-day basis.

Rev. John Anderson, chairman of the diocesan council for social service, said the seven-day work week presents a serious threat to family life and is seriously affecting church attendance.

Reporting on Sunday observance, Mr. Anderson said in some industries seven-day operation is essential, but many others do not need to work on the Lord's day.

Many persons are working five days a week, he said, with two days off on a progressive basis. It meant they had Sunday off only once in six weeks.

Horn Blowing Car Drives Away In Reverse

EDMONTON (CP)—A burning automobile — its horn blaring— drove away in reverse from a garage early Wednesday, rolled down a lane and into an open space where firemen were able to put out the flames.

There was no one at the wheel. Mrs. Don Walmsley said she was awakened by the glow of flames leaping from the family car which was parked near a garage.

"It was then the horn began to blow steadily," said Mrs. Walmsley. "A moment later the engine or starter of the car began to move it. My husband had left it in reverse gear and it changed backwards, up a slight incline and into the lane."

The car stopped in an open area where firemen put out the flames.

Frozen Eggs Seized

TORONTO (CP)—City, provincial and federal authorities Wednesday night seized a number of frozen eggs intended for sale to Toronto bakeries. Officials said the eggs were unfit for human consumption.

City police arrested Alex Bornstein, 40, of Toronto, manager, and bail was set at $2,000. One police official said there will be further arrests.

The federal department of agriculture is co-ordinating the investigation.

ASSASSINATE LEADER

KUALA LUMPUR (AP) — Malayan Communists have saved security forces a job by assassinating one of their own leaders, the government reported today. An official statement said Sin Kau, assistant commander of a Communist regiment operating in Pengram state northeast of Malaya, was shot by his own men after an argument. The news was released by three surrendered rebels.

Canadian Dollar Drops to Par At Buffalo

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The buying rate of the Canadian dollar at Buffalo banks returned to par yesterday for the first time since March 14, 1952.

The asked rate of one per cent premium on Canadian money was quoted.

This means that Buffalo banks will give American money for Canadian money at par or equal basis and will give a Canadian dollar for $1.01 in U. S. money.

American money had commanded a premium in Canada for many years until Canada freed its exchange rate late in 1951. The Canadian dollar then started to advance in terms of American money, reaching par in March, 1952, and making its deepest penetration last summer when it hit 4¼ per cent before 3½ per cent and the selling rate 4½ per cent. Buffalo bankers said the return to par should promote U. S. tourist travel to Canada and stimulate U. S. investment in Canadian business.

JUST PRACTICE BOMB

WALTHAM, Mass. (AP) — A missile that plummeted Wednesday through the roof and three storeys of a dwelling—narrowly missing a housewife—was identified as a two-pound, army practice bomb. An army ordnance expert said the bomb "was not capable of exploding." Mrs. Marita Rose Morabito, 60, told police the bomb landed on her kitchen floor only two feet from where she was washing clothes.

To Tour Canada on Bicycle Built for Three

Accompanied by his wife and son, George Whitford of Southend, Eng., is ready to board the Canard liner Samaria, docked at Southampton, for trip to Quebec. From there the trio plans to cycle 3,500 miles on a bicycle built for three across the Rockies to Vancouver, and then on to Kelowna, B.C., where they will do fruit farming and lumberjacking. The Whitfords have planned this grand tour before settling down to work, because they are convinced that it is the best way to get to know the Canadian people.—Central Press Canadian.

$10,000 Fire Loss On Main Street In Bancroft

BANCROFT (Special) —In the second major fire to threaten the village in the past two weeks, loss of approximately $10,000 was caused Wednesday afternoon when fire raced through part of a dwelling and gutted a store house and store shed on Bancroft's main street.

Damaged was the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Marston, an adjacent storehouse owned by the municipality and occupied by the Ontario Hydro, and a store shed on the Marston property. Mr. and Mrs. Marston were away when the fire started.

When the fire was discovered the summer kitchen at the rear of the Marston home was beyond saving while the two storesheds were also well ablaze.

The area was closely built up but the Bancroft volunteer fire department under Chief Cecil McAlpine, assisted by pumpers from the Department of Lands and Forests and the R.F.P.C. were able to confine the blaze to the three buildings.

Three Arrested

MONTREAL (CP)—Police said Wednesday night they have arrested an 18-year-old youth and two juveniles in connection with a $4,800 hold-up last October in a north-end dairy.

Police said the trio spent the money on trips to Winnipeg and Sudbury, Ont., "and enough clothes to last them years." The two juveniles will also be charged in connection with a grocery store robbery April 24 where $345 was taken.

They are to be arraigned today.

Brief Presented Urging Freer World Trade

OTTAWA (CP)—Promotion of a freer world trade policy was urged upon the government yesterday in a brief submitted to the Senate committee on Canadian trade relations by the Canadian Importers and Traders Association.

The association, representing some 600 Canadian importing firms said in its brief that Canada should take the lead in submitting a plan for a scientific international tariff to North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries.

In addition to a low tariff based on comparative wage rates, the association favored an increase in the price of gold, reduction of internal excise taxes and removal of restrictive quotas on import trade.

"This association believes that the greatest possible degree of accessibility to world markets and the least possible restriction on trade will produce the best results," the brief noted. "As our whole economic and political structure rests on our trade, both national and international, we are of the opinion that this consideration, more than any other, deserves our careful attention."

Father Jimmy, Supporter Of Co-op Idea, Dies

ANTIGONISH, N.S. (CP)—Dr. J. J. Tompkins, the frail little priest who sparked the famed Antigonish co-operative movement to life more than 30 years ago, died in hospital Tuesday. He was 82.

Known throughout the Maritimes as Father Jimmy, he was a professor and vice-president of St. Francis Xavier University here for 21 years.

It was during this time that he set up his study groups for adult education, later to blossom into the world-famed extension department of the university.

A Cape Bretoner by birth, Father Tompkins became an early supporter of the co-op idea.

As a parish priest he organized a lobster cannery, people's library and a co-operative housing development, named Tompkinsville in his honor.

For Father Tompkins, there were no religious grounds. "There is," he said, "no Methodist or Catholic way to cut coal or catch a fish."

While serving as a parish priest at Canso, he precipitated a royal commission probe of Canada's eastern fisheries from which sprung the United Maritime Fishermen, organized with government sponsorship.

Police Claim Child Died Of Beating Given By Father

Girl Learned to Swim Before She Could Walk

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Russell Tongay, swimming instructor who once was acquitted of a charge that he mistreated his swim-star daughter, Kathy, today was accused of causing her death.

Detective Charles A. Sapp of the Miami homicide bureau said an autopsy report showed that the flaxen-haired five-year-old child died Wednesday of a ruptured intestine caused by a blow.

A warrant charging the heavy, 36-year-old former Coast Guardsman was murder was issued Thursday night, minutes after Tongay was released from jail on a writ of habeas corpus.

Tongay had been arrested and ordered "held for investigation of murder" two hours earlier after lengthy grilling. Tongay made no admissions during the interrogation, Sapp said.

In 1949 Tongay was acquitted of charges that he beat his daughter Kathy who, would have been six years old May 22.

Judge Marshal C. Wisehart ordered Tongay released in custody of his lawyer pending a hearing today. Justice of the peace Edwin Lee Mason then issued the warrant which Sapp said would be served at the hearing, to be held before Wisehart.

Learned to Swim Early

The child, who learned to swim before she could walk, suffered convulsions Wednesday and died en route to hospital.

Dr. Victor Calderine, hospital pathologist, said in his report that the ruptured intestine, with accompanying haemorrhages, apparently had been caused by a blow. Police Sapp said the resulting infection set the child into convulsions before she died, he added.

Lieut. Chester Eldredge, chief of the homicide bureau, said:

"The girl had apparently suffered an unnecessarily beating. She was bruised all over and had a ruptured intestine."

Took Instruction Early

Kathy and her brother, Bubbs, 8, had been taking swimming instructions from their father since

Mrs. Tongay said the child was not injured in any accident except she could not recall convulsions.

The Tongay's first child, Russell Jr., died in 1945 at the age of 18 months. At that time a doctor testified at an inquest that a cerebral haemorrhage, probably brought on by a fall, caused the baby's death.

Mrs. Tongay said the baby had fallen down some steps in their apartment. No charges were filed.

Flew to Miami

Kathy and Bubbs had swum in the Mississippi river when both were two years old in 1949, their first to Britain for an attempt to swim the English Channel but bitter and French authorities intervened.

The children returned to the United States where they began swimming exhibitions, later appearing in a movie, "Kathy," with Esther Williams in a water ballet scene.

Dick Kohler, lifeguard at the pool where the Tongays worked out, said Kathy "wasn't feeling well during the morning and I noticed bruises on her—all over her."

Kohler reported that Tongay fed Kathy some hot soup but she vomited and that later went back into the water, at her father's insistence.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP)—Synopsis: The Prairies sweltered under a real mid-summer heat wave Thursday and Friday. Maximums in many localities. Winnipeg was the hottest with a high of 91.

This warm air is gradually edging over into Ontario, and it looks as if this week-end is off to a great start. Maximums in the 70s are forecast over most of Northern Ontario with afternoon readings reaching the mid-'s in southern sections today and Saturday. Showers are likely in Northern Ontario, but scattered afternoon or evening thunderstorms are expected with the coming of the warm air.

Snake Expert Acts as Own Guinea Pig

SAIGNELEGIER, Switzerland (AP)—Jack Postet, 28-year-old Swiss snake expert who acted as his own guinea pig Thursday to prove the effectiveness of a snake serum he claims to have invented, said today he was "completely satisfied" with the success of his demonstration.

Surrounded by several doctors and a score of three other witnesses, Postet permitted the vicious charge of three vipers into his right hand. He survived the demonstration without ill effect. Right morning the six small wounds—one for each set of fang—were barely visible. Doctors maintained the all-night watch and testified that Postet received no treatment at the hospital.

Seventeen days earlier, Postet was inoculated with his immunization serum. Until then he had been "afraid to death" of the vipers. Doctors' report said the jaundice which made Edgar Mercet operation necessary last week "has steadily diminished." Doctors first operated on the foreign secretary April 12.

BOMB INJURES THREE

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters) — Three persons were injured when a bomb exploded in a residential suburb early today. Arrests of "terrorists" continued in the capital and provinces as a state of siege, now in its 10th day, remained in force. The bomb was the latest in a series of industrial sabotage acts blocked by police. Perón has said he is determined to "fight to the end" against what he has described as "terrorists" and "communists" in the capital and provinces.

ELECTION BATTLE ALREADY STARTED ON HOUSE FLOOR

Wide-Ranging Debate On Variety of Topics

OTTAWA (CP)—The battle of the forthcoming general election has started on the floor of the House of Commons.

For several weeks now, almost every topic has become an election issue as the session nears its close and speculation rife that Prime Minister St. Laurent will announce the vital date—widely expected to be in August—soon after his return from the Coronation June 2.

Thursday the electioneering broke out in earnest as the House went into the second day of consideration of estimates for the Defence Production Minister Howe's department.

His wide-ranging debate touched, among a variety of things, the Curtis report, told that of the defence expenditures committees which opposition members term a "whitewash" job, Conservative chairman Rene Beaudoin advised members that the Liberal Party was out of order.

The political swings that will echo later on the hustings were frankly admitted as such on both sides. Speaker Gordon (Conservative Eglinton) got into the thick of it and confessed he rather enjoyed what he termed the Liberals' "good old-fashioned stump speaking."

World Altitude Record Broken By Jet Bomber

LONDON (AP)—A British twin-jet Canberra bomber zoomed to 63,668 feet, bettering the world aircraft altitude record by 4,625 feet the Royal Aero Club announced today.

The flight was made last Monday from Boscombe Down airfield with Wing Cmdr. W.F. Gibb, assistant chief test pilot of the Bristol Aeroplane Company, at the controls.

The old record was set by John Cunningham, March 23, 1948, in a Vampire jet-fighter. He reached 59,492 feet.

The absolute world altitude record is still held by a balloon, with November 11, 1933, Capt. O. A. Anderson and Capt. A. W. Stevenson ascended in a balloon from Rapid City, S. D., to 72,066 metres (72,178 feet).

BLOCKADE ADVOCATED

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Brig. Adib Shishekly, Syria's strong man and army chief of staff, Thursday night appealed to all Arab states to impose a blockade on Israel. He told the opening session of the Inter-Arab Chambers of Commerce and Industry that such a blockade "is the best way to kill Israel peacefully."

Family of Three to Ride Tandem Bicycle from Quebec to Vancouver

QUEBEC (CP)—A British family of three, with faith in Canada's future, today prepared for a long trip from Quebec to Vancouver, which they intend to make on a tandem bicycle.

George Whitford, a former British commando, his wife, Margaret, and their two-year-old son, Jimmy, arrived here Thursday night aboard the Canada Star.

The Whitfords plan to cover about 30 miles a day—except Sundays — provided the weather is good.

They brought along extra tires, given them by a British firm, in case they run into trouble.

They will travel from here to Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Sault Ste. Marie, Fort William, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary, Kelowna and Vancouver, Vancouver and Kelowna, B. C.

Asked why they decided to come and settle in Canada, Whitford said:

"We have faith in the future of the country."

The blonde, blue - eyed wife, added:

"We decided to make the trip on our bike because we thought it would be a good way to see a bit of Canada as we go along. We've been riding bicycles all our lives and we've never undertaken any long trips like this before."

St. Laurent Warns Reds May Win 'Bloodless Battle' Unless U.S. Leads in Trade Extension

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent today warned the United States that the Communists may win a "bloodless battle" if the U.S. does not take a bold lead in expanding world trade.

In a fervent plea against the growth of American protectionism the Canadian prime minister said free men must shed fear of what they have hope for the future, but it is too much to expect them to remain steadfast, if there is nothing for them ahead "but austerity and the fear of depression."

"Unless the national economies of the free world can be made and kept healthy and productive, communism could win a bloodless victory without firing a shot," St. Laurent said in a speech prepared for the Economic Press Club.

"Most of us think that to keep the free world's economy sound, there must be high and expanding level of international trade."

Fires First Round

St. Laurent fired his first round of public diplomacy for increased trade policies as he launched into the second stage of his 48-hour state visit to the capital. The visit reaches a climax when St. Laurent addresses the joint congressional committee on the delicate issue of American trade policy this afternoon.

Observers anticipated that St. Laurent's speech will provide the key to the policy he will take in his final talks with the president before his take-off for Ottawa Saturday.

There have been criticisms of American tariffs, Prime Minister adres and "certain other features of your country's commercial policies," both inside and outside the United States, the prime minister.

While these criticisms did not indicate any lack of appreciation of what the U.S. has done for the free world, they did point up the crucial importance of the American trade position.

The real problem is to be made in freeing trade, then the U.S. "will have to give a bold lead."

Means Great Deal

The American market meant a great deal in dollar-earning power to foreign-producers, yet the U.S. "would seem to have little to fear from wholesome competition with the other nations of the free world."

"In your economy not too strong and are your industries not too productive to be able to withstand competition from imports?

"Surely your business has always proclaimed its faith in the wholesome effects of honest competition. It is not then the part of wisdom to widen the area of competitive trade and even if more nations do not make their own way into profitable and strengthen?

Canada, which last year exported some $2,300,000,000 worth of goods to the American market, took a special stake in U.S. policy.

"The free exchange of goods between the two countries formed the foundation of the whole Canada-U.S. relations; it underlies the strength and prosperity of the North American continent—"the foundation of the free world."

This is the gravest importance that nonretrograde measures be taken to support this great structure and it must be seen as a whole or it can very easily be imperilled.

Status of Polish War Veterans In Canada, Theft of Emblem Cause Rift Between Govts.

OTTAWA (CP)—The Polish legation and the Canadian government have become involved in a sharp exchange concerning the status of Polish war veterans in Canada and the theft from the legation of a Polish emblem, it was disclosed today.

The external affairs department released the texts of a note received from the legation and the Canadian government's reply.

The Polish note, one of the most heated ever produced by diplomacy, concerned a meeting here April 10-12 of the Polish Combatants Association in Canada.

"It is a matter of public knowledge," said the Polish note, dated April 17, "that this organization is only a cover for a group of agents to the Polish nation, conducting a vast campaign of espionage and sabotage against the Polish state."

The note continued that on April 9, the Polish charge d'affaires here drew attention to the congress, acting under-secretary of state for external affairs, to the demonstrative and provocative participation by official representatives of the Canadian government.

"In spite of this," the government representatives attended meetings of Immigration Minister Harris as representatives of the province of St. Laurent.

As an immediate effect "unruly elements removed from the legation building a plate bearing the emblem of the Polish Republic on April 12 or 13.

The note demanded an immediate late inquiry, punishment for offenders and that the Polish government be informed of the results of the action.

The Canadian reply, dated May 1 and signed by Mr. Wilgress, regretted that the note's charges had immediately been informed recovered the plaque undamaged and returned it to the legation.

At the legation's request, the police investigation was discontinued.

"The department of external affairs cannot accept the suggestion that it was in any way improper for Canadian ministers or government officials to address a convention of war veterans in Canada who happen to be of Polish origin," the note said. "Those who attended the convention are residents of this country and most of them are Canadian citizens or have applied, under our law, to become citizens."

UN TRUCE TEAM AWAITS VERDICT FROM WASHINGTON

Capital Considering Latest Red Proposal

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

PENNMUNJOM (AP) — Allied truce negotiators today awaited instructions from Washington on how to answer the Communists' latest Korean armistice proposal—an eight-point plan aimed at breaking the prisoner exchange deadlock.

The Reds unveiled their offer unexpectedly Thursday and it was left right to the top for decision.

The plan would set up a five-country commission to take over 22,000 Red prisoners of 48,500 Red prisoners who refuse to return to communism.

With negotiators here in recess and Washington silent, Eisenhower discussed the offer with his top state and military advisers in Washington.

They are reported to have decided the proposal is not entirely unacceptable, but that the plan merits a counter-offer even though the Communists indicated they may consider it a package deal, all or nothing.

May be Hidden Trick

One big question is the possibility of a hidden trick in the proposal the Reds to get back the 48,500 prisoners by way they can't return to communism. The Allies always have insisted that no one would be repatriated against his will.

Key points of the new Red plan include:

1. Acceptance of Allied demands that prisoners unwilling to return be left in Korea after an armistice, but under the auspices of a neutral country.

2. Creation of a five-country "neutral nation repatriation commission" of India, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Sweden and Switzerland to take custody of those prisoners after an armistice.

3. Each of the five countries would send equal numbers of troops to Korea to enforce the provisions.

Reported in Object

Eisenhower and his advisers are reported to object most strongly to this point, which would permit the Communist troops of Russian satellites Poland and Czechoslovakia to remain over the protests of many of whom are violently anti-Communist.

After four months of Red "explanations" to the unwilling bewilderment, the fate of a plan who still refuse repatriation to a post-armistice, high-level political conference.

The president and his advisers were reported considering rejection on grounds that the prisoners would be held an unreasonable time if the problem is not settled quickly.

Eisenhower was reported to be awaiting advice from Gen. Mark W. Clark, Far East commander, before instructing the delegates at Panmunjom.

AIRLINER DAMAGED

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) — Lightning damaged an airliner in flight and many homes in Sydney's thunderstorm. The lightning struck the New South Wales coast. Air and road traffic was disorganized. Several tons of hail fell around the nose of the airliner, struck by thunderstorms between Brisbane and Sydney.

Observers Believe Moscow Ordered Invasion Halted

French Say Monsoon Rains Factor in Unexplained Move

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—The end of the Communist invasion of Laos—without a major battle and virtually without casualties—appeared today to be just around the corner. So far it had been one of history's strangest tries at conquest.

Communist-led Vietminh troops which overran one-third of the Indo-Chinese kingdom in a 25-day march were continuing to pull out of the heart of the little mountain state, heading towards the Black and upper Red Rivers in northwestern Indo-China—their original jump-off bases.

Two Divisions Withdrawn

Non-military sources said the Vietminh already has withdrawn two divisions—half their initial invasion force—and the tempo of the movement is increasing.

The Vietminh began its attack on Laos with an estimated four divisions, or about 40,000 soldiers.

Driver from supply bases 200 to 300 miles away quickly brought advance units to within sight of the Laotian royal capital of Luangprabang and posed a threat to Pakse, the key to Laos' southern strategic capital on the Mekong River border with neighboring Thailand.

The only opposition to the Red drive came from a half dozen thinly - manned French-Laotian posts in the mountains.

Few Killed

In all, there probably were not more killed in the entire campaign, but French air bombings may have killed scores of the Vietminh.

The initial Communist military explanation of the puzzling Vietminh withdrawal was that the Red leaders apparently had found they couldn't maintain long supply lines on the backs of their army of tens of thousands of coolies.

The French said today that the start of heavy torrential rains in the mountains of Laos had helped force upon the enemy's communications.

The best explanation for the withdrawal may be that the international furore over the Vietminh march into Laos—at a moment when both Moscow and Peiping are talking peace gestures—prompted Moscow to order the invasion halted.

Detective Given Four Years On Theft Charge

TORONTO (CP)—Michael Manos, 30-year-old private detective, was sentenced today to four years in imprisonment on a charge of $28,000 theft from a Toronto law firm in 1950. He was convicted Wednesday.

Elsie Teasdale, chief witness for the prosecution and former secretary in the law firm, testified that some of the money was given to her to face horse for entry in a fixed race. She has served a two-year reformatory sentence for theft in the case.

Machine Functions As Both Heart, Lungs of Human

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A machine heart and lungs of a human being for the first time in medical history was unveiled Thursday by surgeons at Jefferson Medical College hospital.

Invented by Dr. John H. Gibbon, Jr., director of surgical research at the college, the machine was shown to newspaper men with the announcement that it had performed the combined functions of both organs while surgeons closed an abnormal opening in the wall of a patient's heart.

The operation was performed Wednesday on Miss Cecelia Bavolek, 18, who suffered from a malformed heart for years.

Miss Bavolek and Cpl. Alan Bavolek was connected to the machine by the circulatory system after the apparatus did the work of the heart and lungs for only 26 minutes.

The apparatus, four feet high and six feet long, consists of two pumps, corresponding to the right and left sides of the heart, with a glass screen in front from which the blood can absorb oxygen and give off carbon dioxide.

Montreal to Boston And Back in 80 Min.

BOSTON (AP) — An RCAF jet plane flew from Montreal to Boston and back again in 80 minutes on a survey mission Thursday night. The round trip is 510 miles.

Airport officials said the jet plane flew here to pick up serum needed to save the life of a woman already on the operating table in a Montreal hospital.

The woman's name and the nature of her illness were not disclosed.

The serum was fibrinogen, used to clot blood.

Escaped German POW, Hunted Seven Years by FBI, Found Through Picture

NEW YORK (AP)—An escaped German prisoner of war, hunted by the federal bureau of investigation for seven years and by a successful interior decorator, gave himself up Thursday night—because he was afraid he'd be deported.

Harry Girth, 27, said he had lived in constant fear of being found out.

"I didn't want to go back to Germany," he said. "Their way of life is so different. I wanted no part of it."

Since he escaped from the Fort Dix, N. J., prison camp in 1946, Girth had built up an interior decorating business in Atlantic City, N. J., was buying a $5,000 home and was engaged to an American girl.

It was his acquaintance with the girl, Judy Florentine and the consequence of his picture in the current issue of Collier's magazine all one of five fugitive German POWs in the United States that led to his surrender.

The girl's mother spotted the picture of Girth and notified her son George, who got in touch with his prospective brother-in-law and advised him to surrender. Girth agreed.

Girth was booked and expected to be turned over to the immigration and naturalization service.

Judge Rules Busty Story Incredible

LONDON (AP)—The burgeoning career of Laura Dwyer, was a clerical error, and Mr Judge Wilfred Clothier who says so.

She is entitled, therefore, the Judge said Thursday to 12 guineas ($33.28) damages from the Watson dress shop, where the incredible inflation occurred.

Miss Wilson said she was measured for a frock at the Watson salon last summer, and a month later it was delivered and she tried it on.

"It made me look like a sausage in a skin," she declared.

The shop refused to take the dress back, claiming Miss Wilson had slimmed over the fall in the interval between order and delivery. To prove it, Miss Dwyer measured her again and showed her how she had grown considerably with their original measurement records.

Judge Clothier compared the new and old figures and ruled for the plaintiff, with this observation:

"There can have been nothing like this in history. According to these Miss Wilson added three inches around the bust in four weeks."

50-Year Light Bulb Still Works

WINDSOR, (CP)— Ernest R. Eves, who uses an old carbon-filament electric light bulb at his work, says they don't make bulbs as well as they used to. Mr. Eves says he thinks the bulb has been in steady operation in the garage where he works since shortly after the turn of the century. The bulb survived a fire in 1911.

Observers Believe Moscow Ordered Invasion Halted

French Say Monsoon Rains Factor in Unexplained Move

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—The end of the Communist invasion of Laos—without a major battle and virtually without casualties—appeared today to be just around the corner. So far it had been one of history's strangest tries at conquest.

Communist-led Vietminh troops which overran one-third of the Indo-Chinese kingdom in a 25-day march were continuing to pull out of the heart of the little mountain state, heading towards the Black and upper Red Rivers in northwestern Indo-China—their original jump-off bases.

Two Divisions Withdrawn

Non-military sources said the Vietminh already has withdrawn two divisions—half their initial invasion force—and the tempo of the movement is increasing.

The Vietminh began its attack on Laos with an estimated four divisions, or about 40,000 soldiers.

Driver from supply bases 200 to 300 miles away quickly brought advance units to within sight of the Laotian royal capital of Luangprabang and posed a threat to Pakse, the key to Laos' southern strategic capital on the Mekong River border with neighboring Thailand.

The only opposition to the Red drive came from a half dozen thinly - manned French-Laotian posts in the mountains.

Few Killed

In all, there probably were not more killed in the entire campaign, but French air bombings may have killed scores of the Vietminh.

The initial Communist military explanation of the puzzling Vietminh withdrawal was that the Red leaders apparently had found they couldn't maintain long supply lines on the backs of their army of tens of thousands of coolies.

The French said today that the start of heavy torrential rains in the mountains of Laos had helped force upon the enemy's communications.

The best explanation for the withdrawal may be that the international furore over the Vietminh march into Laos—at a moment when both Moscow and Peiping are talking peace gestures—prompted Moscow to order the invasion halted.

Detective Given Four Years On Theft Charge

TORONTO (CP)—Michael Manos, 30-year-old private detective, was sentenced today to four years in imprisonment on a charge of $28,000 theft from a Toronto law firm in 1950. He was convicted Wednesday.

Elsie Teasdale, chief witness for the prosecution and former secretary in the law firm, testified that some of the money was given to her to face horse for entry in a fixed race. She has served a two-year reformatory sentence for theft in the case.

Escaped German POW, Hunted Seven Years by FBI, Found Through Picture

NEW YORK (AP)—An escaped German prisoner of war, hunted by the federal bureau of investigation for seven years and by a successful interior decorator, gave himself up Thursday night—because he was afraid he'd be deported.

Harry Girth, 27, said he had lived in constant fear of being found out.

"I didn't want to go back to Germany," he said. "Their way of life is so different. I wanted no part of it."

Since he escaped from the Fort Dix, N. J., prison camp in 1946, Girth had built up an interior decorating business in Atlantic City, N. J., was buying a $5,000 home and was engaged to an American girl.

It was his acquaintance with the girl, Judy Florentine and the consequence of his picture in the current issue of Collier's magazine all one of five fugitive German POWs in the United States that led to his surrender.

The girl's mother spotted the picture of Girth and notified her son George, who got in touch with his prospective brother-in-law and advised him to surrender. Girth agreed.

Girth was booked and expected to be turned over to the immigration and naturalization service.

Judge Rules Busty Story Incredible

LONDON (AP)—The burgeoning career of Laura Dwyer, was a clerical error, and Mr Judge Wilfred Clothier who says so.

She is entitled, therefore, the Judge said Thursday to 12 guineas ($33.28) damages from the Watson dress shop, where the incredible inflation occurred.

Miss Wilson said she was measured for a frock at the Watson salon last summer, and a month later it was delivered and she tried it on.

The shop refused to take the dress back, claiming Miss Wilson had slimmed over the fall in the interval between order and delivery. To prove it, Miss Dwyer measured her again and showed her how she had grown considerably with their original measurement records.

City and District News

FIRE CHIEF VANCE REPRESENTED DEPT.

Several fire chiefs of the district attended the dinner honoring two retired chiefs from Picton-borough. The special guests were former chiefs, George Gimblett, Sr., and George Smith.

KINGSTON COMMUNITY CENTRE IN CHIPS

Championships, many chips, at least as far as the Kingston Community Centre is concerned. The other day Centre officials gave the Kingston City Council a cheque for $7,500 "to liquidate some old accounts."

Large crowds that attended the senior hockey play-offs and playdowns were responsible, it is said, for the Centre's winter rise to opulence.

TWO JUVENILES FOUND WITH STOLEN CAR

Two 15-year-old juveniles from Noranda, Quebec, checked in the city Wednesday driving what turned out to be a stolen car. They have been returned to Maniwaki to face charges.

City police spotted the two boys sitting in a car bearing a Quebec license and on checking the boys found they had no ownership card for the car, nor driver's license. They were brought to the police station and further investigation revealed the car had been stolen.

MOTORCYCLE COLLIDES WITH CAR, RIDER HURT

A second motorcycle-auto accident in two days, resulting in serious injury to the rider of the bike, was reported by city police today. John L. Hanna, 22, of 56 Catherine street, is in hospital with possible fractures, shock and bruises, suffered when he was thrown off his bike.

Hanna was southbound on North Front street when his motorcycle collided with a car westbound on College street, driven by Joseph P. Boyle. The accident occurred around midnight.

RESIDENT WINS PAIR OF SHOES BY FINDING KEY

Mr. Morris Huddleston, Harriet Street, was the first finder of the large "gold" key which was dropped from an aircraft yesterday noon in commemoration of the opening of the Bata Shoe Company's newest store.

Mr. Huddleston, by virtue of his finding the key will be presented with a pair of Bata shoes.

HOMING PIGEON FOUND ON LAWN

A pigeon, believed to be a homing pigeon, was found nearly exhausing on a lawn on Church Street. The owner of the property brought the bird into the house to feed it but the pigeon was too exhausted and died. It was banded with the numbers CU 52-17340. The bird is believed to have been from some homing pigeon loft and got lost in flight.

There are also seven grandchildren.

Interment was in Fraser cemetery.

JAMES SIDNEY REEDER

The funeral of James Sidney Reeder was held from the Bellecville Burial Company Funeral Home on Thursday afternoon. The service in the chapel was conducted by Rev. Everett Smith who also said the last rites in Belleville cemetery.

The Sons of England, Lodge No. 17 held a short service at the funeral home, following the regular service.

Young Belleville 'Mobs' Hockey Stars; Sudbury Fan Here to See the 'Rocket'

Here worship was at its best here yesterday afternoon when the Montreal Canadiens stars literally "Rocket" Richard and Kenny Mosdell played "hosts" to literally hundreds of Belleville's young fandom.

Richard and Mosdell knocked developed "writer's cramp" after they were besieged with requests for autographs not only from the kiddies but oldster fans as well. Pieces of newspaper, notepaper, old envelopes, tissue paper, one ingenious youngster even tore off a piece of the tail of his shirt; chunks of cardboard, paper napkins from nearby restaurants, in fact anything that could be written on, were used to get the signatures of the stars.

Realizes Ambition

One special autograph went to a Mrs. Boyer and Mrs. Wilbur Hall who graciously awaded the question as to how it felt to be treated all the way from Sudbury to see the "Rocket" and get his autograph.

The lady said she formerly lived. She was an ardent Canadiens section fan but had never seen the team in action nor any of the players in person. She realized a long ambition when she shook hands with Richard and Mosdell.

The latter gentleman asked by the "Rocket" which was his favorite National Hockey League team, promptly and judiciously replied "The Canadiens."

Then following a quick thought, he added, "And that is not because you are a Canadien."

Crowds Jam Store

While the actual count is not known, it is estimated that one of the largest crowds to attend a store opening in the city passed through the entrance of the handsome new store on Opening Day. The entrance to the store was jammed with people prior to the official opening at ten o'clock yesterday morning, and from that time until closing, a steady stream of the curious, many of them customers, viewed Belleville's newest asset to its Front Street business section.

Bruce Lattimer To Head C of C Traffic Committee

Bruce Lattimer was appointed to head the chamber of commerce traffic and parking committee at the weekly meeting of the directorate in the Sheiks Club yesterday noon. Mr. Lattimer was chosen for the chairmanship due to his great experience on the city council traffic committee.

The chairman of the public relations committee, Mr. Ralph Garvin, presented a detailed report and list of projects for 1953 for their retention. Charles Cawker, president of the chamber, moved, seconded Mr. Stovin upon his exhaustive report and the suggestions were unanimously approved at the meeting next week.

The new zoning by-law, passed by council recently, was described in detail to the directors by chairman Arthur Keegan, chairman of the city planning committee. The by-law was discussed fully by the members. Mr. Cawker expressed the thanks of the directors to Mr. Keegan for visiting the meeting and outlining the land use by-law to them.

Two new members were admitted into the Chamber at the meeting. They were Bob Blaind of Bob Blaind Sports Centre and Paul Mercier of Mercier Jewellers.

Guests at the meeting included Alderman Arthur Keegan, Gerald McGrath and Walker Stores and William Stovin.

Large Trout Caught At Salmon Lake

Said to be the largest specimen of trout ever landed on the waters of Salmon Lake this year, a 16 3-4 pound grey trout fell to the lure of Wm. Ketchen, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson of this city.

The big fellow was patrolling the deep dark waters of the lake when the Ketcheson lure dangled temptingly before his curious mouth. He was down deep, when the copper line with its Williams spoon caught in the front of him. He grabbed it, and the fight was on.

Some twenty-four minutes later Ward had the big fish boated, safe aboard the Ketcheson store and brought to Belleville where it will recline at leisure in a locker.

Certain Areas Will be Sprayed To Kill Mosquitoes

Belleville's annual "operation mosquito" is about to make for a short life for the city's mosquito population, will get under way as soon as possible, according to a recommendation from the local public works department.

The recommendation calls for J. S. MacKenzie and Son to spray the waterfront; the marsh area about Zwicker Pond, and swamp area in and around Parkwood Heights. The idea is to spray the waterfront area first and to take a second application if the mosquitoes show any signs of revival later in the season.

J. C. Withers Gives Talk on Music

The April meeting of the Foxboro Home and School Association was held on April 29 in the Public School auditorium.

After the business was discussed Mr. Churchill introduced the guest speaker for the evening, Mr. Withers, organist of Christ Church in Belleville. Mr. Withers gave an address on Music which was the topic for the meeting. He compared the types of books in use in the teaching of music, and also gave the use of some of the different instruments in the larger orchestras Mr. Withers also gave a short comparison of music in England and Canada.

Mrs. R. Skinner thanked the guest speaker on behalf of the Home and School Association.

Refreshments served by the lunch committee for the evening and a social half hour brought the evening to a close.

L. Gay Wilson Enters Quarter Century Club

A double honour was in store for L. Gay Wilson, recently in Sault Ste. Marie. A banquet was held for him to commemorate his 25 years service with one company and he also had the unique distinction of being the first person in the Sault to complete this length of service, with this company.

Mr. Wilson came to the Sault in September, 1928, as manager of the T. Eaton branch store, in this city. Previously, he had been with Eaton's in Niagara Falls for 11 years. This year on May 1 he completed 25 years service with Eaton's.

A banquet and dance were held at the Windsor Hotel. All the employees of the Eaton store, representatives from branch stores and the head office in Toronto were present.

Guests at the head table, were Mr. A. F. Armstrong, supervisor of branch stores from Toronto; Mr. E. Knowlton, Toronto; Mr. H. Vardon, assistant to the manager of branch stores, Toronto; Mr. C. King, manager of North Bay store; Mr. W. E. Gowdy, manager of Sudbury store; and Mr. J. McNeil, manager of Eaton's in Sault, and Mrs. McNeil. Others at the head table were Mr. Nick Lividotti and Mr. Roy Walker, who were in charge of the dance.

During the banquet speeches, it was mentioned that Mr. Wilson was noted for his co-operation, thoughtfulness, generosity and modesty.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation to Mr. Wilson, on behalf of the directors and president of the company, Mr. Armstrong presented Mr. Wilson with a gold wrist watch, six weeks' extra holidays and a membership into the quarter century club.

Mr. King of the North Bay store, gave Mr. Wilson a bag of sand, a bottle of maple sugar syrup from his home town of Picton, Ontario.

Following the dinner, there was dancing to the music of Tony Dionisi and his orchestra. Jack Yull took over as master of ceremonies and four humorous skits were presented. Prizes for the spot dance prizes were given away.

The winners were Marilyn Schrader, Lauro Possasi, Phyllis Ray, Dorothy Pillon, Mr. and Mrs. Frieman, M. Albanese, J. Roberts, Charles Bouillard won a draw for a radio.

Gay Wilson was a member of the Kiwanis Club in this city for many years and also with Eaton's.

Hockey Stars Taken on Tour Of Bata Plant

Hockey Stars, Maurice Richard and Kenneth Mosdell, members of Les Canadiens, Stanley cup winners of the 1952-53 season, were taken on a tour of the Bata Shoe company plant at Batawa Thursday afternoon following their personal appearance at the official opening of the new Bata shoe store yesterday morning.

The two famous hockey stars, with Mrs. Richard and Mrs. Mosdell, showed keen interest in just how shoes are manufactured as they inspected the various production lines at the big Batawa plant.

Following the opening of the new Bata store the hockey stars their wives and a few personal guests and members of the press and radio, were entertained to luncheon at the Queen's Hotel as guests of the Bata officials.

IN MEMORIAM

HANNA — In loving memory of Maggie E. Hanna, who passed away just two years ago.

Her memory is a chain of gold
Bound with honor and respect,
Each link a virtue dear and true
A clasp of the hand we will never undo
And by neither time or beauty the cold
Sweet was her journey on friendship's road,
We have no doubt God has gained
One of the best friends and Mother this world contained.
—Lovingly remembered by her son Everett and family. 36B-2t

COLLETT — In loving memory of our father, Mr. George W. Collett, who passed away May 7, 1945, and our mother, who left on February 7, 1951.

Those whom we love go out of sight,
But not from memory or mind;
They are cherished in the hearts of those they leave behind.
Loving and kind in all their ways,
Upright and just to the end of their days.
Sincere and true in heart and mind
—Lovingly remembered by the family. 36B

Committee Will Study Union Of Two Positions

A special committee of Aldermen Duffy, G. B. Hyde, Bradford, Temple and McNevin, has been named by the executive and finance committee of city council to decide whether it would be desirable to combine the positions of city clerk and city solicitor. At present the positions are held by different men.

The idea of "solicitor-clerk" position in the city administrative offices had been brought up several times in city council but this is the first time any concrete action had been taken.

The special committee will also investigate the senior executive positions at city hall, exclusive of public works department, to review allocations of duties and distribution of responsibilities.

The committee will make their investigations over the next few months and will report to council in September.

Frankford Sport

Frankford — The Frankford Bowling League officially closed out the 1952-53 season in spectacular, if not altogether orthodox fashion Monday night at the Recreation, as the Kards had last place team of Division "B" battled the top dwelling Kats of Division "A". Bowlers turned out in an assortment of costumes ranging from corpulent clowns, to hula skirts.

Needless to say, amid the sounds of battle, the bowling left much to be desired, but after a fast and furious three-game series, 105 Kats managed to edge out the Kids, which means that Division B's Kareless Kids are the official "duke" of the Frankford Bowling League and will receive an appropriate trophy for their prowess.

Pupils from 12 Township Schools Demonstrate Their Musical Ability

Public school students selected from 12 public schools in Sidney and Thurlow townships demonstrated their musical ability at a non-competitive musical festival held at the Collegiate auditorium Thursday night. The festival was sponsored by the South Hastings Educational Association.

For the past month, schools in the above municipalities have been staging music festivals for the pupils and last night's participants were selected from the ten festivals in the public schools.

Public schools in Trenton, Frankford and at the R.C.A.F., will hold their joint festival tonight, at the Breadner School in Middleton Park.

Kenneth M. Bird, as president of the South Hastings Education-al Association, acted as chairman for last night's festival at the collegiate. He introduced the various numbers and made a special introduction to Major Brian McCool, assistant director of music in the department of education. Mr. McCool complimented the children taking part in the festival.

Following are the schools taking part in the festival; teacher is designated (T) music supervisor (MS):

Bayview School, Principal Mr. Blakley, (MS) Mrs. Parrott "Canadian and "Brother James' Air".

Belcrest School, (T) Mrs. Ormsby, R.A. (MS) Mrs. Reilly "Swing Low Sweet Chariot" and "Standin' in the Need of Prayer".

Upper Trenton School, (T) Mrs. Bolderick, (MS) Miss Brown, "Lead Kindly Light" (Grades V-VIII).

SS11 Thurlow, (T) Miss Phillips, (MS) Miss Brown, Rhythm Band Selection.

SS1 Thurlow, (T) Mrs. Burt, (MS) Miss McConnell "Walking at Night".

Yorkshire, (T) Miss Parks, (MS) Miss Pitman "Good Morrow to You", "Merrily the Cuckoo" and Rombough and Maxine Edwards.

Meadowdale, (T) Mrs. Rose, (MS) Miss Rose "Isle of Beauty" "Songbird's Stream".

Wallbridge, (T) Mrs. Hiley, (MS) Miss Pitman "Rainbow", "Blue Danube"—Senior Choir.

Glen Ross, (T) Mrs. Badgley, (MS) Miss Brown "God Bless Our Queen".

Point Anne, Principal Mr. Wallbridge, (MS) Miss Brown "Lead Kindly Light" and "Canada."

Ontario School Trustees Assoc. Critical of Architects, Contractors

Architects and contractors came in for sharp criticisms Wednesday afternoon at a meeting of the Ontario Urban and Rural School Trustees Association, Eastern Ontario Zone, held in Kingston.

The meeting passed a motion condemning the lack of moral responsibility of architects and contractors who do not stand behind their work for more than one year in the building of new schools, and suggested the boards contemplating new buildings in the area that they consider carefully before hiring such contractors or architects.

The motion did not receive unanimous support as two Kingston members of the Association voted against it, holding that it constituted a blanket condemnation of all architects and contractors, good or bad, and might force a contractor to make a contract on which he would lose money through the fault of his plan.

On a discussion of the shortage of qualified teachers, the meeting passed the following motion to be presented to the annual meeting of the Ontario Association meeting at Bigwin Inn, June 24 to 26:

"Whereas many comparable professions require only three or four years of university training and whereas this province faces a shortage of secondary school teachers and whereas time and expense are involved in an extra year at the Ontario College of Education

"Be it resolved that the OSRTA recommend to the department of education that a four-year course leading to a BA and incorporating teacher training be established at all universities in Ontario to prepare students for post-graduate year required at the Ontario College of Education for prospective secondary school teachers."

Other motions passed for discussion at the June meeting included a motion for full discussion of the teacher's contract, and a motion, i.e. that the date of a teacher's resignation be moved forward from May 31 to March 31.

"That the meeting views with alarm the proposed curtailment in the restriction of grants on capital expenditures by the department of education and requests that the Ontario Council of Education reconsider the situation in light of current needs."

An election of officers was held and the following slate chosen: A. C. Campbell, Belleville, chairman, Rex. Edwin Bryce, Kingston, first vice-chairman; Dr. C. C. MacLean, Trenton, second vice-chairman; Dr. William Baldwin, Belleville, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Bryce was appointed delegate to the June convention.

Lions Discuss Drive for Funds

William Bray, chairman of the committee in charge of the Lions Club Charter night held on April 28, reported the night was a great success in all aspects. Mr. Bray made this information known at the weekly meeting of the Club in Lattimer's Tom Thumb Thursday evening.

Allen LaBarre, club president, submitted his report on the Brockville zone meeting held last Sunday. He noted Lorne Miller of Napanee was elected district governor at the meeting.

The chairman in charge of the committee for accomplishing bicycles in the city, a project planned for May 23 at the Armouries, advised the members all schools in the city will be contacted. It is hoped as many children as possible will take advantage of this safety program.

Plans were also discussed for the "peanut day." Some Saturday in June, the Club hopes to conduct a sale of peanuts to raise funds. Harry Gibson was appointed chairman of the committee.

Canning Inspectors Attend School

Department of agriculture canning inspectors representing every province in Canada attended a canning inspectors' school at Oshawa this week where they were brought up to date on regulations regarding the canning of fruits and other produce.

Attending the school from the city were Senior inspector C. J. Sharman and inspector J. Shannon representing the Eastern Ontario Division.

During the three-day session of the school, inspectors were given talks by department officials, including L. W. Pearson, director of marketing; Dr. A. H. Jones, division of bacteriology and dairy research and J. T. Janson, division of chemistry.

Also during the session, Mr. Rose of Belleville led a discussion on the grading of canned vegetables.

Town Employees Will be Given Increase in Pay

Trenton (Special) — Trenton ratepayers were told today that town employees including members of the local police force have been awarded an increase in salary, the figures to be released at a later date. It is understood that the additional cost, a supplement to the budget in the amount of $1,200 which will be passed to the police commission for salary raises among the police officers.

Cleaning up Town

Citizens interested in cleaning up their town for the centennial celebrations have been working over time lately and so have those responsible providing the authority for removing debris of the river highway bridge which is the best tourist attraction the Canadian community can have.

Over on Murray street the general appearance of the whole district has been changed since the terrace on the north side of the street was repainted. Other residents in the same locality have taken the hint helping with the transformation.

In other parts of the town, improvement can be noticed particularly around the factories and along the banks of the river.

To Hold Regatta

The Trenton bolting season will open with a big regatta on the day with a regatta featuring some of the fastest speedboats in Ontario and Alexandria Bay. Com. R. E. Whitley and chairman of the regatta committee Dr. J. E. Renton have their heads together arranging a real classy program for the Yacht Club's first big show of the year.

was host at a concluding banquet at the Quinte Hotel, when the American Can Company provided entertainment for the visiting inspectors.

Proposed Plan To Council Will Be Submitted

City council will be asked to approve in principle the construction of storm sewers in the annexed area in the east end of the city, the work to be done over a three-year period. The city public works committee made the recommendation at this week's meeting and council will be asked to ratify the motion.

A proposed plan for the construction of storm sewers in the Parkwood Heights and Bayview Heights areas was presented to council two weeks ago by the engineering department and was referred to the public works department for consideration. The above recommendation was made by the committee following deliberations.

The motion, if passed in open council would give the comptroller authority to call for tenders for the work.

BOMB SCARE

NEW YORK (AP)—Fifty police and coast guardsmen searched the berthed liner United States for three hours early today after an anonymous telephone caller said a bomb would explode aboard. No trace of a bomb was found, and the call was attributed to a crank.

Music Festival Most Successful

Frankford—The annual Frankford Public School Music Festival was held in the Community Hall Friday evening, and as always was most successful. Principal A. C. Bates welcomed one and all. The program was as follows:

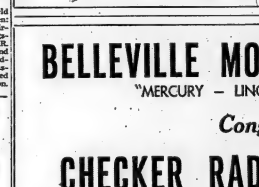
THE MALE ANIMAL



ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP) — Because her husband believed "women have no intellect, no intelligence, and must be obedient to man," Mrs. June Mavity Thursday was granted a divorce. Mrs. Mavity testified that her husband, Victor, 32, doesn't like clothes for her, told her what radio programs to listen to, tried to make her hate her parents, forbade her to wear makeup, and beat her when she didn't live up to the strictest letter of his commands.

UNDERFED ADOLESCENTS

If it can be assumed that the American and Canadian eating habits are similar, the chances are that Canadian teen-agers are a pretty scrawny lot of potential citizens. That, in any event, is the picture in the United States.

A prominent nutrition authority there has announced that American teen-agers, even those of high-income families, are "gravely undernourished." This "alarming conclusion" was reached after a ten-year study of some 2,500 boys and girls between the ages of 13 and 20 years. As far as we know no comparable study has been made in Canada but it occurs to us that if there is any particular phase of Canadian life that is closely patterned on that of our U.S. neighbors it is in the manners and customs of teen-agers. This is not a critical reflection but it is offered to suggest that the adolescent populations of our country may be seriously undernourished, and might properly be the subject of a similar health survey.

Among the "shameful" findings reported to a recent conference on nutrition in New York were these:

Only about one-fourth of the boys and girls were eating sufficient food to supply-making food the right chemistry running efficiently. Nearly half of the girls (a few less of the boys) lacked the proper amount of protein foods necessary for their health and energy.

Both boys and girls showed a shortage of calcium and phosphorus, vital for good teeth and bones, and of iron, related to good red blood, and needed to prevent nutritional anemia.

Forty-nine per cent of the boys and 46 per cent of the girls suffered from "nutritional nervousness"-twitching of the face, nail-biting and restlessness. There was a serious vitamin shortage, including A, B and C, in both boy and girl diets.

Only seven girls and twelve boys, of the total of more than 2,500 examined, had perfect teeth. Eighteen per cent of the girls and 19 per cent of the boys were underweight.

Eye trouble caused by poor diet (particularly a lack of vitamin A) was evident in more than three-fourths of the adolescents examined. Poor complexions, colds and rough skin—were the rule, with the girls making a worse showing than the boys.

That is the unlovely and unhealthy picture of American teen-agers described by Dr. Pauline Berry Mack and based on her long-term study. Dr. Mack is now dean of the College of Household Arts and Sciences of Texas State College.

"Vitally needed changes in teen-age diets are largely a matter of proper food selection and proper cooking rather than the addition of high-priced foods," Dr. Mack says. "A well-balanced diet is often less costly than a poor diet."

Dr. Mack is the author of two volumes, "Food for Thought" and "Let's Talk About the Teens", which are based on the findings of her survey. But we have no idea whether she prescribes any substitute for those "after four" snacks of chips, catsup and chocolate sundaes.

JOHN GILPIN HAD A HORSE

It was entirely in keeping with the times that "the Mad Major" should have been chosen when he wrote his name into the imperishable legends of London town. Probably not since the Sunday morning when the "citizen of credit and renown" John Gilpin set forth upon his memorable ride, have the good burghers along the Thames witnessed such a breath-taking spectacle.

Citizen Gilpin, you will recall, was thrust rather haplessly and unwillingly into his heroic role of long ago, whereas Major Christopher Draper carved out deliberately his thrilling beau geste, but their exploits are of the pipeclotting into the air and fancy free variety which imperishable legends are woven. Perhaps one of the inimitable versifiers who contribute to Punch might do justice to "the Mad Major and his Horse" in due course.

For sheer derring-do, the spectacular hop-scotching flight beneath London's bridges which the 61-year-old flier made in his tiny Tiger Moth puts the more widely heralded stunts conceived by publicity experts. Here was consummate skill and consummate showmanship combined in the great tradition of the Blondins or the Houdinis.

And there, perhaps, should be a respectable bow toward the photographer who went along for the ride, but knowing something about the obsession of news cameramen we do not bow too deeply. Some of them have no regard for either the lives of themselves or anyone else if they can prosper on a picture or two. On the other hand, the major deserves an extra mark for recklessness in having permitted a camera maniac to accompany him. But then, he's known as the "Mad Major."

That there will be an appropriate denouement written to this delightful drama, we have no doubt. The last we read was that an inspector from the Yard would certainly be around to see the major. And the major, quite pennilless, expected a £200 fine with prison in lieu thereof.

Tuppence will probably be the last ten bob that the major will do no worse than wind up with the sort of position he hoped his exploit would achieve for him.

But, grounded or not, of course, old boy. Great flier, magnificent flier, you know. But public safety and all that sort of thing. Too bad, but grounded — yes, grounded, of course!

THE FIRST BITE

For fishing, I'll say, if you like it
Of all the sports I've ever tried
There's no better fun from the springtime to fall.
And if in the winter, away from the snow,
To fish in the tropics you're able to go,
It's fun to catch groupers and bone fish and whales,
And listen to tellers of marvellous tales.

But once in a lifetime the first fish is caught.
Only once in a lifetime the fun can be had
Of that first fishing trip with an uncle or dad.
And only for once life allows the delight
Of the tug at the line of the first fish to bite.

Man may live to be ninety, but never again
Will fishing reward him as when he was ten.
He may go to strange places and guides may employ.
But the greatest of thrills he'll have had as a boy.
For he still will remember (as surely he ought)
That tug at his line of the first fish he caught.

Miss Ruth Mitchell was the lucky winner of the door prize at the dance which was held in the Moose Auditorium on Saturday evening. Music was furnished by "Dutch" Turney's Gondoliers.

Mrs. (Ensign) Francis, formerly Alice Wilson Willerton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Willerton, Geddes St., this city, will return to Belleville this week on furlough after seven and a half years in the Salvation Army mission field, the last few years of which was spent in a leper colony in the Cochin State. She was first engaged in missionary work in the Catherine Booth Hospital in South India. Here it was that she met Ensign Edwin Francis, a fellow officer, who was serving at the hospital, and was formerly stationed at the mission in Portsmouth, England. He will accompany his wife to Belleville on furlough. Their residence here Mrs. Francis was an enthusiastic worker in the Salvation Army and it was from this corps that she received outon training at the Army schools for missionary work which after included a course in nursing. The Salvation Army Corps here is planning a reception for Mrs. Francis and her husband.

Mr. J. J. B. Flint has donated the sum of $300 towards the total $1000 which is required to equip the new operating room in the Belleville General Hospital. The full cost of the room and equipment will be $3,000. The sum of $1,000 has been subscribed by a gentleman from the United States as an anonymous donation and a further $1,000 has been subscribed by the Collegiate Institute Board. Here is what the Intelligencer says of Mr. Flint's subscription leaves a balance of $700 to be subscribed.

Mr. J. S. Panter, of this city, has passed with honors the examinations in the Faculty of Applied Science and Engineering at the University of Toronto. We extend our congratulations.

50 YEARS AGO
MAY 8, 1903

Fire was discovered early this morning in J. T. Osborne's leather store on Front Street. The blaze was soon extinguished by the firemen.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Northrup, John Street, have left for Chicago, Ill., where they will visit their son, Mr. Fred George, and the Rev. Dr. Gregg.

Mrs. F. M. Clarke and her daughter, Mrs. William Bingham of this city, have sailed for home after spending several months in the Old Country.

The Rev. R. Bamforth, B.A., of Redeemer Church, Bay of Quinte Church, has accepted a call to Wesley Methodist Church, in Trenton.

Mrs. Robert Fenwick is visiting friends in Toronto.

It is apparent that the members of the Board of Education do not want a Collegiate Institute here.

Churchill the Great Commoner

By (LEWIS HILLIGAN)

The young Queen Elizabeth must have had quite a time persuading Mr. Winston Churchill to accept a knighthood and exchange the commons of the House of Liberty for the distinguished and semi-lordly Sir. He could no doubt have chosen the loftiest title in the House of Lords if he had desired to step up into the upper chamber. But to Mr. Churchill, with his marvelous vitality in old age, and his love of the rough and tumble arena in the House of Commons, his transfer to the upper chamber would have been a step down. As a scion of the nobility, no one has a greater respect than he for the House of Lords. But Mr. Churchill believed, and we all believe, that he can serve his country and the world best as a commoner in winning world peace as he did in the winning of the last war.

It has been said that Mr. Churchill is essentially a wartime leader and that peacetime calls for a man of less fighting spirit and more given to persuasion and compromise. Mr. Churchill has such a man as prime minister in Mr. Clement Attlee who, in international affairs, has been host to great lengths to compromise and even appease Soviet leaders whom he regarded as brother Socialists—until Stalin showed him and his ilk and treated him as a weakling.

Appeasement and pacifism could prevent war, the last World War would not have happened, for there never were greater compromisers than Ramsay MacDonald, Stanley Baldwin and Neville Chamberlain, and the British people were willing to make such meek pacifists as they were the dominant leaders of those prime ministers. During those years Mr. Churchill was a voice in the wilderness warning the country to prepare to defend itself in the face of the open threats of a rearmed Germany. His warnings fell on deaf ears and Churchill to power and always referred to him as a "warmonger."

The fact was that Churchill was the true peacemonger, and if his warnings had been heeded the war might have been averted.

We have an example of the power and safety of peaceableness in the North Atlantic Treaty Nations undoubtedly restrained the ambition of the Russian communists for world domination, for the time being at least. There will be no Third World War while the White Nations are united in strength in resist communist aggression. A bully will never threaten, they will less attack any one whom he knows to be strong and ready to fight back.

In regard to Mr. Churchill's decision to remain in the House of Commons, it is interesting to note that all the really great British statesmen have been commoners. Although most of them were finally elevated to the House of Lords, they left their laurels on the hustings and in the House of Commons. William Pitt the Younger, a long man when he became Earl of Chatham; as a commoner he earned the popular title of the Great Commoner. He led the armies of victory and his work as an empire builder. Lloyd George had been in retirement when he accepted a peerage, and was regarded with little enthusiasm as leader in the First World War. Sir William Lyon Mackenzie was, I think the only great statesman and orator who died a commoner. He refused a peerage at the downfall of his ministry in 1891, when he might have been prime minister, latterly when he was past the age of seventy. Sir Winston Churchill, K.G., is now within two years of that age, but with Prime Ulysses he can say:

"Old age hath yet his honor and his toil;
Death closes all: but something ere the end,
Some work of noble note, may yet be done,
Not unbecoming men that strove with Gods.
To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield."

Sad, Costly Lesson

(Brantford Expositor)

It would probably be hard to find two sadder or wiser people than the $40-a-week Ontario factory worker and wife who have been ordered to pay $16,766 damages to a Kitchener resident injured by a car driven by the wife.

The man, who has three small children, told the court that he had been unable to save money from his earnings beyond his furniture and clothing. Yet in spite of his obviously inadequate means the court has put on the installment plan. Now as a result of his accident, he is saddled with a crushing debt that totals more than eight years of his prospective earnings.

Salmon Lack Legs

(Vancouver Province)

The United States Senate has discovered that the dwindling runs of Pacific lacks legs or other appendages that will help him climb over dams that the government builds on spawning streams. So the Senate they set aside a preliminary sum of $280,000 to study this problem.

Nobody pretends to know whether the salmon can be taken over the new dams that have been built on the Columbia, even if the most generous fish-ways are provided. The fishing industry and dustry and government fish authorities are worried.

There is another problem involved in the building of man-made dams. Once they spawn, how are they to get down to the sea again? It is known that dropping over high dams kills virtually all fish, adult or fry. Salmon fry don't have wings, either.

Attic History

(Hamilton Spectator)

In many an attic in the Niagara Peninsula, there are relics that throw light on early pioneer times. They lie in boxes and trunks, ageing and forgotten, awaiting a generation whose natural pride they will bring them forth to reshape history.

Interest in gathering and preserving historical relics is increasing. It is a healthy sign and one that should be taken full advantage to the rescuing of historic buildings which are often neglected even in the midst of great.

A nation must have history to give it perspective and dignity. Canada is advancing so rapidly that many facts that are worth preserving from the past should not be lost, but should be woven into the pattern of the future as it unfolds.

In the early days communities were isolated, and there were sometimes distorted by hearsay. Myths grew which in later times were accepted as facts. Only authentic documents can correct fabulous accounts.

For many years historical societies have laboured, often with inadequate support, to preserve the nation's heritage. Much remains to be done. Particularly in educating the public mind in the importance of saving old papers, relics and other nature in regard to the possessor. A few years ago, a mass of material dealing with the earliest days in the Niagara Peninsula was found in a woodshed. By the last load it was necessary to the garbage dump; it was rescued.

In another case, a farmer whose ancestors crossed the Niagara River into Canada in the 1790's admitted that his attic contained many old letters but that he used many old letters but that he used them and chewed them up. He said that the material he used was also there and added: "Maybe the squirrels have chewed that, too."

WHO KNOWS ABOUT PYORRHEA?

Away back when I was still brushing my teeth, albeit perfunctorily, I began to get interested in the subject of pyorrhea quotient. Not that I'll, I harbored the slightest fear of it or considered the possibility that I might eventually have it.

Dr Brady

Now there's something puzzling about that. Why didn't I think of my own chance of having pyorrhea? Arteriosclerosis, tuberculosis, cancer, nephritis, apoplexy, diabetes. At one time or another I have envisaged each of these diseases subjectively and sometimes I have wondered if I were developing one of them. But I have never felt any concern about getting the gout, rabies or nervous breakdown, because these in my opinions are the ailments of morbid fancy.

I do not believe pyorrhea is unreal or imaginary, yet sometimes think of it as a frightful word for it, but even so, it most nearly describes the condition it represents. It is a disease leading down or degeneration of tissues or structures around the teeth.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Antibiotic Cureall

Our doctor gave me antibiotics for upper respiratory "strep" infection or virus infection of any kind. Four in our family and we seem to have such illnesses each fall. Is this the best way?

Answer—Maybe, but it makes nice work for the doctor. Are you stuck with the doctor, in a town where there are a dozen others? There is no sense in using antibiotics for minor ailments. They will be less effective if you should eventually have a serious illness.

My own suggestions concerning prophylaxis (preventive) and (remedial) treatment. Whether layman or dentist, you accept or reject part or all of it as you see fit.

In the first place pyorrhea (flow of pus) alveolaris (from tooth, socket) is not a disease at all, at least not a specific disease in the sense that tuberculosis, cancer or leprosy is. And flow of pus from tooth sockets is merely one manifestation of the trouble. In fact Miller's Textbook of Periodontia (Blakiston Co., 1950) states that the term pyorrhea alveolaris is becoming obsolete and is being replaced by periodontitis (inflammation around the teeth), periodontal disease, or periodontosclerosis. Whoever applied the term periodontitis must have been nodding in his chair; it means inflamation of structures around the teeth, and any inflammation associated with pyorrhea is secondary and incidental.

Periodontosclerosis, once you have learned to rattle it off without batting an eye, is a frightful word for it, but even so, it most nearly describes the condition it represents. It means hardening down or degeneration of tissues or structures around the teeth.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LIVE POSITIVELY

Renewed happiness and hope would blossom out all over this earth if more people would refuse to think and live negatively.

Nearly all good things that nearly happen, forever in the grasp of fear, and suspecting what nearly always happens to the fortunate, creates faulty thinking and a negative outlook. Just one negativity is ill health and an unhappy state of mind and often creates personal panic.

Peace of mind and health is an objective worth every effort that we can put to action. Live positively. Think positively. Do your best. Believe in the love and power of God. Pray for others and hope to others — they will return abundantly, enriching your life and giving nature its most miraculous fashion!

Abolish fear from your life. "Let not your heart be troubled." We were put into this world to give out love, to create understanding, and to lend a hand. To be in fear is to be in a needless discouraging than to be poor in our heart!

HOLD AN INQUEST

(Sudbury Star)

Eight children died in a fire near Sault Ste. Marie, and the news report said "Dr. J. E. Gimby, coroner, who said there will be no inquest, said there was no negligence on the part of the father."

We think the attorney-general's department should order an inquest. After all, it is most unusual for eight children to perish in one fire, and an inquest has the effect of placing the emphasis on all factors contributing to a material things. It is just as easy to rise in spiritual wealth as it is material—and it is far more profitable. But both can be had by any of us, if we constructive-ly live where we are.

The harboring of fear always results in physical, mental and mental weakness. Fear allowed in the mind is like having termites eating away at the structure of your home, and doing nothing about it. Just don't let fear get a foothold in your magnificent mind structure! More and more of us should be "swept and purified by the great angel of pure reason," to quote Dr. Maurice Masterlinck.

Think of the future. Note the great Louis Pasteur. He said: "Into the fields of chance, cultivated by a barren skepticism. There is move, and I have found there is God!" It's the God who is in us that charts our course. Life must be meaningful—otherwise, take heart. Happily relax. You have been sent here on a journey for the acting! There is significance to life if we listen to the voice of the nightingale in

By GREGORY CLARK

In the uppity circles in which formless music, shapeless art and meaningless poetry are earnestly discussed, the adjective words "avant garde" to describe those poets, artists and musicians who produce these goods that are to far over the head of the multitude of us.

As an old soldier, I can't help but resent the employment of these proud words, Avant garde means vanguard or advance guard, the main unit of a military force that goes ahead of the whole enterprise, the elite of the expedition, first to contact the enemy, and assemble in the fullest sense for the security of all who follow. Avant garde is a precious title, not to be usurped by anybody who likes to fancy he is out in front.

Prospector would be better than avant garde to describe intellectuals. A prospector can be a highly trained and skilled geologist, or he can be some old hill billy with a pick, or even a schoolboy impressing himself and his juvenile circle by going on his holidays with a government pamphlet and a $4.00 prospector's pick.

The skilled geologist, of course, can spend his time, despite all his knowledge, fruitlessly poking away at rocks that contain nothing. The old hill billy with a pick and shovel is just as likely as the geologist, perhaps more than likely, to stumble on a bonanza. And the schoolboy has a good time, and learns a little and acquires a life-long distaste for work and books.

But in their different ways, they illustrate the activities of these intellectuals who are exploring out into what we might call the Crown Lands of the human mind and soul. To let these enthusiasts get away with the title of avant garde, however, has an element of the wishful in it. They are discarding nothing of what is back of them. Nothing that is valuable that they have derision, if not contempt for what has been done in their line in the past. Maybe if they call themselves prospectors, the prospectors will object.

Litter-Bugs

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

New Brunswick is endowed with such a wonderful scenic charm that it is disheartening to find that some motoring parties have no regard at all for keeping the rural landscape clean and tidy. Their unkempt habits take two well known forms — leaving picnic spots littered with wrappings and refuse, and throwing portions of garbage out of the car to be scattered in the underbrush, an eyesore to all other motorists who follow.

Strength for the Day

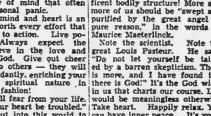
DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

DAY OF GRACE

Some years ago I had a very wealthy friend who, every time I saw him and inquired about his health would answer, "There's nothing the matter with me that money can't cure."

One day he died, taken off in his mid-fifties a few hours after a necessary operation for appendicitis. Not something hit him that money could not cure. Some years ago one of America's wealthiest young men contracted an incurable disease and was dead in a few weeks. A million times more money than he and his family controlled could not have lengthened is life five minutes.

King George underwent a severe operation and died in his sleep. Franklin Roosevelt, writing the mood of the victory over the Central "powers which had occupied his thoughts, died suddenly.



There is indeed a destiny which shapes our ends. Boys in battle usually declare that nothing will happen to them, but it usually comes. And there is something to it. We are given a certain amount of life. When that is exhausted, we are through.

This is the physical explanation of it. Spiritually we call our life span "the day of grace." In the 25.00 days of a life span and the 13,000 days of working span, we must make or unmake our lives for all eternity. This is an arresting and solemn thought.

RCAF Station Hobby Shop Closes Successful Season

The RCAF Station Trenton Hobby Shop has closed its doors on a successful 1952-53 season.

Hobby craft instruction from in and around Middleton Park added to the success of the Hobby Shop's year with the completion of four boats a combination radio and record player, coffee tables, model aeroplanes and several pieces of leathercraft.

Included in the Hobby Shop program this year was a ladies' Leathercraft Class, sponsored by the RCAF Women's Auxiliary Arts and Crafts Division. Purses were the main items completed in this department by Mrs. J. H. Gibbard, Mrs. J. O. Smith, Mrs. F. M. Dawson, Mrs. J. Robertson, Mrs. Dickenson and Mrs. Puslon. Wallets, bookends, belts, slippers and several small leather gifts were the work of Mrs. C. D. Noble, Mrs. H. M. Pickard, Mrs. J. C. Dolan, Mrs. F. E. Konrad, Mrs. R. K. Scott, Mrs. D. O. Lawrence, Mrs. C. R. Cain and Mrs. B. H. Thompson.

The classes were instructed by Sgt. J. C. Holmes and LAC John Hector.

Eight leathercraft workers will enter their work in an Arts and Crafts Exhibition to be held Saturday, April 25 in the Air Marshal Breedner School auditorium.

An exceptionally fine piece of work finished in the Hobby Shop's woodworking section this year was a combination radio and record player constructed by LAC W. Betts of Belleville. The all vener-h cabinet was glued together and given a final finish of dark stain.

The radio cabinet stands three feet high and is thirty inches wide by eighteen inches deep. The smart cabinet encloses a radio made by LAC Betts, a hobby enthusiast, who must travel a distance of ten miles from Belleville to work on his project.

The largest boat made in the shop was a sixteen-foot motor launch made by Sgt. E. E. Ison. Cpl. A. F. Hampson added a four-teen-foot rowboat to the list of boat building activities. A second twelve-foot rowboat was completed by WO H. B. Card and a small racing boat was the work of F/O McMahon.

An airframe mechanic, Sgt. J.C. Holmes, with several years of woodworking experience was the supervisor at the shop this year. His home 58A Rivers Drive contains several pieces of furniture that he has constructed himself. Two years ago, in the Trenton Hobby Shop he made a fifteen-foot runabout. Sgt. Holmes came to Trenton seven years ago and since that time has made good use of the facilities offered for amateur-woodworkers. He was assisted by LAC John Hector and LAC Donald Sellars.

Club Stardee Executive Elected

An executive, under the chairmanship of F/L F. G. Durrant, to supervise activities in Club Standee and the Airmen's and Airwomen's Lounge was elected recently at No. 6 Repair Depot.

Other members of the committee include: F/L W. R. Lawler, vice-chairman; F/O H. A Nelson, assistant vice-chairman: LAC J. W. Hipson, LAC R. N. Richardson, LAC F. A. Bellamy, LAC J. D. Montrose, ACI. J. H. Logan, Cpl. A. Cartwright, LAC M. E. Hazel and Cpl. J. E. Allen, airmen representatives; LAW P. Hedge, LAW G. MacDonald, LAW E. J. Lucas and AWI J. B. Nye, airwomen representatives.

The Red Shield Appeal for funds by the Salvation Army will take the form of a tag day-billit on May 15 in and around Middleton Park.

Representatives from ten separate wards in the Park area have volunteered to canvass each area in their own districts.

Representation by wards is as follows: Ward I Mrs. H. M. Ball and Mrs. S. L. Chappell; Ward II Mrs. D. J. Bullock and Mrs. D. C. Walker and Mrs. E. G. Durrant; Ward III Mrs. C. Brownell and Mrs. J. M. Spencer, Mrs. A. M. Halkett and Mrs. Lang; Ward IV Mrs. R. L. Davis, Mrs. W. C. Dever and Mrs. T. H. Fletcher; Ward V Mrs. W. Ingram, Mrs. W. Black and Mrs. A. E. Hobbs; Ward VI Mrs. J. Thompson, Mrs. W. G. Finlay and Mrs. J. N. Gilchrist; Ward VII Mrs. J. H. Bard, Mrs. F. D'Amico, Mrs. L. V. Whyte, Mrs. O. C. Therien, Mrs. H. L. Streeter and Mrs. J. E. Holman; Ward VIII Mrs. J. A. Nicol, Mrs. H. C. Easton, Mrs. J. E. Labrash, Mrs. C. A. Behan and Mrs. R. T. Moffatt; Ward IX Mrs. C. E. Maitland, Mrs. M. J. Smith and Mrs. C. R. Laing; Ward X Mrs. P. G. Pilkington, No. 6 Repair Depot Apartments Mrs. D. A. Mitchell and Mrs. Hicksville; South Station Housing, Mrs. J. B. Millward.

Men's Bowling Club Enjoys Turkey Dinner

Wellington — About 45 members of the men's bowling club met at the Wellington Legion hall for a turkey banquet and for the presentation of trophies.

The delicious dinner of turkey with all the trimmings, served by the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary, was much enjoyed.

Music by five of the club members was rendered and a musical half hour was spent.

Mr. Andy Walker, president of the club, was chairman and called on several of the members, who gave some witty remarks.

Mr. Joe Scott thanked the ladies for the splendid dinner to which Mrs. J. Ogilvy, president of the Auxiliary, responded.

Mr. Scott was presented with a box of doughnuts. Rumor has it that he is fond of them.

Mr. Walker gave a brief address and praised the sportsmanship and congeniality of his club during the past year, ending with the word "to the winner goes the spoils."

Trophies Presented

The trophies were then presented. The Quinte Mile trophy went to the C.N.R. Flyers' team with individual trophies to each player. It was presented by Mr. Jack Hartwick, who congratulated the champion team.

The North American Life insurance trophy, donated by the Miller Ron Sayer's team. Mr. Fred Ellis making the presentation, with individuals to each player.

High average and high single trophy was won by Mr. Fred Potts, a special one was presented to him by Mr. Tommy Cosford. High triple went to Ken Lane, presented by Tommy Cosford.

Election of officers came next with Andy Walker again made president. A musical half hour followed which ended a most pleasant evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Post spent the week-end in Newmarket, visiting Mrs. Post's mother.

Reports are that the condition of Mrs. Janet Noxon, who has been a patient in Trenton Memorial Hospital for a considerable time, is slightly improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Thompson, of the lower village, are enjoying a new television.

Mr. Gibson, the new manager of "Master Feeds" and his family have moved into Mrs. P. Van-derwater's house.

Mr. and Mrs. Becktell, of Hamilton, have moved into Mr. Tom Boyle's apartment. Mr. and Mrs. Beckttell resided here a number of years ago and at that time Mr. Beckttell was organist for the United Church.

Lions Club Decides To Hold Regatta

BANCROFT — By a majority vote, Bancroft Lions at their regular meeting Monday night, reversed a previous decision not to hold the annual regatta this year. The regatta will be held on July 22.

Past president ,Cecil Wiggins, argued that the community had come to regard the regatta as an event to look forward to each year and it would be a great mistake to drop it. Jack Foley also considered the regatta, with its complementary dance and boat raffle, as one of the club's major money - making projects and thought it essential in view of additional financial commitments.

Secretary-treasurer, Art Ireland pointed out that requests for regatta information had already been received from boat racing clubs.

Survey Under Way

Chairman of the health and welfare committee, Lion Lorne Smith, announced that the crippled children's survey was now under way and that assistance had been offered to two burned out families.

The Apsley club, sponsored by Bancroft Lions, will hold its charter ¢ght on May 13 and a large delegation from Bancroft is expected to attend this ceremony.

Commencing at the recent meeting in Oshawa, zone chairman Lion Whitney Martin, thanked the club members for their support in the election for deputy district governor. He spoke highly of the winning candidate, Lion Larry McCarthy, and wished him all' success in his year of office.

At the conclusion of the evening's business, the club was entertained by Mr. Ken Moore, with films of last year's internation-al convention, held in Mexico City.

Beautiful Scenery, Gorgeous Sunsets Highlight Wildlife Flora, Fauna Film

Wednesday night the auditorium of collegiate was well filled with nature lovers who viewed with great interest and much pleasure the beautiful scenes of wildlife as presented in the last of the season's movie - lectures presented by the National Audubon Society under the sponsorship of the Quinte Field Naturalists' Club.

Preceding the presentation, Mrs. Mary Dawson, who presided at the console of the organ for the pre-film, favored with her composition, musically and vocally, of "My Garden."

Miss L. Hart acted as master of ceremonies due to the absence of Dr. Smith, who was unavoidably absent, and introduced Dr. Baldwin, of the Dominion Parasite Laboratory, who introduced the guests of the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hadley, of Holly, Michigan, past presidents of the National Audubon Society.

Noted Naturalists

Mr. and Mrs. Hadley are noted naturalists, having conducted numerous wildlife education courses and lecture tours. Previously, Mr. Hadley had acted as Ford Motors executive as head of the Educational Fisher Body work section department. At the present time, Mr. Hadley has surpassed as a wildlife photographer, as shown by the, delightful scenic views of "Hazel Wilds" which he and Mrs. Hadley produced in Hiawatha Park at or-them Michigan.

Beginning with a lovely pastoral scene depicting woodland and sweeping open space with the little white church, whose ringing bell brought back the days when a summons country church bell used to ring, inviting to worship, the audience was carried through woodland vistas, rich in autumn glory of gold and crimson; past brooks and falls whose golden waters mirrored the overhanging scarlet of the maple; along the winding pathways and curving roads viewing the little birds with their wide-open red mouths waiting the coming winter, seeing the beauteous butterflies, the silver Priscilla; the lilac swallow-tail with all its rich golden and black markings; the mourning cloak with its rows of silver and azure blue dots; the tiny humming bird moth sipping nectar from the flowers, all of which was surpassingly lovely.

Flora-Fauna

Other pictures included flowers, birds and animal life; the flowering dogwood, little violets beside a gurgling stream, and the restful water lily on the placid pool.

Especially pleasing views of birdlife were those of the little Nuthatch which scurries around the tree trunks, head down, looking for the elusive insect; the little warbler in her sheltered nest; the sandpiper along the shore leading the intruder far afield from her nest; the lordly kingfisher, the sleek, red-winged blackbird; and the loon upon the lake with her baby on her back.

The pitcher plant which traps its prey and ultimately dies in the reservoir of water, later absorbing them; the trailing arbutus, the red berries of the winter-green peeping from beneath the snow, and the Kentucky cardinal his scarlet plumage contrasting with the whiteness of the snow making an unforgettable picture.

Gorgeous Sunsets

Pictures were shown of the little fawn, newly born, resting amid the leaves, then other pictures showing the fawn grown into adolescence, inquisitive and frisky, gracefully loping through the woodland with white plume waving; the prickly porcupine scaling the lofty tree.

These are but a few of the lovely scenes portrayed, but our standing was the scenic views both of forest and water, and the gorgeous sunsets, the fleeting "Birthday Cake" of foam decorated with three crimson maple leaves on its way to the sea; the many water falls, shimmering in soft mauves, pinks and browns, and the sunlight dappled waves.

Added to all these were the trills of the birds, the song of the robin, the plaintive cry of the morning dove, and the whistle of the blackbird as he hung atop a bush.

The running comments of Mr. Hadley were most enjoyable, giving a rich note of interest to the whole.

After viewing this color-sound film, many will be eagerly looking forward to next season's films on Wildlife.

QUEEN HOLDS COURT

LONDON (CP)—Four hundred and fifty young women were presented to Queen Charlotte last night. The Queen wore a short-sleeved dress of vivid blue paper shantung with a square neck and tucked bodice, and a hat of pale gold straw and blue and gold feather trimmings.

Mr., Mrs. J. Coulter Honored by Party

ROSLIN.—A surprise party arranged by the St. John's Ladies' Guild of Moneymore, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Coulter, was at their home recently to honor them, on this their 35th wedding anniversary.

Members of the immediate family present were, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Elliott, (Carmel); Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morgan, (Lola), and one granddaughter, Carol Elliott; Mrs. W. Fox, Shannonville; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Coulter; another sister, Mrs. W. Crawford, unable to be present. Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Sills, Miss Susie Montgomery and Mr. and Mrs. Laurison Montgomery.

Readings were given by Mrs. William Johnston and Mrs. Roy Mason.

All joined in singing, "When You and I Were Young Maggie", and other old-time favorites, accompanied by Mrs. Earl Alexander at the piano.

Mr. G. Simpson favored with a solo "God Will Take Care of You".

Mr. Earl Alexander and Mr. Roy Vance presented Mr. and Mrs. Coulter with a electric floor lamp and a wall mirror.

Mrs. Coulter thanked them for the lovely gifts and said they were much richer than thirty-five years ago, as they had two good daughters and sons-in-law and one dear little granddaughter. She also knew they had a host of good friends.

Mr. Coulter added his thanks and asked them to come and see them again.

"May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You", brought a happy evening to a close.

Refreshments, including a lovely anniversary cake, the gift of their daughters, were served.

The bridesmaid, Mrs. C. Sills, sister of the bride, and the groomsman, Mr. Frank Coulter, cousin of the bridegroom, were both present for this happy occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Coulter were married 35 years ago at the parsonage in Thomasburg.

Weddings

CHAMPAGNE—FRIDHAM

A quiet, but pretty wedding took place at King Street United Church parsonage, in Trenton, on Saturday afternoon, April 25, when Velma Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Fridham, Wooler, became the bride of Lewis Charles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Champagne, 2nd Concession of Ameliasburg. The Rev. G. J. Minkley officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Thomas Fridham, wore a light blue suit with a blue hat adorned with white flowers. Her corsage was of American Beauty roses.

Mr. James Appleby of Frankford, the bride's brother-in-law, assisted the bridegroom.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where Mrs. Fridham received the guests. The bridegroom's mother and the bride's mother were in becoming ensembles with corsages of pink carnations.

The couple will honeymoon in Buffalo, N.Y., and other American cities.

Bridge St. United Church Y.P.U. Wins Drama Cup

The finals of the one-act religious plays for the Belleville Presbytery were held in the Tabernacle United Church on Tuesday evening.

The members of Grace United Church Y.P.U., Napanee, represented Lennox and Addington district, presented their play, "Herod", under the direction of Mrs. C. D. McLellan, and the members of Bridge Street United Church Y.P.U., Belleville, winners of South Hastings District Festival presented "The Bishop's Candlesticks", under the direction of Mrs. William Jardine.

Miss Margaret Hillis, Presbytery president, introduced Mr. C. W. Sloan, who after giving an excellent adjudication of the plays, declared "The Bishop's Candlesticks" the winner. Miss Reta Christie, Presbytery culture and recreation convener, presented the Drama Cup to Mrs. William Jardine and the members of the cast, Ken Graham, Betty Woodley, Betty Jose, Syd Alcorn, Don Dalrymple and Ed. Bell.

Miss Irene Walters, Trenton, led the audience in a lively singsong and Miss Shirley Meyers, Thomasburg, gave a hilarious reading between plays.

The Bridge Street play will represent Belleville Presbytery in the Bay of Quinte Conference semi-finals this month.

The next meeting is to be held on May 12th at Mrs. Harrison's.

Discussions on: planning supper menus; vegetables; what about cooking and how we use vegetables for supper were given by Mrs. Elliott and Mrs. Harrison.

There were nine girls present.

Mr. and Mrs. Barton Reid 'At Home' on Occasion Of 50th Wedding Anniversary

PICTON—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Barton Reid, Sr., on Bridge Street, was the mecca for many relatives and friends, Wednesday afternoon, when they were 'at home' on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid received their guests, the latter wearing an afternoon lavender dress and corsage of baby 'mums in gold shades. Spring flowers brightened the home. In the dining room, the table was centred by an artistically decorated three-storey cake flanked by silver candelabras with tall tapers and vases of yellow flowers. Mrs. Marjorie Bird presided and the assistants were, Mrs. Robert Virr, Mrs. Garnet Virr, of Ottawa, Mrs. Jack Hollingsworth and Mrs. Barton Reid, Jr.

The many messages of congratulation included telegrams from Hon. G. A. Drew and George Tustin, M.P. Both Mr. and Mrs. Reid have been active supporters of the Conservative party.
